RUSSIAN AGENCY DEFENDED

Chief Asserts It Has Not Had 'Shadow on Record' in Six Years—Puts Our Exports at $100,000,000 a Year.

With the documents made public by former Police Commissioner Whalen charging that the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet commercial agency in the United States, was a channel of subversive Communist propaganda again the centre of attention before the Congressional committee investigating Communist activities, yesterday's session of the committee developed a line of inquiry affecting the whole question of Russo-American trade relations.

Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the Amtorg, in a long statement read into the record, made the veiled threat of withdrawing all Russian trade from this country unless there were a halt to what he denounced as unfair and unjustified attacks on the Amtorg and Soviet Russia. Members of the committee suggested that such withdrawal might be a boon to American interests and threatened again to have Mr. Bogdanov driven out of the United States as a Communist who should never have been permitted to come here.

Questions Wisdom of Trade.

The larger question of the wisdom and desirability from the American point of view of helping in the economic rehabilitation of Russia under the Soviet régime was raised by Representative John E. Nelson of Maine. In a lengthy interrogation of Mr. Bogdanov Mr. Nelson asserted that by dealing with Soviet Russia American industrialists were merely helping communism to undermine the existing economic order in this and other countries. He charged that Soviet Russia was preparing to dump hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat, large quantities of coal and lumber, as well as other products, at cheap prices upon the American market, to the detriment of this country.

It is suicidal for the United States, Mr. Nelson suggested, to supply Soviet Russia with credits, machinery, equipment and technical talent to enable the Soviet Government, with the aid of a highly centralized state industrial apparatus and cheap labor, to compete with America economically.

Mr. Bogdanov took issue with this view, arguing that there were mutual advantages to the United States and Russia in promoting their trade relations. Despite his earlier veiled threat to withdraw all trade from the United States, he urged that the two countries enter into a commercial treaty which would promote Russo-American commerce on a higher scale than has been possible hitherto.

Documents Again Challenged.

Although several hours were devoted by the committee to questions dealing with the Whalen documents, the interrogation failed to cast any further light on these papers, but produced additional denials of their authenticity by Mr. Bogdanov and a repetition of his former challenge to Mr. Whalen to prove that the documents are genuine. On his own part and through Louis Connick, counsel for the Amtorg, Mr Bogdanov protested against what he and Mr. Connick characterized as an effort by the committee to relieve Mr. Whalen of the burden of proof and place this burden upon the Amtorg.

"It is not the Amtorg which should be called upon to disprove the authenticity of these documents," Mr. Connick said. "Mr. Whalen, who made the charges, should be made to produce the evidence."

Mr. Bogdanov offered to present to the committee a detailed memorandum prepared by attorneys for the Amtorg containing an analysis of the Whalen documents and showing where, in the opinion of the attorneys, the documents are false and erroneous. The committee did not make it clear whether it would receive the memorandum, but it was assumed that the memorandum would be read before the hearings are concluded.

In connection with this, Mr. Fish revealed that the committee had not yet visited Police Headquarters, where, in accordance with its understanding with Mr. Whalen, it is to

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—More than eleven years after the proud German fleet was scuttled in Scapa Flow the 28,000-ton battle cruiser Hindenburg has been successfully raised and floated with her deck clear of water.

It is the greatest salvage feat of the kind ever accomplished and there was a note of jubilation in the news received in London today from E. F. Cox of the salvaging company of Cox & Banks, who, since 1926, has been in personal charge of the operation.

Twice before the Hindenburg was brought to the surface, but owing to a dangerous list was allowed to sink again. It is now hoped to move the Hindenburg to Mill Bay, in the Orkneys, where she will be prepared for a journey to the south for breaking up.

This is the fifth vessel to be salvaged from the sunken fleet. Previously the Moltke, Seydlitz, Kaiser and Bremse were raised, and Mr. Cox now hopes to salvage the Prince Regent, Luitpold and Von der Tann.

VAST REALTY PASSES TO LAST OF WENDELS

ALL LIVED IN SECLUSION

Kept in 5th Av. 'Mystery House' by Brother Who Held Marriage Would Disperse Property.

Mrs. Rebecca Wendel Swope died last Sunday in the Summer home of the Wendels at Quogue, L. I., at the age of 87, leaving to the last of the six Wendel sisters, Ella, who is 80, an unbroken real estate accumulation of two centuries. It has grown in value to more than $100,000,000 since the first John Wendel left the fur business at the same time as the first John Jacob Astor and laid upon his descendants the duty of never buying anything but choice New York real estate and never thereafter letting it go.

Mrs. Swope was the only one of the six sisters to escape from this duty as construed by their only brother, John Gottlieb Wendel, who opposed marriage for his sisters on the ground that it would disperse the accumulated property and put it under other names than Wendel. To prevent this he kept them in the four-story brick and brownstone house which has stood on the corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street since 1856, and stands there now just as it was built, lighted inside only by gas, without telephone, dumbwaiter, radio or phonograph, and shuttered outside with a dusty look that has caused it to be pointed out from sightseeing buses as the "House of Mystery."

Inside lived six sisters who were taught that they must not marry or waste or dissipate their stewardship and that publicity was demeaning. They continued, until they died, to wear the round sailor hats that were popular in their 'teens in the '60s and '70s, and to make their own clothes without the aid of a sewing machine, always in black, with full skirts cut for hoops. They wore them until shabby. Their brother seldom entertained.

Even Rebecca Wendel did not decide to oppose her brother until late in life; then, despite his violent opposition, she married Professor Luther A. Swope, a friend of the vicar of Trinity and also the son of an old New York family. Thereafter John Wendel discouraged his sisters from going to church.

FAVORITISM CHARGE BRINGS TAX BUREAU INTO HIGGINS INQUIRY

WNYC OPEN TO HARBORD

Mayor Offers Use of City Radio for Republican Reply—Socialist Leader Wants Privilege Also.

The inquiry begun on Monday by James A. Higgins, Commissioner of Accounts, into the Dock Department and the Board of Standards and Appeals by order of Mayor Walker widened last night to include the Department of Taxes and Assesssments when the Mayor declared he could see no reason why Commissioner Higgins should not call Irwin Kurtz, Republican leader, to substantiate his charges of irregularity in that department.

Mr. Kurtz declared a few days ago that the Department of Taxes and Assessments showed favoritism toward certain individuals in the fixing of taxes and assessments. His charges were met by George Henry Payne, Republican member of the department, with a demand upon Commissioner Higgins to make Mr. Kurtz substantiate his allegations. Mr. Kurtz questioned Mr. Higgins's right to call him as a witness on the ground that he was not in city employ and announced that he would refuse to answer a subpoena, in order to test the commissioner's powers.

Defends Wide Right of Subpoena.

Commissioner Higgins asserted his right to call any one he chose, citing a decision of the Court of Appeals upholding Section 119 of the City Charter. The section invests the Commissioner of Accounts "with full power to compel the attendance of, to administer oaths to and to examine such persons as he may deem necessary as witnesses for the purpose of ascertaining facts in connection with the examination."

The Commissioner of Accounts denied allegations that his investigation would be "hamstrung" if he warned witnesses that they need not make incriminating answers. He said it was necessary to inform witnesses of their constitutional rights and added that warning witnesses in the street cleaning inquiry two years ago had not impeded his investigation. He said his failure to warn these witnesses would have made their testimony inadmissible in court and recalled that sixteen indictments and thirteen convictions had been obtained in that inquiry.

"Anything any witness says to me can be used against him," Mr. Higgins declared. "At some of the street cleaning trials in Kings County Court some of the defense attorneys and some of the judges—I think Vause and Taylor—demanded to know if witnesses before me had been advised of their constitutional rights and told that they could refuse to answer on the ground that the answers might tend to incriminate or degrade them. I have done just that in every case since I have been Commissioner of Accounts. Frank Gannon, Brooklyn Street Cleaning Superintendent, refused on that ground and was haled into Special Sessions on my sworn complaint and tried, but was acquitted on a technicality."

Two More Die in Day of Moderate Heat Here; 84 Degrees High Mark; No Further Rise Today

Some captious critics might have said that yesterday afternoon was hot, but most persons, with the unpleasant memory of the record-breaking temperatures of the past few days, agreed with the Weather Bureau that it was comfortably warm and were thankful.

The official thermometer did not reach 80 until afternoon and it never went above 84 degrees. Today will be about the same, the official observers said.

Even with the fall in temperature however, two deaths and one prostration were reported in New York City and New Jersey. In the latter State it was estimated that the storm which broke the heat wave caused damage in excess of $100,000.

The Dead.

ECKHOFF, DORA, 51, 405 West Forty-fourth Street, Manhattan, removed from her home to Bellevue Hospital Monday suffering from heat prostration and died there yesterday.

Prostrated.

In the forenoon the temperature ranged from 70 to 75 degrees. Between 11 A. M. and 1 P. M. it jumped from 75 to 80 degrees and remained there until 3:50 o'clock when it reached 84. Fresh breezes and low humidity prevented serious discomfort.

New Brunswick, N. J., which was swept by a cyclonic wind and rain storm Tuesday evening, reported that about 100 homes had suffered minor damage. Seven per cent of the city's telephones, about 1,000, were put out of commission and street lights in many sections were extinguished by broken wires. The damage in New Brunswick was estimated at $125,000.

Trenton also reported considerable damage by wind and Esau Lindquist, a laborer on the new Burlington-Bristol Bridge was blown off the structure into the Delaware River, where he drowned, bringing the deaths in the storm to two. Mrs. Marianna Vennisac was crushed to death when her home in New Brunswick was blown down upon her.

Two deaths in the storm were reported in Philadelphia where lower temperatures were recorded yesterday. Virginia and the Carolinas still reported exceptionally high temperatures but Georgia and Florida found the weather "normal." Other Southern States were shielded from the sun by clouds. The Associated Press reported from Ithaca that the United States Agricultural Bureau at Cornell University had found that the hot dry weather of the past week had been beneficial to the harvesting of the hay crop.

Store Under Mulrooney Home Held Up While He Is Asleep

Two hold-up men took a wrist watch and $190 in cash last night from the drug store of Herman Juster, on the ground floor of 760 Mott Avenue, the Bronx. Police Commissioner Mulrooney lives in the house, on the fifth floor. He was asleep at the time, and later reporters found he had left orders with the superintendent that he was not to be disturbed.

Jack Gilbert, pharmacist; Morris Goodman and William Capeher, soda clerks, and Benjamin Fredericksen, superintendent of the building, were in the store when the hold-up men entered. Displaying pistols, the intruders ordered the men into a rear room and locked them in. They took Gilbert's wrist watch and the money in the cash register.

The clerks hoisted Fredericken to the window of the room in the meantime and he put his head out, shouting until he had awakened the tenants. Before he could crawl through the window and come around to the front of the store the hold-up men had left in a taxicab, which had been waiting.

BORAH MAPS DRIVE AS FARM BOARD FOE

He Will Begin Campaign in the Northwest on Completing Treatment Ordered by Physician.

BACKED DEBENTURE PLAN

Shouse Retorts to Legge's 'Political Bunk' Charge by Calling It Political, Too.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Senator Borah, mapping plans for the Fall election campaign, plans to raise his voice in the West in opposition to the administration farm relief measures, including the work of the Federal Farm Board.

Revelation today of the Senator's intention recalled the events of the session of Congress just closed, in which he saw the export debenture feature eliminated from the tariff act over the protests of the insurgent group with which he was allied, while his endeavors to have the tariff revision confined to those items affecting the farmer were unsuccessful. His campaign will be delayed, however, until he has undergone treatment prescribed by his physician, which may last until the latter part of September.

Senator Borah's appearance on the campaign platforms of the Northwest, where he has been asked particularly to speak and where he indicated he would accept engagements, will differ from two years ago, when he was one of the chief supporters of the Hoover candidacy.

Unlike the addresses of 1928, the Senator this Fall will express the Republican opposition's view of the conflict between the administration and the insurgent bloc in the Senate over the tariff and agricultural measures.

Shouse Replies to Legge.

Saying that the National Democratic Committee "did not write the quotations of the present prices of wheat, corn and cotton," Jouett Shouse, Chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, issued a statement today taking to task Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, for terming attacks on the farm relief program "political bunk."

Accusing Mr. Legge of adapting the devices of politics to his own uses while disclaiming any interest in politics, Mr. Shouse charged the board with "dabbling in the wheat market, with the result that no inconsiderable portion of its investment went to fatten the gains of the Chicago grain speculators, who knew more about rigging the market than Mr. Legge and his conferees."

Mr. Shouse was referring to the purchase of 69,000,000 bushels of the 1929 wheat crop by the Stabilization Corporation, organized by the Farm Board. The wheat will be withheld from the market until conditions improve. Mr. Legge indicated recently, after beginning his campaign for a reduction of wheat acreage and regulation of production within the limits of domestic demand, that the board intended to buy no more wheat as a price-stabilization move.

The statement issued by Mr. Shouse read in part:

"Chairman Legge of the Farm Board, protesting that he is not in politics, has neatly adopted the politician's alibi in reply to criticisms.

"When the Democrats and Progressive Republicans in the Senate were tilting against the exorbitancies of the Grundy tariff bill, its supporters gravely asserted that these protests were mere political propaganda.

"When the Senate was engaged in refusing confirmation as a member of the Supreme Court for Judge Parker of North Carolina, those who advocated confirmation of the Presidential nominee announced that the opposition was pure politics.

"The President himself in his letter about 'hair shirts' gave the same explanation of criticism of his policies.

"It did not take Chairman Legge long to learn the patter of the officials whose work is unsatisfactory to the public.

Governor Green Demands Clean-Up After Eleventh Gang Killing in City in 19 Days.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 23.—Every law enforcement agency of the State as well as of Detroit was working tonight toward a solution of the murder of Gerald E. "Jerry" Buckley, radio announcer for station WMBC, who was shot to death early this morning by three gangsters as he sat reading a newspaper in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel.

In addition to the city investigation, begun at once by Police Commisioner Thomas C. Wilcox, the State police were ordered by Governor Green to investigate the murder independently. The governor, who flew to Detroit early in the day from Holland, Mich., said that if necessary he would call out the militia to put an end to further lawlessness in Detroit.

The murder of Buckley was the eleventh committed by gangsters in the Michigan metropolis in nineteen days. Although city police are said to have in their possession a sworn statement to the effect that Buckley extorted $4,000 from a racketeer, Paul Buckley, a brother of the slain man and a former assistant prosecutor in Wayne County, insists that Jerry Buckley was murdered because of his activities in the campaign to recall Mayor Charles Bowles.

The affidavit in the hands of the police, Commissioner Wilcox said, was made by a confessed bootlegger.

Told of Threatening Letters.

W. Wright Gedge, secretary of the Michigan Broadcasting Company, which operates Station WMBC, says that Buckley told him he had received several threatening letters after speaking over the radio on behalf of the recall and had expressed the opinion that gangsters were out to get him.

A few hours before he was killed Buckley, in his last talk over the radio, had announced the success of the election which called Mayor Bowles from office by a majority of more than 30,000 votes. Of the 210,770 votes cast, 120,863 were for recall and 89,907 against.

As a result a new city election will have to be held within thirty days, although Mayor Bowles automatically becomes a candidate for re-election and, in any event, will remain in office until a successor is chosen.

The spot where Buckley was murdered was less than fifty yards from the entrance in front of which George Collins and William Cannon, Chicago gangsters, were shot to death three weeks ago. Buckley witnessed that shooting from a window of the hotel.

Station WMBC is located in the hotel. After making the final announcements last night Buckley went downstairs to the lobby with Miss Evelyn O'Hara, his secretary. He left her at the front door and, going back into the lobby, sat down in a big armchair. Jack Klein, a motion picture operator, was sitting in a chair close by.

Hit by Eleven Bullets.

According to Klein, who was held by police as a material witness, at about 1:50 A. M., while Buckley was glancing through a copy of an election extra, three men walked across the lobby and, standing around Buck-

ROME, July 23.—Official reports from provincial prefects to the government tonight accounted for 679 dead in today's earthquake disaster. The reports included Accadia 70 and Anzaho 30, among other newly reported towns. The injured counted were 1,500.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 23.—More than 500 persons are known to have been killed and many hundreds injured in the earthquake which early this morning rocked the region between Naples and Bari, causing great damage as far north as Foggia and Benevento and as far south as Potenza.

The centre of the disturbance was at Melfi, in the middle of the Apennine Mountains, almost exactly half-way between Naples and Bari. In this town alone more than 100 persons were killed and thousands rendered homeless when scores of houses collapsed.

Fifty more dead were reported in neighboring villages, but the complete figures on the disaster are not yet available, as news has not been received from many scattered villages.

The first news of the earthquake was received from Naples. Then dispatches began pouring into Rome from the prefects of almost all the southern provinces, asking urgently for relief and telling of extensive damage and loss of life.

Rail Damage Hampers Relief.

As soon as the gravity of the disaster was realized in Rome, relief work was organized with the greatest dispatch. Within an hour of the first news, relief trains were on their way from Foggia to Melfi, bearing medical stores, food and blankets. The trains, however, were unable to reach Melfi because the railroad tracks had been severely damaged by the earthquake. So the relief provisions were transported the rest of the way on motor trucks, reaching Melfi in the morning.

Premier Mussolini, immediately on hearing of the disaster, summoned Senator Cremonesi, President of the Italian Red Cross, and sent him and the Under-Secretary of Public Works to the stricken zone with a special relief train. They will be in charge of all the relief work.

At the same time all available troops in the damaged and adjacent areas were mobilized and sent wherever their services were most needed. Regional Fascist militiamen also were mobilized and sent to the scene of the disaster.

The Vatican also decided to aid in the relief work. Beginning at about noon, telegrams began to pour into the Vatican from Bishops in all the stricken zones, telling of the terrible damage done by the earthquake and urging immediate help for the people, who in many cases have lost not only their homes but all their possessions. The Pope, who was deeply moved by the disaster, immediately telegraphed words of condolence and encouragement to the Bishop of Melfi and at the same time gave instructions that he be informed immediately of any new developments.

The Pontiff began immediately to make arrangements for dispatching relief to the damaged region.

Naples Panic Stricken.

The earthquake came soon after 1 o'clock this morning, when almost every one was asleep. The people were awakened first by loud subterranean rumblings. Residents of Naples thought these were a prelude to an eruption of Vesuvius.

The rumblings, however, were followed by the creaking of the walls of houses, with furniture moving about on the floor. Many sleepers awakened to find themselves thrown out of their beds.

No sooner had the populace of Naples realized what happened than

GLENN CURTISS DIES, PIONEER IN AVIATION

MOURNED BY AIR LEADERS

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 23.—Death came suddenly to Glenn H. Curtiss, aviation pioneer, in the General Hospital here this morning. On July 11 Mr. Curtiss was operated on for appendicitis. His condition since then had been reported daily by surgeons as excellent. Early today he lapsed into a coma and before relatives could reach his bedside he died. Hospital officials gave the cause of death as pulmonary embolus, a blood clot in an artery near the heart.

A patent suit against Mr. Curtiss, brought by the Herring-Curtiss Company in Federal court at Rochester before Judge William S. Andrews, involving about $1,000,000 in royalties and corporation funds, came to an abrupt end two weeks ago when Mr. Curtiss was unable to appear as a witness.

He had suffered several appendicitis attacks earlier and on the eve of his court appearance he was stricken with an acute attack. Dr. Thew Wright of Buffalo, a close personal friend as well as family physician, was called to the Curtiss home on Lake Keuka, Hammondsport, and upon his orders Mr. Curtiss was rushed to the hospital here. The operation took place the following day.

Hundreds of Western New York citizens mourn the death of Mr. Curtiss. After his early flying experiments and manufacturing in Hammondsport, Mr. Curtiss moved most of his factory to Buffalo, and opened another plant on Long Island. Several plants in Buffalo built hundreds of machines for war use and Mr. Curtiss became an intimate figure in the city's life during that period.

Late today the body of Mr. Curtiss was taken to his late home in Hammondsport, where funeral services

Coast Guardsmen Wound Two in Seizing Boat Off Woods Hole, but Find No Liquor Aboard

Special to The New York Times.

WOODS HOLE, Mass., July 23.—Charges that Coast Guardsmen fired today without warning upon the speedboat Marge, raking her decks with machine gun bullets which slightly wounded two New Bedford men, were made by Captain Charles Kingsley of New Bedford, skipper of the craft, which is owned by Howard Jackman of Lynn.

Commander Frederick A. Nichols of Coast Guard Base 18 here said that the patrol boat 2,378 signaled with a searchlight and made every effort to halt the Marge before firing. He expressed regret that the men were wounded.

Although no liquor was found on board, Commander Nichols said that the Marge was known to Coast Guardsmen as a rum-runner.

Frederick Stone and Daniel Conway were wounded in the legs by the gun fire. The Marge had just come through the Cape Cod Canal and was running with all lights on, according to their story.

"It might well have been another Black Duck case," Stone said, "there was no warning, except a flash of the searchlight. We had no rum aboard, nor had we had any."

The Coast Guard called for a physician and the injured men were treated at the base here.

Captain Kingsley said that he would take legal action against the officers of the patrol boat.

Boatswain's Mate A. H. Calder, skipper of the 2378, said that two speed boats were sighted running without lights, one being the Marge. The other, her decks piled with cases of liquor, threw out a smoke screen and escaped, he said, adding that when he fired a warning shot across the bow of the Marge it was disregarded.

NAVAL TREATY BILL ADVANCED IN BRITAIN

RATIFICATION IS ASSURED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—Without a vote being taken, the House of Commons agreed tonight to the second reading of the London naval treaty bill. This step is designed to enable effect to be given to the four-power treaty signed here in April and to repeal Section IV of the Treaties of Washington act of 1922.

At the outset the speaker ruled against any discussion of the actual terms of the treaty. The perfunctory debate was marked by two protests: Commander A. R. Southby, Conservative, said it would have been "wiser, better and more courteous to the Dominions if the bill had been delayed until after the forthcoming Imperial Conference," while Lieut. Commander J. M. Kenworthy, on behalf of the pacifist section of the Labor party, regretted that Clause 2 of the new bill abrogated that part of the Washington Treaty of 1922 providing for the trial and punishment of persons violating the rules of war.

Baldwin Calls Bill Premature.

Arguing that it was premature to offer the bill now, former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin asked whether the government had assurance from the dominions, including the Irish Free State, that they would give effect to such legislation as might be necessary under Section 1 of the bill limiting shipbuilding.

"Under the original act of 1922," he said, "the dominions were especially excluded. It is essential that if we tie our hands with regard to shipbulding here, equal legislation should be applied in all the dominions, including the Irish Free State. If we do not get a satisfactory reply from the government on this point we will feel bound to press the matter in future stages of the bill."

Albert V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said on behalf of the government, that all the dominions represented at the London conference had indicated their intention of fully ratifying the naval treaty and the government had no doubt that the dominions would pass such legislation as would be necessary to carry out their obligations under that decision.

Says Doubts Can Be Settled.

"If there is any doubt on that point," he added, "it can be settled at the imperial conference. But that is no reason why the passing of this bill should be delayed. If the country is to ratify a treaty which will in any way limit the action of its nationals it is important that the treaty should be implemented immediately. It is declared that our nationals should not build ships for other powers which we have undertaken not to build for ourselves."

The limitation of aircraft carriers, Mr. Alexander then explained, was intended to prevent the building of they fled into the streets in a panic. They fled in their sleeping clothes and the streets were soon filled with frenzied crowds rushing blindly this way and that. The scene was rendered hideous by electric trolley wires which had been broken by the quake and had fallen to the ground and were emitting sparks, while masonry was crashing on sidewalks. Then the city was plunged into darkness, increasing the panic and confusion.

The night was rent by shouts of mothers and fathers for their children, by the groans of the injured, the roar of falling houses, the shrieks of the sirens of ambulances and firemen rushing to make rescues in the most severely damaged quarters of the city.

Blindly fleeing in darkness and under the hail of falling masonry, the crowds eventually made their way to open squares or to the seashore, where they could rest in comparative safety. They remained there all night, standing huddled together, because all available open space was so crowded that there was no room to sit or lie down.

Dawn restored some measure of confidence and some of them were prevailed upon to re-enter their homes. Others, however, stubbornly refused and camped out in the open. Some of the residents used motorcars to flee from the city.

Duchess Aids in Relief.

Immediately after the earthquake occurred a meeting was held in the office of the High Commissioner of Naples and arrangements were made to face the sudden crisis. One of the first volunteer helpers to arrive was the Duchess of Aosta, who drove from the royal palace to place her services at the disposal of the city of Naples.

Having had long training as a nurse at the front during the war, she spent the whole night going from one danger point to another caring for the injured and encouraging the panic-stricken populace. The relief workers soon were joined by the bolder spirits of the populace, who, after momentary panic, threw themselves into the task of helping. They helped to disengage hundreds of persons pinned under wreckage and assisted firemen in extinguishing many fires caused by gas escaping from broken mains and set aflame by electric sparks.

Escaping gas proved a great danger to some persons pinned under masonry and several died of asphyxiation.

Terrifying as the scenes are at Naples, they are even more terrible in the smaller centres, especially those like Melfi. Here the number of houses which collapsed or were rendered uninhabitable was extremely high, and a considerable portion of the population was left homeless and completely destitute.

Especially in the small villages the absolute lack of proper organization for facing the disaster left the inhabitants helpless. Luckily a relief organization which was set in motion outside the stricken zone worked with great efficiency and help arrived in the early hours of the morning. There still, however, is a crying need for tents and huts to house the homeless.

Many Children in Asylum Killed.

Excruciating scenes occurred at Foggia, where many children in an infant asylum were killed or wounded. The body of one woman was found there with three dead children under her outstretched arms. Her position indicated she had attempted to shield them with her body from the falling masonry.

Other acts of heroism were noted from almost all the places in the 'quake zones. Troops and Fascist militia have been commended for their devotion to duty and the zeal with which they threw themselves into the rescue work.

The actual earth tremors lasted less than a minute, so that the inhabitants had little time to flee from their houses before they collapsed. In view of this fact, the number of victims may be considered extremely low. Reports from the stricken provinces, however, are coming in rapidly, so it is hoped a complete picture of the disaster may be had soon.

In the region around Melfi the panic was increased by the fact that the earthquake was followed later in the morning by three other shocks. They did no particular damage, but confirmed the inhabitants in the opinion that it was unsafe to re-enter their houses. The whole populace, in fact, is still camping in the fields.

The damage in some regions is so extensive that it cannot be taken care of by the ordinary means at the disposal of the municipalities and provinces. It is expected, therefore, that the government will appropriate funds for rebuilding the wrecked houses and repairing those still standing.

NAPLES OFFICIALS GET DEATH TOTAL OF 700

Many Persons in That City Afraid to Go to Bed—Countryside Shows Great Desolation.

NAPLES, July 23 (AP).—A darkened band, twenty to forty miles wide, tonight reached across the boot of Italy about at the "ankle." This city was the northwestern corner of the zone. Across this belt an hour after midnight today a terrific undulating earthquake dealt death to hundreds of sleeping persons, burying them in the ruins of scores of cities and hamlets and effectively blotting out all of the electric power in that territory.

It was related here tonight that more than 700 persons had been killed without a chance to try to save themselves and that more than 1,500 were treated for serious injuries during the day, figures which Naples officials said had been compiled with the greatest difficulty owing to the isolated positions of many villages and the reluctance of local authorities to reveal the truth.

Melfi Scene of Desolation.

Melfi, picturesque mountain city, perched periously upon the crater of the extinct Monte Vulture, was an area of ghastly débris. Even the ancient cathedral, the history of which goes back to the ninth century, was wrecked.

The almost inaccessible nature of some of the areas devastated made difficult the work of succor and the enumeration of casualties. Most of the towns hit the hardest are off the beaten paths, with poor transportation and almost inaccessible altitude.

Several supply trains have been sent to points on the railroads in the interior from Naples and hundreds of relief workers tonight were penetrating the recesses of the agricultural area offering relief to the terror-stricken victims.

The quake has stunned all Italy. It was the worst since Messina was all but obliterated in 1908. The first shock came an hour after midnight, and its own awful nature was aggravated by a tremendous electrical storm over virtually the whole affected area.

The area extended from the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Adriatic, but the coast settlements suffered less in proportion than the mountain populations. Naples experienced several hours of panic, when many persons ran from their homes and there were scores of casualties. Among this city's victims was the Countess de Rossi Vargas. Never in all Neapolitan history had this classic city experienced such stark fright. A frenzied populace raced through the streets, apparently heading nowhere.

Tonight the work of rescue proceeded as rapidly as the means available would permit. Wrecked bridges, snapped communication wires and many other obstacles had been tossed in the path of the relief workers by the upheaval of nature. Motor cars made little progress over unaccustomed routes. The highways of the area are notoriously undeveloped, and rail lines passed through many gorges, into which the quake had tumbled avalanches.

Last night one could look out on a happy countryside embracing this classic city. The fragrance of ripening vineyards was in the air. In the streets the populace strolled carelessly. Tonight the countryside had been churned in forty-five seconds into a veritable no-man's land by the most disastrous earthquake this light-hearted country has experienced in a generation.

Instead of proceeding peacefully to their homes tonight, the people of the city slept in cleared spaces in the public squares, panic still gripping them. Their single emotion since the stunning happenings of the last twenty-four hours seemed to be fear that they might be caught like rats in a trap by another earth shock.

Bedding Taken to Parks.

The people brought their bedding into the parks. Practically every one believed there would be a repetition of the crushing blow. The squares of the Plebiscito, Carmine and the Villa Communale and the wide plaza before the railway station were thronged by thousands who were almost afraid to go to sleep but were too weary to stay awake.

Ordinarily one may stand in the plaza and gaze at myriads of twinkling hamlets in the distant hills. Tonight no single light gleamed there.

Lighted by lanterns, flares and torches, the citizens of many towns among the hills and miniature cities high up among the Apennines either slept exhausted from their day's rescue exertions or delved among the litter that had been their homes, stores and public buildings yesterday.

Firemen, soldiers and Fascisti searched tirelessly for victims. These little mountain towns were the hardest hit by the quake. Coastal cities suffered the least. The churches here and in all surrounding towns were open tonight and in them went on the work of relief, while thousands prayed for the victims and besought deliverance from another quake.

Across the Bay of Naples Vesuvius glowed dully tonight and was watched with dread by Neapolitans and all who dwell on the bow of the bay. Belief that the earthquake would almost immediately be followed by a tremendous eruption of the terrible old volcano prevailed throughout the day. When no eruption occurred every one breathed more freely.

There was widespread comment today on what citizens declared to have been a miracle—the fact that practically all of the city's church bells pealed forth at the moment of the first quake as if to warn the inhabitants to flee for their lives. This was explained, naturally, by the fact that the undulating earth tremors set the bell towers to oscillating.

Town and church clocks throughout all the province were running again this evening. The quake had stopped them as if automatically at the moment of the shock, 1:10 A. M., thus giving the clearest evidence of the time of appearance of the subterranean upheaval.

This afternoon a trip through some of the towns among the mountains revealed the desolation and tragedy difficult to describe. Whole suburbs and whole families went down in the ruins. Old houses built of stone, with little mortar, crumbled like castles of cards.

Relatives in Pathetic Search.

As the hot South Italian sun beat down upon them the rescuers extricated body after body from the ruins. At Villanova and Melfi there seemed no place left to put the dead. The provincial headquarters was filled with bodies.

Here and there in pathetic groups relatives of the missing persons gathered, hoping that by the miracle for which they prayed to their patron saints their loved ones remained alive in the tangled débris of timbers and masonry.

This morning only a score were known to be dead. At noon the figure rose to 100. This afternoon they said several hundred had perished. Tonight, with more than 500 accounted for, bodies still were being drawn from the wreckage.

At Potenza, a hospital centre, the injured poured in by hundreds throughout the day. This was a scene duplicated at Avellino and Ariano.

All day long crash after crash echoed through the still Apennine Valleys as house after house, weakened by the quake, was pulled to the ground by firemen or soldiers to prevent its falling upon passers-by.

Fear, uncertainty and foreboding tonight were all that many thousands of dwellers from Naples to Brindisi had left as their portion of the convulsion.

Grundy Believed in Naples; No Word Sent by Senator

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Senator Joseph R. Grundy and his sister, Miss Margaret R. Grundy, landed at Naples last Friday and are believed to have been in that city during the earthquake. No word was received from them today, but Chester W. Hill, the Senator's secretary, expressed the belief that they were unharmed.

A party of thirteen American women, including several Philadelphia débutantes, also was in Naples when the city was shaken, but cable advices received from the parents of some of the local women indicated that none in the party had been injured.

The Rev. Ross H. Stover, pastor of the Messiah Lutheran Church, and a party of thirty Philadelphians, reached Naples this morning.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The State Department was advised today by Louis G. Dreyfus Jr., American Consul General at Naples, that no Americans were reported injured in the earthquake area. According to reports reaching the Consul General, four persons were killed in Naples and several hundred in surrounding villages.

QUAKES FREQUENT IN SOUTHERN ITALY

During Calabrian Disaster in 1783, 1,187 Shocks Were Recorded in Two Months.

100,000 DIED IN MESSINA

Volcanoes in Territory Also Have Taken Heavy Toll—World Earthquakes Caused Staggering Loss.

Since the destruction of Pompeii and Herculaneum in 79 A. D., Southern Italy has suffered from periodical seismic and volcanic disturbances of more or less serious consequences. Within a very small area are three famous volcanoes, Vesuvius, Etna and Stromboli, the first just outside Naples, the second in Sicily and the third on the little island near the Straits of Messina.

The great earthquake of Southern Calabria in 1783 was really a series of violent disturbances which laid the countryside desolate. From Feb 5 to March 28 there were six great earthquakes. In addition to these there were thirty-eight shocks described as "very strong," 198 "strong," 303 of moderate strength and 642 slight shocks, making a total of 1,187 shocks.

In more recent times the most severe earthquake was the Messina disaster in which 100,000 persons were killed and about as many injured, while more than 1,000,000 persons were rendered homeless. This shock, which lasted thirty-five seconds, occurred early in the morning of Dec. 28, 1908.

Two years previously more than 200 lives were lost in an eruption of Vesuvius. Another Sicilian disaster occurred on May 8 and 9, 1914, when some 200 persons were killed and 1,000 injured. The so-called Central Italian earthquake of Jan. 13, 1915, resulted in the deaths of 30,000 persons and great destruction in the provinces of Aquila, Caserta and Rome. The town of Avezzano was almost entirely wiped out.

Another disastrous earthquake was the one that followed the eruption of Mont Pelee on the island of Martinique on May 8, 1902. More than 30,000 lives were lost.

The San Francisco disaster of April 18, 1906, caused the deaths of about 500 persons, and 1,500 were injured and 256,000 rendered homeless.

350 DIE AT VILLANOVA, HIT HARDEST IN QUAKE

Melfi, Rio Nero, San Sossio Baronia, Rapollo and Varile Also Have Casualties in Disaster.

NAPLES, July 23 (AP).—Four provinces of the Italian peninsula were converted into "no man's land" by the earthquake which occurred early today. In the several larger towns and the few cities at the centre of the quake district the scenes beggared description.

Villanova, according to government agents who managed to bring out a death list of 350, was by far the heaviest sufferer. The town was practically wiped out. Among the victims were the Mayor and his entire family.

At Melfi 180 persons perished, according to official figures, and several tunnels on the railroad to that city fell in and blocked service beyond restoration for many days.

Rio Nero, often visited by quakes in other years, suffered at least twenty deaths.

Rapollo reported twenty dead and thirty hurt.

At Varile there are eleven known dead and sixty injured.

Rio Nero is known as the "home of the flowers" and is a celebrated city among tourists who penetrate far into the hills.

Fully 1,000 buildings were destroyed in Melfi and Rio Nero.

British Noblewoman Will See Parents Before Announcing Capital Engagement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Miss Gytha Stourton, cousin and former social secretary of Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the former British Ambassador at Washington, sailed for England Saturday to talk over with her family her engagement to Fioravanti del Agnese, the Italian World War veteran who accompanied the Howards to Washington from their former post at Rome to serve as butler and household manager at the embassy.

The romance between her young cousin and her protégé was known to Lady Isabella, who watched its development without opposition or disapproval, it is said, but counseled delay and consideration, urging Miss Stourton to await her parents' approval before consenting to an engagement.

Following the retirement of Sir Esme as Ambassador and his return with Lady Isabella to their home in England, Miss Stourton stayed on in Washington, making her home with a friend and continuing her friendship with Signor del Agnese, who is remaining for the present at the embassy.

When she sailed for home last week her friends believe it was to follow the advice of Lady Isabella Howard and talk the matter over with Colonel and Mrs. Stourton, to whom del Agnese is unknown, before making a final decision.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—Baron Howard of Penrith, formerly Sir Esme Howard, lately British Ambassador at Washington, was introduced in the House of Lords today and took his seat in the historic chamber. Lord Howard was recently elevated to the peerage.

Bryan's "Alma Mater" for Sale.

CARBONDALE, Ill., July 23 (AP).—The alma mater of Senator W. E. Borah and Williams Jennings Bryan is being advertised for sale, it was announced today. The institution is Ewing College, owned by the Illinois Baptist Association. It has been closed since 1925, when fire destroyed several buildings.

Aide to Wounded Rumanian Official Vanishes; Police Link Him With Anti-Semitic Agitators

BUCHAREST, July 23.—The judge examining into the shooting in his office two days ago of Dr. Constantine Angelescu, acting Minister of the interior, and former Rumanian Minister at Washington, appeared at midday today at the Ministry and asked for an interview with its chef de cabinet, M. Taslavanu. On being informed M. Taslavanu had been missing for some days and that his whereabouts is unknown, the judge ordered the police to find him.

Now it is believed the sudden disappearance of Dr. Angelescu's colleague has something to do with the attempt made by a Macedonian Rumanian student, George Beza, to murder Dr. Angelescu. It is suspected M. Taslavanu, who had already been accused of sheltering the notorious student anti-Semitic leaders Danilla and Totu from the police, who were searching for them, had associations with Beza, who, besides his activities on behalf of the Macedonians, was a member of the anti-Jewish organization known as the Iron Guard.

Meanwhile anti-Semitic excesses were renewed at Jassy, where a group of students yesterday marched through the streets cudgeling Jewish pedestrians. Twenty of them who were arrested told the police the attacks were part of a systematic plan drawn up by the well-known anti-Semite, Zelea Codreanu.

An orthodox priest, Father Dumitrescu, and five companions who were arrested with him as a result of recent anti-Jewish disturbances at Borza have begun a hunger strike.

Yesterday's occurrences in Jassy were condemned today by newspapers almost without respect to party. One paper compared the situation to the bloody agrarian revolution in 1907 and called on the government to take sharper measures.

BUCHAREST, July 23 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—New measures to be taken against anti-Semitic agitation and disturbances which culminated in the attempted assassination this week of Dr. Constantin Angelescu, acting Minister of the Interior, were decided upon today at a Ministerial Council meeting of the Rumanian Government. In addition to sending strong detachments of troops to maintain order in Bukowina and Bessarabia, the Ministerial Council is planning to take action against all political organizations with anti-Semitic programs.

AIR TAXI DISASTER FAILS OF SOLUTION

Preliminary Inquiry in Crash Near Kent Leaves Cause as Mysterious as Ever.

WITNESSES DESCRIBE SCENE

Bodies Evidently Were Hurled Out Several Moments After Rending of Machine Was Heard.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—The preliminary questioning of witnesses of the Junkers air taxi disaster Monday over Kent by Coroner C. Harris at Meopham Village today left the cause of the accident as great a mystery as ever. Relatives and friends entering the ramshackle stable identified the bodies of the Marquess of Dufferin and Ava, Viscountess Ednam, Sir Edward Ward, Mrs. Henrick Loeffler, Lieut. Col. M. L. P. Henderson, pilot, and C. A. Shearing, assistant pilot.

According to medical evidence, five of them died instantly when they struck the ground after falling 800 feet. Colonel Henderson, who was strapped in the shattered cockpit, had breathed only a few moments.

In a little wooden tea room in the shadow of an ancient windmill on the village green, Harold Ward, a local resident, gave the coroner the most complete and vivid account of the disaster yet disclosed.

"When I first saw the airplane," he said, "it appeared to turn over and nose-dive. It came out of the clouds on its side—I can't tell which—and then rolled over and dived. Then things that looked like small airplanes came from it.

"I thought at first it was a big airplane with smaller airplanes aboard it. The objects seemed about the size of a penny when I first saw them. I didn't realize what they were until they fell lower and then I saw they were bodies. The wing of the airplane afterward parted and floated in the air like a piece of paper."

Evidently there was a lapse of several moments between the noise of the rending of the airplane from a thus far unknown cause 800 feet up, which some took for an explosion, and the pitching out of the bodies, for another witness, Thomas Hermitage, said:

"I was having my dinner indoors at 2:30 when I heard a crash in the air. I rushed out of the hall into the orchard. I saw a body falling through the air and when it struck the ground a short distance from me it bounced up again. Soon I found other bodies. Three were in one field and two others in different fields."

The Coroner, who had the Air Ministry inspector of accidents, Major J. P. Cooper, beside him, adjourned the inquiry until Aug. 13. He said the efforts to discover the cause of the disaster would entail considerable detailed examination of the wreckage, which is still being carried out by the Air Ministry experts.

The Marquess of Dufferin's valet arrived from Ireland with a large bunch of carnations from Lady Dufferin and a bunch of lilies from the Marquess's daughter, Veronica. The Duke of Sutherland, brother of Viscountess Ednam, was among the witnesses, and Mrs. Henderson, beautiful young wife of the pilot, sent a note in which she said, "No one would have been more broken in heart than the late pilot."

Doubts Wing Caused Accident.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DESSAU, July 23.—Concerning the crash of the Junkers plane in Kent Monday, the Junkers factory today issued the following statement:

"Professor Junkers and his responsible technical co-workers declined to believe that the accident was caused through breakage of the wing, which is the same as in the Bremen type. Several hundred planes of the same type have been engaged for more than ten years in air traffic under the most difficult conditions, including the transatlantic flight, without having given reason for complaint concerning the tensile strength."

CRITICIZES OUR PROTEST.

Asuncion Paper Says We Were First to Adopt Embargo Against Fruit Fly

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 23.—Under the caption "The Mediterranean Fruit Fly and North American Apples," El Diario, commenting on a report from Washington that the United States authorities had protested to the British Government against a measure barring from England apples from the United States on account of the Mediterranean fruit fly, says the United States was the first country to resort to such an embargo to prevent the introduction of the fly with Argentine grapes, an example later followed by Argentina to close her markets to Paraguayan oranges.

The newspaper adds that American apples are now the "victims of the fantastic fly." It asks whether international solidarity is so unsteady that a fly will be enough to upset it.

LIFEBOAT GIVES AID IN BRITISH FLOODS

RAILWAY BRIDGES SMASHED

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—A lifeboat and coast guards with rocket gear were rushed inland by road from the Yorkshire coast at Whitby today to rescue people marooned by the flood that followed a cloudburst in the valley of the River Esk in North Yorkshire. So active were the lifeboat men on the inland sea that only one woman lost her life, although the townships of Ruswarp and Sleights were absolutely cut off.

Sinnington, one of the prettiest villages in Yorkshire, is also marooned, owing to the flooding of the River Seven, which rises in the North Yorkshire moors. Here a two months' normal rainfall has come down in three days. The water, in its rush to the sea, is sweeping along the dead stock and the hives of many famous poultry breeders and beekeepers of this neighborhood. The River Seven suddenly overflowed its banks to an extent not remembered by the oldest inhabitant of Sinnington, and the villagers are still imprisoned in their bedrooms.

The village policeman of Sleights early this morning saved the lives of many people residing in the low-lying houses. Hearing the wall of water crashing down the Esk Valley he ran from house to house, warning the people, who rushed to safety in their night clothes.

Uprooted trees, swooping down the River Esk, which flows into Whitby Harbor, smashed railway bridges and the London & North Eastern railway system has been disorganized.

To rescue one family at Ruswarp the lifeboat had to be brought alongside the house and a ladder put across to a hole which had been smashed in the wall. A Coast Guard went to the rescue of a man, his wife and four children, who had climbed to the roof of another house. Casting a line over the building the Coast Guard hauled them to safety in true seamanlike fashion by means of a breeches buoy.

Thirty Darlington boys were surprised in their camp near the town and had to swim for their lives in the swiftly flowing waters.

Lakes almost two miles long have been formed in the neighborhood of Sheffield, where appeals were made only last week for the water supply to be conserved owing to drought. Near Sheffield the River Dearne burst its banks during the night and scores of acres of pasture land, stocked with valuable sheep and cattle, are under water. Tenants of houses at Wath, Mexborough and Ecclesfield have been driven into the upper stories.

The first thing many knew about the flood was when the front doors burst in with a bang and the water came pouring in.

a large number of ships designed as carriers which could be used, if necessary, as cruisers.

"With regard to Section II, we did everything we possibly could to achieve our major purpose regarding submarines and abolish their use in war. We failed in that purpose but, though we regretted we were not more successful, we have made a step forward in the measure of common agreement obtained on this point."

Mr. Alexander concluded amid cheers:

"The other powers signatory to the agreement will take all necessary steps to secure the purposes of this bill."

Corresponds to Senate Action Here.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—The bill supporting the London Naval Treaty passed the second reading in the House of Commons tonight without a division, giving effect to the naval reduction compact signed recently.

C. G. Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the British Admiralty, offered the motion for the second reading, which corresponds in its effect to the recent Senate action in the United States on the London treaty.

Secretary Ammon explained that under the British legal system a treaty, although it might be binding and have effect on the British Government, could not be enforced in law courts against private individuals unless supporting legislation was passed.

Under the Washington treaty Britain entered into certain agreements not to build or provide by private shipbuilding certain vessels of war. The London treaty contained alterations of these agreements. To give effect to them, Commons was asked to approve the bill.

See Treaty Virtually Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—In British quarters here the understanding prevails that with its second reading the London naval treaty will now go to a standing committee which will report it back to the House of Commons for a third reading, and after that it will be transmitted to the House of Lords for action.

The second reading in the Commons tonight, however, is regarded as clearing away all obstacles to ratification by the Commons and the third reading is nothing or little more than a mere formality, according to the understanding here. At the same time it cannot be said with exactness that the treaty has been ratified as the formalities of the report of the standing committee and the third reading must be undergone.

An official of the State Department said tonight that it was his understanding that ratification by the House of Lords was not necessary and he doubted that it was required that the Commons should send the treaty to the Lords for action.

TOKYO TO SUBMIT PACT FOR FINAL ACT

Premier to Ask Emperor Today to Refer Naval Treaty to the Council for Ratification.

NAVY REPORT APPROVED

Admirals Accept Finding Pact Is 'Defective'—Press Praises America's Lead.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, July 23.—Premier Hamaguchi will go to Hayama tomorrow morning to request the Emperor to refer the London naval treaty to the Privy Council for ratification. This decision was reached at a Cabinet meeting this afternoon following a formal meeting of the naval members of the Supreme Military Council.

Upon his return from Hayama, the Premier will consult with Baron Kuratomi, president of the Privy Council, regarding the date upon which the Privy Council shall be called upon to meet. The members of the council are now on vacation, but will be obliged to return to Tokyo to take part in the deliberations concerning the treaty.

The formal meeting of the Supreme Military Council at the Imperial Palace this morning merely confirmed the report agreed upon at yesterday's informal meeting finding the treaty defective in regard to national defense. The Emperor did not attend the conference, which was presided over by Fleet Admiral Togo.

Issue Passes From Navy Men.

Admiral Togo presented the formal inquiry of the Emperor as to whether the members considered the treaty adequate in regard to national defense and the members thereupon approved the draft reply drawn up yesterday. Following the meeting Admiral Togo went to Hayama to report the results to the Emperor. With the conclusion of the formal meeting of the Supreme Military Council the treaty issue now passes out of the hands of the naval men.

A Foreign Office official told your correspondent today that he believed that the verdict of the naval men was not directed so much against the treaty as against the government in defense of the naval prerogatives, and that it was also aimed to induce the government to appropriate increased funds for naval purposes.

The ratification of the London naval treaty by the United States was welcomed by the Japanese press today, almost all the newspapers carrying long editorials praising the United States for taking the lead in another move toward peace. The newspapers generally urge Japan to follow rapidly the example of the United States and to avoid creating a bad impression abroad by undue delay.

The Tokyo Nichi-Nichi Shimbun points to the lead taken by the United States and says this example will cause the other signatories to hasten ratification. The newspaper praises President Hoover for summoning a special session of the Senate to expedite ratification.

Says Public Favors Pact.

"The American ratification," The Nichi-Nichi says, "has come at the most critical juncture in the consideration of the treaty in Japan. The dissenting voices of our naval men have been unusually loud and so far have hindered the progress of ratification, but the opinion of the experts has only reference to value and cannot determine the final policy of this empire."

The newspaper stresses that public opinion is solidly behind the treaty, which is erected on the basis of the anti-war pact, and adds, "The Japanese people believe it is futile to worry over some slight disparity in naval ratios."

The paper continues:

"We want the people of America and Britain to rest assured that the Japanese people stand for the treaty and that there is no danger of the treaty being accorded any other treatment than that which it has received in the American Senate. The ratification of the treaty by Japan is a foregone conclusion, because the people of Japan will not tolerate any alternative. Unlike the naval men who figure on war, the people think in terms of peace.

"It is this which we are eager to impress upon the other signatory nations. Above all, we want America to realize that so far as the people of Japan are concerned, the idea of war has become entirely obsolete. We are following their steps in the common efforts for the promotion of peace. We want them to realize this and to cease looking upon us as a potential enemy. It is such distrust that makes our naval men nervous regarding national security."

Urges Further Cuts.

The newspaper appeals to the United States to assume the leadership in going one step further toward naval disarmament.

"Great as is the significance of the treaty among the lovers of peace," the paper says, "it has not gone far enough in curtailing the naval forces of the powers. For one thing it entails the building of too many ships by the United States. If, instead of building engines of destruction to the maximum point stipulated by the treaty, America proposes a further corresponding scrapping of vessels by the other parties, it would mean a great economy for her and a big further stride toward disarmament. Force of circumstances has placed this move exclusively in the hands of America. It is her rôle to lead and that of the others is to follow."

The Tokyo Asahi Shimbun, in an editorial, says that in refuting the technical experts "America did precisely what had been expected of her by every friend of peace."

The Jiji Shimpo says the action of the American Senate "is an early victory for the school of thought which contends a satisfactory solution of the limitation of armaments is only possible when it is considered from angles other than the military one."

LAUDS ACTION ON TREATY.

Argentine Paper Stresses Significance of American Ratification.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, July 23.—In an editorial commenting on the ratification of the London naval treaty by the American Senate, La Nacion says the Senate persuaded itself after two weeks of heated debate of the necessity of approving the treaty.

The paper says that by the pact a scale is fixed which, if not ideal, is at least acceptable as creating stabilization among three of the most powerful nations. It adds that the Senate's vote is significant as it concerned the ratification of an international agreement, but implies that it has perhaps a greater significance as it shows that this time President Hoover and the Senate met on the same road going in the same direction, and not facing against each other.

The paper says America has decided to put an end to competition in the construction of naval armaments and consequently to suspicion, hatreds and ill-will, which lead to disaster.

LABOR CENSURES BECKETT.

Colleagues in Commons Disapprove His Seizure of Mace.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—By a vote of 90 to 28 the Parliamentary Labor party today expressed strong disapproval of the action of John Beckett, Labor Member of the House of Commons, in seizing the Speaker's mace on July 17.

The Labor members described Beckett's deed as bringing discredit upon the Parliamentary Labor party and as constituting a gross affront to Parliament.

The matter will be reported to the National Executive Committee of the Labor party, and Mr. Beckett will be called upon to apologize to the House of Commons.

SHAMROCK V REPORT FALSE

London Hears She Sank, but All Is Going Well.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—False reports that Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V had sunk en route to America with all hands caused deep concern in London tonight. The reports reached the newspaper offices from widely separated ports on the south coast, but no basis could be found for them.

A radiogram from the steam yacht Erin, accompanying the America's Cup challenger, timed 7 o'clock this evening, advised Sir Thomas that she was "three hundred miles west of the Lizard, with all going well."

Nine Orphan Girls and Nun Lost—Hindenburg May Visit Trier and Aix-la-Chapelle in the Fall.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, Germany, July 23.—President von Hindenburg canceled the remainder of his Rhineland jubilation trip this morning immediately upon hearing of the frightful catastrophe which occurred at the close of last night's public illumination of the Fortress Ehrenbreitstein, when a small wooden bridge over the mouth of a little backwater of the Moselle River, just before the stream flows into the Rhine, collapsed and hurled almost a hundred struggling humans into thirty feet of water.

The disaster cost the lives of nearly forty people, chiefly women and children, including 6-year-old Raymond Lawler of Akron, Ohio.

"It is all off," the President promptly declared when informed of the disaster. "I won't go any further.

"But I shall try to complete the tour in September," he added for the comfort of the disappointed citizenry of Trier and Aix-la-Chapelle.

Short but impressive official services for the victims were held at 11 A. M. today in the crêpe-hung council room of the City Hall at the President's request. The complete roster of city officials, as well as the Foreign Minister, Dr. Curtius, and the Prussian Premier, Dr. Braun, were present to hear Mayor Russell announce that the city would bear the expenses of the funerals and would insure that none of the bereaved families would suffer financially.

Coblenz's Worst Disaster.

"It was the worst disaster in the whole 2,000 years of Coblenz's history," the Mayor said.

Then President von Hindenburg arose and in a simple impromptu address gave expression to his deep sense of shock.

"God will comfort the living and bless the dead," the old man said simply and added that he would do all that lay in his power to aid the mourning ones.

Dr. Kloeckner, head of the Kloeckner Steel Mills and a native of the city, gave it $2,500 as the first on the list for the aid of the bereaved.

When President von Hindenburg drove slowly away from the City Hall without an escort of cars through the silent streets where the populace, stricken dumb, watched his passing soundlessly, it was evident that the country's hero was even closer to the hearts of his people than during yesterday's rejoicings. All flags were half-masted. All garlands, banners and decorations had been torn down. The city is as if stricken.

Raymond Lawler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lawler of 382 Belby Court, Akron, was on a visit to his grandparents here with his mother, brother and sister. Mrs. Lawler was away visiting for a few days in the country near here, so an aunt, Mrs. Helen Conrad of Chicago, and the children's grandfather, Peter Conrad, of Coblenz, took Raymond and his sister, aged 7, to see the illumination. On the way back the party crossed the fateful wooden bridge to avoid going round the backwater.

Tells of Collapse.

"As the bridge collapsed in the middle," Mrs. Conrad told your correspondent, "I was able to push little Katherine ashore. We remaining three slid back into the water. The shrieks were ghastly. Somebody fished me out when I came up for the third time, but Mr. Conrad and Raymond were lost."

The children's grandmother, who had taken charge during the mother's absence, is verging on a complete collapse.

Nine orphan girls from a school on the Rhine above Coblenz and the nun who was escorting them were among the victims.

Eyewitnesses today described the wild confusion which prevailed. Mingled with the despairing wails of the doomed were frantic cries from swimmers who wanted to know what had become of their hats, handbags, umbrellas and such like trivialities. Many tried to climb upon the two cylindrical iron pontoons which had supported the bridge, but these rolled over and sank, pinning several to the bottom.

The responsibility for the disaster is still not clear, as the investigation will not be able to start until the Fire Department and the police have given up hope of recovering more bodies. It is impossible to fix the total dead, since it is not known how many were on the bridge and how many were saved and taken home slightly injured before the counting could begin. The Prussian Building Administration, owner of the bridge, maintains it was stout enough for normal traffic.

Although thirty-eight bodies had been recovered at an early hour this morning, the present official death list names thirty-five, three of those first brought out having responded to artificial respiration. The recovered bodies, which were first laid out on the grassy bank, were later taken to the disused barracks.

Funeral Service Held.

COBLENZ, July 23 (AP).—The last act of last night's bridge catastrophe came tonight in the form of a procession of coffins and many mourners passing over the old Moselle bridge into Luetzel. The victims were placed in one row in the Turner hall, with six children in the centre, and funeral ceremonies took place.

Hindenburg Back in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 23.—President von Hindenburg returned tonight from his interrupted Rhineland trip, being met at the railway station by Chancellor Bruening and a large cheering crowd. The President showed signs of the deepest emotion over the Coblenz tragedy.

The flags on all Berlin official and many private buildings were half-masted today, as were those in many Prussian cities.

Federal Inquiry Ordered.

BERLIN, July 23 (AP).—The Minister of Transportation and Communications, Dr. Theodor von Guerard, has ordered an investigation into the Coblenz disaster.

Dead Boy's Father Was Soldier.

AKRON, Ohio, July 23 (AP).—Wallace Lawler, father of the boy who was drowned in the bridge collapse at Coblenz, Germany, is attached to the Ylos Rubber Company here.

Mrs. Lawler, with Raymond, his sister Katherine and his brother Edward, sailed from New York on May 29 and arrived in Bremen on June 9 on a trip to visit her parents at Coblenz. She was born in Coblenz and married Mr. Lawler there in January, 1922, when he was a member of the Eighth United States Infantry in the Army of Occupation. Mr. Lawler brought his wife back to Akron in February, 1923.

HUGENBERG'S FOES FORM NEW PARTY

Secessionists Led by Westarp and Treviranus United in Conservative People's Party.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 23.—The secessionists from Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalist party led by Captain Gottfried Treviranus and Count Westarp today organized the Conservative People's party, which will seek to gather into its camp the conservative electorate of Germany which formerly followed the old party's call regardless of leadership or platform.

The new party's nucleus is the two secessionist wings, which for six months have been in open rebellion against Dr. Hugenberg. The first of these, led by Captain Treviranus, comprises less than a dozen Reichstag followers, while the insurgent wing headed by Count Westarp and which tactically remained in the party, counted about twenty recalcitrant Deputies. The latter group definitely separated itself from Dr. Hugenberg when the Reichstag was dissolved last week and has now pooled its political fortunes with those of the Treviranus group.

As deserters from the Hugenberg camp continue to augment the new party its prospects for capturing the bulk of the old Nationalist vote in the forthcoming election are viewed as favorable, especially as its leaders announce that they will not contend for votes in the agrarian sections, in order not to come into conflict with the Land League, which will conduct an independent campaign in the flat country, leaving the urban districts to the new party.

Despite its hopes of gathering in the votes of old monarchical partisans, the new party in its proclamation refrains from anti-republican utterances, but asserts:

"The party system which came into control in 1918 has collapsed and demands the restoration of the authority of the State and its servants through the rejuvenation of Christian citizenship."

The proclamation deprecates class hatred from above and below, and demands that the conservative elements of the nation again be permitted to assert themselves so that the nation may be united in a common battle for German freedom in the world. It rejects "uncontrolled mass rule" as being opposed to the historical process of building up a State through the natural adaptation of its component parts.

A more sensational election pronouncement emanated today from the headquarters of the Stahlhelm [Steel Helmet] Nationalist War Veterans' Association. It peremptorily rejects Parliamentary government and will abide the time "when the men who are to rule Germany will not be selected on the basis of their party allegiance, but according to their national inclinations and ability."

The Stahlhelm will not take a direct part in the campaign, but will vote for such parties as supported the referendum for the rejection of the Young reparation plan and are opposed to Marxism.

English Art Lovers Must Raise $103,500 In a Week to Keep Famous Bedford Book

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—Only one week remains for England to raise $103,500, which is the remainder of the sum needed to purchase the famous Bedford Book of Hours for the nation.

In one of the final appeals to British art lovers, Robert Witt, chairman of the National Art Collections Fund, expressed gratitude for the generosity of J. Pierpont Morgan, who in order to give Britain and opportunity to retain the book, advanced to the British Museum the whole purchase price of $165,000 with interest free for one year.

Thus far only $61,500 has been obtained from the National Art Collections Fund and from subscribers making offerings of from a few pennies in the British Museum collection box to large contributions. The National Arts Collections Fund has contributed substantially, although as in the case of the British Museum claims of the Luttrell Psalter, which have already been acquired for the nation, it took a heavy toll of its resources.

"It needs only the response of all who are ashamed to allow Mr. Morgan's generosity to be shown in vain to prove that this country is as determined to retain the book as America was eager to get it," Mr. Witt said.

The Bedford Book of Hours and the Luttrell Psalter, celebrated illuminated manuscripts, were offered for public sale a year ago and were obtained by the British Museum with money advanced by Mr. Morgan totaling $324,150.

The British Museum at that time had available funds of $75,000 to apply toward the purchase and this was increased later to $175,000 through special subscriptions, including an outright gift of $2,500 from Mr. Morgan. Mr. Morgan had wanted to add the two volumes to his own library, but decided to allow England to keep them.

In March of this year, a remainder of $150,000 was yet to be raised. The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, the Speaker of the House of Commons all joined in public appeals for subscriptions to the fund.

ENVOYS SEE GANDHI; SILENT ON OUTCOME

Indian Liberals Closeted Four Hours With Nationalist Chief and Will Return Today.

LONDON DEBATE DEFERRED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, July 23.—For four hours today two unofficial emissaries of peace were closeted with Mahatma Gandhi in Yerovda Jail near Poona. Sir Tej Dahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, who, with the permission of the Viceroy, traveled from Simla in an effort "to bring about a return of peaceful conditions in India," held what secrets the interview contained to themselves. In accordance with their request, no representative of the government and no outsider was present.

Elsewhere Indian political prisoners are becoming particular about their accommodations. Eight prisoners, including several Nationalist Congress officials, protested today against traveling third class from Bombay to Nasik. As the officials in charge of them were unyielding, they sat passively on the station platform. The train left without them and they were returned to prison here.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—With two Indian leaders to visit Mahatma Gandhi in Yerovda prison today on a mission of peace, the postponement of a House of Lords debate on India last night is attributed in some quarters to the government's idea that nothing should be done here to hamper the negotiations.

Viscount Burnham, who was a member of the Simon commission for India, gave notice yesterday of a motion which would seek to ascertain whether the Simon report would be the main subject of the roundtable conference on India to be held here in October.

The debate was scheduled for last night, and an unusually large number of peers, besides Ministers and former Ministers from the House of Commons, flocked to the upper house to hear it. Late in the session Viscount Burnham stated that he would postpone the motion until next Tuesday. No reason was given.

CALCUTTA, July 23 (AP).—Two Bengali youths today were sentenced to four years' rigorous imprisonment each in connection with a recent bomb outrage at Howrah. A bomb was thrown into the house of a police inspector and exploded in a room occupied by the inspector's son without injuring any one.

SAMUEL HINTED AS VICEROY.

MacDonald Is Said to Have Sounded Ex-Palestine Official on Indian Post.

LONDON, July 23 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—There is good ground for stating that Sir Herbert Samuel, former High Commissioner of Palestine and high in the councils of the Liberal party, has been sounded out by Premier MacDonald regarding Sir Herbert's acceptance of an appointment as Viceroy of India when Baron Irwin of Kirby Underdale, the present Viceroy, resigns next year, the correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learns.

Last week The Daily Herald, the organ of the Labor party, reported that Sir Herbert was being seriously considered as the next Viceroy of India. Many years ago he was aide-de-camp to the Viceroy.

It is understood that Sir Herbert Samuel would be glad to spend the next few years in India. His friends and supporters in the House of Commons maintain that he is one of the few available British statesmen capable of maintaining the high level of administration reached by Lord Reading when he was Viceroy.

PALESTINE TARIFF RISES.

Jerusalem Also Will Regulate Amount of Certain Imports.

JERUSALEM, July 23 (AP).—The government, with the approval of the Colonial Secretary, is taking a number of measures designed to be of benefit to the agricultural interests of Palestine.

One measure is an increase of about 50 per cent in the import duty on wheat, flour and semolina. Another measure is the regulation of these imports under a system of licenses controlled by a standing committee on commerce and industry. Unrefined olive oil cannot be imported until further notice, while an import duty has been reimposed on sesame seed.

Sir John Hope Simpson, who has been here since May on behalf of the British Government investigating colonization, immigration and general development of the country, has completed his studies and has left for England.

AMERICANS ASSAIL NEW SPANISH TARIFF

Auto Representatives in Madrid See Decree as Aimed Against Their Products.

CHEAP CARS HIT HEAVILY

Products of Germany, France and Britain Must Also Pay the Increased Duties.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 23.—Representatives of American automobile concerns here said they were astonished at the terms of the royal decree raising the customs duties, which was published in the Royal Gazette in its entirety today. They regard the decree as directed principally against American automobile products and as a reprisal against the American tariff.

American business men see a danger of a considerable part of the 1.5 per cent portion of America's total exports which is sent to Spain disappearing from the American export ledger. Certain clauses of the decree ostensibly treat all automobile exporters equally, but will injure the Americans most, as they sell 80 per cent of the 30,000 cars disposed of annually in Spain. Some observers express the opinion that the new schedule has been drawn up in an effort to exterminate the sales of American cars here.

The clause which is most resented states that "extra-European" cars must pay a tax of 3 pesetas (the peseta is valued at 19.3 cents at par) per kilogram (2 1-5 pounds) instead of the 10 per cent raise on European open cars and the 20 per cent raise on closed cars provided for when the cars are not shipped directly to Spain. The clause says that all cars with European bills of lading and having extra-European parts must also pay the heavier tax. This will hit the American cars now assembled in European plants, and, it is believed, will force an increase in the price of American cheap cars, as on a car weighing 800 kilograms European manufacturers will pay a duty of only 1,440 pesetas, while American manufacturers of cars assembled abroad will pay 2,400 pesetas.

On the larger cars the schedule will slightly favor Americans, since a sliding scale makes other manufacturers of the larger cars pay heavier duties per kilogram, while the special American scale is a fixed one.

W. S. Wainwright, secretary of General Motors Peninsular, said, "We are sure this tariff is aimed directly against American motor cars because of the new American tariff. Our information indicates this, although the action has been taken ostensibly against any manufacturers. Nothing short of the complete exclusion of our cars could hit us harder, since the fall of the peseta had already hurt business. We think discrimination has been made against American cars shipped from Europe and also against those shipped direct from America. The measure will benefit the steamship lines, mainly Spanish, coming direct from America to Spain.

"The wording of the decree makes it somewhat doubtful whether it raises the duty on trucks, and we are getting legal opinion on this."

Anxious Spanish dealers visited the American commercial attaché's office to get an opinion on the probable effect of the increases.

It will probably be the official American view that the new tariff is not discriminatory, but a well-known French observer of Spanish affairs said today: "The new tariff aims mainly at France and the United States, but mostly at the United States."

Deny Move Is in Reprisal.

MADRID, July 23 (AP).—Automobiles, tires and casings, safety razor blades, sewing machines and motorcycles are the most important of the American products sold in Spain affected by the new tariff schedule which was published today. France, Germany and England were hit more than the United States in some of the other increases.

Government officials and business interests said that the new tariff was not in reprisal against the United States, but was a revision long in preparation by a Spanish expert commission. The new rates, it was declared, are intended, first, to improve the peseta exchange by reducing imports and thus reducing the amount of pesetas spent abroad and, secondly, to protect Spanish infant industries.

Other items which have increased duties are hams, champagne, still and motion picture films unexposed, sulphur, paint and raw and artificial silk. Safety razor blades have the biggest increase, the new duty being six times the old. Spain has a big steel blade manufacturing industry at Toledo, famous for its swords in days of old.

The duties on tires and casings are increased from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent, while motorcycles are almost doubled.

Raw and artificial silk duties are increased from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. This affects France chiefly.

The duty on sewing machines, which are almost entirely American but manufactured in the English plant of a United States concern, is about doubled from 54 to 100 pesetas a hundred kilograms.

Increases in other items range around 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. Bicycle duties are about doubled, chiefly hitting England, France and Germany.

Although effective immediately, the new tariff does not apply to goods now en route or in customs houses awaiting shipment.

MEXICO SEEKS TARIFF DATA

Exporters to Be Asked for Opinions as Basis for a Protest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 23.—The Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor has instructed agents throughout the republic to gather opinions of all Mexican exporters regarding the effect of the recent United States tariff legislation. The tariff, it is reported, will leave Mexico with 60,000,000 pesos worth of agricultural produce on her hands annually which previously found its way to the United States.

Newspapers here this afternoon predict that an economic crisis will result from the American tariff and from the fact that 300,000 Mexican laborers will soon be forced to leave the United States and return to Mexico.

The Ortiz Rubio Government, through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, is expected to ask the United States to modify the duties most affecting Mexico.

Icy Weather Defeats Londoners In Men's Dress Reform Party

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 23.—The English climate won the first round of a contest with a men's dress reform party last evening.

The party staged a "great demonstration" in Hyde Park, at which hundreds of their "rationally dressed" supporters were to convince their convention-ridden brethren of the unsuitability of man's present garb, in the Summer months at least.

However, it was the coldest evening for months. The chairman and honorary secretary, along with the hundreds of supporters, failed to appear. Only ten Spartans arrived, duly marching across the park with icy blasts playing around their knees and down their open necks, while rain soaked their uncovered locks.

WORLD TRADE GREW 22% AFTER THE WAR

League Also Finds 25 Per Cent Gain in Output of Raw Materials Since 1913.

POPULATION GROWTH 10%

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 23.—The increase in production of foodstuffs in Europe, excluding Russia, between 1926 and 1928 was greater than in any other part of the world and indices of the expansion of internal trade in the Eastern and Central European group for the same period are the highest anywhere, although trade expansion in Europe as a whole is less than in Africa and South America.

The rate of growth of output of raw materials in Europe in the same period is exceeded only by South America. These evidences of the rapid recovery Europe is making are contained, among much other data, in the 1930 edition of the League's memorandum on production and trade released today. Other developments shown in this voluminous survey of the state of the world follow:

North America set new records in production and trade in 1928 but the rate of advance in both since 1926 was slower than in Europe. Industrial production in Canada and the United States show continuous progress in 1928 and most of 1929, toward the end of which production dropped there as elsewhere.

South America is the most rapidly growing continent, its production of foodstuffs and raw materials growing between 1924 and 1928 faster than anywhere else and trade devoloping at an almost equal rate. This progress, however, appears not to have been maintained in 1929.

African production is growing slowly but its trade rapidly. Asian production also is mounting slowly but its trade declined, both in 1927 and 1928. Oceania remained about stationary in both respects.

In recent years the world production of foodstuffs increased at a somewhat slower rate than that of industrial raw materials. The discrepancy was greatly reduced in 1928, due to heavy crops, but was accentuated again in 1929. The data available suggests that manufacturing progressed more rapidly than the production of raw materials. Production in the iron and steel industry, the mechanical industry, including engineering, shipbuilding, automobiles and the electrical industry, appears to have increased 25 per cent between 1925 and 1929. The production of electricity grew one-third between 1925 and 1928. Compared with 1913 prices, manufactured articles, as a group, appear to have remained in 1928 and 1929 relatively higher than those of foodstuffs and raw materials, at least in Europe.

Farm produce appears to have commanded a generally higher price from 1926 to 1928 than the raw products of extractive industries, but this was largely reversed in 1929 by a sharp fall in the prices of cereals and textiles.

Meanwhile, the population of the world between 1926 and 1928 increased 35,000,000, an average of 1 per cent a year. Growth was fastest in South America. Comparing 1928 to 1913, world population is 10 per cent greater, its production of foodstuffs and raw materials 25 per cent greater and its trade 22 per cent greater.

COAL MINES BILL PASSES.

House of Lords Capitulates When Conservatives Desert Leader.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—The MacDonald Government's coal mines bill received final approval by the House of Lords today, but not until the measure which provoked seven months of parliamentary storms had provided a final sensation in a revolt of Conservative peers against their leader, Lord Salisbury.

The latter attempted to vindicate the independence of the upper chamber by moving an amendment which at best would have meant another journey for the bill to the House of Commons and at the worst would have destroyed it. His rank and file, however, wanted to end the long-drawn-out battle and deserted him, his amendment was withdrawn, and the bill now needs only the Royal assent to become a law.

One of its outstanding features is that both the Miners' Trade Union and the Mine Owners' Association are given legal national status and invested with legal obligation in adjusting the hours of work. Parliament for the first time in fact has prescribed the reorganization of one of Britain's great industries and moreover has settled the lines on which the reorganization shall be effected.

The London Times tomorrow will say, "It is a tremendous experiment, but it leaves the industry in control of mine owners, and its success will depend upon their cooperative genius."

KING GEORGE LAUDS CHURCH UNITY AIM

He Tells Anglican Bishops He Hopes Lambeth Conference Will Bring Advance.

STRESSES WAR'S EFFECTS

Ruler, Receiving Delegates at Palace, Emphasizes Need for Truths of the Gospel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—Three hundred Anglican Bishops stood in the scarlet and gold ball room at Buckingham Palace today and heard King George express hopes for the reunion of the Christian churches. At a time when the Lambeth conference is discussing a scheme for church reunion in South India, the King recalled the efforts of the last conference to draw the churches of Christendom more closely together. He expressed a fervent hope that this year's meeting would "result in some notable advance toward this great, desirable end."

The King said he had noticed "with interest" that delegation of Eastern Orthodox prelates had visited Lambeth.

The spiritual shock of the war still troubled men's minds, the King added, and men's old ideals and loyalties were still shattered. Especially at such a time, he said, a great responsibility lay on the leaders of the Church to keep religion before the people.

Welcomes American Bishops.

Among those who heard the King and later shook hands with him were Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, headed by the Presiding Bishop, the Right Rev. James De Wolf Perry. The King was cordial in greeting the American churchmen, saying he found "deep satisfaction" in greeting the Bishops, not only from the British dominions but from the United States.

The American Bishops, it is recalled, are the only delegates at Lambeth not owing allegiance to the British crown.

As soon as the King entered the ballroom the Archbishop of Canterbury read an address expressing the Bishops' "heartfelt devotion."

The Archbishop said:

"We labor in many parts of the world, within as well as without the wide limits of your Majesty's empire, and we have the happiness to include in our fellowship many Bishops from the United States of America.

"During your Majesty's recent protracted and severe illness our intercessions rose from every part of the world for your Majesty's preservation and now, as we hail with profound gratitude your Majesty's wonderful restoration to health and activity, we revere the abounding goodness of God in the answer He has given to our prayers."

Text of King's Address.

> Looking back upon the beginning of this series of Lambeth conferences, it must be a source of pride and thankfulness to reflect what testimony they bear to the growth and development of the Anglican communion. A hundred years ago it was little more than the church of a single kingdom. The present conference is a world-wide gathering of united, though mostly self-governing, churches which has attained the proportions of a general council.
> I remember ten years ago, when I had the pleasure of receiving the sixth Lambeth conference, that the question of the reunion of Christendom was foremost in your thoughts. You put before the world an ideal of unity and a plea for a new endeavor to heal the rents in the fabric of the Church. I am most happy to learn that this appeal has not been fruitless. It is my earnest hope and prayer that the work which your last conference began may prosper and that the deliberations of the present conference may result in some notable advance toward this great desirable end.
>
> Notes Shocks to Old Beliefs.
>
> I learn from your address that the main subjects for your consideration are summed up under the general head, "The Faith and Witness of the Church in This Generation."
>
> The subject has been well chosen and with keen insight into the needs of the present day. The obvious and material damage of the war is not now so manifest as when you last met; the wounds are to some extent scarred over. But men's minds and souls are still troubled by the wounds which the war inflicted and are perplexed by the shocks dealt thereby to their old beliefs and spiritual loyalties.
> At such a time the fathers of the Church do well to take counsel together on how best to bring home to the world of today in ways the most appropriate to the difficulties which beset it, the truths of the everlasting gospel. "God reigns" and I pray His blessing may rest upon your deliberations.

The King's references to church reunion are a new hint that, despite the locked doors of Lambth Palace, the conference is grappling seriously with the problem presented to it by the churches in South India. The Anglican communion there has asked the conference to approve a scheme for uniting with the Presbyterians and Methodists. Upon the terms of the decision, it is pointed out, depends the progress of the church reunion movement elsewhere.

The decisions of the conference will not be made public until after the Lambeth sessions are finished.

2,770,000 JOBLESS IN REICH.

BERLIN, July 23.—According to official statistics 2,770,000 men and women were registered as unemployed on July 15, which was twice the corresponding number last year.

For the first time the maximum Winter figures not only failed to show a recession during the Summer season but have been rising since the end of June.

The largest increase is reported from the Rhenish and Westphalian industrial districts in connection with the continuing of rationalization measures and the reduction of working hours.

DEFENDS HIS SERUM FOR TUBERCULOSIS

HAILED AT PARIS CONGRESS

Tells Biologists "B. C. G." Has Greatly Cut Infant Mortality—Lists 258,000 Inoculations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 23.—Dr. Albert Calmette, whose anti-tuberculosis serum has been challenged by the scientific world, received an ovation when he defended his discovery today in the amphitheatre of the Pasteur Institute, which was crowded by more than 700 delegates and visitors to the International Microbiological Congress, among them a number of world-famous biologists.

To the congress Dr. Calmette declared that he had received information that the tragic affair at Lübeck, Germany, where fifty-seven infants died following tubercular inoculations, was due "to the dreadful disregard of consequences whereby virulent tuberculosis bacilli taken from human cultures had been mixed with the Pasteur Institute's serum, known as B. C. G., composed only of attenuated bacilli from the blood of steers."

Dr. Calmette then reviewed the history of his discovery and gave full statistics to prove that the B. C. G. serum is absolutely inoffensive and that it is impossible to deny that it has a powerful effect in reducing infant mortality.

Answers Objections.

Answering the first of three principal objections raised by biologists to B. C. G., he said that some scientists opposed the use of living bacilli. But all accepted vaccines, he insisted, including those for rabies and smallpox, utilized living bacilli, and he declared that vaccines made with dead bacilli had proved ineffective and of short duration.

Other biologists had objected that vaccination could not be accomplished through the digestive tract, to which Dr. Calmett replied that the unhappy incident at Lübeck had given striking proof of inoculations in this manner.

Finally Dr. Calmette showed that even in cases where animals which had been inoculated with his serum showed a reaction to the tuberculin test they invariably resisted inoculation with the disease. The B. C. G. serum, he said, according to statistics, gave immunity from six months to five years.

Dr. Calmette gave impressive figures to show that B. C. G. was completely inoffensive and only indirectly referred to the controversy on this subject which has been aired before the Academy of Medicine.

"Investigators throughout the world have been unable to make B. C. G. resume the virulence removed by the attenuation to which it is subjected," he said. "But some others, whom I will not name, contend that B. C. G. was created in animals' lesions from which they had taken virulent bacilli. To these I reply that the experiment was either badly done or its results were misinterpreted.

The First Experiment.

"The first experiment with B. C. G. was performed at the Charité Hospital in Paris in 1924 on a child of tubercular parents destined to be brought up in tubercular surroundings. The success of this test resulted in its use during the next two and a half years, but only on children exposed to tuberculosis, 300 of whom were inoculated and all of whom escaped infection.

"From then on a campaign was carried on in French medical circles to have all children inoculated, and since 1924 258,000 babies in France and other countries have been inoculated with B. C. G. without accident."

Dr. Calmette then cited figures from France, Sweden, Bulgaria, Rumania and Alsace showing a marked reduction in infant mortality. In concluding he made a plea for general adoption of the serum and that it be administered within forty-eight hours after birth for all children.

"The question is whether you would prefer to permit your child to be exposed to the virulent tuberculosis bacillus, which is unescapable, and let him take a chance against it unprotected, or whether you will administer a serum which is absolutely harmless and will in all probability make him immune from an attack of the virulent bacillus," he declared.

At the conclusion of the address a film showing the preparation of B. C. G. at the Pasteur Institute laboratories was exhibited. The serum must be administered in three doses within ten days after birth, as it cannot be absorbed through the intestines later. Immunity does not begin until after thirty days, which means that every care must be taken in the interval to prevent the child from being exposed to tuberculosis.

The attendance at the congress has far exceeded all expectations and is beyond the facilities provided. Some twenty Americans have been registered, but double that number have now arrived and cannot officially be inscribed. Four languages—French, English, German and Italian—have been authorized for addresses and communications. These reports are often illustrated with moving pictures and stereopticon views, and some are being broadcast.

British Heir Cancels Flight; First Time Weather Stops Him

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—The Prince of Wales was to have flown to Carnarvon to open the Royal Welsh Agricultural Show there today, but the trip was canceled, "owing to adverse weather conditions," an official announcement said.

It is believed here, however, that the Prince may have abandoned his air journey as a result of pressure brought to bear on him following Monday's air disaster which cost six lives.

For many months the Prince has used airplanes to save time on long journeys. At first he flew in a Royal Air Force plane. Then he bought a De Haviland Moth plane, which was recently replaced by the newest type Puss Moth machine.

It is pointed out that today was the first time the Prince has been compelled to abandon a flight owing to weather conditions and that he has previously flown in all sorts of weather.

WORLD SAVANTS OPEN LEAGUE GROUP SESSION

Einstein and Mme. Curie Attend Meeting of the Committee on Intellectual Cooperation.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 23.—Tourists visiting the secretariat of the League of Nations today were treated to the unusual spectacle of seeing Professor Albert Einstein and Mme. Curie sitting chatting together on a bench in the lobby.

Both are members of the League's committee on intellectual cooperation, which opened its annual session this morning under the chairmanship of Professor Gilbert Murray of Oxford University. Mme. Curie was elected one of the vice chairmen.

The score of distinguished scholars attending the meeting includes Vernon Kellogg, secretary general of the National Research Council of the United States; former Premier Paul Painlevé of France, Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose of Calcutta, whose experiments with plants have aroused wide interest, and Professor Tanakadate of Tokyo, who is seeking to get Japan to adopt the Latin alphabet.

The main task before the committee is the reorganization of the intellectual cooperation section of the League with a view to making it more efficient.

in 1899, when Georgiana, at the age of 50, ran away from the country home where the sisters went with their brother every Summer. She appeared alone at the Park Avenue Hotel. He had her committed to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue and then had her pronounced insane by a sheriff's jury. She was later released from a sanitarium when the Supreme Court declared her commitment unconstitutional. She sued her brother for $50,000, but the suit was conciliated out of court and she went back to live in the "House of Mystery."

Two of the sisters, Josephine and Augusta, died before John, whose death occurred in 1915. The administration of his estate revealed that, with the consent of his four surviving sisters, he had carried the titles to all the Wendel property, then valued at about $80,000,000, in his own name. Mary, Georgiana and Ella turned for leadership to their married sister, Mrs. Rebecca Swope, who seemed to them to have enough of their brother's strong will to qualify her as his successor. She thereafter carried the titles to all the property in her own name for her sisters. In 1925 Mary died. Last year Georgiana died.

Death Not Announced.

Last Sunday, surrounded by the precautions against public notice, which her brother had impressed on all his sisters, Mrs. Swope's death at Quogue was not announced, nor was her burial on Tuesday in Trinity Churchyard at 155th Street and Amsterdam Avenue in New York.

At the office of her attorney it was simply conceded that she was dead and that Miss Ella Wendel was now the sole survivor of the first John Wendel and holder of all the property that had absorbed the lives of three generations.

It even absorbed Mrs. Swope's life, although she had left the house at Thirty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue when she married, to live at 249 Central Park West, where she remained after her husband's death in 1924. He left her $90,000, which now becomes part of the Wendel holdings.

Mrs. Swope never dropped any of the ideas of behavior and proper administration of property which had been impressed on the sisters by their brother.

She dressed in old-fashioned clothes, wearing her gray hair pulled straight back under a sailor hat. Her sisters, who never went out, admired her for her daring in going down town three times a week to attend to the administration of the Wendel estate.

They all agreed that there should never be saloons or theatres in their buildings, and the erection of an electric sign on any of their properties was prohibited. They once held up the lease for a building behind the Metropolitan Opera House, where the rental was $1,000,000 a year, until they had obtained guarantees that the first aid kits to be installed in the clothing manufactories of the new building would not contain more than a pint of whisky.

Lived a Frugal Life.

Although Mrs. Swope had $100,000,000 to draw upon, she led a life as frugal as her sister Ella, who is still living in the house at Thirty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue.

The house, which originally cost $5,000, rose to an assessment of $2,000,000; but the Wendel laundry was still hung out in a yard facing Thirty-ninth Street by the same servants, now grown old, who hung it out long ago when neighbors protested that the sight was beneath the dignity of an exclusive avenue. The protesting neighbors departed in time and skyscrapers looked down on the fluttering laundry in a gasoline-poisoned city garden that could no longer support grass.

After dark, when the curious might no longer see her from the surrounding offices, Ella Wendel slipped out to walk with her dog in that garden. But the dog died. Last year the coachman died, and she ordered the horses and old-fashioned closed carriage sold. This year the old brownstone cornices of the house began to crumble and she had them repaired. The front door has not been unbarred or the front windows unshuttered in a quarter century.

Miss Ella Wendel, the last of the family, has slipped in and out the side door of the house during all these years. One by one, her sisters as they died have concentrated the accumulated real estate by transmitting it in their wills with no terms of endearment. There never was any distribution of personal jewelry, for the sisters never bought any; nor of clothing, which in the estate of their brother, John Wendel, was appraised at $10. The remainder of the wills was a precise catalogue of properties, like a surveyor's report. The family had no known charities.

Mrs. Swope's death was certified by Dr. Rodney E. Wyman of West Hampton Beach, L. I., as having been caused by old age and hardening of the arteries. He recorded her as a widow and childless.

HOOVER CONSULTED ON HUSTON'S DELAY

EXPECTED TO SEE CHAIRMAN

Party Leaders Become Anxious as Huston Fails to Resign Two Days After Time Set.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Although administration officials professed confidence that Claudius H. Huston would resign from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee very soon, it was evident today that his failure to do so was causing renewed uneasiness in party circles.

Conferences at the White House this afternoon between President Hoover and party workers were understood to concern the Huston case. Two of the conferees, Joseph R. Nutt of Cleveland, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and James F. Burke of Pittsburgh, general counsel of the committee, both known to be insistent upon Mr. Huston's retirement, called twice upon the President.

After the second meeting, Mr. Nutt left for New York City and the supposition is that he was going there to see Mr. Huston and ascertain his intentions regarding the demand for his retirement as chiarman.

Mr. Burke also left his hotel this afternoon and is believed to have gone to New York on the same mission, probably with Mr. Nutt. It is inferred that the call upon Mr. Huston is to be made the instance of the President.

The outcome of a meeting of officers of the national committee here on July 10 was an announcement by Chairman Huston that he would make no statement on the chairmanship until after the adjournment of the special session of the Senate. Following this meeting he said that he had not been asked to resign and that nobody at the meeting had suggested that he should resign.

Two Days' Wait Stirs Comment.

Since the Senate adjourned on Monday, nothing has come to light to indicate Mr. Huston's intentions with reference to the demand that he retire from the direction of the party's national affairs.

His failure to tender his resignation during the past two days has excited comment in political quarters and aroused considerable discussion as to whether the interpretation placed on his statement was correct.

If anybody has Mr. Huston's confidence as to his intentions, the secret has been guarded well. None of those outstanding Republicans who would be in a position to have knowledge of what Mr. Huston intends to do appears to be able to speak with any certainty on the subject. The riddle remains unanswered.

Besides Mr. Nutt and Mr. Burke, another participant in the White House conference was Walter Hope, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who was very active at the national committee's headquarters on the day the Huston case was considered. They had luncheon with the President, and later in the day Mr. Nutt and Mr. Burke returned for further conversation with the Executive.

Despite the journey of the party workers to New York, it was impossible to learn at national committee headquarters whether Chairman Huston was in that city or where he was. It was said that he might be here tomorrow.

Committee Majority for Retiring.

Out of the speculation due to his failure to make any statement following the adjournment of the Senate, the report was spread that Mr. Huston might call a meeting of the full membership of the national committee or its executive committee to submit his resignation or to have the committee determine whether he should resign.

A canvass of the committee's membership is understood to have shown an overwhelming sentiment in favor of his retirement.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio still appears to be the choice of President Hoover and other party leaders to succeed Mr. Huston as chairman, but only for the period of the Senatorial and Congressional campaigns of this year.

Suggestions that Robert H. Lucas of Kentucky, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, should relieve Senator Fess of many of the acting duties of the chairmanship by becoming chairman of the National Committee's Executive Committee, are reported to have aroused opposition among the so-called Young Guard in the Senate.

This group, dissatisfied with Old Guard leadership, is credited with looking askance at Mr. Lucas because of the suspicion that he is the choice of Senator Watson, party floor leader of the Senate, and other Old Guardsmen.

The keen interest of President Hoover in the Huston case is emphasized by the understanding that the President has designated his close friend and political ally, former Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, as his emissary to see Mr. Huston and learn what his intentions are concerning the National Committee's chairmanship. On account of Mr. Huston's absence from Washington a meeting between Mr. Huston and Mr. Goodrich has not taken place.

School Board Acts to Relieve Shortage of Aviation Teachers

Finding it difficult to recruit teachers of aeronautics for the city's high schools because of a requirement that candidates must have had 480 hours of industrial teacher-training work, the Board of Education at its meeting yesterday recommended to the Board of Examiners the removal of that requirement from the standard qualifications. The action was taken on the request of Harold G. Campbell, associate superintendent in charge of secondary schools, who told of the need for more aeronautics instructors.

"There is need in the high schools at the present time for teachers of aeronautics," said Mr. Campbell. "It has not been possible to find applicants who have the 480 hours' requirement of technical courses required by the by-laws. I conferred with the Assistant Commissioner of Education, who informed me that the State Department is not able to supply applicants with these technical requirements at the present time."

PORT CHESTER CHARTER UP

The committee will submit its draft to the State Legislature next Winter, and if it is approved there the charter will be submitted to the voters at the Spring election.

Mr. Legge did not write the quotations of the present prices of wheat, corn and cotton in the daily market reports, which are neither political nor bunk. These are the record of Mr. Legge's Farm Board's failure to effect the purposes of its creation.

"The body was constituted at President Hoover's request and given a half a billion dollars with which to function for the direct purpose of rescuing the farmer from the economic pit in which he finds himself.

"The bill itself declared that it was for the purpose of placing agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries, and there are no strings to the authority vested in Mr. Legge's board. The conference report of Congress at the time the bill was enacted itself stated the 'Farm Board shall execute the powers vested in it by this act only in such manner as will in the judgment of the board aid to the fullest practicable extent in carrying out the policy above declared.'

"Accordingly, the board started in by dabbling in the wheat market, with the result that no inconsiderable portion of its investment went to fatten the gains of the Chicago grain speculators, who knew more about rigging the market than Mr. Legge and his conferees.

"It took unto itself the function of a market tipster, and advised the farmers not to sell when wheat was $1.25 a bushel, with the result that the farmers still have their wheat, worth much less, or had to sell at considerable loss.

"The bill admittedly was an administration measure. The President sent this word to the Senate: 'I earnestly hope the Congress will enact the conference report and allow us to enter upon the building of a sound agricultural system rather than to longer deprive the farmer of the relief which he sorely needs.' Had the measure been successful, the administration would have claimed and been entitled to the resulting credit.

"It hasn't done the work. The farmer finds himself in a worse predicament than ever. Whether the fault lies in the intrinsic inadequacy of the law, or in the inept execution of its provisions by Mr. Legge and his associates, is immaterial, from the farmer's point of view. He was promised that the government would help him in his struggle and the government has plunged him into greater trouble.

"The farmers who are selling 60-cent wheat to pay for their harvesting machinery are complaining, not the Democratic National Committee or the Democratic orators. There is nothing political in the almost nation-wide censure of the Farm Board and the discrepancy between what it is supposed to do and what it has accomplished, except Mr. Legge's alibi that the strictures on the performance are 'political bunk.'"

WHITE PLAINS Y. M. C. A. DROPS TWO NEGROES

Physician and Dentist Owning Highland Homes Not Renamed to Management Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 23.—Failure of Y. M. C. A. officials here to reappoint Dr. Errold D. Collymore, Negro dentist, and Dr. A. M. Williams, Negro physician, to the management committee of the Negro branch of the institution was announced today by Samuel R. Morsell, the branch's Negro secretary. He expressed the opinion that the men were dropped because of threats by real-estate holders in the Highlands to withdraw their support from the Fall community chest.

Mr. Morsell was recently notified by the Y. M. C. A. board of directors that his services would no longer be required when his contract expires on Sept. 15.

Dr. Collymore and Dr. Williams own homes in the Highlands and Mr. Morsell went to live with the former. A controversy was precipitated, as a result of which the threats were made that unless Mr. Morsell moved out the customary community chest support would not be given.

Frank Gardner Smith, general secretary of the White Plains Y. M. C. A., admitted today that the two Negro professional men had not been reappointed. In explanation Mr. Smith said the committee on management was too cumbersome and that, in addition to the Negroes, two white members were to be dropped, reducing the personnel of the committee to eleven. Dr. Collymore was chairman of the committee and Dr. Williams was secretary.

When he returned here today from the national conference of laymen and secretaries of Negro work of the Y. M. C. A. at Bordentown, N. J., Mr. Morsell said that last Wednesday he was called to the office of a member of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors here and was told he had "failed to do the thing for which I was brought here, namely, to improve relations. I was charged with having caused them, rather, to be further apart than ever."

He added that he was confident that his two friends as well as himself had been dropped "to assure success of the community chest."

SAYS MEXICO BACKS TRADE.

Ortiz Rubio Tells German Commerce Chamber Full Protection Is Offered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 23.—Foreign trade and commerce with Mexico can count upon the fullest protection provided Mexican laws are observed, according to a communication from President Ortiz Rubio to the German Chamber of Commerce here in reply to a memorial on trade in general.

The Presidential notice says:

"I have the pleasure of stating that, since I took office, the stimulation and improvement of commerce have been first considerations in our labors. The present depression of Mexican trade, to which your memorial refers and which is more or less intense among all nations, is under study with the object of finding the most practical means of remedying it.

"To that end I have already held conferences with commercial representatives in this capital and in outside States, and in the future the government will count upon their constant cooperation. My government has the best good-will in the protection of commerce, both foreign and national, on equal terms, always provided the laws are complied with."

CREDIT EASE LAID TO RESERVE BANKS

Mid-Year Review Cites June Purchase of Securities and Discount-Rate Reduction.

BIG CAPITAL EXPORT FALL

$561,000,000 Drop Is Blamed in Part for the World-Wide Recession in Business.

PRIVATE DEBTS SET RECORD

American Citizens' Obligations to Foreigners Jump $400,000,000 in Year to Near $7,500,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—Easier credit conditions, with open-market rates on loans at the lowest level in more than five years, were reported in the midyear review printed in the July Federal Reserve bulletin, issued today.

The reduction of the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from 3 to 2½ per cent on June 20, established a precedent in low Federal Reserve Bank rates, it was noted.

"The principal factor in the decline in the absence of important gold movements or change in the demand for currency," the Bulletin stated, "was a continued policy of ease on the part of the Federal Reserve banks, represented during June by the purchase of $50,000,000 of government securities in the open market, further reductions in Reserve Bank buying rates for bankers' acceptances and further reduction of discount rates at Cleveland, New York and Chicago.

Reserve Bank credits outstanding decreased to $977,000,000 for the week ended June 28, it was noted, $344,000,000 lower than a year ago, while discounts for member banks of $257,000,000 were only $7,000,000 more than one-third of the total a year ago.

The credit outstanding of member banks has been on the increase since February, the bulletin stated, rising in June to a higher level than at any time except during the stock crash last Fall.

"From the middle of May to June 25," it continued, "the increase in the loans and investments of reporting member banks in leading cities amounts to $525,000,000, including for the last half of June an increase in 'all other' loans and for the period as a whole a further substantial growth in loans on securities and in investment."

A striking example of the wide margin of credit of member banks with the Federal Reserve banks, above the needs of the former, also was given in the bulletin, the sum total of borrowing power being placed at $7,600,000,000, although at the end of 1929 "member banks were actually borrowing from Federal Reserve banks less than one-tenth of this amount."

It was pointed out also that the total "is nearly three times as large as the maximum of bills discounted for member banks by the Federal Reserve banks at any one time and more than twice as large as the maximum total of Reserve bank credit in all forms outstanding at any one time, reached in the Autumn of 1920."

Bank Loans Were $57,386,000,000.

The total bank loans outstanding in the United States on March 27, the last check date, according to figures just compiled, were $57,386,000,000. These include 24,223 member and non-member banks of all types.

The most important financial development in the foreign dealings of the United States in 1929 was given as the reduction of $561,000,000 in our net capital export, concerning which the bulletin said:

"For the third time in seven years the year's fluctuation in the United States' net export of capital was above $500,000,000. The change of $550,000,000 in 1924 and that of $514,000,000 in 1927 were both increases, and the effect was, of course, very different from the effect of the decrease of 1929. That decrease was no doubt in part responsible for some of the fiscal and foreign exchange difficulties of certain foreign nations, for some of the world-wide recession of business and for some of the reduction in our merchandise exports during the latter part of the year and early in 1930; it may also have contributed to the world decline in commodity prices.

Gold Flow Was $307,000,000.

"The gold inflow during the fifteen months ended with last October was one major result of this marked decline in our capital exports. The net inflow of gold during that period was $307,000,000, equal to about 3 per cent of the total gold stock of the world.

The bulletin stated that the "most interesting" development in foreign fiscal business in 1929 was the fact that the United States continued not only one of the great creditor nations among the world powers but became the greatest debtor nation in private transactions in history. the private debts of American citizens to foreigners approaching $7,500,000,000, an increase during the year by about $400,000,000.

Anticipating further increases, the board credited this to the appreciation of foreigners for American stocks and bonds.

Treating of the business of the Federal Reserve banks themselves the bulletin gave their net profits in 1929 as $557,000,000, an increase of $50,000,000 over 1928. However, the return of 8.75 per cent onthe banks' capital funds last year was lower than the rate of 8.95 per cent earned in 1928. The gross earnings were said to have been $190,000,000 greater than in 1928. Expenses increased in 1929 by $70,000,000 and losses increased by $78,000,000, the figures indicated.

Credit Situation Was Reflected.

The development of ease during the past eight months, the bulletin said, had been largely a reflection of changes in the credit situation.

"The more important of these changes," it added, "have been accession of funds to the money market during a period through (1) purchase by the Reserve banks of $440,000,000 in United States Government securities, (2) in flow of money from circulation, partly seasonal, in the amount of $325,000,000, and (3) an increase of $145,000,000, through gold imports from abroad, in the monetary gold stock of the country.

"Member bank borrowings at the Reserve banks decreased by $585,000,000 from the week ended Oct. 26, 1929, to the week ended June 28, 1930, without any decrease in member bank reserve balances. Member bank borrowings at $257,000,000 were accordingly $750,000,000 lower than a year earlier and at the lowest level sinc early in 1925, while their reserve balances were $67,000,000 higher than a year ago.

"While liquidation of member-bank credit proceeded rapidly from November to the end of February, member banks in leading cities have increased their loans and investments since Feb. 26 by more than $1,100,000,000, covering for this latter period a growth of $845,000,000 in their loans on securities and $505,000,000 in their investments and a decrease of $215,000,000 in 'all other' loans. * * *

Security Loans Fell in June.

"During this sante period security loans made by non-banking lenders to brokers in New York City declined by about $700,000,000 * * * In consequence * * * the total volume of all loans outstanding on securities appears to have been slightly lower at the end of June than it was in February and at the lowest level in more than a year.

"Until the middle of June, as in earlier months, there was no increase, but a continued decrease, in 'all other' loans of member banks in leading cities. * * *

"The decline in 'all other' loans from the peak in November, 1929, to June, 1930, amounted to $1,500,000,000. * * *

"The upturn of $170,000,000 in 'all other' loans from June 11 to June 25, coming at a time when commerce and industry were still relatively inactive and commodity prices were still moving downward, appears to have been connected, as in the case of the increase in these loans at the end of last October, with coincident weakness in the security markets. At the end of June 'all other' loans at $8,570,000,000 were $570,000,000 lower than a year ago and $350,000,000 lower than two years ago."

Refering to holdings of investments, the bulletin said:

"The increase for member banks in leading cities has been almost continuous since the middle of March, when the money market was for a few days exceptionally easy and amounted in the period from March 12 to June 25 to $550,000,000. The increase since last October, when the investment portfolio of these banks was at the lowest level since early in 1927, has approximated $690,000,000, bringing the total to the highest level in more than a year."

A study of statistics was said to have shown that New York banks began increasing their investments during the stock slump last Fall, while banks in other leading cities did not begin to do so until the end of 1929.

"From December until March," it was added, "the New York banks were sellers of investments, and it is only since the middle of March that both groups have been expanding their holdings. In June the investments of the New York banks were at the highest level on record, while those of the reporting member banks outside of New York City, although higher than a year ago, were still about $300,000,000 below their peak early in 1929."

Sheeran Made Hubbard's Secretary.

William J. Sheeran of 406 West 124th Street was appointed yesterday secretary to H. Warren Hubbard, Commissioner of Public Works, by Borough President Julius Miller. Mr. Sheeran, who for eight years has been a bonding clerk in the Sheriff's ofifce, succeeds Frank L. Prendergast, who resigned on July 15 after five years' service to become Director of Public Relations of the Fox Film Corporation. The salary of the position is $4,700 a year.

KILLING OF BUCKLEY AROUSES DETROIT

ley's chair, whipped out pistols and opened fire on him. Then they fled.

Eleven bullets entered Buckley's body, six of them in the back of his head within an area of four inches.

Other bullets struck him in the neck, leg and foot. The wounded man was rushed to a hospital, but died soon after reaching there.

As soon as word of the murder was flashed to Police Headquarters every available detective in the city was assigned to the case.

Miss O'Hara, who was questioned by the police, said she had noticed on several occasions recently that Buckley appeared uneasy, as if some one were shadowing him. He never entered a taxicab, she said, without first carefully scrutinizing the driver, and before he got out of a cab he looked carefully up and down the street.

"I cannot understand," Miss O'Hara said, "why he should have remained sitting in the lobby, especially reading a paper which he had already seen."

A report that Buckley had received a telephone call from a woman earlier in the evening was checked by the police. The call, they found, came from Miss O'Hara. But they also learned that Buckley had been seen talking to a woman about 1 A. M. and had been heard to tell her that he would meet her in about an hour. This woman, the police believe, was used as a decoy by the gangsters to get Buckley into the lobby.

City Offers Reward.

As soon as the City Council met this morning it offered a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension of Buckley's slayers. At the same time the Council served notice on Police Commissioner Wilcox that it will demand reinstatement, at least in an advisory capacity, of police executives who were put on the retired list soon after Mayor Bowles took office. Among these executives the Council named former Superintendent of Police James Sprott, former Deputy Superintendent Edward Fox and former Chief of Detectives James E. McCarthy.

In announcing the reward, President John C. Nagel of the City Council said:

"The slaying was not the work only of the men who did the shooting. They were just killers. But there was some one else behind them who hired them to do the shooting."

Mayor Bowles, who had been the butt of many attacks made by Buckley over the radio, said that the murder was "a terrible thing" and urged Police Commissioner Wilcox to do everything in his power to find the persons responsible.

While detectives were questioning guests and employes of the hotel, they found a man acting suspiciously in one of the elevators and took him into custody. He said he was Angelo Levecchio and admitted that he was awaiting trial in Rochester, N. Y., in connection with a payroll hold-up there. Upon communicating with the Rochester police the detectives learned that Levecchio had been released in $10,000 bail. They held him for further questioning. A second material witness also was taken into custody, but police declined to reveal his name or to discuss his connection with the case.

Meanwhile, Governor Green at Holland had learned of the murder. He immediately ordered a National Guard plane placed at his disposal. Then he telephoned to Colonel John S. Bersey, Adjutant General of the State, at Camp Grayling, and Oscar G. Olander, State Commissioner of Public Safety, at Lansing, and asked them to meet him in Detroit as soon as possible.

Colonel Bersey arrived here by plane almost at the same time as the Governor. Police Commissioner Wilcox and other city officials and Captain Don Leonard of the Michigan State Police met them at the airport. After a brief conference they drove into the city.

Governor Green told Captain Leonard that he wanted the State police to investigate the Buckley murder independently of the city authorities. It was then that he announced that he was prepared if necessary to "call out the State militia to stop these cold-blooded assassinations."

Commissioner Wilcox told the Governor that the city police would use the mailed fist from now on where gangsters were concerned, and promised that Detroit would see the greatest cleaning out of criminals in the city's history.

Prosecuting Attorney James E. Chenot expressed the opinion that Buckley had been "put on the spot." He saw in the statements of Mr. Gedge and Miss O'Hara evidence that Buckley had fears for his life, and said he believed that Buckley had been pointed out to his killers as he sat in the chair in the lobby.

Was Investigator for Ford.

Buckley began radio broadcasting about two years ago. Prior to that time he had worked as an investigator for Henry Ford in the Newberry case and later as an investigator of Ford interests for the United States Government. He was the first radio announcer in Detroit to attack the city administration, and many city politicians credit him with having been more instrumental than any other agency in bringing about the Mayor's defeat.

But along with these attacks on the administration and his "inside" stories of alleged collusion between public officials and the underworld, he campaigned for old-age pensions, jobs for unemployed, and other humanitarian causes. Last Winter he obtained jobs for hundreds of men out of work. His friends say that he received an offer of $25,000 recently to "lay off" the recall campaign and aid the anti-recall forces.

The campaign to have Mayor Bowles recalled began after his return from the Kentucky Derby last May. During his absence at the Derby, Harold H. Emmons, a prominent attorney and business man, whom the Mayor had made Police Commissioner, authorized a sweeping series of raids on race track handbook agencies, against which a newspaper crusade had been waged for weeks. The Mayor discharged Mr. Emmons.

Thousands of voters in the city, charging that Mayor Bowles had "tolerated lawlessness" and "ousted Commissioner Emmons for enforcing the law," organized a campaign. Recall petitions were drawn up and a special election ordered.

Despite his defeat in the election, Mayor Bowles and his supporters are confident of his re-election. Although they do not think the time allotted them for campaigning adequate to overcome the unfavorable publicity of the last seven months, they are heartened by the announcement of Walter B. Cary, chairman of the Recall Committee, that his committee, having accomplished its purpose of "rebuking an unfaithful administration," will drop the fight.

GIVES BOWDOIN $500,000.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis Provides Fund for Faculty Salaries.

Special to The New York Times.

BRUNSWICK, Me., July 23.—Following the announcement this afternoon of an unconditional gift of $500,000 to Bowdoin College by Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the Philadelphia publisher, President Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin this evening stated that this was the largest single gift, with the exception of several legacies, ever received by the college.

The gift, which will be in the form of securities, will be added to the permanent funds of the college, and the income, amounting to about $35,000 a year, will be used for faculty salaries at the discretion of the boards.

ASKS POLAND TO ALTER POLICY TOWARD JEWS

Memorandum of Parliamentary Club There Points to Evils of 'Economic Oppression.'

The text of a memorandum sent to the Polish Government demanding a change in the economic policy of Poland as it affects the Jews was received in New York yesterday and made public through the Allied Jewish Campaign, 415 Lexington Avenue. The memorandum, signed by members of the Jewish Parliamentary Club of Poland, including Deputies Grunbaum and Hartglass and Senators Davidson and Koerner, was sent to Premier Walery Slawek.

Describing the grave economic situation of the Jews in Poland, the memorandum places responsibility for it upon the "economic oppression" of the government and calls for necessary relief steps for the sake of the prestige of the government as well as of the Jews.

The Jews of America, the memorandum continues, have contributed more than $27,000,000 for the relief of Jews in Poland, and had it not been for this aid the Jews of Poland would have been "strangled by their poverty and the oppression of the government."

The policy of the government, the memorandum declares, has been to expel Jews from various activities and fill their places with others, and in addition it charges the government has set up monopolies and deprived of employment tens of thousands of Jewish workmen associated with private Jewish industrial establishments.

3 Die in Auto Plunge as Driver Nods

VALDOZENDO, Portugal, July 23 (AP).—Overcome by long driving, the chauffeur of a motor bus carrying passengers to the Spanish frontier dozed for a moment at the wheel of his car today and the machine plunged into a ravine thirty feet deep. Three passengers were killed. The driver and two other passengers are in a serious condition.

The Label Smart Women would rather have on their furs than any other is "RUSSEKS"

When a fur garment bears the Russeks label it bears the name that means more in furs than any other name in America.

It identifies that fur garment as one of authentic fashion—rare distinction—fine character—and regal beauty. It means that it came from one of the largest—and, of course, one of the finest—fur collections in the world.

And beginning next Monday, July 28th, the August Fur Sale of Russeks will offer the outstanding Fur Fashions for the Winter season 1930 and 1931 at prices exactly 20 per cent less than Winter prices.

MAYOR OPENS RADIO TO HARBORD REPLY

THOMAS MAKES 7 CHARGES

Socialist Leader Also Asks for Air Hook-Up to Discuss Them—Walker Invites Inquiry.

Mayor Walker promised last night that Major Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the Republican Advisory Committee of New York County, could use WNYC, the municipal radio station, at any time he chose to answer the Mayor's radio speech of last Monday night, and plans were started immediately by Irwin Kurtz, head of the Republican Speakers' Bureau, to get the party's reply on the air.

General Harbord, who is president of the Radio Corporation of America, was reported lukewarm yesterday morning toward the idea of answering the Mayor's statements. After conferences during the day with Samuel S. Koenig, president of the Republican County Committee, and William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican State Committee, it was reported that he had agreed to reply to the Mayor's defense of his administration.

Mr. Kurtz said he would try to arrange the event for Thursday or Friday of next week, and would seek to use all the stations that broadcast the Mayor's speech also. Up to a late hour last night, however, the Republicans had made no definite announcement. It was expected that some statement would be forthcoming today.

Mr. Koenig said at his Summer home in Asbury Park that nothing definite had resulted from his talk with General Harbord.

It was evident that there was considerable annoyance in Republican circles over the premature publication of the plan to challenge Mayor Walker's statements. If the plans mature, it is expected the answer will be broadcast from the National Republican Club toward the end of next week, with the identical radio hook-up used by Mayor Walker.

Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for Mayor and a prospective Socialist candidate for Governor, also sought yesterday to use WNYC, WJZ and WOR to discuss the City Administration with particular references to seven charges he outlined. His request was made too late in the day to be submitted to the Mayor. He itemized the subjects he wished to discuss as follows:

"Board of Standards and Appeals, in which the Mayor kept his friend Chairman Walsh in office long after the Doyle revelation. He tried to forestall the inquiry he has at last made by the ridiculous business of appointing sixteen citizens, some of whom did not know they were appointed, to pass on the functions of the board in the abstract.

"Gross inequalities due to political favoritism in property assessments by the Mayor's tax board.

"Sale on a more or less fixed scale of various permits by the Building Department or its inspectors.

"Conditions on the magistrates' bench, which have brought an almost universal cynicism concerning justice. The removal of Vitale and the resignation of Ewald did not go to the root of matters. Other magistrates of notorious reputation are still on the bench.

"The Mayor's appointment of Messrs. Geraghty and Hubbard in view of the previous records in connection with these gentlemen was a cynical defiance of decent public opinion. So has been his procrastination in going to the root of the dock lease got by Judge Vause with the approval of his Dock Department and Sinking Fund Commission.

"During the Winter of terrific unemployment the Mayor's administration had no program of relief and voted no aid, although it voted itself and its favorite politicians two salary grabs.

"The administration of the Police Department has seen repeated offenses against civil liberty, a continuance of the third degree, but no marked success in dealing with racketeers and gangsters."

In his letter to the radio stations Mr. Thomas said he wished to discuss aspects of a problem that the Mayor had overlooked and which were not likely to be covered adequately from the Socialist standpoint by any Republican speaker.

Mayor Walker denied that his speech last Monday was designed to block the Republican request for an extra legislative session to consider an investigation of New York City.

"I've always said that if the Legislature wanted to come down here and investigate the City Administration, I would welcome them," the Mayor declared. "I would welcome any investigation that was honest, but I do not welcome any political fishing expedition.

"So far as I am concerned, General Harbord can use the city radio station as my guest at any time he chooses. I have never used it for political purposes and I never will—but for the good name of the city of New York I will use it at any time."

ENGLISH FLIER KEEPS LEAD

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 23.—Major Butler, an Englishman flying alone far ahead of the pack, again headed the tiny planes of the around-Europe fliers as the leaders swept over Spain today.

Mr. Andrews, an Englishman, reported missing between Saragossa and Madrid last night, and Mm. Kornaz and Peoret, flying a French plane, turned up here this morning, explaining they had run out of gasoline last night and made a forced landing. The Frenchmen slept in their plane.

England had three pilots among the five to complete today's leg—Major Butler, Mr. Thorn and Mr. Broad. The Spanish Archduke Hapsburg, after being lost near Pamplona, re-entered the flight today. Twelve planes were in Madrid tonight for the first time, twelve had reached Seville, eleven had returned from Seville, seven had left Madrid for Saragossa and the leading five had reached Barcelona.

TAXBOARD INCLUDED IN HIGGINS INQUIRY

today, except that we are going over the books of the Board of Standards and Appeals and the Dock Department," Commissioner Higgins said. "As yet I've had no conference with District Attorney Crain, District Attorney Brower of Brooklyn or United States Attorney Tuttle, and no conferences between us have been arranged."

Commissioner Higgins conferred with the Mayor last night at City Hall and referred the demand for the calling of Mr. Kurtz to him. It was settled that Mr. Kurtz would be called, but no time for the issuance of a subpoena was fixed. Mr. Kurtz left for the seashore last night and will be out of the city until Monday.

Asked whether the investigations into the two departments had been narrowed down to the scrutiny of specific pier leases or decisions of the Board of Standards and Appeals, the Mayor said Commissioner Higgins was examining the records of both departments on a broad scale. Mayor Walker said he would not direct the investigation in any way, because he wanted it made as thorough as possible. Asked whether the request made by Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for Mayor, for an investigation into the paving of seven streets in Arverne, Queens, would be granted, the Mayor said that matter could be settled between Mr. Thomas and Borough President Harvey.

Thomas Assails Inquiry.

Mr. Thomas wrote to Mr. Higgins yesterday repeating his demand for an investigation of the paving of these streets, which, he contended, was done without authority. In another statement Mr. Thomas said that the Higgins investigation should belong to the "white-washers' union."

Mr. Thomas, in his letter to Commissioner Higgins, characterized Borough President Harvey's reply to his charges as a "confession and not an answer."

"It is clearly a matter of law and justice for the Bureau of Highways to repair and maintain highways and to save money if it can legitimately," Mr. Thomas said. "It has no right on its own responsibility to pave or repave streets. It has no right even to repair streets covered by the five-year clause in contracts with the firms that have built them. It is rumored—although I cannot prove this—that this clause has been ignored in Queens.

"This irregular action by the Highway Department, which apparently President Harvey acknowledges, opens wide the door to graft and favoritism. For instance, Swan Place, a short street, is paved while its companion street is unpaved. Why this discrimination? I now address two inquiries to you. I believe some time ago you had complaints concerning the paving situation in Queens. What have you done about them? Second, is it not the duty of your office to take cognizance of the irregular practice which my investigator reported and which President Harvey apparently admits, even though I cannot lay before you affidavits charging graft in the selection of streets to be repaved."

Klein Replies to Thomas.

Replying to the Thomas charges, Irving Klein, Queens Superintendent of Highways, invited Mr. Thomas to make a personal inspection of Queens streets and said the paving of seven streets was repaving instead of original paving.

"Regarding the so-called unauthorized work, it was authorized under the City Charter as repaving and not paving," Mr. Klein said. "This is not the first time that politicians have criticized the Harvey administration, but it is the first time that a public official has been accused of doing too much work. I consider the charge made by Mr. Thomas as a high compliment.

"The work classed as paving by Mr. Thomas is really a new and highly effective method of repaving. Instead of continuing the old slipshod method of patching holes, we resurface the street with a covering of asphalt. The repairs last longer and are less costly to taxpayers. We are not paving dirt roads, but are repaving roads classed under the City Charter as paved thoroughfares that are required to be repaved without assessment."

John J. Halleran, Acting Borough President of Queens, said he would not reply to the Thomas letter until he received it. He added, however, that Mr. Thomas's position as a candidate for the Socialist nomination for Governor "does not privilege him to make unqualified charges, nor does it make him immune from any action we may take as the result of such charges."

Three civic organizations in the Rockaways, the Chamber of Commerce of the Rockaways, the Rockaway Beach Board of Trade and the Far Rockaway Board of Trade issued statements yesterday defending Mr. Klein's policy.

They asserted that the work was necessary to afford access to traffic arteries such as the Beach Channel Drive and Rockaway Beach Boulevard. They said that more work has been accomplished in their section under the Harvey administration than in many years past.

Mayor Walker said the Commissioner of Accounts had about seventy-five investigators, of whom twelve are now working on the Dock Department and Appeals Board inquiries. He said as soon as Commissioner Higgins requested more help he would receive it, but declared that most of the additional help would be employed only temporarily. In addition to the two special investigations the Commissioner of Accounts is proceeding with the regular yearly audits of the accounts of other city departments.

The Mayor's committee of fifteen appointed to survey the rules and procedure of the Appeals Board postponed its meeting scheduled for 9:30 this morning in City Hall until July 29 at the same time. Each member of the committee is expected to appear with suggestions as to the scope of the investigation, which will be determined at the meeting.

CRASHES ON FLIGHT HERE.

Major Eckerson, on Trip From Portland, Ore., in Hospital at Butte.

BUTTE, Mont., July 23 (AP).—A possible fractured skull and face cuts were suffered by Major Gilbert H. Eckerson, who crashed thirty-three miles southeast of Butte last night while attempting an airplane flight from Portland, Ore., to New York. The plane was wrecked.

Brought to a hospital here today, Major Eckerson said he did not know how the accident occurred. He fixed the time at about 11 P. M. and said he recovered consciousness about 9 A. M. today when he was found by Elsie Pogoson, 19-year-old ranch girl.

HOP TO LITTLE ROCK IS WON BY GELBACH

HOSLER IS HURT IN CRASH

Detroit Pilot Suffers Possible Spine Fracture as Plane Is Wrecked in Attempted Take-Off.

Special to The New York Times.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 23.—Little Rock got a double thrill out of the stop here today of the planes participating in the all-American air derby when the Little Rock entry, the Little Rocket, came in first on the jump from Cincinnati and regained its lead in the race from Detroit.

The planes will get away tomorrow morning for Houston.

The Little Rocket, piloted by Lee Gelbach, landed at the municipal airport at 11:56 A. M., having made the flight from Cincinnati in 3 hours 54 minutes and 54 seconds. He now leads his nearest rival by 25 minutes. He stopped today at Evansville, Ind., where he lost 11 minutes in refueling.

Herman Hamer, La Salle, Ill., who led Tuesday on the New York-to-Cincinnati lap, came in fifth, taking 4 hours 34 minutes and 47 seconds for the trip.

Following Gelbach in landing were Stub Quinby, Moline, Ill., 4 hours 12 minutes and 36 seconds; J. P. Wedell, New Orleans, 4 hours 15 minutes 46 seconds; Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Ill., 4 hours 30 minutes 34 seconds.

Hamer Has Engine Trouble.

Hamer said he had had motor trouble and had been forced to land about fifty miles from Little Rock. He was down eleven minutes.

The sixth man in was Stanley Stanton, Wichita, Kan. His time was 4 hours 46 minutes and 31 seconds.

Seventh was Charles Myers, Cleveland, with an elapsed time of 4 hours 53 minutes 37 seconds.

Tenth to arrive was W. H. Cahill, Cleveland.

John Kruttschnitt, San Mateo, Cal., and H. H. Holladay, Los Angeles, fell behind the other fliers and did not leave New York until this morning.

Hosler's Plane Is Demolished.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 23 (AP).—R. A. Hosler, Detroit, was injured today and his plane was demolished when he crashed while attempting to take off on the Cincinnati-Little Rock leg of the race.

Airport men said Hosler placed five extra gallons of gasoline in his cockpit and that this weight evidently threw his plane off balance. The plane careened down the runway and crashed from only a short distance in the air.

The flier was taken to General Hospital. He was conscious when reached by field attendants.

Hospital attendants said he had suffered a possible slight fracture of the spine near the neck.

Smith Resumes Flight.

READING, Pa., July 23 (AP).—B. B. Smith of Portland, Ore., en route from Roosevelt Field to Cincinnati in the air derby, was forced down last night near Windsor Castle, when engine trouble developed. Repairs were made during the night, and this morning the cross-country flight was resumed.

1 1-5 Billion Gallons of Water Used in Day Sets City Record

The city used more water last Monday than ever before in one day, it was anounced yesterday by John J. Dietz, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, who put the consumption at 1,200,000,000 gallons. This consumption was more than 300,000,000 gallons greater than on the same date a year ago.

It is believed by officials of the department that the record resulted from hundreds of home owners operating automatic sprinklers on their lawns, a practice against the rules of the department. At the same time it was found that throughout the city many hydrants had been turned on by boys to enable them to cool off, and in most instances these hydrants were left running.

FOKKER CHANGES OFFICERS.

J. M. Schoonmaker Jr. Succeeds H. M. Hanshue as President.

Changes in the officers of the General Aviation Corporation and its manufacturing unit, the Fokker Aircraft Company, were announced yesterday by James A. Talbot, chairman of the board of the company.

Harris M. Hanshue, Mr. Talbot said, has resigned as president of the company to devote his full time to the affairs of Western Air Express and affiliated airlines. Mr. Hanshue will continue as a director of General Aviation and the Fokker company.

William T. Whalen, vice president and general manager of the Fokker company, has resigned to return to General Motors.

James M. Schoonmaker Jr. succeeds Mr. Hanshue as president of the General Aviation Corporation and president and general manager of the Fokker company. Mr. Schoonmaker was chief engineer of the Dayton-Wright Company during the war. Since then he has been associated with the Standard Steel Spring Company of Pittsburgh and the General Motors aircraft engineering and experimental staff in Detroit.

SOLO FLIGHT NEXT VENTURE

Famous Flier Hopes to Go to Australia From London in Less Than 15 Days in Small Plane.

Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of the Southern Cross, and John W. Stannage, radio operator, said good-bye to New York and the United States last night. They had obtained last minute accommodations on the Europa, sailing at midnight.

They will go directly to Amsterdam from Hamburg and from there to London, where the Australian conqueror of the globe by air will make speedy preparations for another long flight, this time alone in a small plane. He hopes to fly from London to Australia in less than fifteen days, cutting the present solo record held by Bert Hinckler. Stannage, when he arrives in London, will go to work on a small emergency radio set for the plane.

Saul Waits to See Brother.

Captain J. Patrick Saul, navigator of the Southern Cross, who had intended to sail with his two comrades, decided yesterday to remain in New York until tomorrow. His brother William is first engineer on the Furness-Bermuda liner Bermuda, and by staying over Captain Saul will be able to see his brother while the Bermuda is in port here.

The three fliers spent yesterday arranging for passports, answering letters and saying good-bye to friends. Since they arrived at Roosevelt Field on June 26 in the Southern Cross they have flown nearly 7,000 miles, crossing the United States twice and making several hops between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Kingsford-Smith said the Southern Cross would remain at the aviation field of Captain G. Allen Hancock in Santa Maria, Cal., for the present. The famous plane is for sale. Among possible purchasers are the cities of San Francisco and Oakland. The world flight started from Oakland air port on May 31, 1928.

Captain Evert Van Dyk, co-pilot of the Southern Cross on its Atlantic and transcontinental flights, sailed last Friday for his home in Holland, where he is connected with the Fokker Company and the KLM Air Lines.

Captain Saul will go directly to Dublin to resume his real estate and building business. Stannage expects to do experimental work in aircraft radio. His home is in Leicestershire at present, although he came from New Zealand. Kingsford-Smith is to be married soon after he returns to Sidney. Then he will give his attention to the air transport line, Australian Airways, in which he is interested with Charles Ulm, his partner on the Pacific flight.

"We have all had a very good time in America," Kingsford-Smith said yesterday. "We have seen much of interest and we certainly feel that we have learned a lot about flying. It is a mistake to say that flying in Europe is further advanced than it is here. I have never seen finer airports than those at which we stopped on our flight west."

ENDURANCE FLIERS PASS 72-HOUR MARK

Reichers and Black Make Four Successful Refueling Contacts During the Day.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 23.—Steadily following the course above the flying fields clustered about this vicinity and making four successful refueling contacts during the day, Louis Reichers and Robert Black passed the seventy-two-hour mark tonight at 8:34 o'clock toward the 553-hour record set on July 4 by the Hunter brothers at Chicago. Throughout the day the grind was uneventful and the plane flew its triangular route at an even altitude.

The plane received fifty gallons of gasoline, ten of oil and newspapers and breakfast in the first contact at 5:45 o'clock this morning. At noon another sixty gallons of fuel and five of oil was transferred with lunch for the two fliers and at 5:30 P. M. dinner, sixty-five more gallons of gasoline, five gallons of lubricant, letters and evening papers were passed to the red-winged Stinson monoplane. At 8 o'clock the final refueling took place for the night with fifty gallons of fuel.

John S. Donaldson and Philip Watson, pilots of the refueling plane, reported that the fliers were bearing up well and that the endurance plane and its engine were functioning perfectly. Making contacts was slightly difficult at noon when the air was a little bumpy, they said.

Meanwhile nothing further developed concerning the re-entrance of the green-winged sister ship of the Stinson into the flight. Forced down last Monday when its pilot, Tex Anding, became violently ill, it has been standing in the hangar ready to start as soon as its other pilot, Jack Charleson, obtains a new partner. Anding was reported as doing well at the Nassau Hospital, where he was taken after landing.

COSTE READY TO START WHEN WEATHER IS GOOD

French Aviator Says No More Test Flights Will Be Made for Paris-New York Attempt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 23.—Captain Dieudonné Coste announced tonight that no more test flights in his plane, the Question Mark, were necessary, and that the start for New York would be made with the first favorable change in weather.

The plane may be transferred from Villacoublay to Le Bourget tomorrow.

PARIS, July 23 (AP).—Captain Coste today told W. E. Easterwood of Dallas, Texas, who has offered a prize of $25,000 for the extension of the Paris-New York flight to Dallas, that he planned to follow the Northern route in "forcing a westward air passage of the Atlantic."

Mr. Easterwood, addressing the Anglo-American Press Association today, said that he had arranged the Dallas prize because he wanted to promote aviation. All Americans, he added, earnestly hope that Captain Coste will succeed in returning the visit made by Colonel Lindbergh to Paris.

A high official of the French Weather Bureau told The Associated Press correspondent this afternoon that unless Captain Coste started by Saturday, it was in his opinion extremely unlikely that the aviator could take off for America before another fortnight.

Whenever the Atlantic weather conditions are deemed suitable, he said, the Weather Bureau will notify the aviator.

FORCED LANDING HALTS WESTBURY FOURSOME

Golfers Flee as Test Plane Taxies Across the Green—Damage Put at $10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 23.—An airplane in search of a landing spot interrupted a foursome gathering around the eleventh hole on the links of the Old Westbury Golf Club, adjoining this field this afternoon. No one was hurt, but the plane was seriously damaged.

Paul Boyd, Curtiss-Wright test pilot, flying a twin-motored Curtiss Kingbird, a cabin monoplane, was coming in for a landing at Roosevelt Field. Boyd had been testing variable pitch propellers, it was said later, and found that they were not working well. He started his glide to a landing, after cutting both engines, coming in from the south over the golf course. The pilot realized after a second or two that he would not make the field, so he swung about to seek a landing on the golf course.

Participants in the foursome near Hole 11 saw the big plane coming at them and fled. Boyd landed on the green, rolled across, just touched a bunker and then bounded to the fairway leading to the next hole.

The landing gear, one motor and both propellers were damaged. The wreck was removed to the Garden City plant of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, where the damage was estimated at $10,000.

Two Die in Nebraska Air Crash.

LEXINGTON, Neb., July 23 (AP).—Pilot May, 20, and Fred Taylor, 21, both of Lexington, were killed tonight when the airplane they had borrowed from Glen Morton of Grand Island burst into flames and fell in a field near here.

3 PUBLISHERS HELD IN 'LEWD' BOOK SALE

DEFEND WORK AS CLASSIC

Anthropological Society Head Is One of Accused—Complaint of a Parent Inspired Action.

John S. Sumner of the Society for the Suppression of Vice caused the appearance in the west side magistrate's court yesterday of three book publishers associated with printing and selling a work which Mr. Sumner characterized as "lewd" and which its sponsors described as "a classic of mediaeval literature." The three are charged with spreading vice.

The work bears the title "One Hundred Merrie and Delightsome Stories" and is said to be a compilation of stories current several centuries ago in the court of Louis XI. It is published by Alfred C. Risdon, president of the American Anthropological Society, Inc., 45 West Forty-fifth Street. Dingwall Rock, Ltd., book publishers, of the same address, undertook to sell copies to their subscribers during the past three months. Sidney J. Abelson, sales manager, and Adam Dingwall, head of the latter concern, were arrested together with Mr. Risdon on Mr. Sumner's charge of violating the section of the penal law forbidding the sale of indecent literature.

The arrests were made following a visit to the offices of Dingwall Rock, Ltd., by Detective William Wittenberg of Chief Inspector John O'Brien's staff. Posing as a wealthy book lover from Long Island, Wittenberg obtained a copy of the two-volume set. He returned two hours later, accompanied by Mr. Sumner and the latter' aide, Charles Bamberger.

Mr. Sumner explained that he was prompted to make the raids by a complaint received from the father of a girl after he had found her reading a circular advertising the books and which he considered indecent. The circular, after giving a list of the 100 stories, describes them as follows: "These stories represent the first complete, unabridged and unexpurgated translation of One Hundred Merrie and Delightsome Stories, an extraordinary work revealing the manners and morals (or lack of morals) of the Middle Ages."

To Mr. Sumner's charge that "95 per cent of the stories are off-color" the publishers and sellers of the work said that it had been praised by some professors of literature as "an elegant work giving an interesting commentary on the education, recreation and manners of the court of the French kings." Neither Mr. Abelson nor Mr. Dingwall had read the books, they said.

Mr. Risdon declared that the American Anthropological Society, publishers of the work, is "an organization of scholars, medical men, scientists and men of the professions."

Magistrate Burke held the three men in $500 bail for further examination Aug. 13.

Girl Messengers in Bright Uniforms Employed By Postal Telegraph to Promote 'Dignity'

Because the superintendents and owners of some of New York's large office buildings object to boy messengers as too boisterous and think girl messengers add dignity and "atmosphere," girls have been added this week to the messenger force of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation for the first time in New York.

Their advent threatens the supremacy held by boys in this field, for those in charge of the Postal Telegraph messenger service report that girls fare better than boys in the intelligence test to which all messengers are submitted before employment.

The boys need not fear loss of their jobs at present, however, for the girls will not carry packages or telegrams outside, being used only in large office buildings in which special telegraph offices are located, to carry messages within the building.

At present the only building in which girls are employed is the Postum Building at 250 Park Avenue, but it is planned to use them in other buildings in the Grand Central zone.

A special uniform has been designed for the girls, of pale blue, trimmed with red, with a military cape, also trimmed with red. A cap of the tam o' shanter type, somewhat similar to the cap of the French Red Devils, and a Sam Browne belt without shoulder strap complete the military effect of the outfit. Other telegraph companies, it is said, have used girls to a slight extent, but none has equipped them with uniforms.

The Postal Telegraph is beginning to employ girl messengers also in Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago for work within office buildings. Because of a State law here, the girls must be more than 21 years old. They work eight hours a day and carry about 600 telegrams a week.

Uniforms for more girls are being ordered, according to H. M. Davis, supervisor of messengers of the metropolitan division. There is an increasing tendency to equip every large office building with its own telegraph office, and as this is done, the force of girls will grow, he said.

Although one out of every three girl applicants fails in the Otis intelligence test, the girls do better than the boys.

RECESS APPOINTMENT OF ROOSEVELT LIKELY

President Expected to Name Him Vice Governor of Philippines Without Delay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—From all indications President Hoover is prepared to give a recess appointment within the next forty-eight hours to Nicholas Roosevelt of New York, to be Vice Governor of the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Hurley conferred at some length with the President this afternoon, but neither they nor White House attachés would discuss the matter. However, it appeared definitely assured tonight that Mr. Roosevelt would receive the recess appointment, perhaps tomorrow.

President Hoover sent Mr. Roosevelt's name to the Senate for confirmation Monday, the day of adjournment. Meantime, reports of the forthcoming nomination had stirred some influential members of the Philippines Legislature to protest.

Not long before the Senate adjourned Senator Bingham, chairman of the Committee on Territories and Insular Affairs, announced that, because of these objections and of others expressed by the resident Philippine Commissioners, it would be necessary to hold hearings on Mr. Roosevelt's nomination, when Congress convened in December.

It is asserted that only one Democrat had any objection to the nomination.

JOHN L. LEWIS FINED BY ILLINOIS COURT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 23 (AP).—John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, was fined $500 and all remaining defendants in the recent miners' contempt of court case were found guilty today by Circuit Judge Charles Briggle after considering the findings of Master-in-Chancery Trutter.

Mr. Lewis announced he would appeal. He contended during the hearing that the rival Illinois mine union group had abandoned shelter of the injunction which it obtained against him by setting up a dual organization. Judge Briggle ruled that Mr. Lewis had never asked for a modification of the original injunction.

Those found guilty with Mr. Lewis include Frank Hefferly, provisional president; Joseph P. Coett, provisional vice president; John T. Jones, secretary-treasurer, and the twelve provisional district board members.

Sheldon Gets 2½ Years for Theft.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 23.—County Judge Wyman S. Bascom, in part 2 of the Nassau County court imposed today a sentence of from two and one-half to five years in Sing Sing on Joseph L. Sheldon, 40 years old, a salesman of the Marie Antoinette Hotel, Manhattan, who was convicted last Friday of burglary in the third degree and petit larceny. Sheldon was implicated with Natalie Chadwick in the theft of $10,000 worth of furniture from the home of Polly Lux, a former follies girl, from her Atlantic Beach home on Feb. 18.

FALLS TO HIS DEATH FROM HOTEL ROOM

H. L. Wittnebel Drops From 16th Floor of Paramount—Police Verdict Is Suicide.

Herbert L. Wittnebel of 3,475 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, jumped or fell from the window of his room on the sixteenth floor of the Hotel Paramount, 235 West Forty-sixth Street, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. He was vice president of the Commonwealth Color and Chemical Company of Nevins, Butler and Baltic Streets, Brooklyn, and had held this position for the last twenty years.

He registered at the hotel at 7:45 A. M. under the assumed name of A. C. Williams, and because of this it took the police four hours to find the room he had occupied. He had just returned from Troy, N. Y., after a two-weeks business trip. An official of the company said yesterday morning that before his departure he had been under a doctor's care for a slight spinal ailment. But neither the official nor Mrs. Wittnebel, who came to the West Forty-seventh Street police station in the afternoon and identified the body, could give a reason why he should have sought to end his life. They said he had no business, family or financial worries and that his general health was good.

Mrs. Wittnebel was notified of her husband's death at their Summer home at 321 Oceanside Avenue, Belle Harbor, L. I., where she and her husband were spending the Summer with their one child, and to which he had planned to return after his trip.

The body was seen by maids hurtling past the twelfth-floor windows of the hotel. David Stocker, who occupies Room 940, aided the police in eventually finding Mr. Wittnebel's effects in Room 1640 by telling them of seeing a falling shadow pass his window.

The sum of $211, automobile owner's and operator's licenses and membership cards in various fraternal organizations were on the body, which fell to the roof of a three-story extension.

In view of the fact that Mr. Wittnebel had registered at the hotel under an assumed name, the police have listed the case as suicide. Assistant Medical Examiner Raymond B. Miles reported the case as "probably suicide, pending investigation."

PHONE TOLL RATES IN STATE UNDER FIRE

McCULLOH IN STATEMENT

Basic Charge From City to Buffalo Is $1.90, Against $1.30 From Buffalo to Newark, Schedules Show.

The Public Service Commission will investigate the intrastate toll rates charged by the New York Telephone Company as a result of complaints concerning the difference in toll call rates between points within the State and those between points in New York and points outside the State, it was announced yesterday. Hearings will start before Milo B. Maltbie, chairman of the commission, at 120 Broadway on Aug. 1.

The inquiry was ordered by the commission on its own motion after it had been charged that inconsistencies in the schedule of toll charges prevailed. According to the complaints received by the commission, many rates for calls within the State are higher than the rates charged by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for calls of a corresponding distance between points in two States.

Differences in Rates Cited.

As an example of the differences in intrastate and interstate rates, it was pointed out that a station-to-station daytime telephone call from Buffalo to New York costs $1.90 for three minutes, according to the New York Telephone Company's schedule, while the rate in the same service from Buffalo to Newark, N. J., is only $1.30. The interstate rate from Buffalo to Philadelphia is $1.30, and from Buffalo to Washington, D. C., is $1.35, both distances being greater than from Buffalo to New York City, for which the rate of $1.90 is charged.

"The commission believes that these apparent inconsistencies should be rectified," a spokesman for the commission said yesterday, "and it has started an investigation on its own motion to inquire into the rates for toll calls within the State as charged by the New York Telephone Company in order to take such action as the facts presented at the investigation may justify."

The inquiry ordered into the toll charges for intrastate calls, it was explained, is in no way a reopening of the telephone rate case, which brought about a reduction in the proposed schedule of the telephone company last Spring. The litigation that was pending in the courts and before the commission earlier in the year did not affect toll rates and the commission has heretofore made no decisions affecting the toll rates of the company.

The formal order of the commission adopted yesterday directs the investigation to be held "for the purpose of inquiring and determining whether the tolls demanded, exacted, charged and collected by the New York Telephone Company rendered within the State of New York are unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory or unduly preferential or in any wise in violation of law; also for the purpose of inquiring and determining whether the rules, regulations or practices of said corporation affecting such rates are unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory or unduly preferential or in any wise in violation of law; and if it be so found then to inquire and determine as to what tolls, rules, regulations or practices would be just, reasonable, proper and lawful."

Roosevelt Gets Complaints.

Mr. Maltbie said yesterday that complaints, particularly from Buffalo and up-State points, had been received. Some of the complaints, he said, were sent to Governor Roosevelt and forwarded by him to the commission. One complainant sent clippings of the two different schedules. Mr. Maltbie said the telephone company had been notified of the inquiry and that the hearings should not require very much time.

"This is not another case that will go on for four or five years," he said. "We want the matter cleared up as quickly as possible. This should not consume a great deal of time."

When asked how many complaints had been received, Mr. Maltbie said the number had no bearing on the decision of the commission to conduct an investigation. While the inquiry will cover the entire State, the hearings will be held here, with the possibility of some testimony being given in Albany, Mr. Maltbie said.

McCulloh Issues Statement.

J. S. McCulloh, president of the New York Telephone Company, made the following statement last night:

"The interstate toll rates of this company now in effect are substantially those made effective by the Postmaster General in 1919 while the telephone system, which had been taken over temporarily as a war measure, was still under the control of the Federal Government. During the past two or three years several rate reductions and changes have been made by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in the rates charged for long-distance interstate calls, and the benefit of such reductions has been extended to the subscribers of the New York Telephone Company. Generally, these reductions have been in rates for the longer haul traffic and in total now amount to approximately $15,000,000 annually for the Bell system as a whole.

"During the entire period when long distance rates were reduced the New York Telephone Company was before the public service commission and in the court, in an endeavor to secure authority for adjustment of its rates for local telephone service. By order of the public service commission new rates for local service were made effective throughout the State June 1, 1930, and pending the settlement of this rate case we were not in position to apply the revised long lines schedules on intra-State toll calls.

"However, we at all times have been in accord with the more liberal practices and rates provided for in the present interstate schedules and throughout it has been our intention to revise our toll rates and practices on intrastate calls, to bring them more generally into conformity with the toll schedules existing in other territories. Our purpose in this respect has previously been made known to the public service commission.

"The balancing of the whole intrastate schedule will have a relatively small effect from a financial standpoint. However, toll users, generally, will benefit from the liberalization of practices which will make the use of the service more flexible and agreeable."

INDUCTED AS MAGISTRATES.

McGee and Burke Begin Duties With Absence of Ceremony.

Induction ceremonies in Morrisania court for Magistrate Leonard A. McGee, who assumed his duties as magistrate yesterday, were made brief at the request of Magistrate McGee himself. He was welcomed to the bench by Magistrate William C. Dodge, and after the brief speeches, began the business of the court.

Magistrate Dodge pointed out that despite Mr. McGee's instructions to his friends to hold no ceremony, several relatives and friends were present, and others had sent floral tributes. Because Mr. McGee had not told his friends in which court he would begin his service, many of these were sent to other courts. Magistrate Dodge said that Mr. McGee's twenty-five years as counsel for the Legal Aid Society had fitted him especially for his new work. There was also a short speech by Deputy Attorney General Sol Ullman, and Magistrate McGee responded.

Anthony F. Burke also assumed his duties as a magistrate yesterday in West Side Court without ceremony of any kind. Before his appointment last Thursday he had been law secretary to Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon and still earlier was a Deputy Assistant District Attorney and a Deputy State Attorney General.

LAWYER QUESTIONED ON LEOPOLD CHARGE

F. D. Kohler Denies Telling the Archduke He Had Influence With Crain and Staff.

SAYS HE TALKED OF ESTATE

Visit in Tombs Made at Request of Polish Count, Friend of Austrian Nobleman, Attorney Asserts.

F. Dudley Kohler, a lawyer, of 90 Wall Street, was questioned yesterday by Assistant District Attorney William R. Maloney in the investigation ordered the day before by General Sessions Judge Rosalsky of a statement made by Archduke Leopold of Austria to the court regarding a visit Mr. Kohler had made to him in the Tombs.

After a twelve-day stay in the Tombs the Archduke was released on Tuesday, for the second time, in $7,500 bail, pending his trial on an indictment in connection with the sale of the $400,000 Napoleon diamond necklace of Leopold's aunt, Archduchess Marie Therese of Austria.

Leopold was alleged to have informed the court that Mr. Kohler told him he had "influence" with District Attorney Crain and the latter's staff, and that he would have the larceny charge against Leopold dismissed in a week. Leopold added that Mrs. Alicia Coburn of 350 East Fifty-seventh Street had heard the lawyer's statement.

Mr. Kohler told Mr. Maloney yesterday, however, that nothing had been said in his conversation with the Archduke about the criminal charge against Leopold. He added that he had called on the Archduke at the request of K. Stefan de Pomierski, a Polish Count, who is in the real estate business, and who shares an office with him.

"Count de Pomierski met the Archduke last Winter at a party," Mr. Kohler went on, "and when he read of his incarceration in the Tombs about two weeks ago, he wrote a letter to the Archduke offering to aid him.

"The Archduke replied in a letter that he desired to see the Count in connection with 'a matter of great importance.' The Count not being a lawyer, asked me to call on the Archduke, and I received permission from Judge Rosalsky to do so.

"When I visited the Archduke last Monday he told me he wanted to retain me as his lawyer in connection with the settlement of an estate in Austria. He added that Jacob Gilman, who is his lawyer in the criminal proceeding, would not be able to act for him in the settlement of the estate.

"Nothing was said about the criminal charge against the Archduke. As I was leaving the Tombs, Mrs. Coburn came in. She heard nothing of the conversation between the Archduke and me."

Mr. Maloney said that he expected Mrs. Coburn to call on him today to make a statement. He added that he was satisfied there was no cause for official action in connection with the Archduke's charge.

SUES THE GOVERNMENT FOR DRY LAW "LOSSES"

Mrs. Penfield Seeks $420,779 Tax Refund for Depreciation of Philadelphia Hotels.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Blaming the national prohibition laws for heavy losses she sustained on hotel properties just after the war, Mrs. Anne Weightman Penfield of New York and Philadelphia, reputed to be one of the nation's wealthiest women, began an attempt in Federal Court today to recover $420,779.90 out of $505,026.28 in Federal taxes which she paid on her net income for the years 1918, 1922 and 1924.

At the time the country adopted prohibition Mrs. Penfield owned the Rittenhouse and Hanover hotels here, the Park Hotel in Williamsport and hotels in other cities. Her complaint declares that a large part of $275,684.99 loss she sustained in 1919 when she sold several hotels resulted from the "wrecking" of the "good-will" and practical usefulness of the hotel bars.

In her business dealings in 1919, 1921 and 1922 Mrs. Penfield was said to have sustained losses of $410,641.66 and to offset these she made a claim on the government for refunds of $330,353.42 on the taxes she had paid in 1918, 1921 and 1924.

The Federal authorities granted her allowances aggregating $89,573.52, but rejected her claim for the larger amount on the technicality that she had made no formal claim for the deduction of "depreciation on depreciable assets."

Mrs. Penfield's counsel asserts that this claim was not formally made because the Federal authorities knew throughout the whole proceedings that "depreciation" was an important element in the case, and that the revenue authorities did not insist upon this formal demand being made by Mrs. Penfield until after she was barred from successfully maintaining it by the fact that the statute of limitations had expired.

Mrs. Penfield is the widow of former Ambassador Frederick C. Penfield and the daughter of the late William Weightman, noted chemist. She was the largest property holder in Philadelphia in 1929, according to returns to the Board of Revision of Taxes.

A. R. FOGG DIES OF POISON.

Wilmington Ex-Manufacturer Was Living in Florida.

MIAMI, Fla., July 23 (AP).—Aaron Roland Fogg, 52, said to have been a retired manufacturer who formerly lived at Wilmington, Del., and Salem, N. J., was found dead in bed at his home at Coral Gables early today.

Police said an investigation disclosed he had taken poison.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 23 (AP).—Aaron Roland Fogg was a native of Salem, N. J. Until retiring ten years ago he was connected with the Wilmington Fibre Specialty Company at Newcastle, and made his home there. He moved to Florida on retiring. His widow and two sisters, residing near Salem, survive.

VAUSE CASE WILL GO TO JURY TOMORROW

Summing Up for Ex-Judge, His Brother and Prosecution Planned for Today.

TESTIMONY BRINGS CLASH

Defense Attorney Charges Effort to Intimidate—Five Defendants Cleared on Four Counts.

The evidence in the trial of former Judge W. Bernard Vause and six others for using the mails to defraud in the failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation will go to a jury in the Federal court tomorrow. The defense concluded its testimony yesterday and counsel for five of the defendants completed their arguments.

This morning Nathan D. Perlman, counsel for Mr. Vause, and Emil K. Ellis, counsel for his brother, Louis, will sum up their cases and in the afternoon United States Attorney Tuttle will deliver the argument for the government. At the request of the jurors Judge Coxe will withhold his charge until Friday morning.

The concluding of testimony was marked by a spirited interchange between Mr. Perlman and Assistant United States Attorney George S. Mintzer, whom Mr. Perlman called to the stand as a witness. Mr. Perlman had summoned Harry L. Schwartz, a brother of Austin H. Montgomery, convicted swindler who testified for the government. Schwartz denied Montgomery's testimony that Vause had organized the Community Finance Corporation, for whose failure Montgomery was sent to prison.

Mr. Perlman then summoned Mr. Mintzer and tried to show that an attempt had been made to intimidate Schwartz in a Federal building corridor on Tuesday. With counsel and witness in a heated debate, Mr. Perlman brought out that Mr. Mintzer had talked to Schwartz on Tuesday. He insisted, however, that Schwartz had been asked only one question by Frank Shea, a postoffice inspector. When he did not answer, Mr. Mintzer admitted, he asked Schwartz if he would answer it "before the grand jury."

Mr. Perlman made a further effort to show that Montgomery's name had been on a draft of the Columbia indictment before he agreed to testify for the government and called his law partner, former Assistant United States Attorney Polakoff, who said he saw in Mr. Mintzer's office a paper which "looked like" the indictment and which contained the names of Montgomery and Vause. Mr. Tuttle, protesting against the manner in which Mr. Perlman conducted the examination of Mr. Mintzer, summoned another assistant, Reuben T. Carlson, who denied that Montgomery's name was ever in the indictment.

With Mr. Perlman resting his case on these witnesses, Mr. Ellis, attorney for Louis Vause, presented no defense testimony at all. Harry Sacher, counsel for William Rayman and Samuel and Harry Cruso, called no witnesses. Summing up for these defendants, he insisted that no evidence had been shown to link his clients with the charges and declared that they had been merely subordinates in the Columbia.

On motion of defense counsel, Judge Coxe dismissed the first four counts of the mails fraud indictment, involving mailing of specific circulars, against Samuel and Harry Cruso, Max Barmak, Louis Vause and William Rayman. Similar motions in behalf of former Judge Vause and Schuchman were denied, as were motions to dismiss the other charges against the remaining five defendants.

Mr. Perlman served notice during the day that he would move on Monday in General Sessions for dismissal of the two New York County grand jury indictments against ex-Judge Vause charging grand larceny in connection with the Columbia's affairs. The motion will be opposed before Judge Rosalsky by Assistant District Attorney James E. McDonald.

TROOPER SAYS DAVIS ACCEPTED LOW BOND

Testifies Prosecutor Urged Corporal to Sign in Place of Arresting Officer.

JUSTICE WARNS JURY

Attempts at Tampering Must Be Reported, He Says, and Promises Action for Contempt.

Special to The New York Times.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., July 23.—Two points were scored by the prosecution here today before Supreme Court Justice Peter F. Daly at the trial of James Mercer Davis, prosecutor of Ocean County, on charges of conspiring to defraud the county through releasing on improper bonds trucks seized while allegedly transporting liquor. A witness testified that Davis was present at the signing of an improper bond and asserted also that the prosecutor authorized a State trooper other than the one who had made the arrest to accept the bond. The prosecution has contended that nobody can replace the arresting officer when a truck is released under bond.

Cross-examination by attorneys for Davis, and County Detectives John A. G. Grant and Alexander J. Miller, also on trial, failed to make Raymond Osborn, a State trooper, change this testimony.

Osborn testified that he and Corporal Francis J. Ruggerio went to Davis's office to arrange for the release, under bond, of a truck seized on March 13. It was brought out at yesterday's hearing that this was a 1929 model truck worth $7,000, although it was made to appear as a 1926 model. When they reached the prosecutor's office, the witness said, Miller announced that everything was ready for the signing of the bond. County Detective Grant then appeared and announced that the bond was for $2,000, Osborn went on.

He said that Ruggiero then explained that State Trooper Michael Heylon, who had seized the truck, was on vacation and could not be present at the delivery of the bond. At this point, he asserted, Davis appeared from his private office and assured Ruggiero that it would be all right for him to act for Heylon, as he was Heylon's superior.

The defense attorneys in their cross-examination attempted to show that Davis was not present at the signing of the bond, but Osborn refused to change his testimony.

Before adjourning the case until tomorrow, Justice Daly announced that he had heard rumors that certain persons were attempting to speak to the jurors about the case. He warned the veniremen that if this happened he must be notified immediately and he would have the offenders brought before him on contempt charges.

FINDS INDIAN CAPITAL SITE.

Moorehead Expedition Unearths Many Relics in New Hampshire.

FRANKLIN, N. H., July 23 (AP).—Three months of field study of old Indian camp sites, fishing stations and stone relics in the valley of the Merrimack River have led to the belief that the main village of the early New England Indians was located here.

The search was begun at Newburyport, Mass., in April by Professor Warren K. Moorehead of Andover, and a party of twelve. Seventy Indian villages and fishing stations and about 600 stone relics were found during the march up the valley.

Among the findings was a highly polished cutting tool of the hand-hatchet type, suggesting contact with the Iroquois Indians of the Mohawk Valley, New York.

The expedition while camped near the mouth of the Winnipesaukee River found numerous flint implements, broken pottery, hatchets, gouges, fish spears, bone awls and other objects.

DR. WOOD SEES GAIN IN CANCER RESEARCH

EXPECTS A NEW THEORY

Development Held Likely Following Discovery of Rapidity of Growth of Cell.

Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of the Crocker Cancer Institute of Columbia University, sailed yesterday afternoon on the Mauretania to attend the international congress of experimental cytology at Amsterdam, where he will tell his European colleagues of his most recent observations in his experiments with isolated living cancer cells kept alive by him in glass tubes.

Reviewing his research work for the past fifteen years on these cells, Dr. Wood said his first efforts had not been satisfactory for the reason that no laboratory process had been developed of nourishing and irrigating the cells. This problem was solved five years ago through the assistance of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Foundation, who had succeeded in keeping alive for a long period of years the tissue removed from the heart of a chicken.

"My observations over a period of years," Dr. Wood said, "make me inclined to regard the isolated cell as the transmitting agency in provoking cancer when placed in a sympathetic environment, and as so far we have not been able to isolate the cancer germ I am disposed to regard the cancer cell as partaking of all the elements of the germ in itself."

Dr. Wood said he had been experimenting with cancer cells for thirty years, implanting them in rats and guinea pigs. He discovered early that these cells were continuous and self-perpetuating. For example, a cell planted in a rat will give that rat cancer. A cell from the rat implanted in a second rat will give the second rat cancer.

"These cells," he said, "have more vitality than the ordinary cells of the human body. It is erroneous to think of cancer as a quick growth. Generally it manifests itself after eight, nine or ten years on spots where tissue had been bruised and subjected to an undue pressure or strain. When this occurs one cell detaches itself from the defective tissue and begins to live an independent existence. It is this independent cell that becomes the nucleus of cancer. Watch out for it."

While he refused to comment on the chances of finding a cure, Dr. Wood said he felt completely satisfied with the results already obtained.

"It is a step forward," he said. "Only a few years ago we could observe cancer cells only by studying them in living tissue. Now we have learned how to preserve them indefinitely in a glass tube.

"One definite thing we have learned is that these cells grow with greater rapidity than ordinary body cells. From this, I believe, there may be developed some theory beneficial in defeating cancer. For some time we have been trying to learn whether the cells do or do not produce a poison and, if they do, whether they produce it only in living tissue or in the glass tube as well. These facts are important.

"Just as Pasteur achieved his greatest good to mankind through the artificial cultivation of bacteria, so we may look with eager interest to what may develop out of the artificial cultivation of the cancer cell. We are fumbling and stumbling to an understanding of what cancer is and how it may eventually be controlled, but we are far from having arrived."

SAY SHONGOOD FALSIFIED.

Two Dealers Testify They Paid More Than Auctioneer Reported.

Ben Monsheiner, radio dealer, of 368 Canal Street, and Morris King, dealer in general merchandise at 325 Church Street, told Federal Judge Patterson and a jury yesterday that the prices they paid for goods two years ago offered at bankruptcy sales conducted by Charles Shongood, former United States Auctioneer, on trial for alleged embezzlement, were more than the prices marked on the auction catalogues for the sales in question.

Mr. Monsheiner, questioned by Thomas T. Cooke, Assistant United States Attorney, testified that he paid $20 each for twelve radios at an auction, but records which Mr. Cooke produced, saying that they related to the sale in question, showed that twelve radios had been sold for $2.50 each.

John Ward Shoe

A SELECTED list of John Ward Shoes is now offered at very unusual sale prices. These reductions are made in order to effect an immediate clearance, thus making way for our Fall stocks.

$5.95—These shoes were formerly $7. A large selection of popular current styles, including golf and sport shoes and lightweights for hot weather wear.

$6.95—These John Wards were regularly priced at $9, with a limited number of models that were formerly $12 and $14. A variety of current styles, including golf, sport and lightweight shoes.

Both groups include wing tips, straight tips and smart custom lasts; in the very best quality calfskins, kidskins and Scotch grains. Some are broken lines, with not every size available for each model.

Obviously these are all very exceptional values. Even at their regular prices, John Wards can only be compared with shoes that sell elsewhere for several dollars more.

CORRIGAN SETS TASK FOR COURT CLERKS

Tells Group of 21 They Are "Responsible" for Work Through Dempsey and Finn.

GIVES FINGERPRINT VIEWS

Says Dodge Has Full Right to Suspend Jail Terms in Traffic Cases —Disagrees With Tudor.

Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan continued yesterday his efforts to improve conditions in the magistrates' courts. He called to his office at 300 Mulberry Street the clerks of all the magistrates' courts in Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island, as well as Thomas A. Dempsey, chief clerk of the magistrates' courts.

Magistrate Corrigan talked informally to the court aides behind closed doors for about fifteen minutes and the gist of his remarks was that he intended in the future to hold Mr. Dempsey responsible for the conduct of the courts and court attachés in Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island, and that Jay Finn, deputy chief clerk, would be held responsible for conditions in Manhattan and the Bronx. These two will be expected, he said, to hold each court clerk responsible for the conduct of his individual court and for the conduct of the subordinates attached to each court.

Gets Acquainted With Clerks.

What else Magistrate Corrigan discussed with his subordinates he did not divulge. Nor would he amplify what he meant when he said he would hold the clerks "responsible." He said that the meeting had also served to acquaint him with the clerks of the courts in the three boroughs. During his long term on the magistrates' bench himself Judge Corrigan sat almost exclusively in Manhattan.

About two weeks ago he had a similar conference with the clerks from Manhattan and the Bronx, at which it was presumed that a similar talk was delivered.

At yesterday's conference there were fourteen clerks from Brooklyn, headed by William H. Stapleton, clerk of Brooklyn Traffic Court; five from Queens and two from Richmond.

Meanwhile Magistrate William C. Dodge continued his practice in the Bronx of suspending sentence on traffic offenders who did not have the money to pay the fines he imposed, in order to save the defendants from having their fingerprints taken by the Department of Correction if sent to jail sentences in lieu of paying fines.

"I am unwilling to have him fingerprinted and thereby classed with desperate criminals," Magistrate Dodge wrote on the papers in one traffic case yesterday.

Julian De Gray, a teacher at the University of Miami, arrested in the morning for speeding, received similar treatment, except that his license was not revoked.

Corrigan Asked to Comment.

When Magistrate Corrigan was asked yesterday whether he intended to take any action aobut the fingerprinting or Magistrate Dodge's action in suspending sentences, he said he had no intention of reviewing Magitsrate Dodge's decisions, which, in his opinion, were quite within the discretion of the sitting judge.

He had no jurisdiction, either, Magistrate Corrigan declared, over the Department of Correction, into whose hands a prisoner passes after a jail sentence has been imposed. He expressed disagreement, however, with the interpretation of the law of Acting Commissioner of Correction Robert L. Tudor, who said on Tuesday that under a section of the law passed in 1928, the Department of Correction had no discretion in the matter. Magistrate Corrigan pointed out that the section referred to pertains to felonies and also to misdemeanors listed under another section of the law. This other section deals with cases like jostling, disorderly conduct, &c., but not with traffic cases, the Chief Magistrate declared. Mr. Tudor was not reached for comment yesterday.

AMERICAN FINED IN LONDON

Pleads Guilty to Landing Without Permission of Authorities.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—There was an air of mystery in a case heard at Bow Street court today against an American said to be a man of considerable wealth. Max Rovenger, 42, described as "retired," who refused to give his address, was charged, as an alien, with landing in Britain without permission of the immigration authorities. He pleaded guilty and was fined $250.

A police witness testified that Mr. Rovenger originally had arrived in England in 1924 and the Home Office had issued a circular two years later banning his return on the ground that he was suspected of being a card sharper. The defense barrister, J. P. Valetta, said Mr. Rovenger had very big interests and good credentials. His reason for coming to England from France, he said, was to attend to business connected with his properties in New York and South America.

"The decision of the Home Office," Mr. Valetta added, "is now being taken up by people who would not dream of doing so unless they were convinced that there had been a misunderstanding which had to be cleared up."

Police agreed that there had been no complaint against Mr. Rovenger since he last came to this country.

$50,000 FIRE IN BROOKLYN.

E. J. Kenny, Inducted as Deputy Chief, Supervises Fighting It.

Edward J. Kenny, the new deputy fire chief in charge of Brooklyn, supervised the fire-fighting forces last night at a four-alarm blaze in the Royal Refrigerator Company, Inc., plant on North Fourteenth Street between Norman Avenue and Franklin Street, Greenpoint. He got the call a few hours after he was inducted into office.

The four alarms were sent as a precautionary measure because the refrigerator plant is less than 200 feet from the tanks of the Standard Oil Company and of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. Firemen kept the blaze from spreading, although the flames destroyed the interior of the plant, causing damage estimated at $50,000. The origin of the blaze was not determined.

AMTORG THREATENS RED TRADE BOYCOTT

confer with Inspector John Lyons of the Radical Squad and police undercover men, who, Mr. Whalen testified, obtained the documents from the Amtorg's original files and were prepared to demonstrate their authenticity. The meeting at Police Headquarters is to be secret and Mr. Fish has not yet revealed whether the results of the conference will be made public. On Tuesday night members of the committee discussed the documents among themselves in executive session, Mr. Fish disclosed.

Bachman Makes Threat.

The threat to have Mr. Bogdanov expelled from the United States was made by Representative Carl G. Bachman of West Virginia. It came after Mr. Bogdanov had admitted to the committee that, while he resigned his membership in the Communist Party before departing for this country to take charge of the Amtorg, he would resume membership in the party upon his return to Moscow.

"Of course, I cannot say what I would do if I am to stay here three or four years," said Mr. Bogdanov in reply to a question on this point from Mr. Bachman, "but I would again join the party if I were to return tomorrow."

"You'll be lucky if you stay here that long," said Mr. Bachman.

Yesterday's proceedings were opened by the reading into the record through Mr. Connick by Mr. Bogdanov of a long memorandum which he had brought with him the day before. In addition to containing a sweeping denial of the authenticity of the Whalen documents, the memorandum presented in detailed form a picture of the organization, purpose and commercial operations of the Amtorg, the present status of Russo-American trade and the prospects of commercial relations between Russia and the United States.

"The accusation against the Amtorg, made, for instance, by Mr. Matthew Woll, that it either acts as a channel for the distribution of funds for political propaganda or that it provides these funds out of its own income," said the statement, "is absurd on its face when it is considered that the Amtorg is one of the largest export and import corporations in this country, that it has been in existence over six years without a shadow on its record and that it conducts all its financial operations through leading American banks. The extensive business connections of the Amtorg have made it subject to investigation by various business agencies, and in its business dealings at no time have any charges of irregularities been made against the company. An examination of Amtorg books and accounts clearly shows that no funds have been used for any other but strictly legitimate commercial purposes. In this connection it may be noted that the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co. has just completed, at the request of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, an audit of the corporation's accounts for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1929, a period which was selected at random by the accountants. A copy of the report of this audit will be filed with the committee.

Finds Reputation Harmed.

"We assert that the accusations against the Amtorg are absolutely without foundation. Nevertheless, the very fact of the charges against the corporation having been widely circulated could not fail to make its position a difficult one and to hinder it in its work. The Amtorg has built up a substantial credit position. The accusations against the company have undoubtedly harmed its reputation with some firms. For this reason we assert that the further development, and even the continuance of Soviet-American trade, will be an almost impossible task unless the accusations against the company are thoroughly investigated by your committee and, as we confidently expect them to be, found to be baseless."

Mr. Bogdanov's statement specifically denied the charges of Gregory Bessedowsky, former Soviet Chargé d'Affairs in Paris, concerning the operation of the Amtorg as an agency of Communist propaganda. It also reviewed the history of the Whalen documents, including Mr. Bogdanov's letter to Mr. Whalen asking an opportunity to examine the documents and the former Police Commissioner's refusal on the ground that a criminal investigation was in progress.

Mr. Bogdanov stressed the growth of American export trade to Soviet Russia, which had reached a figure of more than $100,000,000 a year, and re-enforced his threat of a trade boycott against the United States with the assertion that Russian purchases here in the last three months had decreased two-thirds. Later in his testimony, however, Mr. Bogdanov explained this decrease by attributing it to the money tightness in the United States and the effects of anti-Soviet propaganda concerning the religious issue and of the attacks on the Amtorg. He denied, in reply to a question from Hamilton Fish Jr., chairman of the committee, that Communist activities in the United States, marked by strikes, riots or demonstrations, had had anything to do with it. At any rate, he said, the Amtorg had no connection with these activities.

Submits List of Aides.

In addition to his lengthy statement Mr. Bogdanov presented also, through Mr. Connick, a series of voluminous exhibits containing a list of the Amtorg's commercial contracts, a list of the 489 employes of the Amtorg, a chart of its departments and subdivisions, a list of Soviet nationals associated with the Amtorg commercially in one way or another who came here during the period of 1929 and as of June 15, 1930, and a list of expenditures of its information department for the past four years, exclusive of salaries and maintenance.

It is these expenditures in which the committee has shown particular interest, since it has been suggested that they may conceal funds expended for Communist propaganda in this country through various American Communist organizations. Further inquiry will be made by the committee of these expenditures as well as of the other material presented by Mr. Bogdanov, who in reply to questions admitted that the material had been prepared by subordinates, and that he, of his own knowledge, could not vouch for its correctness. He remarked, however, that as the head of a large commercial body he could work only through subordinates, and could not be expected to vouch absolutely for the authenticity of all figures.

In connection with this material Mr. Bogdanov presented also a list of sixty-three employes who have been discharged from the Amtorg since last February. These dismissals have also been of especial interest to the committee, the intimation having been thrown out that some of them followed the publication of the Whalen documents and may have had something to do with their publication. Mr. Bogdanov said that so far as he knew the list of dismissals presented by him was complete, but he was not certain.

Nelson Questions Witness.

Visibly irritated by Mr. Bogdanov's veiled threat of a Soviet trade boycott against the United States, Mr. Nelson began a prolonged interrogation of the witness on the nature, methods and aims of the Soviet system. He sought to emphasize that the Soviet Government was bent on the destruction of capitalism, and that, therefore, capitalist countries were only helping to bring about their own destruction by cooperating with Soviet Russia economically.

In his effort to parry this attack Mr. Bogdanov denied that the Soviet Government sought to bring about the destruction of capitalist governments. As evidence he cited the principle proclaimed at the Geneva Economic Conference by the Soviet delegates to the effect that the Soviet Government regarded collaboration with capitalist nations as entirely feasible and practical.

In subsequent questions dealing with the same point Mr. Bogdanov sought to convince the committee that the "class collaboration" of which he spoke was a true and honest principle of the Soviet régime. He was hard pressed by Mr. Nelson, however, who cited copious evidence from original Soviet sources to the effect that while pursuing commercial and diplomatic relations with other nations, the leaders of the Russian Communist Party, which dominates and controls the Soviet Government, are as determined as ever in their purpose of a Communist world revolution.

At another point Mr. Bogdanov, questioned by Mr. Fish, denied that the Communist party controlled the Soviet Government. He was forced, however, to admit frankly that, regardless of what Mr. Fish characterized as the subterfuges of the Soviet Constitution and the presence of so-called non-partisans in the Soviets and in the Soviet administrative machinery, the Communist party exercised an iron dictatorship over Russia to the exclusion of all other parties. Mr. Fish succeeded also in proving that there was no line of real demarcation between the Communist party and the Soviet Government, as was contended by Mr. Bogdanov, and that the two were one.

Examines Russian Conditions.

Mr. Nelson took Mr. Bogdanov through a lengthy examination of economic conditions in Russia. He brought out that under the five-year plan the Soviet Government was setting up a tremendous industrial machine, with workers receiving $10 a week—a figure supplied by Mr. Bogdanov as the average wage in Russia—and that by enlisting the support of American capital, American machinery, technique and brains, the Soviet Government would be in a position, if the five-year plan were successful, to compete unfairly against America and other countries.

"Do you think it will be of advantage to the United States to have you dump 250,000,000 bushels of wheat in this country?" asked Mr. Nelson, challenging the assertion of Mr. Bogdanov that America had a real interest in Soviet trade under present conditions. "Do you think it is of advantage to have you dump your coal and lumber here?"

Mr. Bogdanov made no comment on the wheat but declared that the coal being sold here by Russia was marketed at a higher price than American coal because of its special quality and that the Soviet lumber coming into this country was really needed here. Mr. Bogdanov also tried to relieve Mr. Nelson's apprehensions concerning the development of Soviet Russia as a commercial competitor of the United States by saying that for many years to come, despite the development of Russian industry, Russia would remain an importing country, that its demands would continue to grow and that it would long remain dependent upon foreign machinery, equipment and other products.

"When your program is completed you will have a population of 140,000,000 souls, working at 80 rubles or $40 a month with materials that cost the government nothing," said Mr. Nelson. "And yet you are trying to tell me that it is good for America to have things produced by Russia dumped on our markets."

Explains Denouncing Documents.

Mr. Bogdanov's protests against the attitude of the committee on the Whalen documents came after Representative Bachman had tried to censure him for his failure to make a thorough investigation of the documents before writing to Mr. Whalen denouncing them as forgeries. Mr. Bogdanov explained that he had hastened to write his letter to Mr. Whalen on the day the documents were published because he had not the slightest doubt of their falsity. In this connection he called attention to the Orlov documents in Berlin, which sought to impugn the integrity of Senator Borah as having received money from the Soviet Government for his advocacy of Soviet recognition. Mr. Bogdanov cited also the Zinoviev letter. He recalled that the Orlov documents had been established as forgeries in a German court. Mr. Bachman wanted to know whether the Whalen documents, in Mr. Bogdanov's opinion, had been forged here or in Europe.

"I don't know, I did not forge them," retorted Mr. Bogdanov amid general laughter.

"It was only necessary to look at the documents to see that they were forgeries," Mr. Bogdanov said. "I offered Mr. Whalen my help for an investigation of the documents. Mr. Whalen declined. The burden of proof is now upon Mr. Whalen."

A charge by Mr. Bachman that recent changes in the Amtorg directorate had been carried out in connection with the publication of the documents provoked laughter from the witness. Mr. Bachman wanted to know also whether Mr. Bogdanov had done anything "to stop Communist propaganda in this country." Mr. Bogdanov's reply was that he engaged in no political activity of any kind. He declared also, in reply to another question, that the Soviet Government "does not concern itself with Communist problems" and that all it knew about Communist propaganda here was what it read in the newspapers.

Mr. Bachman laughed at this. He asked Mr. Bogdanov to read Stalin's speech of several weeks ago on this question and Mr. Bogdanov said he did not remember the speech, insisting he was a busy man.

As Mr. Bogdanov prepared to leave the witness chair, Mr. Fish asked him whether he thought he had been fairly treated by the committee.

"I have no complaints to make," he said, "but I do think that the system of 'Yes and No' answers pursued by the committee was a bit disconcerting at times."

STATE DEPARTMENT SILENT.

Indicates It Does Not Care to Be Involved in Amtorg Dispute.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The State Department declined today to comment on charges of Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York that officials of the Amtorg Corporation, the Russian trading organization, were in this country illegally. Informally, it was explained that the department did not care to become involved in the controversy.

Officials of the Amtorg company were said to have entered the United States on American visas granted by American consular officers in Europe. These visas, it was explained, were the temporary ones that are granted to foreigners who desire to come here for business reasons. The visas are approved by the immigration authorities for certain periods and then are subject to extension upon application. These provisions are contained in the 1924 immigration act as one of the exceptions to the quota system.

The Amtorg Trading Corporation has some 600 employes or attachés in the United States. These obtain visas from any United States Consul, usually at Riga, Reval, Warsaw or Berlin. Under the quota law 2,784 Russians annually are entitled to enter the United States. The quota, however, is always filled, and there are applications enough on file to account for the next fifty years at the present rate.

COOK COUNTY ASSESSOR SENT TO LEAVENWORTH

Sentenced to 18 Months and Fined $12,500 by Judge for Income Tax Evasion.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Gene G. Oliver, member of the Cook County Board of Assessors, was found guilty today of evading the income tax law by Federal Judge Woodward. He was sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $12,500 and costs on three indictments.

Judge Woodward declared that a part of Oliver's receipts "came from sources not above suspicion," and in referring to the defense argument that some of his income was for campaign contributions, the Court said:

"The line between bribery and campaign contributions is tenuous and shadowy. It is difficult to believe that these sums were for campaign contributions."

The Court referred to evidence disclosing that Oliver's deposits for 1926 totaled $89,117; for 1927, $233,404, and for 1928, $148,329. His income as member of the Board of Assessors is $9,000 and not taxable because he is a public employe.

Early this month Oliver was indicted by the county grand jury on six counts of bribery. This action grew out of government charges that the assessor engaged in tax fixing.

MENNONITES RECLAIM LAND.

Director of Paraguayan Colonies Cites Agricultural Contributions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 23.—Colonies of Mennonites have converted the Paraguayan deserts where they have settled into productive lands, according to the director of the colonies, Señor Langer, who declares that agriculture absorbs almost the entire attention of the settlers and that they are making a contribution to reduce the cost of living in Paraguay.

The cotton harvest yielded about 160 tons of staple first quality product, Señor Langer added, and it is expected the next harvest will greatly

ESPECIALLY THE WOMAN EXPECTING A CHILD

THOUSANDS of women have become intestinal cripples because of the careless use of laxatives. Some laxatives shock the system by irritating the intestine, others by removing water from the body. They may seem harmless at first — but don't be misled. Particularly during pregnancy, no woman should risk irritating, habit-forming drugs.

Treat laxatives as an emergency medicine. If you are inclined to be sluggish, you can safely take Squibb Liquid Petrolatum. It is not a laxative but a harmless lubricant. It is universally approved by doctors for general use in combating constipation.

Ask for Squibb Liquid "Pet" at any drug store. The name Squibb is important. Squibb Liquid "Pet" is entirely odorless and tasteless.

MISS WURTS-DUNDAS WEDS J. R. H. BOONE

Ceremony at Her Park Avenue Home Is Performed by the Rev. Thomas J. Delihant.

UNION OF OLD FAMILIES

Bride, Escorted by Her Cousin, George F. Lawrence, Wears Wedding Veil of Great-Grandmother.

Miss Muriel Harmar Wurts-Dundas, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wurts-Dundas of New York and Philadelphia, was married to James R. Herbert Boone of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Kennedy Boone of Oak Hill House, Govans, Md., yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, 765 Park Avenue. Although the wedding was comparatively small, it was one of the most important this Summer, uniting members of families that figured prominently in the early history of this country. The bride is a member of the Wurts family of Philadelphia and is a great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Lippincott of that city. She also is related to the Dundas family of Scotland. Her mother was Miss Josephine Harmar.

Mr. Boone comes of distinguished Southern ancestry. On the paternal side he is a descendant of Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, and of Captain Robert Bruce Polk. Through his mother, who is the former Miss Anne Gordon Herbert, he is a descendant of the Indian girl, Pocahontas, and of the Fairfax, Alexander, Hammond and Snowden families.

Ceremony Held in Drawing Room.

The ceremony took place in the drawing room, which had been decorated with palms, cybotium ferns and talisman roses. A temporary altar had been arranged at one end of the room against a background of palms and ferns and there was an aisle leading to it from the doorway formed by low standards topped with Summer flowers. Only near relatives and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Thomas J. Delihant, S. J., of the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola.

The bride was escorted by her cousin, George Francklyn Lawrence. She wore a modified princess gown of ivory colored satin made with a medium length train and embellished with a deep yoke and long sleeves of old duchess lace which had been worn by the bride's mother at her marriage. The bride wore her great-grandmother's wedding veil of duchess lace, mellowed with age to a deep ivory tint. It was arranged in cap fashion and fastened on each side of the head by a small cluster of orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Bridegroom's Sister Honor Maid.

Miss Camilla Herbert Boone, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Benjamin Reath Riggs and Mrs. John H. Blye of Philadelphia, cousins of the bride; Mrs. John T. Lawrence and Miss Gretchen Altpeter of New York. All wore frocks of chiffon and lace in shades corresponding to the talisman roses which they carried. Their hats were the same color trimmed with burnt orange flowers matching the ribbon on their bouquets.

William Kennedy Boone Jr. was best man for his brother. The ushers were John Marshall Boone and Alexander Gordon Boone, also brothers; Charles Rowland Posey Jr., Richard Ledyard Hubbard, Charles Carroll Fulton Leser, Edward Taylor Norris, Robert Pell Deford and George Gibson Carey, all of Baltimore.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception, after which Mr. Boone and his bride left on their wedding trip. On their return they will live at 765 Park Avenue. He is in the brokerage business here.

Other Weddings

Edgar—Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Howard Baker of Greenwich have announced the marriage of Mr. Baker's sister, Mrs. Persis Baker Graham of 455 East Fifty-first Street, to Leavitt L. Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Edgar of Boston, which took place on Tuesday at the Sherry-Netherland. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. George M. Whitmark.

The couple sailed on the Europa last night for a wedding trip of two months in Europe. They will live in West Newton, Mass., on their return. Mrs. Edgar and her former husband, Samuel J. Graham, were divorced.

Tierney—Baker.

Special to The New York Times.

WINCHESTER, Va., July 23.—Miss Katherine Graham Bowyer Baker was married last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Alexander Baker, to Laurence Edward Tierney Jr. of Bluefield, W. Va., by the Rev. Robert E. Hannon, rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart. The bride is a granddaughter of the late W. H. Baker, and on her mother's side she is related to the Bowyer and Cartmell families of Virginia. Mr. Tierney is is a son of Mrs. Tierney and the late Colonel L. E. Tierney of Bluefield. The bride is a graduate of Holton Arms School, Washington, and the bridegroom of Yale.

The ceremony, performed on a lawn in front of the Baker homeplace, Thornhill, was witnessed by upward of a thousand guests, many of whom came from distant States for the wedding and reception which followed. Most of the entertaining was on the lawn and porches.

CURTIS TO BE GUEST AT NEWPORT HOME

LARGE DINNER IS PLANNED

Garden Party Is Held on Estate of Mrs. Nicholas Brown for Benefit of Emmanuel Church.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 23.—Vice President Curtis will visit Newport next month. He will arrive on Aug. 15 for a stay of two or three days as the guest of Mrs. George Mesta at the Rocks.

Mrs. Mesta gave a dinner in honor of the Vice President in Washington last Spring, and the invitation to visit Newport this Summer was extended at that time.

On the evening of his arrival Mrs. Mesta will give a large dinner with thirty-five or forty guests in honor of the Vice President. This will be Mr. Curtis's first visit to Newport.

Lawrence Smith Butler is to be a guest of Mrs. Mesta over the coming week-end and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Adams, are giving a luncheon at the Rocks on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brooks gave a dinner at Sea Beach last night. Mrs. James Denison Sawyer and Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly also entertained yesterday. Luncheons were given yesterday by Mrs. Richard Van Nest Gambrill at Vernon Court and by Mrs. Frederick de Peyster.

Mrs. Reginald B. Lanier and Miss Olive Whitman were hostesses of beach parties at Bailey's yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gurnee Dyer of New York and their daughter have arrived for a month's stay with Mrs. Dyer's mother, Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer at Honeysuckle Lodge.

Fifty-four of those invited to participate in the fourth annual invitation tournament of the Newport Country Club, which opens with the qualifying round next Thursday afternoon, had, up to yesterday, accepted the invitations. Among the latest to send in an acceptance is Cyril Tolley, well known English golfer.

Other recent acceptances have come from:

Benjamin Chew of Bryn Mawr, Dryden Kuser of Bernardsville, Howard Merriman of Providence, Samuel A. Mathewson of Westport, Conn.; Harold A. Peckham, Newport; James Robbins, Haverford, Pa.; Commander Roy C. Smith Jr., Newport; Robert L. Stevens, Bernardsville; Robert Scotten, Newport; Fielding Jackson, Narragansett Pier; Captain J. C. Fremont, Newport, and B. F. R. Bassett, Christopher Dunphy, Wainwright Hose Jr., T. J. Prindiville, Robert W. Ryle, Henry and Robert Sedgwick, Jack Q. H. Smith, Owen Winston, Elliot Hold and Howard Hitchcock of New York.

Members of the summer colony were present in large numbers at Harbour Court, the home of Mrs. Nicholas Brown, yesterday afternoon at a garden party for the benefit of Emmanuel Church.

A children's candy table was in charge of Miss Olive Whitman; Mrs. Robert Gardiner had charge of the sale of balloons, assisted by her daughter, Miss Alexandria Gardiner.

Mrs. Brown took personal charge of the booth where flowers, vegetables and fruits were sold. She was assisted by her nieces, the Misses Natalie and Margery Merrill, daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. George Grenville Merrill. Miss Anne Sturtevant and Miss Emma G. Stone presided over the tea and coffee tables, while Mrs. Stuart Duncan supervised the fortune telling booths.

Some of the others assisting at the fête were Mrs. John Scott and Miss Nesbitt from Fort Adams; Mrs. William B. Bristow; Mrs. Cyril B. Judge, Miss Marjorie McVickar, Mrs. Russell Cecil, Miss Penelope Winslow, Mrs. Truman Lawrence Saunders, Miss Marguerite Caperton, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Mrs. William Grosvenor and Mrs. Herman Leroy Jones, who had as her guests all of the children from the Crippled Children's Camp.

The second performance of "Bird in Hand" by the Casino Players was given last night at the Casino. Among those who had boxes were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Eppley, Mr. and Mrs. William Goadby Loew, Mrs. William Woodward, and Mrs. Halsey De Wolf of Bristol.

Hitchcock's Whites Beat Reds in U. S. Polo Test; E. A. S. Hopping Hurt in Spill

E. A. S. HOPPING HURT IN U. S. POLO TRIAL

HITCHCOCK'S TEAM VICTOR

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., July 23.—Today's test match among the candidates for positions on the American side for the international polo with Great Britain in September brought a one-sided victory to Captain Thomas Hitchcock's Whites over a Red team, 13 to 7.

Five men shared in the victory of the Whites for Earle A. S. Hopping played less than two periods before he pitched over his mount's head and stretched on the turf motionless from the worst fall the high-goal polo has yet produced this season.

Hopping was able, after a rest, to climb to his feet and be assisted to his car, but he had had a very narrow escape from serious injury. His place was taken by the lanky Californian Elmer J. Boeseke Jr., who shifted over from the Red side, and Harold E. Talbott took Boeseke's place on the Reds.

Whites Take Early Lead.

With Hitchcock playing his first game in ten days the Whites rolled up an early lead, scoring seven times before the Reds scored at all and they were never in danger from a Red team which really had only one period, the seventh.

Hopping's fall appeared very serious when it happened and for some time it was feared that the youngster, who had suddenly become an international star in the third game against Argentina in 1928, had been severely hurt.

He was in front of an attack which the Whites had launched, after he himself had scored their third goal, but J. C. Rathborne, the Red back, was out in front of him. Hopping reined in somewhat and crossed over behind Rathborne in the hope of blocking the defender's backhand. Hopping's mount, Gambler, was about used up and when it stumbled had nothing left to save itself.

The play was traveling at a full gallop and Hopping pitched five yards in front of his pony, sliding along on his face and shoulders with his legs in the air and then bringing up in a motionless heap.

His father, Earle W. Hopping, the veteran seven-goal star, who is also helping in the preparation of the team, and Mrs. Hopping rushed out from the side lines. The boy recovered and sat up, but his face had been badly cut and he was stunned.

Is Taken to Clubhouse.

He was taken to the Piping Rock Club, on the field of which the game was being played, and there doctors examined him. No broken bones were found and his father said after the game that he was all right and would try to get back in the saddle for next Sunday's test match.

The switch in the line-ups then came, with Talbott playing out the rest of that period at No. 2 on the Reds, but shifting to No. 1 in the next, Eric Pedley going to No. 2. The others of the Red team were Stewart Iglehart at No. 3 and Rathborne at back. The Whites had started with Pete Bostwick, Earle Hopping, Hitchcock and Winston Guest in that order. Boeseke stayed at No. 2.

Hitchcock played good polo throughout but he seemed to be saving himself through the game. He scored six goals. It was largely due to his efforts that the Whites had scored the three goals they had when Hopping was hurt. They rode steadily ahead to four more afterward before the Reds were able to drive any through.

Guest Drives Goal.

In the third period Hitchcock turned back a hit-in of Rathborne's with a beautiful shot for the fourth goal and from the next toss-in Boeseke went away on a nice run to the fifth. Then Hitchcock set up another which Bostwick, who did not go so well as he has in the past, missed, only to have Guest come charging through to make it the sixth.

The seventh goal came in the fourth, with Hitchcock again feeding Bostwick. The fourth period also brought the Reds' first goal, a fine drive by Pedley.

In the fifth session Guest had two more fine saves and then Hitchcock hit a post from a scrimmage with Boeseke galloping in to send the ball through. Pedley matched this later, but Boeseke, with two nice goals in the sixth, more than offset Pedley's goal.

The seventh was easily the best period for the Reds. They scored three ties and took the attack away from the others for the only time during the game. Rathbone drove through in sensational fashion. Iglehart followed with a long, angled goal and Pedley added the third.

The Whites went away again in the final period when Hitchcock scored three times in a row, once on a free hit, and Talbott finished the scoring on a pass from Iglehart.

The play was very fast in spots but it did not have the evenness of the play at Fleischmann Field Sunday in the first of these matches.

The line-up:

Whites (13).	Reds (7).
1—G. H. Bostwick	1—Eric Pedley
2—E. A. S. Hopping	2—E. J. Boeseke Jr.
3—T. Hitchcock Jr.	3—S. G. Iglehart

MISS HALEY WINS AT GOLF.

Scores 89 for Low Gross Honors in Skytop Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

SKYTOP, Pa., July 23.—Two New York players led the field of twenty-eight in the women's invitation handicap golf tourney at the Skytop Club today. Miss Ruth Haley won low gross honors with an 89 and Miss Adrianne Bancker took the runner-up cup with a 90.

Miss Bancker had a lead of three strokes on the seventeenth but ran into trouble on the eighteenth and took an 8 for the women's par 5 hole.

Atlanta Welcomes Grant Home, 2d U. S. Champion in 2 Weeks

ATLANTA, Ga., July 23 (AP).—Bryan Grant arrived home today from Kansas City, where he won the national clay court tennis singles championship.

A small welcoming party, including his father, B. H. Grant Sr., who paired with Nat Thornton to win the Southern doubles crown many years ago, gathered at the station to greet Bryan as he brought Atlanta its second national championship in sports within two weeks.

"Mighty lucky," was his reply to those who congratulated him on defeating some of the country's best performers.

BRITISH FOUR WINS FINAL TRIAL MATCH

Comes From Behind in Last Two Chukkers to Defeat Lancers by 6 to 4.

By ARTHUR K. BRYCESON.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MALMESBURY, Wiltshire, July 23.—The British four won its final international polo trial match at the Beaufort Polo Club today, defeating the Seventeenth and Twenty-first Lancers Regiment, 6 to 4.

Great Britain should have won much more decisively to make today's match any sort of an offensive prelude to the invasion of Meadow Brook, but Captain Pat Roark again played as if he had gone stale and his team's attack suffered. For the four's sake he must recover his form after a rest of the next few weeks.

He has some kind of complex about the Beaufort Club and says he cannot hit the ball when playing there. At his best he is a great player and if he gets back to form before the international contests, England stands a good chance to triumph.

The other three members of the team, Captain Richard George, Gerald Balding and Lewis Lacey, are all playing well. They need only Pat's return to his game to make the team quite formidable. Balding hits hard and can score goals from eighty yards. Lacey is good enough back to check anybody and George has not an eight-goal handicap for nothing.

Lancers 24-Goal Team.

The Lancers, who have won the British Army polo championship ten times in the past eleven years, are a twenty-four-goal team, but they played well above themselves today. This was their last big game in England as they sail for foreign service in Egypt in September.

The Lancers started with a rush and Walford hit in a goal in the first minute of play. The British team came back, however, and Balding leveled matters with a great near-side drive.

The lancers had it all their own way for the next five minutes and then Cooke put them ahead again after Miller and Colonel Worckett each had just missed. Rain began to fall in the second chukker, but the ground remained firm throughout the game.

The losers kept on the offensive and Cooke put through another goal on a fine hit up from Walford. Pat Roark did not seem able to connect and George and Balding had to carry most of the attack.

The British team had to defend desperately in the third chukker, but eventually Lacey goaled on a fine hit up by Balding. Lacey scored again early in the fourth chukker to even up for Great Britain, but before the bell sounded Walford converted a free hit against Balding.

Roark Braces in Fifth.

At the fourth interval, the Lancers were still in front, but Pat Roark found his game a bit in the fifth and he tallied on a great shot from about seventy yards to put the British four on even terms again. The victors got into the lead for the first time soon after when Balding hit through, while George cleverly rode off Lockett.

The play in the last chukker was dominated by the victors despite the fact that they made only one more goal, George scoring with a beautiful shot under his pony's neck.

The line-up:

England (6).	Lancers (4).
1—George.	1—Cooke.
2—Balding.	2—Miller.
3—Pat Roark.	3—Walford.
Back—Lacey.	Back—Lockett.

SCORE BY PERIODS.

England	1	0	1	1	2	1	—6

Goals—England: Balding 2, Lacey 2, Roark, George. Lancers: Cooke 2, Walford 2.

OLD OAKS TRIUMPH IN CUP POLO MATCH

Take Measure of Elkwood Four in Opening of Herbert Memorial Trophy Play, 16 to 6.

PHILIP IGLEHART EXCELS

17-Year Old Star Scores 7 Goals and Proves Bulwark of Victors' Defense.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

RUMSON, N. J., July 23.—The Old Oaks, staging a whirlwind attack in the final four periods against the Elkwoods today troumphed by 16 to 6 in the opening match of the Herbert Memorial Cup polo tournament on Herbert Memorial Field at the Rumson Country Club.

The discrepancy in the score belies the sort of a contest that was developed for though the Elkwood attack crumpled in the final four periods, the riders from the Norwood Country Club made the Old Oaks go at top speed to pile up their big total.

To the ability of 17-year-old Philip Iglehart must go the chief honors of the match. Not only did he personally send in seven of his team's goals but he proved a bulwark of strength on the defense and in starting and finishing combination offensive plays. Feeding him with uncanny ability to elude the Elkwood defense were Arthur Borden, Mike Phipps and Raymond Guest.

Nor did this trio play only a passing game, for Borden and Phipps each bagged three goals and Guest two. The other Old Oaks goal was put in by Williams of the Elkwoods. Guest had driven from about fifteen yards in front of the goal a lofted ball, when Williams put up his club to knock the ball out. Instead he put the ball into his opponent's goal.

Spectacular Riding at Close.

The most spectacular riding came in the last four periods, when the Old Oaks were all over the field, forcing back the alert Williams and Earl Shawe, who rode on the forward wall of the Elkwood defense. But the most interesting and most closely fought part came in the first four periods. The score was tied three times, but the Elkwoods were in command of a 5 to 4 lead at the half-way mark.

The strength displayed by Elkwood, especially in the front attack headed by Adam Gimbel, was a big surprise. Old Oaks apparently could not get their combination play to working properly, while the Elkwoods clicked off their advances with clock-like regularity.

But when the fifth period began the Old Oaks riders came into their own and between then and the end of the game they piled up twelve goals, while Elkwood could muster only one. But while the Old Oaks were scoring almost at will they were meeting with a stern, though futile resistance that never slackened until the final whistle.

Feature of Old Oaks Drive.

The best part of the Old Oak four's offensive consisted in keeping three men on the ball in every combination developed. Phipps would ride onto the ball, while Iglehart and Borden would hem in the Elkwoods and ride close up to back up misses or topped shots.

Time after time the Old Oaks, riding thus, and with Guest playing a deep back, got on the near side of the Elkwoods and thus cut them off from breaking up attacks.

The line-up:

Old Oaks (16).	Elkwood (6).
1—M. Phipps.	1—A. Gimbel.
2—P. Iglehart.	2—E. Shawe.
3—A. Borden.	3—R. Allison.
Back—R. Guest.	Back—H. W. Williams

SCORE BY PERIODS.

Old Oaks	2	1	1	0	3	3	2	4	—16
Elkwood	3	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	—6

TWO NEW BUILDINGS FOR COLUMBIA CREWS

Work on Boathouse and Field Quarters on Harlem Starts—To Be Ready Next Spring.

Columbia will have an enlarged rowing centre next Spring on the banks of the Harlem River near Spuyten Duyvil when the construction of two new buildings, started yesterday, is completed. The 1897 boathouse, for many years the scene of Blue and White crew activities, will remain and in addition there will be another boathouse and a field house, with locker rooms, showers and lounge rooms completing the group.

Announcement of the construction of the new buildings was made yesterday at Columbia and when the new quarters are opened next Spring, the Lions will have greatly improved facilities for rowing. The new buildings in this city, together with the ideal headquarters on the Hudson River above Poughkeepsie, will give Columbia one of the most extensive and best equipped outdoor rowing plants in the country.

The new buildings have come about as the result of the gift of an anonymous donor. The amount of the gift also has been kept confidential.

The 1897 boathouse will continue to house the shells and other equipment, but the congestion there will be relieved by the construction of a similar building to the south of it.

The field house will be erected on the point just to the north of the 1897 boathouse. The locker and shower rooms will be on the first floor of the field house and the second floor will consist of a lounge room and rooms for the coaches.

The oarsmen will continue to live at the Manor House and the training table also will be retained there.

Trend to Night Golf Foreseen as Chicago Plans Experiment With Phosphorous Balls

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 23.—A new experiment in night golf is soon to be tried at the Sunset Valley Golf Club by men employed by the Chicago Civic Opera Company, chiefly in the stage scenery production staff.

A luminous ball, made bright with a combination of phosphorus paints, will be used instead of the standard ball in general play. Backers of the new plan say the ball can be seen distinctly at night and is so luminous that they can follow it through the air even when driven at great length from the tee.

The idea of the new phase of the game is to afford golf play to the hundreds of enthusiasts who cannot indulge in it during the daylight hours. If it proves as successful as its advocates hope, it will afford golf at all hours.

The experiment of playing with luminous golf balls is not new here. In November, 1927, Miller J. Bloomer aroused the interest of New York golf devotees by testing phosphorescent balls on the links of Van Cortlandt Park. He found little difficulty following the flight of the balls.

Nothing came of the experiment at that time, but observers of the present trend in sports toward night games expect that the new plan will be tried in many other cities. The action of many cities toward night baseball under flood lights and increased attendances are distinct evidences that games after dusk will be played more and more.

Golf at night first received its impetus in the metropolitan district when Gene Sarazen played at Briarcliff Lodge under flood lights. Powerful lights were erected at regular intervals along the fairway and were supplemented by two searchlights of 4,000,000 and 1,000,000 candle power.

Although Sarazen drove two or three of the balls into the rough, where they were lost, sufficient drives rested in line with the flag to satisfy sponsors of the idea that the first advertised night experiment had proved a success.

MISS PARKER GAINS IN RYE GOLF PLAY

MRS. BIEG ALSO ADVANCES

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., July 23.—As a result of her victory today over Mrs. Ronald Barlow of Merion, who has taken a conspicuous part in tournament golf for over twenty years, Miss Martha Parker, the metropolitan and New Jersey titleholder, gained the third round of the women's invitation tourney at the Westchester Country Club.

Incidentally, Miss Parker's 6 and 5 triumph means that tomorrow she will oppose another member of the Barlow family, Mrs. V. N. Bieg, Mrs. Barlow's daughter, who yesterday contributed the tournament's chief upset by eliminating the medalist, Mrs. Thomas Hucknall, the Connecticut champion.

Against Mrs. Barlow Miss Parker, the former Philadelphia champion, though putting poorly at times, was able to amass a lead of 3 up on the first nine and did not relinquish a single hole during the match. However, Mrs. Barlow's short game, still the envy of some of the younger stars, was not its best today and she three-putted two greens in succession—the eleventh and twelfth—which made her 5 down before she put her tee shot out of bounds to lose the thirteenth, thus ending the match.

Mrs. Rodney Is Defeated.

Mrs. Bieg eliminated Mrs. A. W. Rodney of Quaker Ridge by 3 and 2, while the other favorites, including Mrs. Leo Federman, Long Island champion; Miss Frances Williams, Eastern titleholder; Miss Jane Brooks of Rockland; Mrs. Edward Stevens, Bermuda champion, and Mrs. John Lapham, home club titleholder, also advanced.

Miss Williams in this her first tournament over the west course still has not gained her putting touch, and she missed innumerable chances against Mrs. I. M. Wheeler of Westchester. The final outcome was 4 and 3 in Miss Williams's favor, the Eastern champion leading by 2 up at the turn. She was out in 43 and lost only one hole when she sent her No. 4 iron shot from the fifth tee into a bunker.

Mrs. Federman Out in 39.

Mrs. Federman, opposing Miss Frances Snyder, had the lowest outgoing nine, an approximate 39, where men's par is 36. Although Miss Snyder pounded the ball from the tee for tremendous distances, sometimes outdriving the Long Island player by twenty yards, she could not cope with Mrs. Federman's all-round steady play and bowed, 6 and 5.

THE SUMMARIES.

First Division.

Mrs. John Lapham, Woodway, defeated Miss M. A. Luke, Sleepy Hollow, 3 and 2; Miss Frances Williams, Pottstown, Pa., defeated Mrs. I. M. Wheeler, Westchester C. C., 4 and 3; Miss Martha Parker, Spring Lake, defeated Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Merion, 6 and 5; Mrs. V. N. Beig, Merion, defeated Mrs. Archie Rodney, Quaker Ridge, 3 and 2; Mrs. Leo Federman, Fresh Meadow, defeated Miss Frances Snyder, Apawamis, 6 and 5; Mrs. Edward Stevens, Round Hill, defeated Miss Jane Evans, Siwanoy, 5 and 3; Miss Jane Brooks, Rockland, defeated Mrs. L. C. DuBois, Wee Burn, 5 and 3; Miss Betty Pietsch, Tamarack, defeated Mrs. H. L. Cowan, Winged Foot, 2 and 1.

Second Division.

Mrs. Harry Edson, Round Hill, defeated Mrs. E. G. Betz, Philadelphia, 2 and 1; Miss Helen Silleck, Greenwich, defeated Mrs. George Studwell, Ardsley, 3 and 1; Mrs. H. Halstead, Rockland, defeated Mrs. Earl Ross, Bonnie Briar, 7 and 5; Mrs. E. N. Hodges, Raritan Valley, defeated Mrs. Joseph Kahn, Quaker Ridge, 2 up.

Third Division.

Mrs. W. T. Campbell, New Haven, defeated Mrs. A. Hill Wright, Westchester C. C., 2 and 1; Miss Anne Hughes, Baltusrol, defeated Mrs. H. L. Connell, Dunwoodie, 3 and 2; Mrs. David Magowan, Scarsdale, won from Mrs. G. Hussey, Scarsdale, by default; Mrs. D. M. Willard, Winged Foot, defeated Mrs. O. W. White, New Haven, 1 up.

Fourth Division.

Mrs. John Cromelin, Siwanoy, defeated Mrs. G. S. Daso, Westchester C. C., 8 and 7; Mrs. F. H. Lanthier, Westchester C. C., defeated Mrs. F. W. Arnold, Hartford, 4 and 3; Mrs. C. M. Bacon, Scarsdale, defeated Mrs. J. B. Proctor, Winged Foot, 1 up; Mrs. H. W. Beals, Rye, defeated Mrs. Mike Brady, Winged Foot, 4 and 3.

Fifth Division.

Mrs. P. R. Reid, Hackensack, defeated Mrs. M. Klopstock, Westchester C. C., 4 and 3; Mrs. L. Frantz, Bonnie Briar, defeated Mrs. A. K. Shaw, Westchester C. C., 4 and 3; Mrs. Charles Wright, Siwanoy, defeated Mrs. E. Schmalholz, Westchester C. C., 4 and 3; Mrs. G. Wheeler, Westchester C. C., defeated Mrs. L. Jenkins, Richmond County, 4 and 3.

Mrs. E. H. Falk Sweepstakes Winner

STAMFORD, Conn., July 23.—Mrs. E. H. Falk today won the weekly sweepstakes event among the women players at the Woodway Country Club with a score of 110—29—81. Other scores were: Mrs. J. W. Lambert, 98—14—84, and Miss Elizabeth A. Thomas, 104—18—86.

Antipodeans Arrive for Games.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 23 (By the Canadian Press).—The representative teams of Australia and New Zealand, which are to take part in the British Empire games here, arrived in the city today and received a civic reception by Mayor Peebles.

Voigt in Field of 100 to Play In Greenwich Starting Today

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 23.—A field of 100 golfers will compete in the Greenwich Country Club invitation tourney which starts tomorrow. Among the entries are George Voigt, the Walker Cup player; Eddie Held, T. Suffern Taller, Sidney Noyes, Richard Chapman, the interscholastic champion; Ellis Knowles, Robert Moffett and Larry Lloyd.

MAC SMITH HAS 66 ON ANCASTER LINKS

ANCASTER, Ont., July 23 (Canadian Press).—The heavy artillery of practically all of the great golfers of the continent except Bobby Jones will resound over the rolling Ancaster links tomorrow as the first round of the Canadian open championship gets under way.

A majority of the stars who will attempt to win the Dominion title tried out the course today, and judging by the brilliance of their practice rounds, scores below par may be anticipated in the tournament. The course itself is in excellent condition, but tournament officials have been looking skyward in the hope that rain would drench the fairways and greens, which have become a trifle sun-baked.

Has Five on Seventeenth.

Macdonald Smith achieved the best practice round today. He stroked his way over the course in 66, including a five on the seventeenth hole.

Johnny Farrell shot a 67 and appeared in fine form. Tommy Armour of Detroit also had a 67, while Jim Barnes scored a 69. Leo Diegel, the present holder of the title, shot a 67 in his round this afternoon.

Walter Hagen gave warning that he would be a factor in the present tournament when he shot a 67. Horton Smith, who electrified the gallery early in the week by disposing of the first nine in 33, also is looked upon as a serious threat. He had a good practice round today.

Kerrigan First to Tee Off.

Play begins tomorrow at 8:30 A. M. with Tom Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y., runner-up in 1922 and 1923, starting off in company with Lex Robson of Toronto. A. C. Carrick of Toronto and Albert Estony, Lockport, N. Y., follow after five minutes.

Eighteen-hole rounds will be played tomorrow and Friday and those within twenty strokes of the leader will participate in Saturday's thirty-six-hole final round.

MISS HOLM BREAKS WORLD SWIM RECORD

Covers 100 Yards Back-Stroke Event in 1:12 2-5 at Long Beach Water Carnival.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., July 23.—Miss Eleanor Holm of the Women's Swimming Association of New York shattered the world's short tank record for the 100-yard back stroke at an A. A. U. water carnival in the 60-foot pool of the Olympia baths this evening.

In a sanctioned trial against time Miss Holm swam the century in 1:12 2-5 and lowered the listed standard of 1:12 3-5 held by Miss Joan McSheehy of Whitinsville, Mass.

Miss Lisa Lindstrom and little Constance Hanf, her 12-year-old W. S. A. clubmate, engaged in a match at 100 yards free style and the latter surprised by a dead heat with the champion in 1:09.

Miss Georgia Coleman of the Los Angeles A. C., newly crowned national A. A. U. outdoor champion in springboard and high platform fancy diving, gave a spectacular exhibition from the 10-foot board. Among other dives she executed in perfect style the double forward somersault and the one-and-a-half Dutchman.

MET. SWIM TO PEARSALL.

Wins A. A. U. 165-Yard Medley Event at Midland Beach.

Howard Pearsall of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A. won the 165-yard Metropolitan A. A. U. medley swim, one of the features of the weekly meet conducted in the Midland Beach pool, Midland Beach, Staten Island, last night.

Pearsall also placed second in the 55-yard Metropolitan A. A. U. free-style swim, which was won by Joseph Wargo of the Yonkers Y. M. C. A., who finished second to Pearsall in the medley event.

The summaries:

Metropolitan A. A. U. Events.

HOWLAND'S CONDITION GOOD

Yale Swimming Captain Operated On in Honolulu.

HONOLULU, July 23 (AP).—John Howland, captain of the Yale University swimming team, was operated on for appendicitis today. His condition was said to be good. The Yale team recently took part in an international swimming meet in Honolulu.

TOLLEY DEFEATED IN WESTERN GOLF

MOE AND PERKINS ADVANCE

Reach Quarter-Finals by Double Victories—Fish Conquers Evans—Lehman Wins.

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP).—Two of the highest ranking favorites in the Western amateur golf championship field, Cyril Tolley of England and Charles (Chick) Evans Jr. of Chicago, were eliminated today in the second round of match play at the Beverly Country Club.

Bob McCrary of Des Moines, Iowa, conquered Tolley, 1 up, after a thrilling uphill fight, while Charlie Fish of Rockford, Ill., sank a thirty-five-foot putt on the nineteenth green for a sparkling birdie 3 and a victory over Evans.

Their victories, posted among the last results, were the only unexpected developments of the day's play. Don Moe of Portland, Ore., the defending champion, and T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur titleholder, scored easily in their first pair of eighteen-hole battles.

Perkins's Play Impressive.

Of the two, Perkins was the most impressive. He shot almost perfect golf, conquering Freddy Lyons of Chicago, Western junior champion, 6 and 5, and Earl Berryhill of Colorado Springs, Col., by the decisive margin of 8 and 7.

Moe was not extened, although his margins were close. He eliminated Vincent Huntington of Chicago, 4 and 2, in the first round, and Johnny Howard, Kalamazoo, Mich., 2 and 1, in the second.

Johnny Lehman of Chicago, co-medalist with Evans, reached the quarter-final round with two victories. He defeated Lloyd Nordstrom of Davenport, Iowa, who topped the qualifying field at the end of the first eighteen-hole round, 4 and 3, and followed through in the afternoon with a 3-and-1 triumph over George Dawson of Chicago.

Carter Bows to Novotny.

The closest semblance to an upset besides the defeats of Tolley and Evans was the elimination of Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, former champion, by Gus Novotny of Chicago, 2 up, in the second round.

Other survivors were Jack Westland, Chicago district champion, and Ira Couch, also of Chicago.

Tomorrow in the quarter-finals, over the thirty-six-hole route, Moe will meet Lehman, Westland will face Perkins, Fish will oppose Couch and McCrary will meet Novotny.

ZEPHYR HOME FIRST IN LARCHMONT RACE

PLAYTOY ATLANTIC WINNER

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., July 23.—The annual junior regatta, which is a regular fixture during the yearly Larchmont race week, attracted eighty-three yachts today, and the event, the fifth of the series, was the most successful ever held. Only three boats failed to finish.

Although little wind prevailed at the start of the regatta, a fairly good breeze sprang up from the northwest soon afterward, enabling the boats to get under way rapidly. This came after three classes, including one six-meter boat, two interclubs and eighteen Atlantics were bunched together in a drift over the first leg of the course.

At 2 o'clock, when the first class started, boats were drifting around the committee boat in the light air; those which happened to drift across the starting line before the gun was fired found it very difficult to drift back again to make a start.

As the Star class fleet of twenty-six boats drifted up to the line to follow the Atlantic sloops a sudden breeze blew over the water, sending ripples across the surface and bending the light boats as their sails filled.

Stars Overtake Atlantics.

Straightaway the line of Stars started to catch up with the Atlantics, which had not yet gotten the benefit of the breeze. Soon boats of both classes were closely bunched in a rush to outdo one another. The Atlantics had the better of the going, however, three of them finishing before the first Star.

Paul Rennel, sailing the International Star boat Zephyr, won in this class. Zephyr went over the starting line on the starboard tack and hugged the north shore, while the rest of the fleet kept in open water.

Zephyr profited by the tide and led her rivals around the first mark off Scotch Caps. She continued to set the pace to the finish. Bob Carrick, in L. H. Reybine's Lout, was second.

Miss Louise Kunhardt, sailing the Atlantic sloop Playton, was the first boat across the finish line in this class, followed less than two minutes later by Greenwich's youthful skipper, Logan Munroe, in his Budge. Third and fourth to finish were Sailor, with Rodney McNeil at the helm, and Margot, sailed by Jack Fields.

In the Sound Interclub Class, Anne, sailed by Warren Pierson, defeated Arclay, skippered by Barclay Shaw, by a margin of 1 minute 53 seconds, the two boats sailing a four-mile course.

Carlisle Gains Honors.

John Carlisle, in Sabalo, again gained honors in the Sound junior class, defeating nine rivals. The next home, Mauss Darling's boat, was three minutes astern.

The only six-meter boat, Bill Luder's Totem, which was lent to R. Russell Hall, dropped out at the first turning mark when Hall found no other boats in that race were racing.

A large fleet of power boats followed the sailing craft around the course. Families of the young skippers crowded these boats, eagerly watching the progress of the races.

Junior Yachtsmen to Compete For Long Island Sound Title

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 23.—Twenty crews from yacht clubs along Long Island Sound and the Great South Bay will compete off Stamford under the auspices of the Stamford Yacht Club, starting on Aug. 11, for the junior racing championship of Long Island Sound.

The competition this year will be on a different basis from those of other years. Instead of a series of elimination races there will be three races for all the boats, and the six crews with the highest point standing in these three races will then compete for the championship.

The Stamford Yacht Club crew will comprise R. Russell Hall, captain, 17 years old; Robert, Gillespie, 16, and R. A. R. Pinkham, 16.

YACHT THISBE SAILS HOME FIRST TWICE

Gains Advantage Over Conewago in Canada's Cup Eliminations, Scoring in 2 of 3 Races.

CLOSE FINISHES FEATURE

Less Than Half Minute Separate Craft in All Events—Barrow Pilots the Thisbe.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 23.—The Clinton Crane eight-meter Thisbe increased her advantage over Conewago today by winning two of three races sailed in the Rochester Yacht Club's Canada Cup eliminations. Thisbe now has an advantage of four victories to Conewago's two.

All races were closely contested, less than half a minute separating the craft each time after three miles of work up the wind and return. Thisbe took the first race, winning by 26 seconds, lost the second event by a scant five seconds and gained the edge for the day by annexing the third by 12 seconds.

Thisbe showed up best working to windward, leading at the end of the first leg each time. Conewago went better on the runs, making up a disadvantage of 1 minute 36 seconds to score her lone victory. W. V. Castle continued at the helm of the Conewago, with W. P. Barrow tillering the Thisbe.

BELLOISE AND COYNE WIN AMATEUR BOUTS

Members of Our Lady of Refuge A. C. carried off the honors in the amateur boxing tournament which their club held at the New York Velodrome last night by winning both special bouts in rather decisive fashion before a crowd of about 5,000.

Mike Belloise, the club's flyweight star and Bronx County champion, had somewhat of a tussle with Jimmy Hughes of the St. Mary's A. C., in their 112-pound contest, but won because he landed the harder punches.

In the other special, a 147-pound affair, Jim Coyne, of Our Lady of Refuge A. C., knocked out Harry Pallett of North Pelham, Westchester County welterweight titleholder, in 1:35 of the second round.

HOPPE CAPTURES TWO MORE

Increases His Lead Over St. Jean in Three-Cushions.

Willie Hoppe ran his winning streak to six blocks by capturing the fifth and sixth sessions of his handicap three-cushion match with Andrew St. Jean at the Strand Billiard Academy yesterday.

Hoppe, who is playing for 50 points per block against St. Jean's 40, or for a total of 700 to 560 during the 14-block match, has a 121-point lead, having scored 300 points to 179 for St. Jean.

Hoppe won in the afternoon, 50 to 30, in forty-six innings. Hoppe's high run was 10 and St. Jean's 4. At night Hoppe triumphed, 50 to 41, in forty-eight innings. Hoppe's best cluster was 6 and St. Jean's 5.

FOUR BRITISH BOATS NAMED FOR SERIES

Fintra, Coral, Prudence and Felma to Meet American Yachts in Six-Meter Races.

U. S. TRIALS OPEN AUG. 11

Tests to Select Contestants for British-American Cup to Be Sailed on Sound.

Selection of four six-meter yachts to represent Great Britain in the races for the British-American Cup, to start off Oyster Bay on Sept. 1, were announced yesterday by the British selection committee.

The four boats to sail for Great Britain are Fintra, owned by E. S. Parker; Coral, the property of A. A. Stuart-Black; Prudence, belonging to K. H. Preston, and F. A. Richardson's Felma. Ten craft will be shipped to this country about Aug. 9 on the Cunard Line.

Commencing on Aug. 11 the trial races to select the American team of four boats to compete against the British yachts will be sailed off Oyster Bay on Long Island Sound. The trials will continue on the following days until the American selection committee, consisting of Percy S. Weeks, chairman; Richard deB. Boardman, Samuel Dauchy, Joseph M. Macdonough and Philip R. Mallory, selects the four boats to represent America in the race.

Committee to Select Boats.

The American selection committee has the power to select the American yachts under a resolution of the British-American Cup committee which follows:

"Resolved, That the instructions to the selection ocmmittee should be to choose boats which would give the American team the best chance of winning; and that the committee should not be limited by special instructions as to how or on what basis this choice should be made."

Heading the British-American Cup committee is Van S. Merle-Smith, chairman. Johnston de Forest is the secretary and others on the committee are Robert N. Bavier, Donald H. Cowl, Cornelius Shields and C. Sherman Hoyt.

The Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, whose station is at Oyster Bay, is the American signatory to the agreement of 1927 for the second series of the British-American Cup matches.

Owners Invited to Enter.

Owners of six-meter yachts, constructed in the United States, who are members of recognized yacht clubs, are invited by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club to enter their craft in the trial races through their respective clubs, as it is not required that the owner of a competing yacht must be a member of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Club.

Mr. Merle-Smith, 57 William Street, New York City, is in charge of the entries, which should be sent to him. On or before Aug. 9, a measurement certificate, as required under the international rule of measurement, from Harold W. Webb, official measurer of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound, Columbia University, Department of Physics, New York City, accompanied by a Lloyd's certificate, must also be on file with the race committee of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club.

Any boat which is not formally entered and whose certificates are not filed with the race committee will not be allowed to start in the trial races.

BAIN BEATS ZELINSKY ON POINTS IN NEWARK

Abie Bain, Newark middleweight, decisively outpointed Joe Zelinsky of Binghamton in a ten-round bout at Dreamland Park, Newark, last night before about 15,000 fans.

Zelinsky won the fifth round and held Bain even in the tenth. Otherwise it was all Bain's. Bain weighed 161½ and Zelinsky 161.

Mickey Greb, 124, of Nutley, knocked out Tommy Schiff, 124, of Paterson, in the second round of a scheduled six. In another bout billed for six rounds Al Rossi, 136, of Newark, stopped Johnny Dempsey, 138, of Newark, in 44 seconds of the fifth round.

Walter Chapman, 135, of Baltimore, won from Eddie Barton, 134, of Long Branch, in an eight rounder.

G. King Stars as Union County Beats Columbia Oval C. C.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 23.—Coming within two runs of a century, George King of Union County, in partnership with L. Hamilton, who scored 38, not out, made a long stand which enabled his team to defeat the Columbia Oval eleven by 44 runs with 6 wickets to spare in the Metropolitan District Cricket League match at Warinanco Park yesterday.

The visitors from New York batted first, putting on 104 runs, of which R. Joseph contributed 40 and E. Butcher 19. A. King of Union County performed a notable feat in bowling by taking 4 wickets for 9 runs. Union County responded with 148 for the loss of four wickets.

BROWN IS WINNER OVER BERNASCONI

McCORGARY STOPPED IN 3D

Al Brown, recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission as the bantamweight champion of the world, easily carried off the decision over Domenico Bernasconi, claimant to the bantamweight championship of Italy, in the main bout of ten rounds at Ebbets Field last night. A crowd of 5,000 witnessed the encounter, which was fought over the bantamweight limit of 118 pounds.

The Negro was rarely threatened, and forced Bernasconi to miss repeatedly. Each boxer weighed 122½ pounds.

Harry Smith, Harlem Negro middleweight, knocked out Babe McCorgary of Oklahoma in the third round of the scheduled ten-round semi-final. Smith outclassed his willing rival from the start and punished him considerably while the battle lasted.

The Negro dropped McCorgary for a count of two in the second session and finished him in the third with a heavy right to the jaw after 1 minute and 30 seconds of the round had passed. McCorgary weighed 169½ pounds and Smith 161¾.

Walter Palm of Harlem, 154, outpointed Marco Appicello, South Brooklyn, 153½, in a six round battle. The four-round opener, between Vincent Renta, 118½, and Johnny Hinds, 121¾, ended in a draw.

AUSTRALIAN STAR IS ILL.

Bradman, If He Faces England, Will Not Be in Top Form.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press Cable).—A cricket test match eve casualty was reported today—Don Bradman, Australia's prolific batsman, has been suffering from stomach trouble since his visit to Glasgow, where he made another century playing against the West of Scotland.

Bradman has been under the doctor's care for several days. While he may be able to play, his admirers fear he will not be in top form. The fourth test match between England and Australia begins at Manchester on Friday.

Thomas W. Goddard, the Gloucestershire medium paced bowler, has been invited to Manchester. Lord Harris and H. D. G. Leveson-Gower of England's cricket board of council watched Goddard perform for his country at Maidstone yesterday. One of his victims was A. P. F. Chapman, the English captain. Critics of England's bowlers in the first three tests have been demanding the use of Goddard.

English Cricket Results.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The cricket match between Australia and the County of Durham, which was to have been staged at Sunderland today, was rained out. Not a ball could be bowled and the game was abandoned. No start could be made also in the following matches:

Yorkshire against Northamptonshire at Harrowgate, Warwickshire against Middlesex at Birmingham, and Leicestershire against Glamorgan at Leicester.

Scores in other matches which began today were:

Surrey vs. Derbyshire at the Kennington Oval: Derby, 162 (Shephard, five wickets for 42 runs); Surrey, 57 runs for two wickets.

Worcestershire vs. Hampshire at Bournemouth: Worcester, 115 for three wickets (Nichol, 52, not out).

GROGAN, FLOWERS SET FOR BATTLE TONIGHT

Tommy Grogan and Bruce Flowers are ready for their ten-round bout which will feature the card at the Queensboro Stadium tonight. The battle originally was scheduled for Tuesday night, but was put back because of the weather.

Both boxers have worked hard for the contest, and a stirring match is expected. Grogan recently engaged in a close bout with Tony Canzoneri, while Flowers had little difficulty in turning back Herman Perlick in his last local start. The winner of tonight's bout is likely to receive an opportunity to fight Justo Suarez, South American lightweight champion.

The semi-final, also listed for ten rounds, will bring together Lew Paluso and Joe Trabon. The latter will take the place of Sammy Dorfman. Sammy Cherin and Emil Rossi will meet in a six-round bout, while two five-rounders and a four-round curtain-raiser complete the card.

Kola Koli, Porto Rican, will meet Nick DeSalvo in a ten-round bout at the Olympia Boxing Club tonight. Eight other matches, each slated for four rounds, also are listed.

Nick Palmer and Connie Josenlo are paired in the main ten-round bout at Fort Hamilton tonight. In the eight-round semi-final Ole Nesheim will tackle Tommy Murphy.

Pantaleo Knocked Out by Hunt.

BOSTON, July 23 (AP).—Babe Hunt, Oklahoma heavyweight, knocked out Paul Pantaleo of Chicago tonight in the fifth round of the Boston Garden's feature bout, scheduled for ten rounds, at Braves Field. Hunt weighed 197, almost twenty pounds more than the Chicago lad.

CARNERA HERE TO SEE ABOUT DEPORTATION

Seeks Interview With Federal Officials—Manager Explains Canada's Action.

Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, and his manager, Leon See, were in New York last night seeking an interview with immigration officials on a recently issued deportation order, The Associated Press reported.

Carnera, through his manager, denied that Canada had refused him permission to enter that country, where he was to have appeared in an exhibition at Montreal last night. He claimed he and See were en route to New York from Cleveland yesterday and stopped off in Buffalo for a sight-seeing trip to Niagara Falls. The exhibition, See said, has been postponed one week.

"We started to the Falls," he said, "but turned back when Canadian officials refused us entrance because of lack of passports. Returning, we were stopped by United States authorities, who believed we were attempting illegally to enter the United States."

See said he exhibited railroad tickets to New York and after explaining they had not entered Canada were permitted to go on their way.

Committee Reverses Decision on Race to Mackinac Island.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 23 (AP).—J. E. Williamson's yawl Cynthia, and not Colonel A. E. Pierce's schooner Quicksilver, was first in the cruising division of the Chicago-to-Mackinac Island race, the Chicago Yacht Club race committee announced last night.

The reversal of its decision was made after the yawl crossed the finish line. George Catto, head of the committee, said the yawl's time allowance gave it first place.

VICTORS TAKE FIRST PLACE

Americans Drop From Lead to Sixth—Czechoslovakia Triumphs Over Poland.

HAMBURG, Germany, July 23.—A clean sweep by Austria at four boards in the match with the United States was the outstanding occurrence in the thirteenth round of the team tournament of the International Chess Federation today. The Americans dropped from first place to sixth.

F. J. Marshall, I. Kashdan and H. Steiner of New York and J. A. Anderson of St. Louis were defeated by their opponents, who were in splendid form. By its triumph Austria went into the lead with a total of 34½ points. Kashdan declined the offer of a draw and, trying to win, lost like the rest of his team.

Czechoslovakia achieved a notable triumph over Poland and tied that country for second place in total points won, Hungary is fourth, Germany fifth, the United States sixth and Holland seventh.

Dr. Alexandre Alekhine of Paris again played for France today, winning his game from Gilfer of Iceland. The world champion also scored in his adjourned eleventh-round game with Major Manuel Golmayo of Spain.

THE SUMMARIES.

United States vs. Austria.

Kashdan lost to Kmoch in a Ruy Lopez after 61 moves.

Anderson lost to Mueller in a Zukertort opening after 50 moves in a rook and pawn ending.

Steiner lost to Eliskases in a Giuoco Piano after 18 moves.

Backers Foresee Finish of Scott Within Five Rounds.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—W. L. (Young) Stribling, the Georgian, who boxes Phil Scott of London July 28 in Wembley Stadium, intends to take no chances of an illegal blow ending the match, Pa Stribling said today.

Despite Scott's popularity, Stribling is favored to win. More optimistic Stribling backers foresee the finish within five rounds.

Stribling weighed 191 pounds today and will enter the ring at not less than 189.

BUSHWICKS BEATEN IN NIGHT BALL GAME

INNOVATION IS POPULAR

Night baseball under flood lights was inaugurated in the metropolitan area last night at Dexter Park, Woodhaven, before about 4,500 spectators, as the Springfield nine of Long Island City conquered the Bushwicks, 5 to 2.

The innovation met with the approval of the fans and as a result the management of the Bushwicks plans to continue night baseball at Dexter Park. Another game will be played tonight and also tomorrow night.

The game last night was well played and at a fast pace, requiring 1 hour and 46 minutes. In the second inning the lights went out in the outfield and did not come on again until the sixth. They failed again in the seventh, but were on once more in the eighth.

Powerful Lighting System.

Flood lights with a candle power of more than 260,000 watts formed a powerful lighting arrangement which on the whole functioned satisfactorily. There were eight steel towers, each containing two lights of 10,000 watts in addition to projectors of 1,500 watts.

The flight of the ball was easily seen at all times by players and fans in the grand stand. Most of the players were enthusiastic about the night game.

Action seldom lagged, both teams recording several snappy plays. Only one error was made in the outfield.

Torpe Star of Game.

Torpe starred on the mound and at bat, getting two hits, while Lang's sparkling play at third base was impressive. Gerner had a perfect day at the plate with a double, two singles and a base on balls in four attempts.

The Bushwicks employed two pitchers, Stanley Baumgartner and Lee Schaenen. The victory was Torpe's tenth in a row and the Springfield's fourteenth consecutive triumph. The defeat for the Bushwicks was their fifth in a row.

GIANTS BUNCH RUNS TO OVERCOME CUBS

Get Three in Fourth and Four in Fifth to Win Odd Game in Series, 8-6.

CRITZ HITS HOMER IN THIRD

Chicago Gains Early Lead, but Blake Weakens—Fitzsimmons Effective in Relief Role.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

It having been determined by the McGraw board of strategy that no further ground can be lost with safety in the National League pennant race, the Giants stepped out on the Polo Grounds yesterday and wrenched the final game of the series from the Cubs by 8 to 6.

The victory gave the McGrawmen the series, three to two, and enabled them to maintain their respective distance of four games behind the champions, who, due to their misfortunes here, left the city last night not in the best of spirits and still in second place.

Literally, the Giants walked off with this one, accomplishing the feat in the fifth when an entire battalion of McCarthy's pitchers lost all sense of direction, handed out five passes and forced in two of the four runs the McGrawmen scored in this hilarious round.

Cubs Off to Early Lead.

Up to this moment, however, it must be admitted that the Cubs looked dangerous. They clubbed Joe Heving for three hits and two runs in the second and to this added three more in the fourth on another cluster of three hits and a fumble by Marshall, who is subbing in the Giant infield for Jackson.

But at this point McGraw began to dazzle the enemy with strategy. He introduced no fewer than three pitchers, Chaplin, Pruett and Fitzsimmons, and all were excellent, the first two merely departing to make room for pinch-hitters who hit and hit lustily.

The Giant advance on the foe began in the third when Critz stroked one of Blake's pitches into the lower right tier for a homer. This seemed to soften the Sheriff up, for he passed two men in the fourth and as Lindstrom, O'Farrell and Pinch-Hitter Hogan surrounded these gifts with singles, while Roettger contributed a sacrifice fly, three runs came in.

Moss Relieves Blake.

Then came the fifth, in which McCarthy withdrew the Sheriff after he had passed Lindstrom and allowed himself to get thumped for a single by Terry. Came Moss, who merely lasted long enough to pass Ott and fill the bases. He was immediately followed by Osborn and seemed to have even less of an idea where the home plate was located, for he passed both O'Farrell and Marshall to force in two tallies.

McGraw sent Allen to bat as a pinch hitter and it proved an excellent stroke, for though McCarthy had again changed pitchers, now depending upon Nelson to check the Giant parade, Allen hammered a fine single to centre and two more tallies came across.

That ended the Giant scoring, but then no further runs were needed as Fitzsimmons, coming on in the sixth, proved quite equal to the task of holding the Cubs to the end.

According to Manager McCarthy, Rogers Hornsby, who has been out for more than a month mending a broken ankle, will rejoin the Cubs in Philadelphia today.

TRAYNOR'S HOMERS WIN 2 FOR PIRATES

Wallop in Ninth Wins First Game, 2-1—Second Decided in 13th, 16-15.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23 (AP).—Pittsburg took both ends of a double-header from the Phillies today and gained an even split in the series. The Pirates took the first game, 2 to 1, and won the last, a long-drawn battle that lasted 3 hours and 41 minutes, by 16 to 15, in thirteen innings.

Home runs by Traynor decided both. He hit one off Roy Hansen that won a pitching duel for Meine in the ninth of the opener, the ball bounding into the bleachers. His homer in the final came with two on bases. The Phils tied the Pirates in the second game in the eighth, ninth and twelfth innings, but fell a run short in the thirteenth.

WHITE SOX RALLY TO BEAT RED SOX

Score Two in Eighth to Break Deadlock and Capture Contest, 5 to 3.

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP).—Red Faber and Hal McKain held Boston to four hits today, while the White Sox pounded Danny MacFayden for enough hits to score a 5 to 3 victory.

Faber gave four hits in six innings and retired for a pinch batsman in the Sox half of the sixth. McKain held the Red Sox hitless the rest of the way.

Boston bunched two of its hits with a walk and a sacrifice for three runs in the sixth to go into the lead but the White Sox rallied in the last of the inning to tie it and scored two more in the eighth. The victory gave the White Sox three out of five in the series.

LUQUE TURNS BACK CARDS FOR ROBINS

LOPEZ'S TRIPLE BREAKS TIE

Comes in 7th With Score 1-1 and Wright on Base—Victors Now Lead Cubs by Full Game.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Señor Adolfo Luque, the ancient but peppery Cuban, held Frankie Frisch to three hits and the other eight Cardinals to two more yesterday afternoon, while Frederick, Lopez, Wright and Bissonette batted in four runs to give the Robins the final game of the series, 4 to 1, and a better grip upon first place. They now lead the Cubs by one game.

Acclaim of the 4,000 Flatbush fans present was almost as great for the Giants because of their second straight triumph over the Cubs as it was for Luque and the Robins. The cheers that rose from the stands when the figure "4" was posted for the Giants on the scoreboard in the fifth were exceeded in volume only when Al Lopez blasted his triple between Douthit and Hafey in the seventh to score Glenn Wright with the tally that broke the 1-1 deadlock.

The Robins' first run came in the third after Lopez made a double on a fly to short left that neither Gilbert nor Hafey could get under. With two out Johnny Frederick caught one of Sylvester Johnson's slants fairly for the first clean hit of the game to score the young Brooklyn catcher.

Bottomley Hits Lucky Triple.

Luque maintained this slim advantage for six innings, not an opposing batsman getting beyond first base, but Bottomley opened the seventh with a crashing hit to centre that appeared to be only a single but took a sudden high bound over Frederick's head and went for a triple. Hafey lifted a long fly to Frederick and Bottomley scored after the catch with the tying run.

Johnson had faced an identical situation in the previous inning when Frederick started the frame with a triple, but Bottomley's remarkable catch of Gilbert's foul hit almost into the stands, and a double play retired the Robins.

In the seventh, Wright interspersed a single between two outs, and Lopez, after spending an interminable time at bat, while Johnson threw many balls to Bottomley to hold Wright on the bag, sent the Robin captain home with his triple.

Frederick Opens Attack.

Frederick started the eighth with a single, his third hit. Gilbert fanned, and Herman again was given a free ticket to first. Boone went out on a short fly to Hafey.

Bissonette directed his fire through the box for a single to score Frederick, and Wright picked the same spot for another hot shot that scored Herman. Eddie Moore lined to Douthit to end the inning.

BALTIMORE TAKES TWO.

Beats Reading, 4-2 and 9-0, for Thirteen Straight Over Keys.

READING, Pa., July 23 (AP).—Baltimore won both ends of a double-header from Reading today and ran its streak to thirteen consecutive games for the season over the Keys. Lou Koupal bested Nelson Greene in a pitchers' duel in the first game to win by 4 to 2, while Stewart Bolen held the Keys to three hits in the nightcap to cop by 9 to 0.

Joe Hauser hit a home run in each game to run his string to 37, while Johnny Gill hit a pair of homers in the nightcap to increase his total to 21.

BRAVES AND REDS DIVIDE DUAL BILL

Cincinnati Rallies to Win by 8-7—Boston Triumphs in 11 Innings by 6-5.

BOSTON, July 23 (AP).—The Braves and Cincinnati remained tied in sixth place in the National League as the result of their breaking even in a double-header today. The Reds staged a four-run rally in the ninth of the first game to register an 8 to 7 victory, and the Braves took the second, 6 to 5, in eleven innings.

Pitcher Seibold drove in the winning run in the second game with a single to centre, which scored Spohrer, who had walked and advanced to second on Maguire's sacrifice.

JERSEY CITY BEATS BEARS.

Snaps Newark Winning Streak at 4 Games by 4 to 2 Victory.

The Bears found Pitcher Maurice Bream a puzzle when hits would have produced runs. Jim Faulkner labored for the Bears and had one bad inning, the fourth, when three hits gave Jersey City half of its runs.

QUINN, ATHLETICS, TAMES THE TIGERS

Veteran, in Superb Form, Permits Only Five Hits to Record 4 to 1 Triumph.

DETROIT, July 23 (AP).—The veteran Jack Quinn of the Athletics pitched excellently today to score his ninth victory of the season at the expense of the Tigers, 4 to 1, and even up the four game series.

George Uhle was the victim. While the Tiger ace was yielding nine hits, Quinn was holding Detroit to five. After two Tigers had walked in the ninth, Earnshaw relieved Quinn. He allowed one hit but the next three men went down, the last two on a snappy double play.

In addition to the five hits Quinn allowed, only three balls were poled into the outfield by Tiger batters.

CARROLL SHELLED HARD

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, July 23.—Joe Sewell's double with the bases filled and one out in the eighth cast the deciding vote in the Yankees' farewell game today, the Yankees losing to the Indians, 10 to 6.

Sewell's scorching drive over first base set 10,000 fans to rejoicing and broke the 5-to-5 tie existing when Owen Carroll took charge of the game. The result sent the Yanks off to Detroit in a sorry mood, for they won only one of the five-game series.

Bob Shawkey rearranged his infield, moving Lazzeri to third and posting Reese at second. Shifting Lazzeri was an admirable move, for Tony gave a brilliant exhibition of plain and fancy third-basemanship, and was the fielding star of the game.

Reese, however, did not do so well. Twice the eager young man from the Pacific Coast bungled on comparatively easy plays, bouncing the ball to Gehrig each time and each bounce helped the Indian run-making endeavors.

Close Game Until Eighth.

The game was close all the way until the eighth, with Pennock pitching a beautiful game and the lead changing hands again and again. First Cleveland held a 1-to-0 lead on two singles and a force play in the first inning. Gehrig's double and Rice's single tied the score in the second. In the third, Combs's single, Reese's long double to left centre, and Ruth's single scored two runs before the first out.

Singles by Porter, Averill and Joe Sewell scored a run for Cleveland in the fourth, but the Tribe did not tally until Reese had thrown inaccurately to first in trying to complete an easy double play which would have retired the side.

The Indians went ahead in the sixth. Reese threw wild on Porter's grounder, then Morgan drove the ball over the garden wall for his second homer of the series. Reese's second double of the game opened the seventh and Lazzeri's single tied the score.

Wes Ferrell earned his victory by mastering Ruth and Gehrig in this crisis. The Babe popped an infield fly and Gehrig fanned.

Seeds Drives Triple.

In Cleveland's half, Goldman singled and Seeds tripled, putting the Indians ahead. Lary speared a liner and doubled Seeds off third, preventing further trouble for the moment. With two out in the eighth, Cooke batted for Pennock and doubled to right. Combs's single tied the score again.

But Manager Shawkey had used up nearly all his pitchers in the course of the first four games here. Carroll then made his first appearance in a long while. He pitched to four batters. Morgan's double, Hodapp's infield hit and a pass to Averill filled the bases. Sewell's double scored two runs. Holloway replaced Carroll and three more hits added three more runs.

Ruth's double, Lazzeri's single and Rice's sacrifice fly gave the Yanks a run in the ninth.

JERSEY CITY TO STAGE NIGHT GAME TONIGHT

Will Meet Newark Club After Contest in Afternoon in Latter's City.

The Newark and Jersey City clubs of the International League will engage in the first league night baseball game to be contested in the metropolitan district at Jersey City tonight, starting at 9 o'clock. The game was originally scheduled to be played on Tuesday night, but rain caused a postponement.

Advance indications are that an overflow crowd of more than 12,000 fans will witness the contest. This afternoon the teams are slated to play a league game in Newark.

For tonight's encounter the Jersey City field will be flooded to daytime brilliancy with lights having a total candle-power of 300,000 watts. Both teams have played in night games at Buffalo this season and thus the surroundings will not be strange to them. Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City has been invited to throw out the first ball, and among others who have been invited to attend are Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees; Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, and Frank York, president of the Brooklyn Robins.

FIRST VICTORY IN 4 GAMES

Metzler Makes Initial Appearance for St. Louis—Score Is 10 to 9.

ST. LOUIS, July 23 (AP).—After losing three games in a row, the Washington Senators defeated St. Louis today in the series final, 10 to 9, in eleven innings. A home run by Cronin, his second of the day, tied the count in the ninth and the Senators put over the winning run in the eleventh.

Alex Metzler, recently acquired by St. Louis from the Chicago White Sox, made his first appearance with the Browns and made two hits out of three times at bat.

Butler's Questionnaire and Awake Run One, Two in 2-Horse Race at Empire City

MT. KISCO STAKES TO QUESTIONNAIRE

WORKMAN SCORES DOUBLE

By BRYAN FIELD.

James Butler, president of the Empire City Racing Association, had a private race at the Hilltop yesterday when his Questionnaire and Awake had a walk-over for the Mount Kisco Stakes, principal offering of the day.

The value of the Mount Kisco was $3,250, but under the rules governing walk-overs the purse was reduced by one half. Butler declared to win with Questionnaire, and that son of Sting-Miss Puzzle finished a length and a half ahead of Awake, but he was under a double pull to stay that close to Awake. It was the first walk-over of the Metropolitan season.

Originally Butler had three horses entered in the race, Stormy Dawn being the other, and the only competition was represented by Gifford A. Cochran's Polygamous. Polygamous was scratched early in the day, and shortly after Stormy Dawn was withdrawn. There was, of course, no betting on the race and wagers of even a freak nature were not heard.

Starter George Cassidy gave the two a fine start and away they went shoulder to shoulder. There was much laughter throughout the running, and booing at the finish, the spectators apparently resenting the fact that there was such a small field and one which precluded betting. Raymond Workman rode Questionnaire and Charles Kurtsinger was up on the other horse.

Questionnaire High Winner.

Questionnaire was the chief money winner of the meeting before the start, with his victories in the Mount Vernon and Yonkers and the purse of the Mount Kisco gave him a position from which he cannot be displaced.

The running was all Questionnaire. Heavily pulled all the way except in the last quarter, Questionnaire was timed as follows: 0:24, 0:48, 1:14, 1:40 4-5 and 1:45. The distance was a mile and seventy yards, and the result gave Butler his first victory in the race, which was inaugurated in 1920.

Questionnaire's victory also gave Butler and Workman a double, as the former saw his silks borne to the front by Prize Day in the curtain-raiser. Workman rode the horse. Prize Day is a 2-year-old daughter of Spur and won easily by four lengths.

Heedless Places Second.

The horse was a joint choice at 11 to 5 with Traitor, which finished with the tail-enders. Second place went to Heedless, a 30-to-1 shot. The Fives landed third, paying 5-to-1 for place.

Workman missed a triple when he landed second in the nightcap with George D. Widener's Jamison. Opponent from the Rancocas Stable, well ridden by Laverne Fator, ran on top from start to finish. The performance was a great improvement over Opponent's recent form. The Wheatley Stable's Upsweep was third.

BANK OF U. S. NINE WINS.

The Bank of United States baseball team registered its twentieth victory in twenty-two games yesterday, blanking the Prudential Life Insurance Company nine, 4 to 0, at Kearny Stadium, Kearny, N. J.

Blue Larkspur Has Breakdown; Fear Racing Career Is Over

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP).—Blue Larkspur, 1929 3-year-old champion of America, today was scratched from the Arlington Handicap, $35,000 added, at Arlington Park on Saturday, because of a serious breakdown during his workout this morning.

The gallant 4-year-old son of Black Servant—Blossom Time, owned by Colonel E. R. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., may never race again, according to his trainer, H. J. Thompson. The horse, which rates near the top among all-time money winners on American turf, pulled up lame, and Thompson said he feared its racing days were over.

The trainer said Blue Larkspur probably would be shipped to Lexington and retired to the stud.

ELLICE HOME FIRST IN LATONIA FEATURE

Carries Camden Silks to Victory by 2 Lengths With Stablemate, Culloden, Next.

LATONIA, Ky., July 23 (AP).—Former United States Senator J. N. Camden's entry ran one-two in the Turkey Foot Road Purse today, the stellar attraction which came fifth on the card. Ellice got the large end of the purse with his stable-mate, Culloden, second, while Elizabeth Kennedy was third. The race was contested over the mile and seventy yards route. Ellice covered the distance in 1:43 4-5 and paid $3.56 for $2.

Ellice and Culloden set the pace for the entire distance, Ellice winning by two lengths. Busy was used up in the early running and faltered in the last sixteenth. The entry was odds-on favorite.

HARRISON HANOVER SCORES AT READING

Takes Greater Reading Stake for 2:26 Trotters—Tell and Tell First in 2:18 Pace.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., July 23.—Spirited heats raced from wire to wire furnished plenty of excitement for the inauguration of the William Penn Circuit light harness meeting tonight over the speedy Greater Reading Fair track.

William Hepburn's Tell And Tell won the Monocacy Stakes for 2:18 class pacers in straight heats, with Jack Cochato, a Western entry, the contender, forcing the son of Dazzle Patch to step in 2:08 to win.

SUN BEAU TRIUMPHS AT ARLINGTON PARK

BROWN WISDOM IS SECOND

Captures Place by Four Lengths Over Silverdale—Winner Pays $7.25 for $2 Ticket.

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP).—Sun Beau, the 5-year-old bay horse by Sunbriar, out of Beautiful Lady, was an easy winner of the Gallant Purse, the feature of today's card at Arlington Park. Brown Wisdom, from the Reichert Brothers' Stable, was next best, with Silverdale, from E. B. McLean's string, third.

The race was an allowance affair with $2,000 added, for 3-year-olds and upward, over the one-mile distance, and was worth $1,400 to the winner, which negotiated the journey in 1:36 1-5. He paid his admirers $7.25 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Sun Beau, under a well-judged ride by L. Schaefer, was kept close up to the pace until nearing the turn into the home stretch, where he headed Brown Wisdom and drew out to win easily by two and a half lengths.

Brown Wisdom set the pace until passed by the winner and though weakening in the final drive took the place by four lengths from Silverdale. The latter easily took third place by a length from William T., Jean Val Jean and Sandy Ford finished next in that order.

Prize Day broke fast, went up on the inside and drew out in the stretch to win nicely in hand. Heedless got away running, displayed good speed and held on gamely. The Fives was in close quarters in the early part, closed with a rush and would have been second in a few more strides. Impish was running strongly at the end. Traitor moved up fast around the turn, but weakened badly in the last furlong as if short. Washington Belle showed a flash of early speed.

Scott was on the outside at the start and moved into a contending position early. He was rated along to the middle of the turn, moved into the lead and, drawing away, won nicely in hand. Croyden was shuffled back just after the start, closed a big gap and finished gamely. Golden Anger got away fast, rushed into the lead and set a stiff early pace, but weakened badly in the last quarter mile. Mary Eloise came very fast in the last three furlongs. Princess Henry was well up for seven furlongs.

Swatter broke fast, handled his weight well, was nicely rated for the first half mile, moved up and into the lead opened a wide gap, but tired suddenly in the stretch. Stephanite, well up from the start, finished very fast and was wearing the winner down. Sunny Morn broke very slowly, worked his way up and closed a big gap. Yankee Doodle had no mishap. Rock Byrd was used up racing Stephanite into submission and stopped to a walk. Lady Bienville was outrun.

STAR BLOSSOM WINS AT STAMFORD SHOW

SILVER DARE GAINS TITLE

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 23.—Star Blossom, one of the great saddle mares of the country, won the first of the valuable stakes of the thirteenth annual Stamford Horse Show today. This smoothly going chestnut, faultlessly shown by Mrs. James A. Hewlett, annexed the bulk of the money for Charles F. Hubbs of Brookville, L. I., in the $500 stake for saddle horses over 14.2 and not exceeding 15 hands.

The first championship of the show also was decided today, the honors in the title event for novice saddle horses over 14.2 hands being carried off by the gray gelding Silver Dare, shown by the Green Hill Farm of Charlestown, R. I. Reserve to the winner was the bay mare Clearview Sunflower, owned by Miss Isabel M. Scott of Plainfield, N. J.

Saddle Stake Popular.

Nine showed for the saddle horse stake and it was a pretty competition to watch, arousing much enthusiasm. High honors were won by Silver Dare, which went on from winning the novice saddle championship to take second money in the stake. To be placed second to Star Blossom was a signal triumph for a novice. The latter was the winner a year ago of no less than six championships and twenty-four first prizes and is continuing her great record this season.

Third money was taken by G. Berry Beaumont's chestnut mare Mello Glo; fourth by the Green Valley Stable's bay mare Irene Peavine; fifth by Mrs. W. N. Rothschild's black mare Debonair, and sixth by R. C. Reynold's bay mare Egyptian Osiris.

Lieutenant Van Duzer Burton's grand hunter Golden Eagle won his third blue ribbon in the second section of the touch-and-out stake and will be ineligible to compete further except in the final on Saturday. Ridden by his owner, Golden Eagle turned in the only clean performance in the big field. H. Hollon Crowell's bay gelding Lismore, Danny Shea up, gave the next best exhibition.

Likely Lady Is Victor.

Spectators interested in the saddle battles eagerly awaited the meeting of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palmer's national winner, Likely Lady, and the Polka Dot Farm's big chestnut gelding Whoopee. They at last came together in the class for park riding horses over 14.2 hands, and the former triumphed. There was a great deal of enthusiasm manifested throughout the judging of the event.

One of the biggest saddle classes that have competed at any show in a long time was the limit class for horses over 14.2 hands, in which no less than twenty-three of the huge entry actually showed. Honors eventually went to the Brownsdale Farm's bay mare Brownsdale Nancy Brown, which was placed over John H. Stone's chestnut mare Lady Frances.

The second division of the special separated walk, trot and canter class was decided this afternoon. In the walking division on the opening day Silver Dare was first and the Boxwood Farm's chestnut mare Mountain Myrtle second. These results were reversed today and the two may fight it out tomorrow in the canter division for the special trophy to be awarded the horse with the most points in all three divisions.

Sinbad Jumps Perfectly.

Mrs. Harry Frank Jr. of Warrenville, N. J., gave a faultless performance over the testing course with her noted gray hunter Sinbad, and the only other which went clean was Parry D. Saylor's bay gelding Honey Boy. The latter, however, was beaten on conformation and could do no better than third. Second to Sinbad was H. Hollon Crowell's chestnut gelding Mickey, which had two faults scored against him in the jumping.

Best of the middleweights was the gray gelding Shamrock, owned by Miss Jane F. Peters of Mount Kisco, N. Y. Lieutenant Burton's bay gelding Solitaire was the only other with a perfect performance, conformation, quality and manners deciding first and second places.

The heavyweights were the smallest division, and it resulted in a splendid victory for Golden Eagle. This was the third blue of the day for the towering and brilliant gray gelding and his fifth during the first two days of the exhibition. Second money was gained by the Sunridge Stable's chestnut gelding Weary River.

Howard Rides 12 of 34 Horses In One Jumping Class in Show

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 23.—The riding of Minot Howard of Port Chester, N. Y., made the open jumping class this afternoon at the Stamford Horse Show one of the most unusual of the season, for of the thirty-four horses that jumped, he had the mount on twelve. In addition, he rode three of the four horses in the jump-off for prizes.

The youthful expert also figured in a spectacular spill in this class. When he was riding Peter the Great his mount made a poor take-off at the seventh fence, crashing through the obstacle. Howard turned a complete somersault, but landed on his feet unhurt.

HOLLYROOD HARROD WINS TOLEDO TROT

EQUALS HIS OWN RECORD

Steps the Second Heat in 2:02¼—Carnatic, Barbara June and Braden Herr Also Score.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 23 (AP).—The classic Hotel Secor Stake of $3,000 for 2:13 class trotters, feature on the Grand Circuit program at Fort Miami Park tonight, was easily won by Hollyrood Harrod in three straight heats.

Hollyrood Harrod, which is undefeated this year, won each heat by some two to four lengths. Fanton, driven by Breitenfield, and Black Leaf, Sep Palin's entry, furnished the contention. Hollyrood Harrod was the top-heavy favorite and stepped the second heat in 2:02¼, equaling his record.

The 2:22-2:18 trot for non-winners in 1930 was a four-heat event, won by Carnatic, driven by Marvin Childs. Winnie Wilson, with Caine in the sulky, won the first heat, and the favorite, Abe Harvester, took the second, with McKay driving.

Barbara June, driven by Sturgeon, captured the first division of the 2:21 pace, while the second division went to Prince Mack, with McMillen at the reins.

HOLLYROOD COLIN WINS FREE-FOR-ALL

Triumphs Over Bronx in Trot as Orange County Racing Opens at Owego.

Special to The New York Times.

OWEGO, N. Y., July 23.—The Orange County Circuit races postponed yesterday on account of rain got away to a fine start today. The weather was ideal and a large crowd gathered for the opening card. There were no upsets, the favorites winning in all three events.

The card marked the return to driving of William Dickerson, the Arden Homestead Stable's trainer, who received a fractured foot in the Toledo Grand Circuit races recently.

In the free-for-all trot he piloted Hollyrood Colin and won handily from Bronx.

CALIFORNIANS LOSE IN TURF COURT PLAY

FEIBLEMAN ALSO ADVANCES

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Led by Francis T. Hunter, the field in the metropolitan turf court championship advanced to the quarter-final round yesterday with six of the seeded group numbered among the eight survivors at the Crescent A. C. in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

This afternoon, starting at 4 o'clock, Hunter will meet Donald Cram of Nashville, Tenn., and E. W. Feibleman will play E. W. Burns in the upper half. In the lower division Frank Shields is bracketed with David Jones of Columbia and Ellsworth Vines of California meets William Einsmann.

It was a disastrous day for the California contingent of players, for in all three of the matches to which they were a party yesterday they came off second best. Hunter accounted for one when he defeated Henry Culley at 6—1, 6—4; Jones eliminated a second, Phil Neer, who yielded in the third set of their match, interrupted on Tuesday, while Jack Tidball, who gained an unexpected victory over Feibleman at Longwood, fell before Cram at 6—3, 8—6.

In the two other matches of the day Feibleman dispatched Frank Bowden at 6—1, 6—3, and Shields put out Lemoine Heuser, 6—2, 6—3.

Culley's Service Puzzles.

Considering the quality of tennis that Hunter has been putting forth on the Crescent courts, Culley, a strapping youth from Harvard, had good cause to take satisfaction from his second set with the New Rochelle veteran. His soft, twisting service, which he is now using instead of his cannonball, was his best asset, puzzling Hunter with its queer bound and drawing his return into the net time and again.

Off the ground the Californian was unequipped to hold his own in the face of the Davis Cup veteran's battering attacks, but on occasion he gave as good as he took and prepared the way for rushes to the net which Hunter could not always break up. Hunter relaxed pressure in this set, but whenever he needed a point there was no gainsaying his crushing forehand drive and he was never in any danger of losing the chapter.

Shields played an even tempo all the way against Heuser. His weapons were fully adequate to any occasion without the necessity of resorting to drastic measures, and though Heuser picked up in the second set and pressed closely, Shields was always the master of the situation with his beautifully rounded game.

Jones Plays Brilliantly.

Jones, in defeating Neer at 6—3, 3—6, 6—3, turned in one of his best performances since he came within a stroke of defeating Julius Seligson on the same courts in the Eastern intercollegiate championship.

THE SUMMARIES.

Metropolitan Singles.

Third Round—Francis T. Hunter defeated Henry Culley, 6—1, 6—4; Donald Cram defeated Jack Tidball, 6—3, 8—6; E. W. Feibleman defeated Frank Bowden, 6—1, 6—3; Frank Shields defeated Lemoine Heuser, 6—2, 6—3; David Jones defeated Phil Neer, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3.

New York Sectional Doubles.

First Round—Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill defeated Dr William Rosenbaum and Fred C. Baggs, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4; Elmer Griffin and S. Howard Voshell defeated Kenneth Underwood and Eric Baker, 6—2, 6—1, 6—1; Henry Holden and Gene McCabe defeated Armand L. Bruneau and Lucien Lacoste, 3—6, 6—8, 6—1, 6—3, 6—3; Charles Anderson and Manfred Goldman defeated Henry Gries and Lytle Chambers, 7—5, 10—8, 6—2; E. W. Bursn and E. Rockafellow defeated Henry and John McDiarmid, 3—6, 6—0, 6—4, 6—2.

Second Round—Donald Cram and Kendall Cram defeated Sidney Adelstein and Harry Sacks, 6—3, 6—3, 6—0; Shields and Morton Bernstein defeated W. P. Johnson Jr. and A. T. Nedmann, 6—0, 2—6, 6—1, 6—2; Tidball and Gerry Bartosh defeated Frank Bruneau and Casper Nannes, 6—2, 7—5, 6—3.

HYDE AND PLYMIRE REACH TENNIS FINAL

Win Semi-Final Matches in Placid Club's Annual Invitation Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., July 23.—Hobey Hyde of Hartford, Conn., and Harry Plymire, star of the Stanford University team, will meet in the final of men's singles at the Lake Placid Club's eighteenth annual invitation July tennis tourney.

Hyde eliminated Albert Horton 3d of Providence, 3—6, 6—1, 6—4, today, after experiencing considerable difficulty in handling Horton's high-bouncing serve. Plymire disposed of Wallace Vanlier, 6—0, 6—1.

Miss Helen Irving of Chester, Pa., sprang the surprise of the day by conquering Miss Barbara Stevens of New Haven, 3—6, 6—4, 6—1, and tomorrow will meet Mrs. H. S. Greene of Tarrytown in the women's semi-finals.

Hyde and Charles Lockhart of Pittsburgh will play Plymire and J. Calder in the men's doubles final tomorrow, both pairs winning in straight sets today.

THE SUMMARIES.

Men's Singles.

Semi-Finals—Hobey Hyde defeated Albert Horton, 3—6, 6—1, 6—4; Harry Plymire defeated Wallace Vanlier, 6—0, 6—1.

Camerons Win at Cricket.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., July 23.—Plainfield cricketers, after being put out for 24, one of the smallest team totals of the season, were defeated by the Camerons of New York, who ran up 150 for the loss of only five wickets here today.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

It adds to the fun when a sports hero has a flair for the dramatic. Bill Tilden is the Abou Ben Adhem of that class. His name leads all the rest. He has developed his natural talent. He has had training on the boards and behind the footlights. Every move a picture, and timed to the split second. Camera!

Even the sprained ankle was dramatic. Some fellows have all the luck, or at least a special talent for cultivating it. There he was, roused by the bugle call, dashing to the rescue of his beleaguered countrymen on the court, and coming a cropper. But he is up again. They can't keep a good man down. Now, small boys, stand out of the way! Ruffles and flourishes! The hour is at hand and who comes galloping up to save the flag? It is he! It is Big Bill Tilden! Hurroar!

Well, we may not win, but we have Big Bill on our side. They can't take that away from us, although one of the Kinsey boys went Mexican and wanted to play for Mexico against our Davis Cup team. But Big Bill won't desert us, even when he retires. He retired last year, didn't he? Well, here he is again. He said his fondest hope is to win the cup this year and then retire. Certainly. It just means going to his tennis hermitage and hauling him out again next year "against his wishes and his better judgment."

Why, there would be a popular uprising if Bill didn't appear for the big show. The tennis spectators would demand their money back. Leave Bill out and it's just a game. Put Bill in and it's a drama.

Other Dramatic Heroes.

Though with less personal talent for the theatrical, Bob Jones occupies a somewhat similar position on the golf stage. The spectators who rush over hill and dale at the golf championships are not there to see the championship at all. They want to see Bob Jones.

All you hear is:

"Bob took a 6 at the third. Went into a deep trap."

"Jones is at the ninth. Let's hurry out and catch him."

"Bobby's putting like a streak. He'll swamp 'em!"

The other contestants might just as well be playing in a fog or on a desert island. The Jones gallery cuts in front of them or backs up on them. They don't count. They are just the chorus, the fellows carrying spears, the citizens who fill up the scene. Jones is the hero, the cynosure of all eyes, the observed of all observers.

Hagen was once a rival, but Sir Walter has fallen far behind. When Jones isn't on the links, lesser stars may vie for favor, but when Bob tees up, the curtain is lifted and the big show is on.

Charley Paddock and Joie Ray were dramatic heroes on the track. There have been better runners, but these fellows knew how to dramatize an appearance and a contest.

On the Diamond.

Baseball has been favored in this respect. Babe Ruth is a drama every time he comes to bat. His career has been a succession of dramatic episodes. He went to the heights, to the depths and back again to the heights, flashing with color and followed by the crowds.

Ty Cobb was a great ball player and a great actor. Al Simmons is developing a flair for the dramatic, a valuable tip he picked up by association with Ty Cobb. He swaggers in the Cobb manner and wears his uniform sleeves long in the Cobb style.

The Great Shires, whose dramatic urge was rudely stepped upon by Owner Comiskey of the White Sox, is hitting the ball and treading the boards again in a Washington uniform. He is putting on his act as of yore, and it's a good act, too. The fans like it.

The Robins have two famous actors in Dazzy Vance and Babe Herman. When Vance strolls to the mound, it's an event. When Babe swings on a ball, it's a circus.

College Theatricals.

Then there's the college gridiron. Those who saw the Yale-Harvard game last November will never forget the bundled figure rushing out on the turf when Yale threatened the Harvard goal. Off came the pull-over coat with cowl attached. Off came a heavy sweater. Off came another sweater. Cheers resounded. It was Booth, Albie Booth, the Little Giant of the Gridiron, the midget who had smashed the Army and who was about to hurl back the Crimson horde!

It was a dramatic moment, followed by something like a farce. With thousands watching with bated breath and hearts a-flutter, Albie aimed a kick for the crossbar, but, alas, the ball went bounding soggily along the ground like a watermelon dropped from a passing vegetable wagon.

Anyway, it was a great act until it went wrong. Albie had the color even if he missed the kick. Red Grange had the color and the theatrical instinct when he carried the famous "77" on his back for the Illini. Knute Rockne comes along every Autumn with an all-star troupe. Either football provides a wonderful stage setting or the boys who go out for the gridiron game are apt theatrical students, for there are more dramas and heroes on the football field than in any other line of sport.

In the Ring.

When Jack Dempsey went over the hill, the ring lost most of its drama. There aren't six fighters now, champions or challengers, whose names can stir more than a mild interest among the fight fans. The Tunney-Dempsey fights were dramatic affairs because the contenders, differing so radically in many ways, were foils for each other. Partisanship was bitter. Debates were fiery and personal. Now the heavyweights are a drab lot.

Mickey Walker carries a bit of color, but probably the real attraction of the ring these days is Kid Chocolate, carrying no title at all, but putting on a rattling good show almost every time he dons the gloves and goes into action.

Firpo was only a crude fighter, but he had a flair for the dramatic. Huge, sullen, scowling, and tremendously strong, he was a mysterious figure in the ring. Georges Carpentier! There was a great actor inside the ropes. But the ring of today has no Babe Ruth, no Bob Jones, no Bill Tilden. The dramatic heroes of other days have departed and the pugilistic stage is dull, deadly dull.

SEEDED STARS GAIN IN WOMEN'S TENNIS

Mrs. Stenz Reaches Quarter-Finals of State Title Tourney by Easy Triumph.

All four of the seeded players in the women's New York State clay court tennis championships reached the quarter-finals yesterday as the singles field was reduced to eight survivors on the courts of the Jackson Heights Tennis Club.

Mrs. Bernard F. Stenz, Florida State champion, who is seeded No. 1, scored the most decisive victory of the day by conquering Mrs. Rose Taubele, mother of the second seeded player, Miss Norma Taubele, at 6—0, 6—0.

TAYLOR NET VICTOR OVER RUDY IN UPSET

Texan Defeats Seeded Player, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, in Quarter-Finals of West Virginia Play.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 23.—In the first real upset in the West Virginia open tennis tournament at the Greenbrier Club, Earl Taylor, Austin, Texas, defeated Elmer Rudy of Baltimore, eighth seeded player, 6—4, 4—6, 7—5, in the quarter-finals today.

In the first set Taylor won four games in a row, playing a brilliant game at the net. Then Rudy scored on his service and took the next four games in a row. Taylor steadied his game and took the next two games and set. In the second set Taylor won the first game with Rudy taking the next two. Rudy outdrove Taylor and took the set.

In the third set Taylor took the first four games with fine placements and a good net game. He then had a streak of wildness and dropped the next five games. The Texan then steadied to win the next three games and match.

THE SUMMARIES.

Men's Singles.

Quarter Finals—H. L. Goldsborough Jr., Baltimore, defeated Herbert Stansbury, Beckley, 6—3, 6—0; Jake Hess, Austin, Texas, defeated V. B. Semi-Finals—Star and Arkel defeated Maass and Rothschild, 6—2, 6—3.

GIRLS' TENNIS POSTPONED.

Met. Semi-Finals at New Rochelle Put Off Until Today.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 23.—Competition in the girls' metropolitan tennis championship was called off today because of the unsatisfactory condition of the courts at the New Rochelle Tennis Club following the heavy rainfall last evening.

The semi-final round will get under way tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock with Miss Grace Surber of Jackson Heights opposing Miss Millicent Hirsh of New York, and Miss Carolyn Roberts of New Rochelle playing Miss Marjorie Colvin of Jackson Heights.

HINES IS TENNIS VICTOR.

Defeats Free in Quarter-Final of Carolinas' Tourney.

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 23 (AP).—Wilmer Hines of Columbia, seeded favorite in the Carolinas' tennis tournament, swept through his quarter-final match today with ease, bowling over Jim Free of Tuscaloosa, Ala., in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1. "Lefty" Bryan, Chattanooga, defeated Jack Boykin, Atlanta, 6—3, 6—3.

MISS GLADMAN WINS IN ESSEX NET PLAY

Turns Back Miss Sarah Palfrey, 6-0, 3-6, 6-0, to Gain Semi-Final Round.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 23.—Several upsets were scored today in the annual women's invitation tennis tournament at the Essex County Club as semi-final brackets were gained by the Misses Marjorie Gladman, Josephine Cruickshank and Dorothy Weisel, all Californians, and Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass.

Miss Cruickshank, the only unseeded semi-finalist in this tournament but rated tenth among the women nationally, played brilliant tennis in continuing her match this morning with Mrs. L. A. Harper, third seeded player, from 6 all, where they were forced to stop yesterday because of rain. She captured that set at 8—6, but dropped the next at 2—6. She came back, however, to win the final set at 6—2.

In her next match Miss Cruickshank defeated Miss Ethel Burkardt of California, eighth seeded player and Pacific Coast champion, 8—6, 7—5, in what was probably the best tennis of the tournament to date.

Miss Gladman, seeded sixth, played her usual fast game and defeated Miss Sarah Palfrey, second seeded player, 6—0, 3—6, 6—0. It was evident that Miss Palfrey was still suffering from sea legs.

Miss Weisel, who won the California championship by defeating Mrs. Harper, and is the only semi-finalist who has no national ranking, vanquished yesterday's star, Miss Virginia Hilleary, who in the second day of play defeated Miss Edith Cross, defending champion. Miss Weisel won by 6—1, 6—3.

Miss Morrill gained the semi-finals by vanquishing Miss Mianne Palfrey, who earlier in the morning had downed Miss Mary Greef, seeded fourth, in straight sets, 6—4, 8—6. Both girls seemed under par, probably due to their late arrival from England on Sunday.

THE SUMMARIES.

Singles.

Third Round—Miss Josephine Cruickshank defeated Mrs. L. A. Harper, 8—6, 2—6, 6—2; Miss Mianne Palfrey defeated Miss Mary Greef, 6—4, 8—6.

Quarter-Finals—Miss Marjorie Gladman defeated Miss Sarah Palfrey, 6—0, 3—6, 6—0; Miss Cruickshank defeated Miss Ethel Burkhardt, 8—6, 7—5; Miss Dorothy Weisel defeated Miss Virginia Hilleary, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Marjorie Morrill defeated Miss Mianne Palfrey, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Doubles.

First Round—The Misses Alice Francis and Anne Page defeated the Misses Edith Sigourney and Mary Greef, 6—4, 8—6; Mrs. Lamme and Mrs. Lockhorn defeated the Misses Burkhardt and Weisel, 6—4, 6—3; Mrs. Nash and Miss E. Chase won by default from Miss Louise McFarland and Mrs. Sandborn; the Misses Virginia Hilleary and Dorothy Andrus defeated Mrs. Godfrey and Mrs. Bremer, 6—3, 6—4; the Misses Joanna Palfrey and Katherine Winthrop won by default from Mrs. Smythwick and Miss Rosamond Newton; the Misses Clara Zinke and Virginia Rice defeated the Misses Polly Palfrey and Fanny Curtis, 6—3, 6—0; the Misses Eleonora Sears and Martha Havemeyer defeated Miss Florence Le Boutillier and Mrs. Cordingly, 6—3, 6—1.

Second Round—Miss Cross and Mrs. Harper defeated Misses Dorrance Chase and Marjorie Sachs, 6—1, 3—6, 6—2; Misses Morrill and Margaret Blake defeated Mrs. Sheldon and Miss Dorothy Blodgett, 6—2, 7—5; Mrs. Ary Lamme and Mrs. Lockhorn defeated Mrs. Nash and Miss E. Chase, 6—2, 6—1; Misses Hilleary and Andrus defeated Misses Joanna Palfrey and Katherine Winthrop, 6—1, 6—1; Misses Clara Zinke and Virginia Rice defeated Misses Sears and Havemeyer, 6—0, 6—2; Misses Gladman and Cruickshank defeated Misses Ruth Bailey and Mary McHale, 6—1, 6—4; Mrs. Griswold and Mrs. Harding defeated Misses Mianne and Sarah Palfrey, 6—2, 2—6, 6—3.

DRAW FOR DAVIS CUP WILL BE HELD TODAY

Opponents for Challenge Round Between U. S. and France to Be Picked From Hat.

RATE EVEN IN WAGERING

Americans Conceded Equal Chance in Paris—Tilden Flashes Fine Form in Practice.

PARIS, July 23 (AP).—The debate over the chances of the United States to lift the Davis Cup from the dominion of the French waged loud and long today as the tennis natives waited formal announcement of the line-up for the opening singles battles of the challenge round on Friday.

While no one doubts that big Bill Tilden, ace of the invaders, and the youthful George Lott will carry the singles burden for the United States, while Henry Cochet and Jean Borotra do the same for France, just who will play whom is the moot question. And to French tennis minds the answer to this question will have great bearing on the home of the classic trophy for the coming year.

France is no better than an even-money choice to retain the trophy, for the first time since René Lacoste, Cochet, Borotra and Jacques Brugnon journeyed to the United States in 1927 and won it for France. In 1928, with Lacoste and Cochet playing singles, bets were freely made at 2 to 1 on the Frenchmen.

Lacoste Was Factor.

The absence of the machine-like Lacoste in 1929 brought the odds down, but France remained a favorite at 7 to 5 and 6 to 5. Yet The Associated Press correspondents saw several wagers made today in resorts frequented by Americans where the ubiquitous French bookmakers, making their rounds for the collection of bets on the horse races, generously posted the information.

French fans are hoping that Borotra, the bounding Basque, will be drawn against Lott for the opening singles match of the first day, when opponents are drawn from a hat, at noon tomorrow. They feel that with France one up at the start, Cochet will be spurred on by his team-mates victory and will go out to whip Tilden, give the Tricolor an overwhelming advantage and just about wipe out the even chance now conceded the United States.

2,000 Fans Watch Practice.

About 2,000 spectators gathered in the Roland Garros Stadium today to watch an extremely keen practice session. Borotra's showing was magnificent. He appeared to be playing the best tennis of his long and brilliant career and his scoring of a point for France by beating Lott is regarded as an absolute certainty. His chances of victory are held much higher than Cochet's against Tilden, despite the conquests of the former during the past three years.

Tilden again was the American star in the workouts, while Cochet displayed a good deal of the form that has made him the world's ranking player. Cochet's final set against the French professional, Martin Plaa, was a work of art. His play was a decided improvement over his showing in the Wimbledon tournament, while Tilden played up to the form that won him the singles crown in the English classic.

When chided by Pierre Gillou, captain of the French Davis Cup squad, for a lamentable showing in the first practice set, which the professional won 6—0, Cochet remarked to his superior: "The Davis Cup matches don't start until Friday, reproaches likewise, if any."

Many Seek Tickets.

The ticket gates at the stadium were besieged all afternoon by prospective customers desirous of reserving seats for the matches. They were informed that seats must be purchased for all three playing days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, something after the custom of the sale for world series baseball tickets in the United States.

The advance sale already has reached close to a million francs—$40,000—with only standing room left. Should the weather be merciful and relent with sunshine after two weeks of rain, it seems certain that all records for tennis receipts in France will be broken.

GILPIN WINS TWICE IN DELAWARE TENNIS

Defeats Crowe and Toner to Gain 4th Round of Clay Court Play —Jones Also Advances.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 23.—Samuel B. Gilpin of Merion, top seeded star in the annual Delaware State clay court tennis championship, turned in a pair of victories in less than two hours today.

Making his first appearance in the tourney, he defeated George Crowe, one of Wilmington's leading players, in a second-round match, 6—1, 6—0, and later eliminated James Toner of Upper Darby, 6—1, 6—1, to enter the fourth round.

Donald P. Jones of Grinnell College made short work of his third-round match with Howard Pyle of Wilmington, winning at 6—1, 6—2, while two Swarthmore College stars, Tom Nicely and Richard Bond, also won without much opposition.

THE SUMMARIES.

Men's Singles.

Second Round—James W. Brown, University of Delaware, defeated J. F. Lillard, University of Virginia, 6—0, 6—4; Edward Beale, du Pont C. C., defeated W. W. Lewers, Flint, Mich., 6—2, 6—3; Richard W. Bostwick, du Pont C. C., defeated S. T. Sparkman, Wilmington, 6—4, 6—3; Samuel B. Gilpin, Merion C. C., defeated George Crowe, Wilmington, 6—1, 6—0; Harold Lane, Cynwyd, defeated Daniel Kiefer, Idle Hour, 6—2, 6—4; Leslie Dilkes, Idle Hour, defeated W. F. Beasley, Wilmington, 6—0, 6—2; James Toner, Upper Darby, won from E. Barber, Baltimore, by default.

Third Round—Tom Nicely, Swarthmore College, defeated Lyman Tremaine, Idle Hour, 6—2, 6—2; J. C. Taylor, University Courts, defeated Beals, 6—1, 6—1; Henry Clay Baugh, Baltimore, defeated J. B. Whitney, du Pont C. C., 6—1, 6—2; Richard Bond, Swarthmore College, defeated A. W. Meyer, du Pont C. C., 6—1, 6—1; Donald P. HUMBLE AMERICA.

In his final elegiac speech on the naval treaty, Senator Johnson lamented the incompetence of our delegates at London. As two of them were United States Senators, he could not deny their general eminence, but regretted that they were not equal to the wiles of the Japanese and the British and so "did "not accomplish the results for their "country that ought to have been "accomplished." But this kind of failure, as Senator Johnson went on mournfully to admit, is an old and unhappy American story. At international conferences Americans are always bamboozled. In 1922, at the Washington conference, "it is "now conceded," affirmed Senator Johnson, almost with tears in his eyes, that "Messrs. Hughes and "Root were outwitted by Mr. Bal"four." If they were, Mr. Balfour didn't know it. Nor did the best informed naval critics in England. One of them, Archibald Hurd, wrote of the Washington naval treaty as one of the greatest diplomatic triumphs ever won by the American Government.

It is passing strange that this tradition has grown up of American inferiority when dealing diplomatically with other nations. In all other respects, we do not assert, we admit, that we are the smartest people in the world. In business matters all others are children compared with us. Owing to our unchallenged skill in finance and mass production, the leading bankers and manufacturers of other countries come to sit at our feet and beg us to tell how we do it. Yet when it comes to an international congress, where our best wits are matched against the more subtle intellects of European diplomatists, we invariably get the worst of it. This is the sort of assumption which Mr. Will Rogers, in his genial, harum-scarum way, has made familiar. Whatever you do, never send representatives of the United States to make a bargain with Europe, because they are sure to be overcome by social blandishments in France, or awed by haughty British aristocrats, and will come home offering their country a humiliating defeat.

It was not always so. The eagle used to scream about its diplomatic triumphs, as well as about everything else. Franklin and John Adams did not give anything away in signing the treaty of peace with England after the Revolution. Webster, when Secretary of State, made his voice reverberate with authority in Austria and other parts of Europe. The Ashburton treaty was never spoken of as a disgrace to the United States. When this country forced England to arbitrate the Alabama claims, and came away from the tribunal with an award of $15,000,000 in its pocket, no one set up a wail over American diplomatic incompetence. Nor did we come off so badly as to be dejected in the Bering Sea arbitration, or the one concerned with the Alaskan boundary. In the latter case we were, in fact, so devilish sly that we fixed in advance the arbitral body so that America could not lose and might win—did win, in fact—through persuading the English judge, Lord Alverstone, to accept the American contention.

There are a few cases to set off against this record, but on the whole it has been one to satisfy national pride. Our statesmen and diplomatists have shown that they bear brains at least as good as the foreign article. Why this recent change? What has happened to make so many Americans take a kind of miserable comfort in admitting that we are not able to cope with Old World diplomacy? The answer is partly politics. It is hard to acknowledge that an Administration not of one's own party has held the flag high in the face of foreigners. Other motives have doubtless entered into the dissatisfaction expressed about the naval treaty in 1922 and the one just ratified by the Senate. We have so many astute men in private life who know just what the strength of our navy ought to be in every category, and who dread the Machiavellian tricks of foreigners getting the better of the simple good faith of Americans, that a kind of professional despondency in these matters has become almost popular. But its victims would be cheered up a bit if they would only read the proceedings in the British Parliament and the discussions at Tokyo, from which it would appear that our hopelessly feeble and blundering delegates at the London conference completely fooled the representatives of the other naval Powers.

LOW RATES FOR CITY BONDS.

Placing by New York City of a short-term loan for $130,000,000 on so low an interest basis as 2¾ to 2⅞ per cent is a source of natural gratification. A similar short loan placed in May paid 3¼ to 3½; in March the range was from 3½ to 4½. To match the terms of the present loan one must go back to the period of idle trade and idle money in 1924, when short loans bearing 2¼ per cent interest were marketed. Even in 1927, traditionally an "easy-money year," the city's loans for six to twelve months had to pay 3½ per cent.

There is nothing to cause surprise, however, in this week's result. Outstanding United States Treasury notes with a 2⅞ per cent interest-rate, and with less than a year to run, are selling in the market at a price which yields barely 2¼ per cent. Even Wall Street loans for sixty or ninety days on Stock Exchange collateral may be had at 2¾ to 3 per cent. The New York Reserve Bank's rediscount rate, at 2½ per cent, is lower than in either 1927 or 1924; in fact, it now stands at the lowest in the bank's history and 1 per cent under any official rate ever heretofore established, outside of a six months' period following August, 1924.

These recurrent periods of extreme ease in money—usually but not invariably accompanying drastic trade reaction—have always been familiar incidents of financial history, and the rush of unemployed capital into high-grade bonds has then regularly occurred. In the post-war period, however, the most impressive aspect of such movements has been their short duration. Whether for use in trade or in the financial markets, sufficient demand for money has developed, at the low rates reached in a swift reaction, to change the situation quite speedily. The prolonged spell of very low money rates which, in an older period, used to accompany an equally prolonged stagnation in finance and commerce, has not been repeated in these later years. The four consecutive years of reaction throughout the financial world, lasting from 1924 to 1927 inclusive—when Wall Street time loans repeatedly went at 1½ and 2 per cent and London discounts at less than 1 per cent, when British 2¾ per cent consols sold at 114 and United States 4 per cent bonds at 120—seem now to be part of another era.

FILM AND FATHERLAND.

A division of territory between American and German electrical and film interests, agreed upon in Paris, applies only to the manufacture and sale of sound-picture apparatus. With respect to production, a community of interests is established on the basis of an exchange of patents and an open world market. American producers may exhibit in Germany, and German producers in the United States. Nevertheless, the zones delimited for the sale of apparatus do correspond with what might be called the natural language market for American and German pictures. Germany receives a bloc of 180,000,000 people in the middle of Europe, running down from Scandinavia to Bulgaria. Slightly more than half of this number are German-speaking by nativity. Among the rest, the German language is sufficiently familiar to the upper and middle classes to make commercial exploitation feasible. The United States makes up the chief market in the American zone, supplemented by the British dominions, India and Russia.

The four biggest national markets in Europe—namely, Great Britain, France, Italy and Spain—are left open to German and American enterprise in the Paris agreement. The implication is that with the advent of the sound pictures these four countries will make the effort to supply most of their own needs. National pride, restive under American domination in the silent pictures, has become acutely sensitive to the claims of the native tongue in the picture theatres. The talkies help considerably to reduce Hollywood's advantage. England, though reported to have been slow in accepting the vocal revolution, has theoretically as big a market to work for as the United States. French producers can cater to sixty million co-linguals, plus another fifty millions in Europe and South America who have French for a second tongue. Spain, if she should bestir herself, has some sixty million customers at home and in the Americas; though at present it is France that is making most of the Spanish pictures for export. Italy's native forty-five millions would approach the lower limit of a market sufficient to maintain a commercial producing industry. But the necessary government subsidies will probably be forthcoming in the interest of the national morale.

It is the middle-sized and small countries, with whom pride is so often in inverse proportion to size, that will feel acutely their handicap. The American movie could be accepted with little difficulty so long as it was silent; gesture is the universal language. But to be confined to foreign tongues and alien accents is hard. The Pole, the Czech, the Yugoslav, and down to the national groups measured in a couple of millions, will demand that the voice of the people be heard in the picture houses of the land. The Hollywood and Berlin producers can meet that demand with the aid of native actors imported for the purpose. But it is a question to what extent the big producers can give their attention to limited markets unless the costs of production can be cut down. Toward that end we may expect that much ingenuity will be directed, on the one hand by the present metropolises of Filmiana, on the other by local patriotism eager to build up a national art of the talkies.

POLITICAL PANGS OF DETROIT.

Charles Bowles, just "recalled" as Mayor of Detroit, seems to be one of the growing pains of America's fourth city. But he will be a candidate for re-election at the special election soon to be held, and the prophets are not unanimous what his fate will be.

No very specific charges of wrongdoing were brought against the Mayor. The major accusation was "incompetence," based on a series of inconsistent or violent acts. Public men in such circumstances seeking "vindication" often are successful in this country. As an illustration of the kind of support which Mayor Bowles had during the campaign for his recall, it may be noted that one who stood by him was Henry Ford.

From the time when, in 1924, Judge Bowles actively entered Detroit city politics he has been a centre of storm. Then he was endorsed by the Ku Klux Klan, which planned a "national fête" if he should be elected. In the course of that campaign, which Mayor Smith won by a majority of 30,000, Bowles sympathizers tried to break up an anti-Klan meeting and were dispersed by tear bombs thrown by the police reserves. For the purposes of the campaign the Klan addressed the Negroes of Detroit as "brothers" and sent inviting proclamations to Jewish citizens to stand with them against the Roman Catholics. Five years later Judge Bowles defeated Mayor Smith by a majority of 6,000. The Klan movement had subsided by then, but the Anti-Saloon League warmly endorsed the successful candidate.

His short administration has been marked by strange performances. Having chosen an eminent citizen, Mr. Emmons, as Police Commissioner, he discharged him for making a series of handbook raids, on the ground that the raids proved the widespread existence of gambling. When the son of Senator Couzens opposed an eight-cent fare for the municipally owned street railway, Mayor Bowles ousted him. He drew to his Cabinet a local politician whose activity in building up a Bowles machine was not in any sense checked at the City Hall. And he permitted to become law an ordinance barring aliens from city employment. These acts gave strength to the recall movement, and the Mayor was ousted by five times the majority by which he had been elected.

How resourceful he is is indicated by a statement which he made while a candidate in 1929. "I shall close the saloons," he shouted, and added, "all those which try to open up near a public school." Detroit is proud of her broad home rule under which a Mayor and a Council of nine rule the city. But that form of self-government is under trial again for the third time in less than a year.

THE CITY AND ITS SCHOOLS.

The total register of the day schools of New York being approximately equal to the combined registers of Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Baltimore and Pittsburgh, our total expenditure stands in a bracket by itself. But the salaries of the teachers being relatively higher, the full cost should be even greater than mere numbers would suggest, the unit of instruction—that is, the size of the class—being the same. The instructional outlay would mount inversely as the size of the class, if it were not that the smaller class allows the teacher to give more attention to the individual pupil and so to lessen the number of those not able to go forward at the average pace.

The stated cost per pupil ($141.65), arrived at by dividing the total expenditure by the whole number of pupils registered in the course of the year, would be greatly increased if the average register were taken as the divisor. In the total registry every pupil counts for one, however short his time in school. On the other hand, the high school pupil is also included with the elementary pupil in the estimate, and the cost of his tuition is so much higher that it has lifted the average out of all proportion to the average of a decade or more ago, for the number of high school students has grown greatly.

Whether the cost per pupil be relatively low or high as compared with other cities, it is the skill of the teacher that is the determining factor. Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, Britain's Minister of Education during the war and Boston's guest at her great celebration last week, said:

> That nation which after the war employs the best teachers with the highest pay, and as part of the best school system, will be the best governed and therefore the greatest nation. Of that I am absolutely certain.

And when asked whether England could afford to spend the money, he answered: "Can we afford not to?" Our answer would be, "Certainly, if the highest pay always assured the best teachers." We have come to the highest pay relatively.

We are spending enough to have the best system. No taxpayer except a cynic would begrudge the tax for such a system if only he could know that merit has an open way to recognition and preferment in it. The most hopeful word that can be said for democracy tells what it gives out of its own treasury for the education of its children and youth. It is a large fraction of our total municipal expenditure. The best boast of any city is not only that it has given adequately to its schools, but that it has taken pains to find and keep the best teachers.

GLENN H. CURTISS.

The death of Glenn H. Curtiss is a great loss to aviation. More than any other man, he had contributed to the development of the airplane by his energy and versatility. He was inventor, pilot, manufacturer and industrial leader, doing things in a big and daring way. Glenn H. Curtiss was properly bracketed with Orville Wright as one of the "Pioneers of American Industry," with Edison, Ford, Schwab, Eastman and others, at the dinner in this city of the fifth annual Conference of Major Industries. Curtiss was less a pioneer in aviation than the Wright brothers on the inventive side, but was the great driving force in finding uses for the flying machine. There was no man just like him in bold conception and the carrying out of ideas that seemed to many fantastic. His talents were indispensable to the military services of the country during and after the World War. His name will always be associated with the NC planes, one of which made the first crossing of the Atlantic under the flag of the navy in 1919.

As a boy Curtiss was an original, and there was nothing he would not venture in using machines to attain speed: first the racing bicycle; then the motorcycle, with which he made records that lasted for sixteen and twenty years in two cases; next the dirigible balloon, for which he invented a special motor. But it was the airplane that claimed all his tense activity. It involved him in long periods of litigation. He stoutly contended that his ideas were his own, and that he copied from nobody. It was for the courts to decide. His, he declared, were the first public flights in airplanes that were his own creation. As a demonstrator he certainly had no superior. His personal triumphs at Rheims, where he won the James Gordon Bennett Cup; at Brescia later, when he carried Gabriele D'Annunzio as a passenger; his flight down the Hudson from Albany to New York in a box plane, attested his leadership in the use of the airplane as an American pilot.

No one of the earlier fliers did more to popularize aviation. He enjoyed such distinctions as being the holder of United States pilot license No. 1 and French license No. 2. As a manufacturer of airplanes, commercial as well as military, he played a foremost and stirring part before the day of mergers. In the present year he said in a contribution to The Times that "the outlook for "aviation is about the same as the "outlook was for the automobile in"dustry thirty years ago." The name of Curtiss will be long carried in the industry, and the spirit that animated him will continue to vitalize it.

STRANGE NEWS FROM VIRGINIA

Certain churches have the reputation of being the backbone of the Anti-Saloon League, the chief feeders of its treasury, the protagonists of prohibition and its stoutest defenders in the evil days that have come upon it. Amid the demoralizations of enforcement, ominous changes of public opinion, defections of some Dry politicians, we have felt that those churches stood like a rock. There was the impregnable stronghold of earnest, thorough, practicing prohibition. But Governor John Garland Pollard of Virginia, a Baptist, shocks though he cannot destroy that feeling, that firm belief.

In an address on "Christian Citizenship" before the Maryland Baptist Summer assembly, Mr. Pollard said:

> Prohibition is doomed to failure unless the churches mobilize at once to bring about total abstinence on the part of their members. A master blow would be struck at the bootleggers if church members would stop drinking. It is absurd for the churches to expect the State to send a man to jail for a crime when they are not willing to discipline their own members for becoming parties to that crime by purchasing and drinking bootleg whisky.
> If as many church members practiced total abstinence as vote for prohibition, the public officials would have less trouble in enforcing the law. As a lifelong prohibitionist who is not willing to give up, I warn the church people of the country to take a firmer stand against the hypocrisy of voting Dry and drinking Wet. We have been relying too much on the law rather than on the teaching of Christian virtues.

We were not aware that total abstinence was a virtue peculiarly Christian; and since the Anti-Saloon League, representative of the churches, has no fault to find with whisky-taking Congressmen who vote right, why should the churches be expected to be more punctilious judges of the behavior of their flocks? Yet if this inconsistency between doctrine and walk prevails to a considerable extent, as Governor Pollard seems to imply, among the one class which might have been expected most readily to submit to the privation which it sought to make compulsory upon the rest of the country, a sense of depression, almost of despair, emanates from Governor Pollard's rebuke and warning. Who shall save sinners from the bootlegger, if even the righteous cannot be protected?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Women Doctors and the Needy. In the heart of the lower east side stands the New York Infirmary for Women and Children. Yet it is not crowded by its tenement neighbors, for it faces the open green of Stuyvesant Square, and the many women who have moved to distant parts of the city and come back when they are again in need of care are greeted by its pleasant view as by an old friend. In the annual report by the president, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, is a picture of the proposed new building. Patients and patrons alike will be glad to know that it is to stand on the site of the worn old building that has housed so many suffering mortals.

No attempt is to be made at present for a vigorous campaign for funds. Part of the necessary money already has been secured, and the rest will be quietly collected without a public campaign when the time is ripe.

Women have a right to be proud of this living monument to the founder, Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell. She had two objects—to help the poor in the district, and to give women doctors, then excluded from all other hospitals, a chance to practice and learn as men were doing. That both have been and are being achieved is amply proved. The hospital has a triple A grading from the public authorities, and is staffed and managed entirely by women physicians.

Keeping Coney Clean. "We are learning that order and neatness, especially in a small place like England, make life more pleasant for everybody," says The London Morning Post, commenting on a recent campaign for beautifying rural areas. Perhaps it is because in America we feel that ours is a wide and spacious country that we are prone to clutter up our parks and beaches and picnic grounds. Let the four winds blow abandoned litter out of our sight—and into some one else's.

When crowds mounting into the hundred thousands gather on a hot day at Coney Island it becomes, in effect, a pretty small place for so huge a throng. And the necessity for keeping it tidy and clean, so that life may be pleasant for everybody, becomes pressing. Thoughtless people who leave rubbish and broken bottles about present a menace to the enjoyment and safety of those who come to the beach for relief from the city's heat.

The Sanitary Commissioner has expressed doubt whether an army of 2,000 men would be sufficient to "mop up" after a day of record-breaking heat and crowds at Coney. Over the last week-end a squad of twenty-five men did what they could to teach the crowd to tidy up its own litter. But they made little progress.

Now the crusading band has been increased to fifty-six. They will spend their days not in the task of tidying up Coney but in the bigger job of teaching the visitors to the beach to keep it clean. If every holiday-maker will act as his own sanitary squad, there will be no need to call in a battalion of street cleaners to keep the beach in presentable condition.

A Mystery Story. "There's one thing money won't buy," the guides on buses still say as they pass Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street. They point to the shuttered, red-brick Wendel house with its mysterious fenced garden. That has been true for the seventy-five years that have elapsed since the house was built. Business structures have risen all about it. Innumerable attempts have been made to induce the Wendel heirs to sell. Few are the agents who can say that they were ever permitted to present their offers in person. Four sisters and a brother died without any change in the imperturbable attitude of this family. Now Mrs. Rebecca Swope, the only one of the heirs who married, has passed, and Miss Ella Wendel inhabits the strange, dark house alone.

When will it go? It is the only residence in Fifth Avenue below Forty-second Street, and one of the only three or four below Fifty-ninth Street. Its passing is decreed by the inexorable law of city change. The cost of maintaining it must have been prodigious, even for the multi-millionaire family. But there is romance in the thought that Miss Ella, during her lifetime, will cling to the residence where she and her brother and sisters lived for so long. There is something appealing in the demonstration that there is property in New York which "money won't buy." When the wreckers finally come, and the house is opened and the walled garden is penetrated, an era will pass and a legend arise.

Shore Birds in Virginia. Two representatives of the Audubon Society returned recently from a week's trip along the coast of Virginia, reporting that sea and marsh birds are being depleted by the marauding inhabitants of the district. Cobbs Island and the adjacent salt marshes are favorite breeding grounds of many gulls, terns, skimmers and rails, all of which are protected by State and Federal laws. For certain species of wild fowl there is an open season, but there is a permanent closed season on the shore birds.

The two bird lovers had planned to spend the week photographing and studying the birds, but were often interrupted by men shooting. Parties of egg-gatherers in motor boats frequently arrived, carrying away eggs by the bucketful. The observers did what they could to drive the thieves away, but had little success. Ignorance of the law could hardly be their excuse, as they invariably kept the registration number on their boats covered up to avoid identification.

Such general disregard of the protective laws cannot be met entirely by strengthened enforcement. The number of officers is inadequate to patrol the long stretches of the coast, but more field men would certainly be useful. An educational campaign with the aid of the schools and libraries should afford valuable assistance in giving needed protection to the birds of the mud flats, beaches and marshes.

CHRISTIANITY IN NORWAY.

It Was Introduced Before the Time of King Olav the Holy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Craig, who reports from Nidaros, Norway, under date of July 15, that this is "the 900th anniversary of the introduction of Christianity into Norway, which synchronized with the battle at Stiklestad, where King Olav the Holy fell in 1030, is incorrect. This is the 900th anniversary of the introduction of the papal cult into Norway. St. Olaf, or as the modern spelling has it St. Olav, was a papist. He was the first papist king of Norway, but was not the introducer of Christianity.

In the year 1000 King Olaf Tryggvason established his court at Nidaros, and in that year entertained a young pagan navigator named Leif Ericson as guest. This young navigator was the son of Eric the Red, chief magistrate of the republic of Greenland. Eric the Red was a stanch pagan, but was tolerant nevertheless of the faith of "the White Christ" which had been making inroads among the northern pagans for decades, and probably centuries before that date. The sagas relate that the great King Olaf Tryggvason had suppressed all public pagan worship throughout Norway, and nominally had baptized the leading men of the nation into this by no means new or unfamiliar faith of "the White Christ." The record says, "It was easy for the King to persuade Leif Ericson to accept baptism."

How, then, can it be that only thirty years afterward Christianity was introduced into Norway? This seems on a par with the claim that after Leif Ericson had discovered America in the year 1000, and established a settlement here, which we have credible evidence to believe endured more than three centuries, and all the maritime nations of Europe knew it—after all this the claim that Columbus discovered America in 1492!

Cheaper Flats Available.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Miller plan to build apartments for the so-called white-collar people and rent at $21 a room is impractical. In many localities, even on Washington Heights, four-room apartments can be had from $70 a month upward.

What the white-collar folk need badly is good living apartments renting from $12 to $15 a room monthly.

POOR POLL.

The woodland thrush and soaring lark
Have left in poets' lives a mark
So clear, posterity of Keats
And Shelley finds them perched on sheets
Of volumes they inspired with song.
The robin too could well prolong
His presence through the realm of verse.
All manner of birdkind in terse
And tender lines articulate
Was made.

But the poor parrot's fate
Is one of bleak oblivion.
Of all these eulogists, not one
Did with his pen bid us rejoice
For her who emulates man's voice!

CRITICIZING DR. BUTLER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Being the grandson of Professor S. A. Mouromtzeff, the first president of the Russian Imperial Duma, and the son of Professor W. Derujinsky, honoris causa, doctor of law of Aberdeen University, I find it rather difficult to understand why Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler advocates tolerance toward the Communist rulers of Russia, who themselves have banished tolerance from their code of ethics.

I am referring to Dr. Butler's recent address which he delivered at the annual convocation of the Columbia University Summer session. I take this opportunity to correct a statement which he made when he asserted that "one hundred and forty millions of people are experimenting with an alternative mode of economic, political and social control." I imagine what Dr. Butler had in mind was that a group of utterly unscrupulous ex-convicts, now in control of Russia, are "experimenting over" a people of one hundred and forty million, and it would have been only fair to add to this observation that the experimental methods adopted by the worshipers of Lenin and Marx have wrought upon the Russian nation unspeakable suffering, economic destruction and the total obliteration of genuinely Russian culture.

The question might also be raised why Dr. Butler, who seems to be so conversant with the Russian situation, has failed to warn the American students against a régime which, among other disasters, resulted in the fact that Russia's greatest artists and men of science, like Rachmaninoff, Glazounoff, Merejkovsky, the poet Balmont, Soudeikin, Ziloti, Stravinsky, Chaliapin and innumerable other standard-bearers of Russian culture, were driven out of their native land. Many of them, as Dr. Butler probably knows, preferred to live in exile, enduring misery and real hardships, rather than to return to Russia in order to live there under the intolerable yoke of the Soviets. In passing, perhaps Dr. Butler should have advised the students that the Soviet Government has restored slavery among the Russian workers and peasants whom they purport to represent, having hurled back the Russian people to that condition of serfdom which was abolished in 1861.

Considering the eminent position Dr. Butler occupies, the question might well be asked whether he gave sufficient thought to the fact that his public utterance, which is obviously misleading, and conspicuously tolerant toward intolerance, is likely to produce confusion in the minds of his listeners, and inadvertently help the Soviet cause, which, as he so aptly stated, "tears up the roots of those things which the Western World regards as fundamental."

Less Acreage, Less Employment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our esteemed Secretary of Agriculture and equally esteemed head of Mr. Hoover's Farm Board are reported as being highly disappointed that the wheat farmers of the West declined to consider their suggestion that the growers reduce their wheat acreage—that is, go partially out of business.

It does not seem to have occurred to the two high Washington officials that if a man goes partially out of business he will reduce the number of his employes. He cannot possibly act otherwise.

Of the 2,500,000 farmers in the United States I believe it is estimated that approximately 600,000 are exclusively grain farmers. If each one of these was obliged to discharge three hands because he took the advice of Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge and went partially out of business, there would be a total of 1,800,000 jobless men added to the number now unemployed. And an estimate of three from each farm is conservative.

Is there no Summer school of political economy to which we can send our shining political lights?

Discomfort for Comfort's Sake.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just been reading the Topic of the Times "Commuters Not Air-Minded." This comments on the opening of windows on the Long Island Railroad.

There are several reasons why it is undesirable to open windows in the cars while they are passing through the tubes. Among these is the possibility that foreign substances coming through the windows from the bench walls and the tops of cars might cause discomfort. Moreover, there is a sudden rush of air in the trains entering the tubes from the outside, and rather high wind pressure at all times while trains are passing through the tunnnels.

While the railroad recognizes all these objections, there is no ban on opening windows eastbound, and the railroad's request to passengers to close the windows while passing through the tubes is for the passengers' own comfort.

Short-Weight Laundry.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The New Yorker is the victim of innumerable rackets, some open and some hidden. One racket which probably collects a toll larger than most people suspect is the "short weight laundry racket." Today laundry is paid for by the pound, and the unsuspecting housewife may, if she takes the trouble to weigh her laundry, find that she has been overcharged about 50 per cent. That, at least, has been my experience with two different concerns within the month.

DR. RAUP CONDEMNS EDUCATION OF YOUNG

Futile Effort to Train Youth for Adult Life Robs It of Childhood, He Declares.

ASSAILS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Columbia Professor Tells Experts Here They Should Centre Efforts Upon Mature Minds.

The entire system of public education in the United States was assailed as inadequate and futile by Dr. Robert B. Raup, Professor of Philosophy of Education at Columbia University, in an address last night before the Tawse Club, an organization of educators.

He urged that education shift its main objective from the child to the adult. The universally accepted educational principle that childhood learning can prepare the individual to cope with problems that arise in adulthood is a fallacy, he maintained.

Assails Public School System.

"Our public school system is based on the false belief that the education of children and of young people can provide a guarantee for a desirable quality of adult life and citizenship," Dr. Raup declared. "No error could be more misleading than that of believing that we must prepare the child for adult years. The child has been separated from his own rightful life in order to learn about the problems that confront adults. When he becomes an adult he finds he has been robbed on all sides. What he 'learned' has largely gone, and he is not prepared for adult years. He has lost his childhood, and he is, as a result, losing a growing adulthood."

A recent statement by Dr. Edward L. Thorndike, Professor of Psychology at Columbia University, that the best time to learn any subject is as soon before its application as possible, was quoted by Dr. Raup to support his theory.

Continuous Education Needed.

"The adult is discovering that if he is to go on learning according to his needs he must have help in some appropriate form when he is at grips with the problems that confront him," Dr. Raup declared. "The only education for adults that can eventually be counted adequate is that which is contemporaneous in effect. But to be contemporaneous in effect it must be largely so in process. The business of education is to reconstruct and get better controls over the process of experience as it goes on. As such it is primarily and essentially in the present, and in the past only incidentally to the present."

Among the educative agencies for adult training Dr. Raup listed adult schools, newspapers, motion pictures, advertisements and public forums.

"This nation is spending millions of dollars each year on public education," Dr. Raup said. "This is not too much to spend for education. But we are deceiving ourselves by thinking that in spending this large amount of money we are getting genuine public education. Genuine public education is a matter of adults tackling the business of shaping and reshaping their present environment and becoming masters of themselves in the process. This function cannot be delegated to a group of persons who are hired to teach the children of these adults."

MT. VERNON TO GET BUSES.

Traction Company to Abandon Trolleys That Link White Plains.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 23.—Bus service between here and Mount Vernon will be operated within ninety days, officials of the surface transportation system predicted today after a conference with Aldermen, the Mayor and other officials of Mount Vernon. Officials of Mount Vernon have been reluctant to allow a ten-cent bus fare in their city, but as the Third Avenue Railway system, operator of the city and interurban trolleys in Mount Vernon, announced its intention of appealing to the Public Service Commission for an increase in fare, the situation became changed.

It is expected that the traction company will substitute buses for trolley cars on five lines in Mount Vernon. Today's action awaits only the Mayor's signature. The Common Council last night approved the plan. The substitution will result in removal of tracks from several important streets.

A ten-cent fare will be charged on the five bus lines that will operate to North Pelham, Bronxville and Tuckahoe. Buses from White Plains will link up with motor-driven vehicles at Tuckahoe, thence go to Mount Vernon and to the New York City-bound subway.

PROTESTS MOTOR NOISES.

North Shore Asks Ban on Planes and Outboard Motor Boats.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 23.—Additional complaints against the noise caused by airplanes were filed today with District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards by a committee of residents from the communities of Port Washington, Kings Point and Sands Point, under the name of the North Shore Protective Association. The committee said the noise from airplanes and outboard motor boats had made living conditions so bad in that area that residents were planning to dispose of their properties and go where they might enjoy peace and quiet.

The committee members said that they would appeal also to the War Department and to Representative Robert L. Bacon.

Mr. Edwards pointed out that the section of the penal law dealing with the noise made by the motor boats could be enforced by the local police, and advised the committee to use posters to notify the owners of such violation, which is a misdemeanor. He said he would try to assist them in their protest against the nuisance caused by the airplanes.

MRS. J. S. KENNEDY DIES IN BAR HARBOR

SHE WAS 96 YEARS OLD

Honorary Degree Awarded Her Last Year for Her Help to New York University.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 23.—Mrs. Emma Baker Kennedy of 400 Park Avenue, New York City, noted philanthropist, and widow of John Stewart Kennedy, died here this evening after a short illness at Kenarden Lodge, her Summer home for many years. Mrs. Kennedy was in her ninety-seventh year.

Funeral services will be held at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York on Monday at 2:30 P. M. Burial will be private.

Mrs. Kennedy's husband was a banker, railroad builder and philanthropist. He was president of the Presbyterian Hospital, to which he gave a $1,000,000 on the day of his golden wedding. He died in 1909, leaving a fortune of $67,137,735, of which about $13,000,000 were bequeathed to his widow and $10,000,000 to various institutions of the Presbyterian Church.

Like her husband Mrs. Kennedy was a giver of large sums for philanthropic purposes, which were usually of a religious or education nature. And like her husband she gave so quietly that often her gfits did not become publicly known until long after they had been made. The total of her benefactions was estimated at more than $2,000,000. It is quite likely to have fare exceeded that sum.

Mrs. Kennedy was a daughter of Cornelius Baker, one of the founders of New York University, and in 1912 she provided $90,000 for the erection of the Cornelius Baker Hall of Philosophy at the university. Her husband had left $850,000 to the institution. At a private ceremony in her New York home in May of last year, Mrs. Kennedy received the degree of Master of Humane Letters from Chancellor Brown, who said in part that his action "confirms and accentuates your life-long relationship with New York University."

Other gifts by Mrs. Kennedy were $125,000 for the Fort Schuyler Presbyterian Church in the Bronx; the largest single share of the funds for the $400,000 home for east side workers on Gramercy Park and Twentieth Street; $200,000 to build a Waldensian Church in Rome; $125,000 to the Presbyterian Rest at White Plains; a Y. W. C. A. building at Bar Harbor, Me., as a memorial to her husband, and $100,000 to the Bible Teachers Training School at 54 Lexington Avenue.

In the early Spring of 1914 Mrs. Kennedy chartered the yacht Alberta for a cruise of two months in the Mediterranean, during which she visited missionary colleges and stations that had received support from her husband.

GEORGE J. IRVING.

Retired Fire Department Captain Is Dead at the Age of 60.

George J. Irving, a retired captain of the New York Fire Department who had completed more than thirty-six years in the department, died yesterday at his home, 63 Elm Street, Flushing. He was 60 years old. Funeral services will be held in St. Michael's Church, Flushing, tomorrow and burial will be in Mount St. Mary Cemetery.

Mr. Irving was appointed to the Fire Department in 1892 and after serving with various engine and truck companies in Manhattan he was made commander of the truck company in Flushing in 1908. For several years he served as acting battalion chief of the district and retired from active service in 1928. He left his wife, four sons and two daughters.

GEORGE METZGER HAYS.

Prominent Attorney of Carlisle, Pa., Dies of Heart Disease.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Pa., July 23.—George Metzger Hays, Carlisle attorney, died here this morning from heart disease. He was 56 years old. He is survived by three sons, two sisters and a brother.

Mr. Hays was a direct descendant through his father, the late John Hays, of General Ephraim Blaine, associate of George Washington, and through his mother, Jane Vanness Snead Hays, of the Rhinelander and Kip families of New York. Mr. Hays was an orator and a writer of distinction.

Dr. John Albert Leighton.

Dr. John Albert Leighton, who has been associated with the Department of Health for the last ten years as a veterinarian, died Tuesday of heart disease at the home of his nephew, John Leighton O'Brien, Pelham Parkway Gardens. He was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, but had never practiced medicine. He formerly lectured on diseases of the feet at the American Veterinary College.

Mrs. Mary J. Davis.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 23.—A third death in the McDonald family, pioneer steel maker of the Middle West, occurred today when Mrs. Mary J. Davis died in her seventy-first year. She was a sister of Thomas McDonald, for many years general manager of the Carnegie Steel Company in this district, who died July 12, and of Joseph McDonald, who died July 15 at Pittsburgh. The latter was for many years superintendent of the Ohio works, Carnegie Steel Company.

Mrs. George W. Conklin.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 23.—Mrs. Martha Conklin, one of Hackensack's oldest residents, and a descendant of one of Bergen County's oldest families, died at her home today after a long illness. She was the widow of George W. Conklin, who for many years was cashier of the First National Bank of Jersey City, at one time a member of the improvement commission and a director in the Hackensack Trust Company.

Samuel Montgomery Hunter.

Samuel Montgomery Hunter died Tuesday at his residence, 31 West Eleventh Street. Mr. Hunter, at the time of his death and for many years prior thereto, was associated with B. Altman & Co. He was in his seventy-fifth year.

will be held Friday morning. Burial will be in Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Curtiss are his widow, Mrs. Lena Neff Curtiss; one son, Glenn H. Curtiss Jr.; his mother, Mrs. Lua Andrews Curtiss; a half-brother, Carl Adams of Miami, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. Rutha Hesley, also of Miami.

RANKED NEXT TO WRIGHT.

Glenn Curtiss Made Speed His Keynote From Bicycles to Planes.

Mr. Curtiss was one of the pioneers in aviation, whose ranking must be placed next to the Wright brothers. He, probably more than any other man, contributed toward popularizing aviation.

The keynote to his character was speed. From his earliest youth Glenn Curtiss sought to travel faster than any other human being. In those days of the '90s a racing bicycle was, with the exception of the steam locomotive, the fastest vehicle in the world. Accordingly he decided to take up bicycle racing. First he outcoasted all the other boys in his home town, and when that became monotonous he built for himself a skating-sail which enabled him to sail over the ice faster than any of his fellows.

He was born in Hammondsport, N. Y., on May 21, 1878, son of Frank R. and Lua Andrews Curtiss, and received his education in the public schools, doing odd jobs between times. His father died when he was a boy and young Curtiss went to work as a telegraph messenger. When he was 14 the family moved to Rochester and the future aviator was employed by the Eastman Kodak Company.

Was Clever With His Hands.

He soon earned the reputation of being clever with his hands and also with his brain. When he wanted something he could not afford, he made it. Out of odds and ends he made a telegraph set and a camera. He worked out a device to speed up production in the Eastman company, then persuaded the manager to put him on piece work.

A few years later the family returned to Hammondsport and Glenn soon took up bicycle racing in earnest, after a venture in bicycle repairing, and soon was the possessor of a collection of trophies won in races with his yellow bicycle. In 1898, when he was 20, he married Lena P. Neff of Hammondsport. He had meantime become the owner of the repair shop.

The motorcycle appeared on the market and young Curtiss took an active interest from the very beginning in the new machine. He started manufacturing the motor, then proceeded to make the whole machine. Soon the Curtiss motorcycle became the best known machine of its time, carrying off most of the prizes. On Jan. 28, 1904, at Ormond Beach, Fla., Curtiss covered the ten-mile course in 8 minutes 54 2-5 seconds, creating a record which stood for sixteen years. Two years later, riding an eight-cylinder motorcycle of his own design, he roared down a mile course at Ormond Beach at the rate of 137 miles an hour, a record that stood for about twenty years.

Became Interested in Aviation.

In 1904, a few months after the Wright brothers had made their historic flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., an event at that time shrouded in deep secrecy, Glenn Curtiss first became interested in aviation, but only in lighter-than-air craft. Captain Thomas Scott Baldwin, free balloon exhibition pilot and aerial experimenter, had seen, somewhere on the Pacific Coast, a motor designed by Curtiss. He got in touch with the designer by mail and the two men met. The result was that Curtiss built a special motor which Captain Baldwin put in his dirigible, the California Arrow.

Aviation history was made. On Aug. 3, 1904, Captain Baldwin flew in a circle over Oakland, Cal., and for the first time brought his ship back to a landing at its starting point. To show that it was no accident, Baldwin, with Curtiss as engineer, repeated his feat at the St. Louis Exposition. Later the two toured most of the United States, giving exhibitions in what was then the wonder of the air.

The government became interested and ordered an airship, on condition that it could remain aloft under control for two hours at an average speed of twenty miles an hour. The ship was flown over Fort Myer, Va., in the Summer of 1905, met the tests successfully and became Army Dirigible 1.

Experiments Aided by Bell.

In his racing days in Florida, Curtiss met Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and an aviation enthusiast. A friendship was formed between the two which led to the organization, in 1907, of the Aerial Experiment Association, for the purpose of building a heavier-than-air machine capable of carrying a man. Though they had made their first flight in 1903, the Wrights at that time had not yet flown publicly, as they were still waiting for their patents.

With the assistance of Dr. Bell, and a gift of $25,000 from Mrs. Bell, a group of young men, consisting of Curtiss and four others, started experimenting. They took seven months to design their first plane, seven weeks to build it, and twenty seconds to "crack it up." But in those twenty seconds the Red Wing, as they had christened their ship, had flown for a distance of 318 feet 11 inches. It was the first public flight in America.

On May 22, 1908, Curtiss took off in his second machine, the White Wing, flew it for a distance of 1,017 feet in 19 seconds, and landed safely in a plowed field. It was at this time that he developed the ailerons for horizontal control, a device which involved him in a long drawn out litigation with the Wright brothers, who had used warped wings for the same purpose.

Won Trophy in "June Bug."

On July 4, 1908, flying in the now historic June Bug, Curtiss won The Scientific American trophy by covering a distance of a kilometer. It was the first previously announced flight to be made in America. Huge crowds came from miles around to see the latest wonder.

At about this time Curtiss conceived the idea of building a ship that could land and rise from the water. In the early Fall of 1908 he fitted the June Bug with pontoons, rechristened it the Loon and made the first attempts to rise from the water. While he failed in his first attempts and abandoned the project for a time, they led eventually to the development of the hydroplane. He succeeded in taking off from the water early in 1910, had worked out a successful seaplane by 1911 and by 1912 had perfected the "flying boat."

In 1909 Curtiss gave the first exhibition flight in America at New York and won The Scientific American trophy for the second time with a flight of 24.7 miles at Hempstead Plains, L. I. Soon after he won the Bishop Prize for a flight of a kilometer in two and a half minutes. This led to his selection by the Aero Club of America to represent this country at the aviation meet at Rheims, France, for the James Gordon Bennett Cup. He won the cup, defeating Bleriot, who was the first to fly the English Channel. From Rheims he went to the meet at Brescia, Italy, where he carried as his passenger Gabriele d'Annunzio, Italian poet, who later became widely known as an aviator in the siege of Trieste in the World War.

Flew From Albany to New York.

His greatest triumph to that time came on May 29, 1910, when he flew from Albany to New York, thereby becoming the first man to follow the Hudson River as an aerial highway, as well as the first to fly between the two cities. Twenty years later, on the same date, the event was commemorated with Curtiss piloting one of his own giant eighteen passenger twin-motored Curtiss-Condor biplanes over the same route.

Between 1909 and 1919 he established a number of flying schools in various parts of the country, at Hammondsport, San Diego, Newport News, Buffalo, Miami and Atlantic City. In 1913-14 he introduced his flying boat to Brazil, Russia, Austria, Italy and Germany. That same year he designed and built for Rodman Wanamaker the America, the first multi-motored flying boat, as well as the first heavier-than-air flying craft designed for transatlantic flight.

When the World War broke out Curtiss, with J. N. Willys, expanded his factories to meet the war demands, first of Great Britain and Russia, and later, in 1917, of the United States, for aircraft and motors. In this period he developed the Wasp, which made world's records for speed, climbing and altitude, and other types of airplanes and flying boats.

Developed New Aircraft.

After the war, working with the United States Navy, Curtiss developed the NC boats 1, 2, 3 and 4, the last one becoming the first aircraft of any kind to cross the Atlantic in May, 1919. For several years afterward he developed many types of aeronautical motors and designed and produced many machines of distinctive design, such as scooters, lifeboats, combined land and water aircraft, speed motor boats, autoplanes and others. In recent years, however, he had relinquished all active interest in the aviation companies that bear his name, including the Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

He was an honorary member of the National Aeronautic Association and a member of the Aero Club of America, the Aero Club of France, Army and Navy Club and the Sphinx Club of New York. He was the holder of Air Pilot's License 1 in America and Air Pilot's License 2 in France. He made his home at Country Club Estates, Fla.

VOICE AVIATION'S GRATITUDE.

Leaders in Industry and Fliers Pay Tribute to Curtiss as Pioneer.

Leaders in the aviation industry, men who have been associated with Glenn Curtiss in years past, and others who have won fame through his pioneer work as an inventor and designer, joined yesterday in paying tribute to his memory.

Among the first to send a message to THE NEW YORK TIMES was Major Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander and chief pilot of the Southern Cross on its world cruise. The Atlantic flier and his associates wired as follows:

> We were shocked to hear this morning of the death of a great pioneer in aviation. His name is a byword everywhere in the world. Although his personal activity ceased some years ago, his influence lived on and will always live wherever men fly and wherever the airplane serves.
>
> CAPTAIN J. PATRICK SAUL,
> JOHN W. STANNAGE.

Among those who sent messages of sympathy yesterday to Mrs. Glenn Curtiss at Buffalo were Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Tributes to Mr. Curtiss included the following:

Frederick B. Rentschler, President of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and United Aircraft and Transport, Inc.—Aviation has lost one of its great pioneers in the passing of Glenn Hammond Curtiss. He was one of a few whose early experiments, often carried on at great odds at a time when aeronautical inventors were classed with proponents of perpetual motion, greatly aided the technical advancement of the airplane. His early flights inspired other young men to turn to aviation, with the result that a new industry was born and grew rapidly to reach its present proportions. He maintained a keen interest in every new aeronautical development. When the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America was formed, Glenn Curtiss with Orville Wright and a few other pioneers were charter members.

C. M. Keys, president of Curtiss-Wright Corporation—The death of Mr. Curtiss removes one of the great original minds in aviation. It is, however, as a personal friend that I shall miss him most. It is nearly ten years since he retired from active work in this field of aviation, but always his friendly advice and criticism had been most helpful to all of us in the Curtiss Company. His original research and development work in association with Mr. Alexander Graham Bell at Hammondsport, and his continuous inventive effort in the years that followed, did much to reduce the art of flying to a practical basis. That is the true heritage that he leaves to the world.

J. T. Trippe, president, Pan-American Airways—To Glenn H. Curtiss the air transport industry acknowledges a perpetual world-wide debt of gratitude. He, more than any other man, blazed the trail of aircraft development in the years between the first flight of the Wright brother and the World War, to his sound leadership we owe much of the fundamental knowledge of aircraft theory and practice which is the basis for the reliability and efficiency of all successful air transport today. I regret deeply the passing of this close friend and adviser.

Loss Deplored in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The death of Glenn H. Curtiss was universally deplored here today. Among those expressing their sorrow over the loss of the pioneer in aviation were:

Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Chief of Naval Aeronautics—In the passing of Glenn Hammond Curtiss, this morning, aviation lost one of its greatest figures and the country lost an upstanding citizen. Glenn Curtiss combined to a rare degree the qualities of energy, courage, intellect and vision. As a pioneer in aviation he contributed greatly in developing it from an impractical dream to a magnificent reality. But for him aviation would have made much slower progress.

F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Air—In the death of Glenn Curtiss aviation has not alone lost a man whose pioneering efforts in engine development and plane design won great glory for American aircraft, but it has also lost the competent services of a seasoned expert who for a generation has kept abreast with and contributed greatly to aeronautical progress. The brilliancy of Glenn Curtiss's attainments as a flier of rare ability and an inventor of great genius will continue to furnish inspiration to us who survive him and those who succeed us in the battle for conquest of the air.

Major Gen. James E. Fechet, Chief of the Army Air Corps—On behalf of Army Air Corps pilots, as well as on my own, I express deep grief over the death of Glenn Curtiss. His life was dedicated to the advancement of flight. His discoveries as an aeronautical scientist and engineer contributed greatly toward the development of our present-day equipment. His untimely death is a great loss to aviation in all its branches.

Mourned by State of Florida.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 23 (AP).—Governor Doyle E. Carlton of Florida today paid the following tribute to Glenn H. Curtiss:

"The State and nation suffer in the death of Glenn H. Curtiss. As an inventor and investor he had made aviation his debtor. As a citizen and developer of Florida he was one of the greatest benefactors. I have met no man more optimistic over the future of Florida. He had invested millions here, and his heart as well as his money was in Florida."

PAY TRIBUTE TO CURTISS.

German Air Leaders Mourn Passing of Aviation Pioneer.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 23.—The death of Glenn H. Curtiss has provoked profound regret in aviation circles here.

Ernst Brandenburg, director of the aviation department of the Ministry of Transport, who accompanied the Graf Zeppelin on its first trip to the United States, expressed to your correspondent his sorrow at the passing away of a man whose work in the development of aviation ranked extremely high.

Dr. Otto Rohrbach said: "Having had the honor of meeting Mr. Curtiss personally in New York, I hear with deep regret of the sudden death of one of the pioneers of aviation. The loss is especially hard on us constructors of seaplanes, since it was Mr. Curtiss who first tackled this branch of plane construction."

Dr. Claude Dornier said: "Although I never met Mr. Curtiss, I have always felt the highest admiration for the great pioneer who has taken a prominent place in the history of world aviation. Every one occupied in airplane and seaplane construction will mourn his death, which comes as a great surprise. The fact that the world's largest seaplane, the Do-X, was recently fitted with Curtiss motors best illustrates our confidence in his work. We are glad that our ship will spread his fame through Europe."

CURTISS AIRPORT PLANNED.

Memorial Near Hammondsport Projected by Finger Lakes Body.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 23 (AP).—The Finger Lakes Association of Central New York announced tonight that the forty-four cities and villages of the organization would take steps toward establishing a Glenn H. Curtiss Commemorative Airport near Hammondsport, known in this region as the "cradle of aviation" because of Mr. Curtiss's aeronautical work there. Federal and State aid will be sought in the project.

The board of governors of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, in session here yesterday, passed a resolution honoring the memory of Glenn H. Curtiss and appointed a delegation headed by Frank H. Russell to represent the organization at the funeral.

Civil War Veteran Dies at 94.

LYNN, Mass., July 23.—Alonzo Hollis, charter member of the General Lander Post Civil War Veterans, died at his home here today. He was born in Hartford, Conn., ninety-four years ago. During the Civil War he was captured, but succeeded in escaping from Libby prison by hiding for several days in an unused oven in a hotel. Later, he rejoined the army and served until the conclusion of the war. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

Mrs. Charles Neilson.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 23.—Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison Neilson died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Crawford Neilson, at Ruxton, near Baltimore. She was 76 years old. Mrs. Neilson was the widow of Charles Neilson, for twenty years consulting engineer of the New York Central Lines. In the second administration of President Grover Cleveland he was Assistant Postmaster General.

Stanley Rushton.

MERIDEN, Conn., July 23 (AP).—Stanley Rushton, 47, newspaper writer of Philadelphia, died here yesterday in Meriden Hospital, where he had undergone an operation ten days previously. He had been visiting his sister, Mrs. G. Arthur Hill, here for several weeks. Besides his sister, Mr. Rushton is survived by two brother, Edwin and Lewis Rushton of Philadelphia.

A. F. JACCACI, ARTIST, IS DEAD IN FRANCE

DID MURALS IN MID-WEST

CHATEAU NEUF-DE-GRASSE, France, July 23 (AP).—August F. Jaccaci died here yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

August Florian Jaccaci was born Jan. 28, 1856, at Fontainebleau, near Paris. A gypsy strain in him, perhaps inherited from Hungarian ancestors, led him as a young man to Africa, Martinique, Cuba and Mexico, before, in the early '80s, he settled in the United States. He remained here thirty years and became a naturalized American citizen.

As a decorative artist Jaccaci made himself known first in the Middle West. He did mural paintings for the Capitol at St. Paul and for the old Potter Palmer residence in Chicago.

Moving to this city Jaccaci was successively art editor of McClure's and Scribner's magazines. He wrote "On the Trail of Don Quixote" in both English and French. During these active years in New York he made many friends. Among his intimates at the Century Club were William C. Brownell, John La Farge, Clarence King. Others he knew well were Theodore Roosevelt, Mark Twain, Charles Dudley Warner, Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, Cecelia Beaux and Ida M. Tarbell.

Jaccaci's exceptional knowledge of paintings and painters, collectors and collections led him to plan a monumental work, "Noteworthy Pictures in American Private Collections," to be issued in many folio volumes with the best possible reproductions of the originals. The first volume appeared but the work was halted by the World War.

In May, 1914, Jaccaci had gone to Europe to see art experts and plate makers. With the outbreak of the war, he threw over his personal enterprises and thereafter devoted himself to relieve suffering. He established the Society for the Protection of Children of the Frontier, which succored thousands of Flemish and French children who had been separated from their homes and parents. He raised the money himself, chiefly from his American friends, and he kept at this labor though twice brought near death by pneumonia due to his excessive exertions.

Noting that tuberculosis of the bones afflicted many of the fugitive children, he established at Berck, France, a model hospital for the treatment of this disease, another evidence of American generosity and his ability to raise money. In acknowledgment of these services he rceeived the Legion of Honor and was decorated by the King of the Belgians. He was made a member of the Institute of France for his scholarship.

MRS. ALICE BEAVER BROWNE

Mother of Commissioner Public Utilities in New Jersey, Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 23.—Mrs. Alice Beaver Browne, widow of William H. Browne, former Philadelphia attorney and mother of Dr. Charles Browne, former Mayor of Princeton and former Congressman from New Jersey and now Public Utility Commissioner of New Jersey, died this morning at her home here. Mrs. Browne was in her eighty-sixth year.

She was the daughter of the late Thomas Beaver of Danville, Pa., and Mrs. Beaver, and was related to General James Beaver, former Governor of Pennsylvania.

SIR FREDERICK M. STYLE.

British Nobleman, Resident of Milwaukee Since 1881, Dies.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 23 (AP).—Sir Frederick Montagu Style, British nobleman, died today after an illness of a year. He was the tenth Baron of Glenmore and came here from Wales in 1881. He was 73 years old.

For many years he had been retired. His mother, Rosamund Style, was the daughter of Lord Tredegar. Living in Milwaukee for many years, he seldom referred to his title and was known as Mr. Style. A son, William F. Style, a banker, will succeed to the title.

Miss Mary Louise Mullen.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Miss Mary Louise Mullen, superintendent of the San Francisco Florence Crittenton Home, died yesterday in the Plumas County foothills, where she had gone to spend her vacation. Miss Mullen began her career in her native State of New York. Her first superintendency was at Akron, Ohio. Later she came to San Jose, Cal., and ten years ago was appointed superintendent of the San Francisco institution. She was 62 years old.

Reuben S. Jobson.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 23.—Reuben S. Jobson, identified for twenty-five years with the lumber and sawmill industry, died at his home here today, after an illness of several months. He was 59.

Mr. Jobson had been head of the sawmill department of the Allis-Chalmers Company of Milwaukee. He leaves a wife and four sons.

R. T. LOWNDES DIES; NOTED AS FINANCIER

Head of Leading West Virginia and Maryland Families Was in 88th Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 23.—Richard Tosker Lowndes, senior member of a noted family of West Virginia and Maryland, died today in his home, Waldemore, near here, in his eighty-eighth year. He was the elder brother of the late Lloyd Lowndes, former Governor of Maryland. Until a week before his death he continued to take an active part in the important business and financial interests which he controlled.

Business occupied only a part of his attention, however. A Republican in politics, who always maintained an active interest in public affairs of this part of West Virginia, he had not held public office.

Mr. Lowndes's widow survives him. Before her marriage she was Miss Goff, of a prominent Clarksburg family. They were married in 1896. Mrs. Lowndes is a daughter of United States Senator Nathan Goff, who died several years ago, and is a sister of Senator Guy Despard Goff.

Mr. Lowndes was the son of Lloyd Lowndes, who came across the mountains from Cumberland in 1831 and engaged in the general merchandising business here.

Mr. Lowndes had owned a wool mill and a lumber mill. He had mining interests and had been president of the Merchants National Bank and of the Lowndes Savings Bank and Trust Company.

JAMES ALSTON CABELL.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., July 23.—James Alston Cabell, president of the Alumni Association of the University of Richmond and a former member of the State Legislature, died at his home here yesterday. He was 78 years old. He came of an old and distinguished Southern family. His father was General Henry Coalter Cabell of the Confederate Army, and his paternal grandfather was William H. Cabell, who was Governor of Virginia from 1805 to 1808.

Mr. Cabell was chairman of the Virginia Commission on the Uniformity of Legislation in the United States and was influential in framing the negotiable instruments act. He revived the Virginia Society of the Cincinnati and was the first president of the temporary organization, 1889-1896. He was formerly Grand Master of Masons in Virginia.

WAR COMRADE CAUGHT BY DRY AGENT IN RAID

In Court Captor Says He Aided Alleged Bartender When Latter Was Wounded in France.

A member of his regiment in the World War, now a prohibition agent, caused an alleged bartender to be fined $200 in Brooklyn Federal Court yesterday. Terrence McSorley of 118-44 233d Street, St. Albans, Queens, came before Judge William B. Sheppard charged with possession of liquor at 187-06 Central Avenue, St. Albans.

About a month ago the Parent-Teacher Association of Public School 36, St. Albans, threatened to picket a speakeasy whose back door opened upon the yard of the school. The sight of men staggering from the speakeasy was a degrading sight for the children to see, according to the association.

The place closed after the threat, and the picketing was not necessary. It had been raided some time before and cases against it were pending in the Brooklyn Federal court, but it had continued in operation in spite of that fact.

Yesterday on the witness stand Herbert McClymant, a prohibition agent, told of peering through a window of the speakeasy and seeing McSorley behind a bar serving drinks. When the agents crashed into the place McSorley was standing at the end of the bar.

"Why are you so sure that it was McSorley who was behind the bar when you peered through the window," asked Joseph Wackerman, the defending counsel.

"I recognized and remembered him immediately," replied McClymant. "We both served overseas in the Sixty-ninth Infantry. The last time I saw him over there he was badly wounded and I helped lift him into an ambulance."

Fine Reproduction Furniture

French, English, Italian, Spanish and Early American

Are Lowered 20 to 50 per cent. In the August Sale

Belmaison has never entered the Furniture Sale with larger or more distinguished collections of reproduction furniture, arranged on the Fourth Floor and in the Belmaison interiors above...actual rooms designed with a reassuring accuracy and a delightful and vivid imaginative feeling for the differing decorative ways of other lands and epochs.

Jacobean Oak Corner Cupboard
Original, $200; Sale Price, $160

Stout Old Oak and the Mannered Elegance of Walnut

Of the Tudor and Jacobean oak furniture alone there is enough to furnish with a fine authenticity all the interiors of a great manor house. Stout pieces made in England from old seasoned wood. Great trestle tables, court cupboards and open-shelved dressers. And the smaller simpler cottage pieces...gate-legged tables and splat-backed Windsor chairs. Quite as large and as interesting are the groups of graceful Queen Anne furniture in the beautifully figured walnut that became so fashionable at the beginning of the 18th Century. Dignified high-backed arm chairs with cabriole legs, beds with headboards shaped in ogee curves, and little prim bachelor chests.

Chippendale, Sheraton and Hepplewhite

It holds true of these as of the fine mahogany reproductions that only the best has been chosen for perpetuation by Belmaison. Chippendale's most gracious ribband or ladder-backed chairs. Splat-backed dining chairs after Sheraton with the honeysuckle motif and the falling husks of his happiest invention. A bow-fronted sideboard or serpentine sofa of Hepplewhite design, whose delicate perfection of proportion and workmanship is as much a matter of admiration as in the case of the original.

Graceful French 18th Century Examples and Unaffected Early American Types

There are Louis XV walnut side chairs, covered in a most decorative mat water green leather. A poudreuse that is the perfect counterfront of one by whose aid some witty lady of the salons enhanced her charms.

Spanish and Italian examples of great interest and individuality also abound. Not to mention the large and delightful groups of the American maple and pine of our early native interiors.

All Belmaison's metal, willow and teakwood garden furniture is also included in the Sale. The overstuffed sofas and lounging chairs adroitly designed to fit harmoniously into traditional interiors. And the many new pieces that have arrived from England during the last few weeks.

MULROONEY STOPS PARKED CAR SEIZURE

SUMMONSES TO BE ISSUED

Fines Based on Degree of Each Violation to Supplant Flat $10 Impounding Fee.

SCHROEDER BACKS PLAN

Automobiles parked too long in the theatre zone will no longer be towed away by wrecking crews to be impounded until the owner pays $10. Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney quietly abolished the practice yesterday and ordered a return to the former methods of issuing summonses for illegal parking.

The Police Commissioner's action was taken after conferences with William Schroeder Jr., Sanitary Commissioner, under whose direction the wrecking crews from the Street Cleaning Department operated. Dr. Schroeder has long opposed the seizures and a month ago on his own initiative dropped the practice except in the theatre zone at night. He held that it was a waste of men and equipment and also that while the city got $10 for each car towed away, it cost approximately $16 a car.

Order Abandons Whalen Policy.

Commissioner Mulrooney made no comment on his order rescinding the policy of his predecessor Grover Whalen except to remark that the wrecking crews helped to create street congestion, the thing they were trying to abolish.

The practice of towing away automobiles was established by Mr. Whalen on Jan. 21 as one part of a comprehensive traffic relief plan for the theatre zone. Mr. Whalen called the plan "a huge success" and public cooperation "wonderful."

His scheme attracted widespread attention, not least of which was directed toward the idea of towing away cars as if they were abandoned wrecks. There were complaints by hotel and restaurant men and by taxicab interests, and bit by bit the plan, which Mayor Walker approved at the time with the comment, "It looks like a great success to me," has been modified.

Parking Ban Also Modified.

On July 8 the complete ban on parking in the theatre zone between 7:45 and 9 P. M. was dropped for the Summer. Controller Berry also took up the cudgels for motorists at the Board of Estimate a month after the impounding plan went into effect. He said that he received seven or eight letters daily complaining about the practice. He questioned the legality of the practice.

Commissioner Schroeder has been vigorous in his denunciation of the wrecking crew idea, although it happened that his men did the work. This was because the old law, under which the action was taken, empowered the Street Cleaning Department to remove obstructions and assess the costs against the responsible individuals.

Dr. Schroeder has declared the custom an annoyance to the individual and an expense to the city "which has not worked out to the satisfaction of any one."

Meanwhile, merchants have been adding their protests to those of citizens who came out of theatres to find their cars missing. Commissioner Mulrooney gave no notice of his intention to abandon the wrecking crew, but issued immediate orders to patrolmen on duty in the theatre zone to issue summonses for offenders who violate the parking regulations.

Each summons will specify the number of hours a car has been parked and the magistrates will determine the penalty, instead of the flat $10 charge which was assessed as a "pound charge." In short, in so far as parking is concerned, it is as it was before Mr. Whalen undertook to reduce congestion, except that no parking is permitted between 10:30 and 11 o'clock P. M., when theatres are letting out.

NELSON IS INDICTED AGAIN.

Old Bail Bond Covers New Charge of Possessing Stolen Jewels.

For two days Robert C. Nelson, 50 years old, of 2,123 Voorhies Avenue, Sheepshead Bay, sought Detective Fitzgerald of the headquarters staff to surrender on a new indictment charging Nelson with having jewels alleged to have been part of the loot in the $30,000 robbery on May 17 of the home of Mrs. Verna Pearson at Margate, N. J. Nelson found Fitzgerald yesterday and soon after was arraigned before General Sessions Judge Rosalsky on a bench warrant.

More than a month before Nelson was arrested following the roundup of four men and a woman in the Commodore Hotel and the seizure of about $250,000 in jewels, suspected of having been the proceeds of hotel robberies in Winter resorts.

Search of Nelson's safe deposit boxes, it was alleged by the police, uncovered about $500,000 in jewels, which Nelson alleged he bought from others, principally race track patrons.

At that time an indictment was returned charging him with having part of the jewels stolen from Kohn & Co., Newark jewelers. Nelson was released in $10,000 bail on this charge.

When he had pleaded not guilty yesterday to the second indictment, Judge Rosalsky accepted the bail in the first indictment to cover the second.

TAILOR, GOLFER, IN CRASH.

Two Women Hurt in Collision of Three Autos in Greenwich.

Tailor of Newport, golf champion of Rhode Island, on his way to Greenwich tonight to participate in the annual invitation golf tournament at the Greenwich Country Club tomorrow, figured in an accident when his car was in collision with two other machines owned by Clarence Dobson and Maher Mahoney, both of Greenwich.

Mrs. Clarence Dobson and Mrs. Thomas Irwin, in the Dobson car, were injured.

Winter to Bring Longer Skirts; "Bad for Business," Buyers Say

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, July 23.—When Winter comes to Fifth Avenue milady is going to wear her skirts down to the line where shoe tops used to be, the first little fashion shows of 1930-1931 indicated here today.

Buyers from the United States, attending in usual numbers, despite rumors of slack trade, found reasons for worry in the hemline that kept milady herself awake so many nights last season.

"Bad for business," more than one was heard to mutter, as model after model fluttered past displaying a scant eight inches of silk stocking above her slippers.

Buyers declared the styles of the coming season will "hang a 'last year's' tag on styles with which stores and women's wardrobes are stocked at present.

RISE IN GAS REVENUE PLACED AT $882,647

BUT SEES THIS NULLIFIED

Testifies at Hearing Changed Conditions Will Offset It—League Condemns Schedule.

The net increase in revenue to the Brooklyn Union Gas Company under the proposed revision of its rate schedule would amount to $882,647 a year, John I. Blanchfield, statistician for the company, testified yesterday at the rehearing on the company's application before the Public Service Commission. Mr. Blanchfield's testimony was given "with qualifications." He said that conditions resulting from the change would reduce the total revenue by approximately the same amount.

Maurice Hotchner, special counsel for the city, declared the company's figures showed that the net increase in revenue from domestic consumers would be $1,302,647 under the proposed rates, while there would be a saving to the wholesale consumers of $420,000 a year. The total revenue from all customers, he said, would be $26,461,735 a year under the proposed rates, as compared with total revenue under the present rates of $25,579,088, indicating the net increase of $882,647.

The saving of $420,000 to wholesale users of gas, Mr. Hotchner contended, would penalize the domestic consumers.

The correctness of the figures was admitted by Mr. Blanchfield "with qualifications." He explained that the figures were based on conditions prevailing in 1928, and his admission was based on reservations under the proposed rates, which include an initial charge of 95 cents for the first 200 cubic feet of gas used.

He estimated that the removal of 25,000 meters would reduce the company's income by $310,000; that the removal of the 20,000 meters from customers now using two meters would reduce the income by $250,000, and that the company would lose $300,000 because of the great number of residents moving and requiring initial and final bills.

Jacob Brenner, counsel for the Ridgewood Taxpayers' Association, charged that Mr. Blanchfield had not offered any new testimony, but only that which he had given during the original hearing.

Milo R. Maltbie, chairman of the commission, presiding with Commissioners George R. Van Namee and Maurice Burritt, said that whether Mr. Blanchfield's testimony was new or old would have no bearing on the commission's decision.

J. B. Milgram, secretary of the Utility Consumers' League of New York, with offices at 290 Broadway, issued the following statement after listening to Mr. Blanchfield's testimony:

"Since all customers using under 2,800 cubic feet of gas per month per meter pay more under the proposed rate than those using more than 2,800 cubic feet per meter per month save under the new rate, the figures given by Mr. Blanchfield do not show the actual effect upon the smaller customers. We estimate that those using under 2,800 cubic feet per meter per month, constituting 65 per cent of the company's customers, would pay $2,600,000 a year more as a total, part of which would go to those using more than 2,800 cubic feet per month as a saving."

The hearing scheduled for today before the commission on the protest of the city against the initial charge of $1 for the first 200 cubic feet of gas now being made by the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company, has been postponed until Aug. 14, Mr. Maltbie announced.

BANS MAMARONECK BEACH.

Westchester Health Chief Acts on Report of Pollution.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 23.—Westchester County health authorities moved quickly today in the matter of pollution of bathing beaches coming under its jurisdiction, instructing Mamaroneck health officials to close the municipal bathing beach in that town and requesting the Westchester Park Commission to make an immediate test of water at Glen Island beach.

Instructions to close the municipal beach at Mamaroneck were transmitted to the health officer of the town today by Dr. Mathias Nicoll, Westchester County health commissioner, following the submission to his office of reports on tests made of water off the bathing beach by the Mamaroneck health department.

"I have written the health officer to close the beach at Mamaroneck as a matter of public safety and health pending better disposition of sewage emptying into the harbor there," Dr. Nicoll said today. "Dumping of sewage into the harbor waters has caused a dangerous condition to the health of bathers using the beach."

EXONERATES THAMES CREW

Bridgeport Coroner Finds That Pilot's Death Was Accidental.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 23 (AP).—Coroner John J. Phelan exonerated surviving members of the crew of the ill-fated freighter Thames today of responsibility for the death of Pilot Lambert L. Hancourt, who with fifteen members of the crew, drowned when the steamer burned off Greenwich on April 24. The finding said Hancourt went to his death by accident and not through any criminal act or negligence on the part of any one.

I. R. T. WILL SILENCE ALL ITS TURNSTILES

WORK WILL BEGIN SOON

Cost Put at $19,100—Commission Sets Aug. 5 for Start of Hearings on Bronx Bus Service.

The Transit Commission authorized the Interborough Rapid Transit Company yesterday to install upon the remaining 955 turnstiles in its subway stations the same silencing device which has successfully eliminated the din from the fare controls at the Grand Central Station. Installation of the rubber-cushioned pendulum arm which muffles the turnstiles crash will be started at other stations soon, but will probably not be completed for several months.

The device which has been in use at Grand Central for several months has been warmly approved by the Noise Abatement Commission as well as by company and Transit Commission engineers. At the request of the Noise Abatement Commission the Board of Transportation is now considering the advisability of using the same device or a similar one upon the turnstiles to be placed in stations on the city's new subway system now under construction.

Installation of the noise eliminators will cost the Interborough $20 for each turnstile, or an estimated total of $19,100.

Bronx Bus Hearings Set.

Acting upon the request of the Board of Transportation, which in turn had acted upon a formal complaint by Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, the Transit Commission set Aug. 5 for the beginning of public hearings on the service and facilities provided by the Surface Transportation Corporation, the Third Avenue Railway subsidiary which holds the borough-wide bus franchise for the Bronx. Mr. McKee complained against the alleged discourtesy of employes and unsanitary condition of buses.

The commission sent to Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation a detailed report on the Bronx bus service, covering the two years in which the company has operated. The Transit Commission, according to William G. Fullen, chairman, has taken up with the bus company the matter of courtesy of employes and has also taken up the alleged failure of bus drivers to heed traffic lights. The Board of Transportation has been invited to sit in on the public hearings.

The Transit Commission's report on Bronx bus service shows that 130 buses are now operated, of which 100 are in daily use, operating on 173 runs and requiring the services of 213 operators and forty conductors. According to the report, early operating difficulties were overcome with the aid of Transit Commission inspectors, who pointed out ways of improving both service and maintenance.

The report says that the company has all its buses swept and cleaned once every twenty-four hours, but that they become dirty during the course of a day because of dust accumulations and the discarding of newspapers and other refuse by passengers.

Order on One-Man Operation.

The commission decided yesterday to order the Brooklyn and Queens Transit Corporation to make formal application for the change to one-man operation on its Gates Avenue and Greene Avenue lines in Brooklyn. The change has already been effected, but the company failed to first obtain the commission's consent.

On Aug. 13 the commission will hold a hearing on the application of the Third Avenue Railway Company for permission to abandon its 110th Street crosstown surface car line. An application by the New York & Harlem Railroad Company for permission to curtail service by discontinuing surface car operation on the Fourth Avenue and Madison Avenue lines between 1 A. M. and 6 A. M. was referred to the commission's counsel and chief engineer for study and report.

DRY LAW RULING FREES BREWERY EQUIPMENT

Judge Patterson Decides Fixed Articles Are Not Subject to Confiscation.

In a decision considered to be important because of its interpretation of a section of the prohibition act which provides for the forfeiture of property designed for the manufacture of liquor, Federal Judge Patterson ruled yesterday that the government could not confiscate a major part of the brewing equipment, seized June, 1929, by prohibition agents in a raid on the Kips Bay Brewery, 642-62 First Avenue.

Judge Patterson on June 16 directed a jury to return a verdict in favor of the government in its libel proceedings against the equipment and vats of beer valued at $1,000,000, but he did not affix his signature to the verdict. He decided yesterday that the fixed and unmovable articles in the brewery were not subject to confiscation, even though the law had been violated.

Under his decision vats, boilers, pipes and parts of the refrigerating plant must be returned to the Patrick Holding Company, owners of the brewing equipment, who leased it to the Kips Bay Brewing and Malting Company. The government, Judge Patterson ruled, may retain possession of about 8,700 barrels of beer, valued at $250,000, and some paraphernalia and supplies valued at $150,000.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided Kuhlmann's Brewery in Ellenville, N. Y., valued at $200,000, and arrested Herman Kuhlmann, owner; his son, John, and five employes. They said they found two 100-gallon vats full of beer, 124 gallons of fermenting beer, large quantities of supplies, which they seized, together with two trucks and two automobiles.

Agents later in the day conducted raids in Manhattan and the Bronx, seized small quantities of alleged liquor and arrested the following men: Thomas Dolan at 1,222 Sixth Avenue, August Weissberger at 546 East 149th Street, Frank Grippo at 636 East 159th Street, James Malloy at 225 East Forty-third Street, James Leroy and Arme Petier at 1,531 Broadway.

Deckhand Built Up $3,000 to $1,500,000; Lost Most of It in Stock Crash; Alimony Cut

The story of a $40-a-month deckhand who amassed a fortune of more than $1,500,000 in Wall Street, only to lose all but $144,861 in the stock market crash last October, was revealed yesterday in the Jersey City Chancery Court.

The former deckhand, John E. Van Wie, of East Orange, recently asked Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon to reduce the $18,000 annual alimony he has been paying his divorced wife, Leila, on the ground that since the stock market collapse and the loss of his fortune the alimony payments have become a hardship.

Yesterday, after Samuel Stern, master in chancery, reported that Mr. Van Wie's holdings are worth exactly $144,861.37 and that his income therefrom is only $9,739.05, Vice Chancellor Fallon ordered the alimony payments reduced from the original $1,500 a month to $300 a month. In granting the reduction, the Vice Chancellor said that "Mrs. Van Wie will have to give up caviar and partridge and go back to corn beef and cabbage."

Mr. Van Wie started his Wall Street operations with $3,000 of hard-earned savings in 1912, and ten years later, he said, his fortune was $1,500,000, and he and his wife were living in luxury. He related that he was married in 1896 and "lived happily on corned beef and cabbage" in a Newark flat for which they paid rent of $15 a month.

In 1923, following family differences, Mrs. Van Wie divorced him and went to live in an apartment on her alimony of $1,500 a month. Mr. Van Wie told the court that this payment every month meant nothing to him until last Fall, when, he asserted, he lost $1,000,000 in the stock market slump.

Vice Chancellor Fallon appointed Mr. Stern as Master in Chancery to investigate. Mr. Stern reported yesterday that his investigation showed that Mr. Van Wie's holdings prior to the Wall Street crash were worth $1,130,000, but that they had shrunk.

The Vice Chancellor decided that it was a hardship to ask Mr. Van Wie to pay alimony amounting to almost twice as much as his annual income. He said he hoped Mr. Van Wie would be able to rebuild his fortune. Neither Mrs. Van Wie, who has been living in Bernardsville, N. J., for several months, nor her attorney, Clarence Mackay, was in court.

HOW'S $1,000,000 LEFT TO WORKERS

"Millionaire Hobo's" Will Provides $5 Each for Brother and Step-Son.

TRUST TO AID JOBLESS

Cincinnati Man, Executor, Tells of How's Coming There, Starved, to Draw Up Document.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—James Eads How, "millionaire hobo," who died at Staunton, Va., yesterday, drew up a will here two weeks ago leaving $5 each to his brother and his stepson and to his divorced wife only the nominal sum given her in their separation decree. The rest of his fortune, estimated at close to $1,000,000, was left in trust for the benefit of the "workers of the world."

The will was drawn up by Nicholas Klein, attorney, who said tonight:

"It was the 13th of July. I had received a call from the Travelers' Aid Society that a strange, unkempt man fainted from hunger and had asked for me. I could find him, I was told, at the Union depot.

"Puzzled, I hurried to the station, and there, sitting on a bench, stooped, his head bowed, I found my friend. His face was haggard and seamed, his laborer's clothes shabby and torn. I scarcely recognized him.

"I immediately rushed him out to my house, fed him and called a doctor. The physician's verdict was that How might live for years, but that there was an equal possibility that he would not live through the week. He diagnosed his condition as exhaustion caused by self-starvation.

"This was characteristic of How to starve himself. He firmly believed that any bodily ailment could be cured by abstinence and it was virtually impossible to shake him in this conviction."

"After he had been somewhat revived by sleep and food he told me that he had come to Cincinnati to confer with me about his will."

The document reads:

THE WILL OF J. EADS HOW.

I, J. Eads How, do make this as my last will.

1. I do name my friend, Nicholas Klein of Cincinnati, as the executor of this will, and he to serve without bond.

2. I give to Ingebord How whatever she may be entitled to at law; to Louis How and to Holger How the sum of $5 each in full from my estate.

3. All the rest and residue of my estate, real or personal, I do give and bequeath in fee simple in trust to my trustees, who shall serve without bond, or to their successors surviving, viz.: Barney Haughey of Denver, Nicholas Klein of Cincinnati and Herman Gaul of Chicago, trustees, for the sole use, benefit and behoof of the workers of the world, especially for the education of the disemployed along the lines I and my friends have been working all these years to produce justice and a classless order throughout the world, and they to determine the line, kind and nature of the work and methods entirely.

Done as my will at Cincinnati, this 14th day of July, 1930. The International Brotherhood Welfare Association national convention can elect in case of the death of a trustee.

J. EADS HOW.

Witnesses to this will:
MARY SILVERSTON,
EVA KLEIN.

The Ingebord How mentioned in the will is Mr. How's divorced wife, who resides in Los Angeles. Louis How is the brother and Holger How the stepson.

Funeral in Washington Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The funeral of James Eads How will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at All Souls' Unitarian Church, Sixteenth and Harvard Streets, Northwest, the church in which the funeral service for William Howard Taft was conducted.

From Staunton, Va., the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson, Mr. How's body was brought to Washington today. Following the services the body will be cremated and later the ashes will be taken to St. Louis and placed in the How family vault in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Louis How of Rockport, Mass., a brother of the deceased made the arrangements here.

$75,000 MORPHINE IS SEIZED AT PIER

CONSIGNEE AWAITED 4 DAYS

Fails to Appear and Agents, Acting on Tip, Open Packages—Arrests Are Predicted Shortly.

When the American Diamond liner, Innoko docked last Friday at her Hoboken pier, she had in her hold seven cases marked "tableware." The cases were placed in the baggage room on the dock to wait the consignee. Special treasury agents from the Costom House were particularly anxious to meet the consignee, for they had received an advance tip that narcotics were contained in the cases.

For four days and nights, the agents, under Gregory O'Keefe, waited. Yesterday, when nobody had appeared to claim the packages the customs agents decided to open them. Inside each case, under a supply of parts for assembling electric lamps, was a tin box. Within this box, was yet another box. Carefully wrapped in this inner box were three packages of morphine. The wholesale value of the drugs was fixed by the agents at about $75,000. The retail value is believed to be many times that amount.

A search for the consignee has been started and Henry C. Stuart, assistant collector of the Port of New York, expects that arrests will soon be made.

LIQUOR GIVES QUEBEC FOURTH OF REVENUE

Sales and Licenses Net $10,410,572—Province Finishes the Year With $4,269,686 Surplus.

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, July 23.—The Quebec Liquor Association accounted for nearly one-fourth of the entire revenue for the fiscal year of the Province of Quebec, which finished the year with a surplus of $4,269,686.95, according to the financial statement of the Province made public by Premier Taschereau today.

The ordinary revenue of the province reached a record high figure of $43,581,984.51, while the expenditures during the year totaled $39,312,297.56.

The operations of the liquor commission accounted for $10,410,572.15 of the revenue.

Of this amount $8,560,791 represents the profits on sales of liquor, wines and beers, while $1,849,781.15 came from hotels and liquor shop licenses.

The Province is taking $1,000,000 from its surplus for its public assistance fund and setting aside $500,000 for the reduction of its debt.

Premier Taschereau announced that during June the Province had redeemed a bond issue of $2,500,000 which became due in that month, taking that amount from the accumulated surpluses of the last few years.

NEW DRY OFFICE IN JERSEY.

Headquarters in Newark to Be Moved to Clinton St. July 31.

Prohibition enforcement headquarters for New Jersey will be moved on July 31 from the present offices in the Industrial Building, 1,060 Broad Street, Newark, to the Plum Building in Clinton Street, Newark, it was announced yesterday. The change is a sequel to the transfer of the enforcement unit from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice, which took effect July 1. The permit division, which remains under the treasury, will retain the present offices.

Alexander P. MacPhee, deputy prohibition administrator for New Jersey, said yesterday that with the separation of offices he expected to be relieved of much routine work and to be able to devote the greater part of his time to directing his agents' work.

WET RACE PLANNED BY MRS. ROBINSON

ACTIVITY IN WESTCHESTER

Wets Start Move to Defeat Dry Delegates There—Issue Is Basis of Niagara Contest.

Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt, according to announcement made yesterday, has taken her stand as a contender for the wet cause in Herkimer County, where she resides. Mrs. Robinson, who is the mother of Theodore Douglas Robinson, former Assistant Secretary of War, will run in the primaries as a contesting candidate for delegate to the Republican State convention on a wet ticket.

The Thirty-third Congressional District, made up of Herkimer and Oneida Counties, is the centre of hot controversy over the dry issue. Until recently it had been expected that Frederick M. Davenport, who represents the district in the House of Representatives and is a pronounced dry, would have opposition in the primaries also. State Senator Henry D. Williams of Oneida, a wet, was considering a contest against Davenport, but by this time has withdrawn definitely as a candidate for the nomination.

Aside from the contest over delegates to the Republican State Convention, the Herkimer County Republican primaries will witness a fight for the Assembly nomination, the first to be announced so far from up-State over the prohibition issue. Theodore Rogers, former chairman of the Herkimer County Republican Committee, a wet, is taking the field against William J. Thistlewaite, the incumbent, who is seeking renomination as a dry.

Davenport Strongly Intrenched.

It was learned yesterday also that Representative Davenport narrowly escaped a contest by Theodore Douglas Robinson, who had considered fighting in the primaries for the Congressional nomination on a wet ticket. The fact that Representative Davenport is strongly intrenched and in a position to run a costly campaign, according to reports from the wet camp, has acted as a deterrent against opposition to him in the primaries, although he is by no means popular with the Republican organizations in his Congressional district.

IRVING R. DEVENDORF, former Supreme Court Justice.
Mrs. DOUGLAS ROBINSON.
FREDERICK J. TEALL, banker, Little Falls.
BRYCE D. BLAKSLY, president Newport National Bank.
GEORGE H. SMITH, physician and former coroner, Little Falls.
JAMES W. DENNISON, lawyer, Frankfort.
LANDON U. LYNT, president Little Falls Manufacturing Company, Little Falls.
JOHN L. PAINE, farmer, Warren, who is a candidate for delegate on the "regular" ticket as well.

The following have been designated for alternates:

GEORGE J. HEITMAN, Heitman Leather Co., Winfield.
Mrs. WILLIAM A. SCHMIDT, former vice chairman Republican County Committee, Ilion.
Mrs. EVA CARROLL, Herkimer.
FRANK C. WHITNEY, farmer, Ilion.
HENRY C. ARNOLD, farmer, Ilion.
Dr. R. S. LINDSAY, former coroner, Old Forge.
RICHARD W. SELWOOD, banker, former secretary Republican County Committee, Ilion.
WILLIS MAIN, retired banker, Dolgeville.

Fight Looms in Westchester.

Westchester County, it appeared yesterday, promises to become a hotly contested battleground of the wets and drys. Henry T. Price of Ossining, former chairman of the Westchester County Home Rule Association, who has had many a tussle in the past with William L. Ward, veteran Republican boss of Westchester, announced yesterday that petitions already were being circulated to prepare the way for the election of contesting wet delegates at the primaries and for the defeat of the hand-picked dry delegations designated by the Republican county organization under directions from Mr. Ward.

Simultaneous with this came the announcement that former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., as head of the New York division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was entering the Westchester County Republican fight over delegates to the State convention. It marks the first active participation of the association so far in a preliminary skirmish of the coming State campaign.

Still another wet and dry contest up-State was announced yesterday, over the seat in the House of Representatives held so long by S. Wallace Dempsey of Niagara, veteran Republican Congressman from the fortieth district.

His opponent in the primaries who has just announced his candidacy is Walter Gresham Andrews, a World War veteran and a grandson of Walter Q. Gresham, who was Postmaster General and Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President Arthur and Secretary of State under Grover Cleveland.

Mr. Andrews announced that while a pronounced wet and favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment "along the lines so clearly and forcibly set forth by Dwight W. Morrow," he would support any "reasonable" measure in Congress to aid enforcement, as long as the Eighteenth Amendment remains a law.

STIMSON GOES TO FISH IN THE ADIRONDACKS

Will Spend Six Weeks There—Reviews Citizen Soldiers in Civilian Riding Clothes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—With the London naval treaty signed, Secretary Stimson left today for a six weeks' vacation in the Adirondacks. He will make his headquarters at Ausable, N. Y., but will go into the woods for a considerable part of the time and engage in his favorite sport of fishing.

The vacation is the first real one he has had since he became Secretary of State. Practically all of his time has been given to the London naval treaty, beginning with the preliminary negotiations and continuing through the conference to the ratification by the Senate and the signing yesterday.

During his absence, Wilbur J. Carr, senior Assistant Secretary of State, will be acting Secretary, as Joseph P. Cotton, Under-Secretary, is also on an extensive vacation.

Mr. Rogers Removes All Doubt As to What Ships Will be Sank

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 23.—Well, we got the treaty signed. Now for the limitation of naval vessels so we can settle down to steady building.

You see, you must build between these various conferences, otherwise you have nothing to sink when you meet. You hold a conference and decide to sink some vessels that would sink themselves if the conference was postponed for another year.

England is to sink three battleships that competed against the Spanish Armada.

Japan is raising two that the Russians sunk and will re-sink them for the treaty and the weeklies.

We are building two to sink.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

WARNS DRY AGENTS NOT TO USE FORCE

Woodcock Suspends Two for Halting Car Near Capital to Teach Need of 'Brains.'

SHOOTING CHARGE FAILS

Albany Newspaper Says That Capt. Golding, Uncover Chief, Faces Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Declaring he was trying to teach dry agents "to use their brains rather than force" and that unlawful and improper conduct on the part of agents would not be tolerated, Amos W. W. Woodcock, Director of Prohibition, today ordered the suspension for three days, without pay, of two agents.

The agents penalized were Charles R. McCartney and John T. Weigel, who on July 16 pursued and stopped at midnight the automobile in which E. G. Duncan, State Road Engineer of Maryland, accompanied by Mrs. Duncan, was returning to his home at Capitol Heights, D. C. The agents were suspended for "stopping the car of a citizen without probable cause."

Investigation of the charges filed last week by Mr. Duncan failed to sustain his charge that the agents had fired upon the car, according to Colonel Woodcock. However, he said, their conduct in stopping the car was "entirely unjustified."

"They deny that there was any shooting done, and it is possible for Mr. Duncan to be mistaken about this point," the director said. "I rest my decision upon the fact that without probable cause they pursued and stopped a citizen's car on the highway at the dead of night.

"In fairness to the agents, Agent McCartney had received, about a week before, information from an unknown stranger that a car bearing the license tag which was upon Mr. Duncan's car was transporting liquor on the public highways. When the agents saw this license number they pursued and stopped the Duncan car. They were not justified, however, in accepting the word of an unknown stranger. They could easily have ascertained that this car was a State Road Commission car.

"It is also fair to say that the agents evidently showed their commission to Mr. Duncan and revealed their identity. Mr. Duncan obviously read the name of the signer of the commission, former Deputy Commissioner Oftedal, for the name of the agents concerned."

Golding Suspension Reported.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 23 (AP).—The Knickerbocker Press says that Captain George W. Golding, head of the special prohibition investigation department in charge of New York State and New England, has been suspended pending investigation of charges submitted to Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock by an unnamed civilian.

It was Captain Golding who raided the Hudson, N. Y., brewery over the heads of Albany enforcement officers. The raid figured in a Federal investigation of charges that Palmer Canfield, former prohibition administrator in charge of the Northern New York district, had accepted a bribe of $10,000 or $20,000 from officials of the brewery.

DECLARES JONES LAW VALID.

Department of Justice Files Prohibition Brief in Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The constitutionality of the Jones law was defended by the Department of Justice in a brief filed in prohibition cases in the Supreme Court today.

The department was replying to petitions for review of decisions by the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth Circuit, the petitions contending that the law "delegates legislative power to courts" and is "so indefinite, ambiguous and uncertain as to be unenforceable."

Hugh McElvogue was sentenced in Missouri to Leavenworth prison for a year and a month on charges of selling liquor. William J. Brown, the other petitioner, was convicted in the same court and sentenced to two years.

The Jones act, the department contends, created no new offense; that the purpose of the act was to increase the maximum penalty which might be imposed for certain violations of the national prohibition law, and that the prescribing of minimum and maximum instead of specific penalties merely gave expression to an intent which otherwise would necessarily have been implied.

NAMES ALCOHOL ADVISERS.

Doran Appoints Industrial Committee to Work With Bureau.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—In the interest of "fair and efficient" administration of the industrial alcohol provisions of the prohibition law, Dr. James M. Doran, Commissioner of Alcohol Supervision, announced today the appointment of a new advisory committee of fifteen members, representing scientific, professional and trade organizations, to cooperate with the bureau in working out the problems arising under the "permissive" sections of the act.

Among the members of the committee are.

H. S. CHATFIELD of New York, president National Oil, Paint and Varnish Association.
R. R. BROWN of New York, president U. S. Industrial Alcohol Company.
MARTIN H. ITTNER of New York, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, chairman of the Industrial Committee of the American Chemical Society.
FRANK A. BLAIR of New York, Household Remedies Company.

URGES DEFEAT OF ALL DRYS

Pledges Never to Vote for Another—Says Nassau Has 5 Speakeasies for Every Former Saloon.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., July 23.—Realizing that prohibition has failed to insure more wholesome surroundings for the rearing of their families, the women of the United States are flocking to enroll in the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, with the result that the membership of the organization, which is only one year old, is 175,000.

This was the keynote of a speech made today by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin at an outdoor mass meeting at Knole Lodge, the country estate of Mrs. Christian R. Holmes at Sands Point. Women prominent in society in most of the large cities in the East attended.

In New York State, Mrs. Sabin said, the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform has recruited 60,000 in the year since it started, while the New York State membership of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which is sixty years old, is only about 50,000.

Mrs. Holmes, who is chairman of the meetings committee of the New York State division of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, told the listeners that since prohibition temperance has been virtually non-existent; said that there are 32,000 speakeasies in New York, as against 8,000 saloons before the prohibition era, and declared that in Nassau County the ratio is even greater—about five speakeasies now in existence to one former saloon.

Tells of Growth of Wet Group.

Mrs. Sabin, after comparing the membership of her organization—she is national chairman of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform—with the membership of the W. C. T. U., said:

"The growth of our organization is tremendously significant, it seems to me, in view of the fact that at the time of the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment the majority of the women of the country were in favor of the measure. Our organization is opposed to prohibition because it recognizes that a country whose citizenry is not self-respecting and law-abiding cannot succeed. We believe that upon these fundamentals depends the character of our people, the very existence of American democracy."

Mrs. Sabin maintained that "since prohibition has not only failed to foster American ideals but has, in effect, violated every single one of them, women are now enrolling at the rate of several thousand a week in our organization to repudiate the amendment." The enrolment in the New York State division alone is 60,000.

"The women welcomed legislation which they thought would insure them happier and more wholesome communities in which to bring up their children," Mrs. Sabin declared. "They thought that they could make prohibition as strong as the Constitution, but today they realize that they have made the Constitution as weak as prohibition.

"Every promise made by the advocates of the Eighteenth Amendment has been broken. They promised that crime would be reduced one-half, yet never in the history of this country has there been such a definite increase in crime as has taken place during the past eleven years." Mrs. Sabin quoted figures to prove that there has been a tremendous increase in the population of Federal prisons, as a direct result of prohibition, and said: "According to Representative Bachmann of West Virginia, who recently made a survey of the Federal prisons, 27 per cent of all prisoners confined in the five Federal prisons on Jan. 1, 1930, were there for violation of the prohibition law."

Mrs. Holmes said that the contention that prohibition has decreased drinking among the working classes is a fallacy, that instead they drink as much but of more poisonous quality. "And what is more," she added, "and far worse, the majority of the speakeasies in Nassau County are in small houses where the atrociously bad liquor is dispensed by young girls, usually the daughters of the owner."

Appeals for Defeat of Drys.

"Speaking for myself and not for my organization," Mrs. Holmes said, "I want to emphasize the fact that I shall never again vote for a dry candidate of my party and I am a dyed-in-the-wool Republican. I believe that if that position is taken alike by Democrats and Republicans that we shall soon see an end to the evasiveness of politicians and political parties. When you vote, throw into the discard those candidates to whom some one cleverly referred as 'those legislators who have dry mouths and wet throats.'"

At the meeting were:

Mrs. JOHN G. SLATER of Glen Cove.
Mrs. AUBREY D. HUTCHESON of Manhasset.
Miss HOAN GUGGENHEIM of Port Washington.
Mrs. CHARLES F. BARRETT of Old Westbury.
Mrs. COURTLANDT NICOLL of Southampton.

Euripides

Long before the Christian era this great Greek dramatist wrote: "Every man is like the company he is wont to keep". In 1930, these words still ring true. We say, "Keep company with such men as Sage, Roosevelt, Wanamaker, Greeley and Carnegie in real estate investment, and you need never fear any man's judgment". Land is the basis of all wealth.

Three Float in Rockaway Pool for Share of Gate Receipts—Several Sitting in Trees.

Despite blasts of wrath from the juvenile courts, child welfare societies and the police, the endurance epidemic seemed yesterday to be more widespread than ever. Many tree-sitters were driven from their perches and bicycles—exhausted—but new ones appeared to take their places.

Jimmy Dooley and his Hackensack riders were forced out at midnight Tuesday after sixteen days of pedaling when their bicycle fell to pieces under them, but they hold the world's record of 289 hours of continuous riding. Dooley announced that he and his "men" are through unless some one sets a higher mark. The Lodi Street team of Hackensack, which had 200 hours in the saddle yesterday, was still going strong, and other teams were rolling along in Tenafly, Little Ferry, Lodi, Palisades Park and Rutherford.

Donald Mohr's Newark team, which had put in more than 268 hours of continuous riding at midnight Tuesday, the greatest part of it in exile because of the police, was compelled to quit when the parents of the boys on the team called a halt.

Boy Rides Through Tornado.

In New Brunswick Eddie O'Toole kept riding on Tuesday throughout the tornado which caused one house to collapse and unroofed others. Eddie's mother came out in the driving rain and begged him to quit, but he kept doggedly on, and at last his father brought out the O'Toole car and rode beside the boy to shelter him from the blast. At noon yesterday Eddie's team had 206 hours in the saddle.

Aldermanic protection is encouraging Raymond Cummings, 15 years old, of 163 Monitor Street, in the Greenpoint district of Brooklyn, and his three bicycling mates. Their ride toward fame is taking place on Monitor Street between Driggs Avenue and Norman Avenue, and Alderman Peter J. McGuinness has promised to get the street roped off so that they may ride without being annoyed by traffic. He has also promised to get two doctors to look after their health.

Starting as a purely amateur venture, the endurance epidemic has taken on a distinct tinge of professionalism, luring persons even of international fame. In a swimming pool at Rockaway Beach, Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, Miss Corinne Rossberg and Miss Ethel Vosper, all prominent swimmers, started at 10:55 A. M. yesterday to keep afloat for not less than forty-eight hours. The pool proprietors have promised them a share of the gate receipts and last night the spectators numbered more than 1,500.

Camden Boys Pass Record.

Down in Camden, where the trees are still heavy with sitters, Vincent Morrissey and Anthony Scott won the acclaims of a dense crowd of admirers at 7:30 o'clock last night, when they passed the record of 216½ hours set last week in Kansas City, Mo., by Billy Kearny. They were still up late last night.

Among Camden's 100 or more sitters is Mrs. Edna May Knight of National Park, mother of Daniel Knight, 11. She had been up forty-eight hours last night and her son more than a week. Ann Volk and Ray Fitzgerald, fifteen-year-old girl chums, are patiently sitting among the leaves in Woodbury, N. J.

In Charlotte, N. C., according to The Associated Press, Mrs. Mattie Kiser, 34, and Mrs. J. E. Bell, 40, whose total weight is 393 pounds, climbed into an oak and said they would stay up a fortnight if the tree held out. Out in Chicago, Mrs. Emily Young, 40, a heavy-set Negress, who intended to stand motionless on a street corner until she had a record of some kind or other, was dislodged yesterday by the police for blocking traffic.

CURTIS'S SON IS SUED.

Chicago Men Seek Returns of Alleged Fees for "Influence."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Two damage suits asking the return of "legal fees" paid on alleged promises of Federal building contracts were filed in the Superior Court today against Harry K. Curtis, Chicago attorney and son of Vice President Curtis. Max Kovarsky, a roofing contractor, is the plaintiff in one suit and A. M. Friedman, an architect, in the other.

Complaints of local contractors, who said they paid money to Mr. Curtis to use his "influence" in Washington in getting government building work for them, were the subject of an investigation by the State's Attorney's office in May.

Mr. Kovarsky in his suit said that on Dec. 10, 1929, he gave Mr. Curtis a $500 check, which, according to an oral agreement, was not to be deposited by Mr. Curtis until a contract for roofing the proposed Chicago postoffice should be in Mr. Kovarsky's hands. If he did not get the contract, the $500 was to be returned to Mr. Kovarsky, the suit said. In violation of the oral agreement, Mr. Kovarsky charges, Mr. Curtis cashed the check and pocketed the money.

Mr. Friedman says that he received the promise of work designing a new postoffice building at Ottawa, Ill., and likewise paid $500, to be held by Mr. Curtis until the contract was awarded.

The plaintiffs say they later dropped their arrangements with Mr. Curtis and received from him $350 between them. Mr. Curtis denied that he had promised his influence in getting contracts and said that he had rendered legal services for contractors from whom he accepted retainers.

15,000 See Health Films Each Week

More than 15,000 persons are viewing each week the free health motion pictures displayed in various parks by the Health Department and the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, according to an announcement yesterday from the latter association. It is expected that 100,000 persons will see the pictures before the end of the Summer.

American Woman Suicide in Havana

HAVANA, July 23 (AP).—Mrs. Christine G. Garcia Viera, 30, American by birth and wife of Dr. Garcia Viera of Havana, committed suicide today by hanging. She was a graduate pharmacist and assisted her husband. No motive was ascribed for the act.

CHINA MISSION SCHOOLS LIKELY TO BE CLOSED

Nanking Government Refuses to Lift Ban on the Teaching of Religion.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 23.—The refusal of the Nanking Government's Ministry of Education to grant a petition of the Chinese Christian churches and twelve missionary bodies for the repeal of the laws forbidding the teaching of religion in the schools is likely to result in the closing of all Christian mission schools in China.

A conference has been called at Hangchow of Christian leaders within six days to vote upon the possible closing, which, if it becomes effective, will deprive 230,000 Chinese of means of an education.

The Nanking Government's reply to the petition declares that "to have elective religious courses in junior and middle schools and to have the privilege of worship in primary schools embody obstacles too difficult to permit granting the request."

HIRTH READY TO FLY HERE.

German Aviator's Plane Filled and Ready for Start This Morning.

Special to The Chicago Tribune.

BERLIN, July 23.—Wolfram Hirth, Germany's premier glider enthusiast, is about ready for the first lap of his flight to America. The gas tanks of his Klemm-Daimler are filled and ready for taking off early in the morning, if weather and other conditions are right. A small difficulty with the motor, which has bothered Herr Hirth for the past six weeks, has been corrected.

Experts at Berlin went through the carburetor with a set of mirrors and found the weakness and remedied it.

Coolidge May Write New Text Which Borglum Cannot Edit

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).—Calvin Coolidge is to be asked to write another history of the United States, and if he consents, Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, will not be allowed to make any revisions.

The former President wrote a 500-word history to be inscribed on the Mount Rushmore memorial in the South Dakota Black Hills. Mr. Borglum, carving the memorial, altered the text. It was then disowned by the former President.

Representative Williamson of South Dakota, secretary to the executive committee of the memorial commission, told his office today he would come East in September to see Mr. Coolidge. He said the former President would be requested to write the history as he chose and the sculptor would not be allowed to edit it.

SEIZE PELHAM MANOR THIEF

Police Arrest "Man With Sneakers" After Twelve Burglaries.

Special to The New York Times.

PELHAM, N. Y., July 23.—The "man with the sneakers," who has been sought by the Pelham Manor police since June 15, when a series of twelve burglaries began in the village, most of them perpetrated in daylight, was arrested today by Patrolman Thomas Grady and Acting Chief James Burnett as he crawled from beneath a hedge on the property of Warner Montague at 101 Witherbee Avenue. He described himself as George Phelan, 20, of 350 East Ninety-second Street, New York City.

At least $2,000 worth of loot was obtained by Phelan in his burglaries, his confession to the police showed. His biggest haul was made at the home of J. A. Roberts, 1,008 Pease Street, two weeks ago. At that home more than $1,700 worth of jewelry, cash and valuables were taken. On his person was found a gold-plated cigar lighter with the initials "J. A. R.," which Acting Chief Burnett said was the property of Mr. Roberts.

COTTON BELT INTEREST REPORTED PURCHASED

Southern Pacific Is Said to Have Acquired 135,000 Shares of Voting Preferred.

The purchase of the 15,000 shares of the voting preferred stock of the St. Loius Southwestern Railway Company from the New York Investors, Inc., by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was reported yesterday. Confirmation of the acquisition of this ctok, which represents about 40 per cent of the voting strength of the St. Louis Southwestern, could not be obtained last night from any prominent official of either party involved. Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific, would neither deny nor confirm the report.

Although the purchase of this stock would nnot give the Southern Pacific actual control of the St. Louis Southwestern, more commonly known as the Cotton Belt Route, it is believed that the minority interest headed by Walter E. Meyer would not object to the acquisition in which event the Southern Pacific could easily obtain a majority interest. At the last annual meeting of the Cotton Belt stockholders Mr. Meyer represented about 60,000 shares of stock. Considerable opposition developed against the present management when an attempt was made to merge the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, the Cotton Belt and the Kansas City Southern a few years ago. The logical solution of this problem, according to the view of some in railroad circles, would be the consolidation of the Cotton Belt and Southern Pacific.

The St. Louis Southwestern was allocated to the Illinois Central Railroad in the general consolidation plan as proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is thought likely, however, that the Illinois Central would not object seriously to the purchase, and some rail men believe the consolidation would be more logical than with the Illinois Central, since there is a heavy interchange of traffic with the Southern Pacific.

The Southern Pacific and Cotton Belt are not competing railroads and their merger would not conflict with the Clayton anti-trust laws, it was stated.

LIMITS LICENSES OF RADIO STATIONS

Board Gives 31 Temporary Renewals Because of Question of Rule Violations.

SEVEN AFFECTED IN STATE

WEVD, WKBQ, WLTH, WNBQ, WHEC, WMAC and WWRL Among Those to Receive Hearings.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Temporary renewal licenses were issued by the Federal Radio Commission today to thirty-one broadcasting stations, of which seven are located in New York State and two in New Jersey.

WEVD and WKBO, New York City; WLTH and WNBQ, Brooklyn; WHEC, Rochester; WMAC, Cazenovia, and WWRL, Woodside, are the New York stations, and WKBO, Jersey City, and WODA, Paterson, the New Jersey stations affected.

The specific reasons for issuing temporary licenses to these stations were not made public, but in a general way the legal division stated it was because of deviation from frequency, use of excessive power, operating without a licensed operator, failure to announce the use of phonograph records, failure to announce call letters and location, or not operating in the public interest.

The commission notified the stations that these temporary licenses would expire Oct. 31. Meanwhile, a hearing will be held in the case of each station.

"This license," says the temporary license, "is issued on a temporary basis, subject to such action as the commission may take after hearing on the licensee's pending application for renewal of license. No authority herein contained shall be construed as a finding by the Federal Radio Commission that the operation of this station is or will be in the public interest beyond the date of expiration of this license."

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR WJZ.

Television Tests Are Planned by Radio Corporation.

Work is to begin soon on the installation of a new 50-kilowatt transmitter at Bound Brook, N. J., for WJZ, if the Federal Radio Commission approves the application made recently for this improvement by the Radio Corporation of America, it was said yesterday by the National Broadcasting Company. The equipment will be a duplicate of the transmitter of 100 percentage modulation now being installed at Bellmore, L. I. for WEAF, which is to be ready for Fall use.

The Radio Corporation has also applied to the Radio Commission for permission to install an experimental television transmitter to operate on the 2,000 to 2,100 kilocycle channel with 5 kilowatts of power. This is later to be turned over to the National Broadcasting Company, which will make a series of image tests.

Among the features of the new installation will be automatic control by push buttons, making it possible for one operator to start up or shut down the entire equipment; duplicate generators and power equipment; hot cathode mercury-vapor rectifier tubes of the latest design; 100-kilowatt water and air cooled transmitter tubes; interlocking switches and doors to protect operators from electrocution or injury, and unusually stable quartz crystal control apparatus.

WARD TO QUIT PARK POST.

Resignation of Prospect Regional Director Requested by Straus.

The resignation of Dr. J. Francis Ward as regional director for Prospect Park, Brooklyn, of the Park Association of the City of New York, was requested yesterday by Nathan Straus Jr., president of the park association, it was announced by M. Lawrence Craner, executive secretary of the association. Dr. Ward said he had been expecting such a request and that he would forward his resignation as soon as he had received Mr. Straus's letter.

Dr. Ward's resignation was asked on the stated ground that he had violated an agreement to submit all reports and suggestions for the improvement of Prospect Park to the directors of the park association. It is believed, however, that the action against Dr. Ward is connected with his advocacy of a new motor highway diagonally across the park, a plan that Mr. Straus, park officials, civic organizations and newspapers opposed unconditionally.

When informed yesterday that his resignation had been requested, Dr. Ward insisted that he was right and that "time would show the wisdom of my plan." He promised to continue his activities before the Board of Estimate for "the public good."

MORRIS FAILS TO CURB WIFE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 23.—A Geneva court delivered a neutral verdict today in the suit of the Chicago millionaire, Nelson Morris, to prevent his wife, Mlle. Jane Aubert, singing in Switzerland. The tribunal declared it was incompetent to assume responsibility concerning the private relations between the couple.

Mlle. Aubert therefore was to make her début at a local theatre tonight, the proceeds of her concert to be devoted to charities.

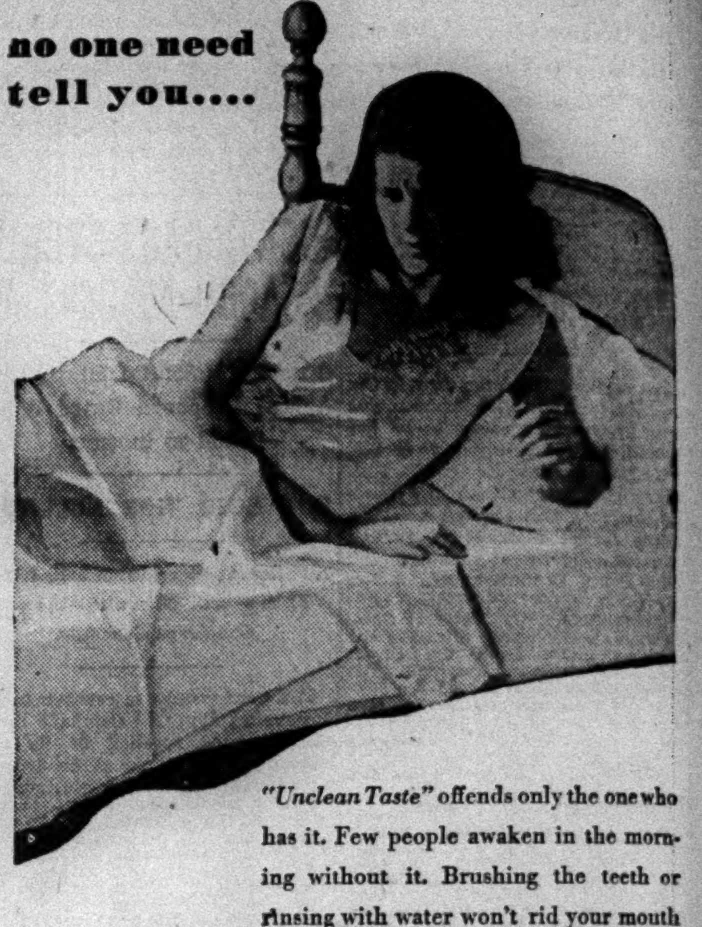
Mr. Morris was defeated last March in his effort to have a Versailles court declared incompetent to hear the divorce proceedings instituted by Mlle. Aubert, but the tribunal found the temporary alimony of $1,000 month granted to her to be excessive and ordered it reduced to $200. On April 30 a Paris court awarded Mr. Morris $2,000 in his suit against a French music hall management, which had engaged Mlle. Aubert without her husband's consent, pointing out that the French law requires obedience by a wife.

To Train at Fort du Pont.

Three regiments of engineer officers of the United States Army Reserve were called yesterday to begin Summer training at Fort du Pont, Del., on Aug. 3. The regiments called are the 414th Engineers under the command of Major Arthur C. Forbes of 74 Arleigh Road, Great Neck, L.I.; the 368th Engineers under Colonel Harrison D. Emerson of 2 Rector Street, New York, and the Fifteenth Engineers, commanded by Major Thomas F. Farrell of the Department of Public Works, Albany.

You know . . . when you have "UNCLEAN TASTE"!

no one need tell you....



"Unclean Taste" offends only the one who has it. Few people awaken in the morning without it. Brushing the teeth or rinsing with water won't rid your mouth of "Unclean Taste". A quick mouth-rinse and gargle with GLYCO-Thymoline is the certain way to refresh your mouth and restore clean taste. Being an alkaline solution it does this gently and naturally, by aiding the tender mouth membranes and glands to function in a normal way. GLYCO-Thymoline is different. It is effective without sting or harshness. Do not confuse it with highly flavored mouth washes that merely replace one taste with another. Too, GLYCO-Thymoline deodorizes, not merely disguises, your breath. It relieves irritated throats and clears husky voices. Indispensable in the morning.

Physicians and Dentists have prescribed GLYCO-Thymoline for over 30 years. They will tell you your mouth wash should be ALKALINE! Use it daily when you brush your teeth—and any time "Unclean Taste" assails. At all Druggists.

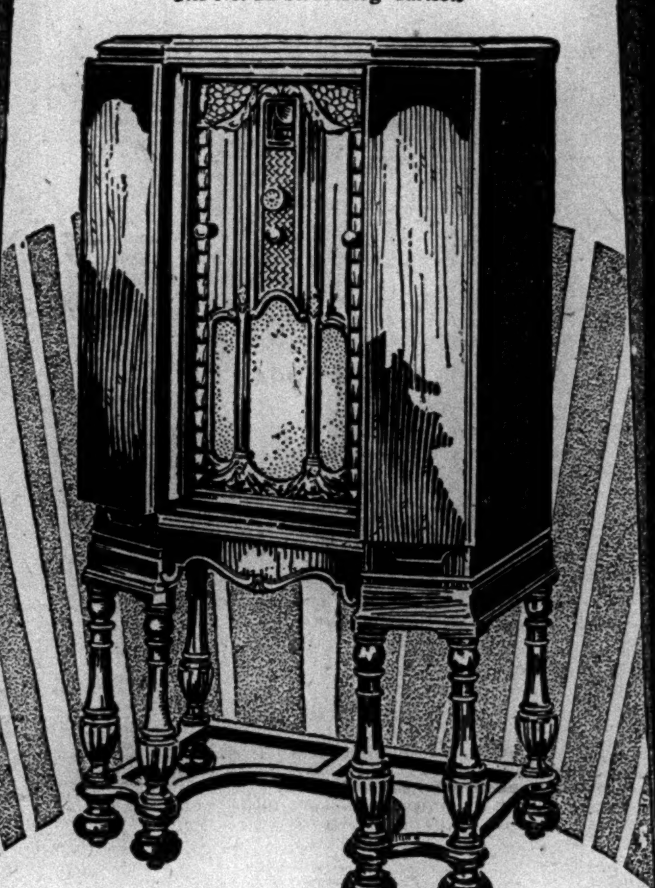
The No. 12 Stromberg-Carlson



Now—the NEW GRAND CONSOLE

Radio's most luxurious presentation—on display by radio's most progressive dealers

STEADILY maintained volume on all stations, and on each station within the usual fading limits of distant reception, through Automatic Volume Control.

Lighting which makes your radio a focal point of beauty in an unlighted or dimly lighted room and enables you to log distance without other illumination through Proscenium Arch Lighting.

All the above features contribute to make the NEW Stromberg-Carlson No. 12 the most delightfully convenient of receivers to operate. But—without a single one of these refinements the No. 12 would still be superior to every receiver which has gone before it. All the latest Stromberg-Carlsons possess—"Full Dial Efficiency" in which, sharp selectivity, high sensitivity and complete range of superb tone are uniform at every point on the dial.

Do not be deceived. Listen to the trustworthy tone of a Stromberg-Carlson and then compare it with any other tone you care to, however manipulated. Your ear will tell you:

"There Is Nothing Finer Than a Stromberg-Carlson"

No. 12 Stromberg-Carlson. Grand Console. Uses 10 tubes. Price, less tubes, $355.

Listen to the Stromberg-Carlson Hour Monday Evenings in a Coast-to-Coast Broadcast over the N. B. C. Blue Network and Associated Stations.

ONLY A STROMBERG-CARLSON HAS STROMBERG-CARLSON TONE

Attempts at imitation of Stromberg-Carlson have been numerous. And once in a while there is a cabinet which does look like a Stromberg-Carlson to the casual glance, although close inspection quickly reveals the difference in quality. But imitation of Stromberg-Carlson TONE—NEVER. To produce Stromberg-Carlson TONE requires too much telephone knowledge and experience, too much taking pains, too high quality and too great a weight of materials. Just compare a Stromberg-Carlson chassis with any other—you'll see the difference instantly. No cheaper receiver could possibly possess Stromberg-Carlson TONE.

BEETHOVEN CONCERT FILLS THE STADIUM

Van Hoogstraten Presents Third "Lenore" Overture and Ninth Symphony.

CHORAL SOCIETY'S CHORUS

Soloists, Misses Vreeland and Van der Veer and Hackett and Eddy Sing With Fine Spirit.

The presentation of Beethoven's third "Leonore" overture and Ninth Symphony, which was postponed because of rain Tuesday night, was heard last night at the Lewisohn Stadium. The New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, under Willem Van Hoogstraten, was assisted by the chorus of the Choral Symphony Society of New York and Jeannette Vreeland, soprano; Nevada Van der Veer, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor, and Nelson Eddy, baritone.

More than 15,000 persons filled every available seat and as many more crowded the spaces apportioned for standees as could get in. The weather proved ideal for outdoor music.

The outstanding feature of the evening was the unfailing standard of pure pitch in the orchestra, the chorus and the soloists. Much of the music is not idiomatic vocally, and open-air currents are hardly conducive to either vocal or instrumental perfection of intonation. Nevertheless, it would be difficult to recall a performance of this "choral" symphony where the intonation was so consistently true.

Of the solo quartet, Nelson Eddy was the newcomer. He sang with clarity of enunciation, good diction, excellent resonance and feeling for phrase. The extreme lower register was a bit weaker than the rest of his range, and the music from his throat would have gained had it been more vibrant and emotional. It was a more than promising début under difficult circumstances.

The other soloists sang the extremely difficult and "instrumental-vocal" parts with spirit and musicianship.

It was a disconcerting night for acoustical disturbances, for in addition to the persistent echo which the architects of the new stage setting have unfortunately been unable to obliterate thus far, an airplane obtruded with its drone during the martial horn strains of the "Leonore," and twice fire engines clanged a discordant and anachronistic accompaniment during the symphony.

It is manifestly impossible to attempt to compare last night's performance with those given indoors during the regular Winter musical season, since the conditions obtaining and the results expected make any basis for comparison out of question. Mr. Van Hoogstraten is, however, to be commended for his high aims and it is not to be forgotten that the number of men who have been privileged to conduct this great masterpiece since its inception in 1823 have been very few indeed. His sincerity and desire to do justice to the music was always in evidence.

When the composer himself directed the première in Vienna, in 1824, there is evidence that the length of time from the first note to the last was about sixty-nine minutes. Last night the performance was the same time, but included three minutes between the movements. Under the conditions, this is rather good catching of the composer's spirit.

The same program is scheduled for repetition tonight.

Organ Recital Given at Columbia.

Charles H. Doersam, organist and organ instructor at Columbia University, gave a recital yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Chapel, at Columbia.

The program included the following: Concerto No. 10 in D Minor, by Handel; "Noël sur les Flutes," by D'Aquin; Voluntary, by Croft; "Muzete," by Dandrieu; Chorale prelude, by Kellner; "Minuet," by Martini; Second Trio in F Major, by Krebs; Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor, by Bach.

Wallack's to Become Film Theatre.

Wallack's Theatre will be reopened soon as a talking-picture theatre where only short-subject audible films will be shown. The program will consist solely of cartoons, comedies, sport films, scenic and travel films, educational subjects and similar offerings. It is understood that the Theatre Estates, Inc., a subsidiary of the Chanin Construction Company, is supporting the venture.

Billie Burke's Mother Is Dead.

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP).—The mother of Billie Burke, actress and wife of Florenz Ziegfeld, died today in Mercy Hospital. She was Mrs. Delia Burke and had been living with friends. She was 71 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Murray Phillips's first production of the season, a comedy by Lester Cole entitled "Technique," is announced to open on Wednesday or Thursday of next week at a theatre not yet named. Lou Tellegen, in the leading rôle, will be supported by Betty Linley, Clyde Dilson, Le Roi Operti, Eve Casanova, Charles Carey and Ernest Woodward. The play was formerly called "Words Without Music."

Rehearsals will start today at the Lyceum for "Journey's End," which will reopen on Aug. 4 at Henry Miller's Theatre. Richard Bird will head the cast.

Vittoria Verse, formerly associated with the Metropolitan Opera Company and the St. Louis Municipal Opera Company, has been engaged as the musical director of Hammerstein's Theatre.

MUSIC NOTES.

Verdi's "Rigoletto" will be the fifth program of the Thursday night series of operas to be given tonight at Starlight Stadium, East 177th Street, by the Free Open Air Grand Opera Company. Angela Sena, young coloratura soprano, is to sing Gilda, and Mario Valle, Rigoletto. Others in the cast include Giuseppe Barsotti, May Barron, Amund Sjovik and Francesco Curci. Michael Fevelsky will conduct.

Children less than 7 years old who have received their training at the Summer play school of Henry Street Settlement will present a musical play in the Children's Open Air Theatre in Van Cortlandt Park this afternoon.

WESTCHESTER ACTORS EXTEND STAY 2 WEEKS

Lawrence Farms Repertory Theatre So Successful Season May Go Through Summer.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., July 23.—So successful has been the seven weeks' run of the newly established Westchester Playhouse at Lawrence Farms here, that its work will be continued for at least two weeks beyond the eight weeks originally planned, it was announced today. The repertory program, changing its bill every week, will present Sierra's "The Romantic Young Lady" next week, the last program of the scheduled run. The little theatre was sold out for the last three nights of Shaw's "Arms and the Man," presented last week. Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" is now in production for this week-end.

"If the additional two weeks are successful the theatre will be continued through the middle of October," said Walter Tupper Jones, the director. "Our experiment with repertory in Westchester County has proved the demand here for this type of performance."

Pirandello's "The Pleasure of Honesty," a new play by the Italian playwright which has never been done in this country, is scheduled for a future production, Mr. Jones declared. "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," an early Shaw play, is another he expects to produce.

The theatre is a converted farm garage on the estate of the late Moses Taylor. Mr. Jones said the hayloft, now occupied by the orchestra which plays during intermissions, may be converted into a balcony with seats to be sold for a dollar. The playhouse maintains a double acting company of professionals, so that one play is in rehearsal while another is being produced. Many of those associated with Mr. Jones are participants in Miss Le Gallienne's repertory project in New York. The patrons include Miss Le Galliene, the Rev. Canon H. Adye Prichard, W. Delavan Baldwin, Mrs. John Henry Hammond, Robert S. Brewster, Carl Tucker, Mrs. Winthrop Cowdin, D. Irving Mead, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish Jr., Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Franklin Montross and Herman W. Merkel, superintendent of the Westchester Park Commission.

MISS DEL RIO ACCUSED OF RUINING MARRIAGE

Actress Denies Charges Made by Former Counsel in Los Angeles Divorce Suit Answer.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 23.—Dolores del Rio, Mexican motion picture actress, today denied charges embodied in a divorce complaint of her former attorney, Gunther Lessing, against Mrs. Loula Lessing, in which the lawyer asserted that Miss del Rio came between him and his wife and broke up his home.

"Mr. Lessing's charges are false and malicious and are made in an attempt to embarrass me and collect money which is not due him," Miss del Rio said in a statement. "There is absolutely no foundation for his ridiculous statements."

Mr. Lessing's charges were made in papers filed today as an answer to a divorce action which his wife began in January.

Mrs. Lessing accused her husband of cruelty and of attempting to turn her 10-year-old son by a previous marriage against her.

Mr. Lessing alleged that Miss del Rio described him to his wife as an "ugly old man" and advised Mrs. Lessing to seek romance "while a young and beautiful girl."

Mr. Lessing represented Miss del Rio in winning a divorce in Mexico from the late Jaime del Rio, wealthy Mexican land owner. In December, 1929, Mr. Lessing sued the actress for $31,000 for legal services.

Mrs. Lessing through counsel today denied her husband's charges and said: "Miss del Rio, whom I am happy to consider one of my truest friends, had nothing to do with my decision to sue for a divorce."

SHAKESPEARE IN WESTPORT

Group to Give "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Merry Wives."

Special to The New York Times.

WESTPORT, Conn., July 23.—"A Midsummer-Night's Dream" and "The Merry Wives of Windsor" will be produced at Westport by a group of players under the direction of Moffat Johnston, formerly director and actor for the Theatre Guild and well known in Shakespearean rôles. "The Dream" will be played on July 24 and 26 matinee, and "Wives" July 25 and 26. The "Wives" music will be under the direction of Sig Spaeth, who has collected Elizabethan songs and written music for it himself. Mr. Spaeth will play Shallow in "The Dream."

The arrangement of Mendelssohn's music for "The Dream" has been made by Mrs. Harry Porter Dietrich of Norwalk and Miss Eleanor Shied of New York. Edward Kreiner of Norwalk is violinist and concertmaster. The musical element will be stressed as much as the dramatic, with an attempt to get away from traditional interpretations.

Moffat Johnston will play Falstaff in the "Wives." In "The Dream," J. Carlyle Pete will play Bottom and A. L. Bartolat, Lysander.

The Woman's Town Improvement Association, under whose auspices the productions are to be given, plans to build an outdoor theatre in Westport to produce Elizabethan restoration and classical plays with music. The advance sale for the two plays indicates 2,000 attendance.

"CAFE" TO BE PRODUCED.

W. A. Brady and John Tuerk to Give Play by Mrs. Jo Mielziner.

William A. Brady and John Tuerk have accepted for immediate production a play by Mrs. Jo Mielziner, the former Marya Mannes, wife of the scenic designer. "Cafe" is the name of the play, and if casting is completed it will probably go in rehearsal this morning under the direction of José Ruben. Rollo Peters, Georgie Caine and Horace Braham are to be in the cast of "Cafe."

It is possible that A. H. Woods will also be associated in the forthcoming production. Mr. Brady said yesterday that he and Mr. Woods had a working agreement, and that he probably would have an interest in "Five Star Final," Louis Weitzenkorn's newspaper play which the Woods office recently acquired.

The playwright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Mannes and the granddaughter of the late Dr. Leopold Damrosch.

THE SCREEN

Wealthy Girl Convicted.

MANSLAUGHTER with Claudette Colbert, Frederic March, Emma Dunn, Natalie Moorhead, Richard Tucker, Hilda Vaughn, G. Pat Collins, Gaylord Pendleton, Stanley Fields, Arnold Lucy, Ivan Simpson and Irving Mitchell; news reel and short subjects. At the Rivoli.

There crept into the Rivoli last evening a melancholy discussion of the matter of special privilege. It went in silently, without the usual trumpets and banners; with such an unexpected quietude, indeed, as to cause a little wonder. An audience which more than well filled the theatre for the first showing ultimately went away in full possession of the reason. "Manslaughter," in brief, appeared to be an excellent example of one of those things.

Based on two doctrines—neither unknown to the several arts and sciences of Broadway—the picture gets itself tangled up in the various vicissitudes of life. One of its beliefs is that love is a great disrespecter of persons. This is conceded by all save Dr. Johnson. The other is that there are laws for the rich and laws for the poor. Never the twain shall meet, save under the auspices of a District Attorney who might bear watching by Representative Fish. That way lies communism.

At all events, "Manslaughter" starts out with a rich, careless girl and a young, poor, honest District Attorney. Adopting his thesis that every one should be alike before the bar of justice, he eventually prosecutes his friend to the extent of about a dozen years in prison. Politics steps in, of course, and the woman shows a vindictive nature upon her release. But she comes around at the end, she runs down the street after her young man, and sobs on his tweed shoulder, "I love you."

So much for that. But there is more to "Manslaughter" than a prison sentence. There are, first of all, scenes on what is obviously some higher up's conception of a Long Island estate. There are a few moments of aquaplaning. This is presumably to show that Paramount has a neat taste in bathing suits. And then, when the girl arrives at prison, it is during a snowstorm—a dreary moment. And finally there is a spelling bee.

This latter, perhaps, deserves a passing word. When Lydia Thorn arrived at the prison she was undoubtedly a bit stand-offish. Her hands, for example, hadn't been used to rough work. During the first day another prisoner shoved them into hot water and that started a riot. But in two years she had changed. The beginning was when she said to her former maid (now also in the jail), "Evans, what's your first name?" And the climax was when the girls were having a spelling bee in the prison school. Told to choose sides, both at once called "Lydia."

Of course, there is good in every dreary trial for manslaughter. The court room scenes of the picture are well done and so are some of the incidents scattered along the way. It cannot be denied that Claudette Colbert—given an even chance—is capable of excellent acting. She shows some of it in her part of Lydia, although the film is so busily going on its way that there isn't much time. Frederic March also is capable; he does not, however, need to turn so many curiously built corners.

The picture is adapted from the story of the same name by Alice Duer Miller. George Abbott made the adaption and he also directed.

ACTORS ARE FORCED TO SEEK OTHER WORK

Chicago Is in the Grip of Very Dullest Season in All Its Theatrical History.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Scarcity of jobs in the theatrical profession due to what is described as an unusually dull Summer season has forced actors and actresses to take positions in department stores, lumber yards and other lines unfamiliar to them, theatrical agents and Actors' Equity officials in Chicago reported today.

"A well-known leading man who was here for a year with one of the big shows is now selling women's hosiery," said Milo Bennett, head of a Chicago dramatic exchange. "Many actors are trying to sell automobiles. Many have gone into the big stores. This is the worst year the theatrical business has known."

One actor was on his way to take employment in a lumber yard when he received word that he had been selected as a juvenile lead in a road company, reported J. E. Black, assistant business manager of the Chicago ofice of the Actors' Equity Association.

TO TRY OUT 'DEAD OR ALIVE'

"Dead or Alive," a new murder play by Alan Williams, will be tried out on Saturday night at the Maverick Theatre in Woodstock, N. Y. Next Thursday evening, July 31, Blanche Yurka will appear at the Summer theatre in Susan Glaspell's play, "The Comic Artist."

Miss Yurka was seen at the Maverick last week in "The Family Blues," by Hatcher Hughes and Mr. Williams, which, in another version, was played last Winter in New York by Mrs. Fiske as "It's a Grand Life." It is reported that Miss Yurka may go on tour in the play next season.

AN OPEN LETTER to the Theatre-going Public

RE: THE BIGGEST MUSICAL COMEDY HIT ON BROADWAY

¶Why should any group of theatrical managers sponsor a plan to force the theatre-going public to pay a premium for tickets? I am opposed to this movement on the grounds that it is absolutely unworkable as a benefit for the public and BECAUSE the prices for "FLYING HIGH" are printed on all my tickets, as per schedule below, AND THAT'S ALL I WANT FOR THEM. ¶No group of managers can force me to become a party to a plan which will compel the public to pay "BOOTLEGGING PRICES" for theatre tickets! ¶Call the box-office of the Apollo Theatre, 2400 WISconsin, specify the locations you desire and we will supply the seats, or the nearest locations to them, at regular prices, WITHOUT A PREMIUM.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

While the stock market repeated the advance of the day before (though with part of its gains lost in a late reaction), financial interest yesterday was directed chiefly to the continuing fall of money rates, the large export of gold and the decline in cotton to a lower price than had hitherto been reached. The increasing ease of money was a natural incident in a midsummer market where requirements for trade purposes have been kept to a minimum. It had been abundantly foreshadowed by the 2½ per cent rediscount rate, the very large overapplication for the Treasury's 2⅞ per cent yearly borrowing of June, and by Tuesday's 2¼ per cent rate on the short-term city loan.

The day's engagement of $16,000,000 more gold for export—of which $14,000,000 goes to France, making $22,000,000 shipped to that country in two weeks—was no doubt in part a consequence of the low American money rate. Although money commands no better rate at Paris than at New York, there is on the other hand none of the recent strong inducement for leaving surplus foreign money in our market. Quite aside from the extremely large credit balances which France has so long been carrying in New York, the exchange market should now be influenced by the large share which was allotted to France from the proceeds of the $300,000,000 German mobilization loan. The Paris market subscribed $98,500,000 to that loan and was entitled to $132,000,000 of the cash subscribed.

This fact should measurably account for the new flow of gold to France, from both New York and London. But release of gold from the United States, all the circumstances considered, is surely the most natural of economic movements—though nobody, after the experience of 1921 and 1924 and the past six months, is likely to venture confident prediction as to its duration. Wheat fell back a fraction on the market yesterday, and a fall of ¼ cent per pound brought cotton to a price reached in recent years only in two months after the 17,900,000-bale crop of 1926, and otherwise not since August, 1921.

Nothing in the midweek reports of industrial activities pointed to a change. Steel trade estimates again place production at 56 per cent of capacity, the lowest of the year, comparing with 65 a month ago and with 59 even in the largely suspended animation of last December. Only in 1924, when the July weekly output fell to 40 per cent of capacity, has so low a midsummer rate been witnessed since the deflation period. The trade itself evidently considers that production cannot be cut down further, if even minimum "hand-to-mouth" requirements are to be satisfied: An Autumn turn distinctly for the better would, on the same presumption, naturally cause rapid increase, as it did when the average daily output rose in 1924 from 72,000 tons in July to the then large production of 137,000 in December.

Testimony of the weekly statement regarding freight loaded for transportation contrasts even more unfavorably with midsummer returns in other years. Loadings reported yesterday for the second week of July are less by 14 per cent than in that period of either 1929 or 1928, and the decrease compares with 13 per cent in June, with 11 per cent in May and with 9 in April. The week's reduction of 91,500 cars from a year ago, or 14 per cent, in merchandise and miscellaneous freight illustrates the character of the situation; this is the low point of the period in the country's capacity or willingness to buy. In distribution of freight, as well as in steel production, the Autumn recovery of 1924 (whose midsummer returns were worse than those of today) was unexpectedly rapid. There was no such recovery in the Autumn of 1921, however—perhaps because prices of merchandise failed to move up again. The movement of goods became really large again only when prices were rising in the middle of 1922; a change which may have been either effect or cause of the trade revival.

EXPORTS LESS NEWSPRINT.

Canada Reports Decrease in June and Also in Half Year.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., July 23.—The value of exports of newsprint from Canada during June was $1,741,615 less than in May, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association reported today. In comparison with exports in June, 1929, the decline was greater. The figures are: June, $11,209,856; May, $12,951,471; June, 1929, $13,055,366.

Exports of paper of all grades to the United States in June were valued at $10,026,424 out of a total of $11,654,859.

For the first six months of the current year the exports of newsprint were valued at $67,307,693, compared with $72,619,227 for the first half of 1929. The decrease was $5,311,264.

Advisers for Chase Bank Branch.

The Chase National Bank announced yesterday the formation of an advisory committee for its Franklin branch, at Franklin and Hudson Streets. In addition to officers of the bank, the committee includes Benjamin C. Haynes, president of S. H. & E. H. Frost, Inc.; Albert T. Johnston, vice president of the Borden Company; Henry C. Wetterau, president of the Wetterau-Halpern Company, Inc.; Andrew Wilson, president of the Andrew Wilson Company, and J. W. Roberts, assistant vice president of the Pennsylvania and the Long Island Railroads.

Stock Exchange Seat Off $68,000.

Arrangements have been made for the sale of a membership on the New York Stock Exchange for $400,000, it was announced yesterday. This is $68,000 less than the last announced sale. The last preceding sale of four rights was at $470,000.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

With vigorous buying demonstrations shown in many parts of the list, the stock market rose yesterday to the best levels reached on the current movement. At the same time there was a further improvement in market sentiment, resulting largely, it appeared, from the efforts of brokerage houses and others to bring about an increased public demand for stocks. Professional operations for the advance were conducted on the theory that the propitious moment had arrived for the display of bullish enthusiasm. At any rate, leading stocks were marked up in impressive fashion and in the face of only moderate resistance. The market did not hold all of its gains, but the final quotations disclosed good-sized advances in such stocks as United States Steel, Allied Chemical, American Can, Columbian Carbon, People's Gas, Radio, General Motors, Eastman Kodak and Consolidated Gas.

Another Low Money Record.

The rate of 1 per cent at which call loans were made in the outside market yesterday adds another to the long series of extremely low rates experienced lately. The records do not list so low a previous charge for "Street" money for more than fifteen years. At the money post of the Stock Exchange call money was last dealt in at 1 per cent on June 3, 1915. No records are available for the outside call money market, but it is a safe guess that the unofficial market has not witnessed 1 per cent call money for many years.

For a long time Wall Street has been accustomed to seeing the Bethlehem Steel Corporation bring out its quarterly earnings statements in advance of the United States Steel Corporation, but this time the order will be reversed. Under the old custom Bethlehem's report for the second quarter would come out today, but as a result of a change in the company's practice, the statement will not appear until next Thursday. Hereafter the reports will be issued on the last Thursday of the first month of the new quarter instead of on the fourth Thursday as formerly. The Steel Corporation continues to release its reports on the last Tuesday. Wall Street expects favorable income statements from both companies, considering the unsatisfactory state of business generally. There has been talk of an extra dividend by the Steel Corporation, but the rumors lack support in official quarters.

A Brisk Demand for Tax Exempts.

With the municipal bond market going at brisk speed, and prices pointing higher almost daily, buyers of tax-exempt securities are beginning to take up some of the slack in the United States Government bond market. Liberties and Treasuries in moving sharply higher yesterday brought levels on these issues close to the highs of the year, touched a short time ago. Although trading in government issues on the Stock Exchange has not been particularly heavy this week, some large blocks have changed hands in the outside market. Corporations, specially, have been anxious to employ their surplus funds in government issues since the call-money market no longer provides anything like a lucrative rate.

Splitting Railroad Stocks.

The Chesapeake & Ohio having received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to split its stock, thought in Wall Street has run along the possibility of other carriers following suit. Naturally, nearly every railroad with a stock selling in the upper brackets was the subject of this harmless conjecture. None of the roads nominated for the splitting, however, has indicated a willingness to undergo the process.

Sold to the Highest Bidder.

Some astute investor picked up a bargain from the securities auction block of Adrian H. Muller & Son yesterday when 500 shares of the Public Fire Insurance Company of New Jersey were knocked down at $7.50 a share. The market currently quoted by security houses which deal in the stock is $13.50 bid, $14.50 asked, indicating that the unrevealed purchaser had an immediate profit of $6,000, based on the bid price.

Gasoline Position Improves.

The refinery figures of the American Petroleum Institute for the past week, showing a decline of almost 2,000,000 barrels in gasoline stocks and a further curtailment of refinery operations, were interpreted in some oil circles as being constructive. It was pointed out that at this rate of withdrawals gasoline stocks by Sept. 15 would be down to around 35,000,000 barrels, not an unreasonably high figure. The decline in refinery operations indicated that refiners are cooperating reasonably well toward creating a better statistical position for gasoline. Because of heavy stocks and increased refinery operations, refinery prices of gasoline have been unusually low for this season of the year.

Fruit Rates Again.

It was remarked in railroad circles yesterday that with the hot weather there had emerged once more the fruit problem. The United States Supreme Court recently ruled that the Hoch-Smith resolution on rates did not mean what the Interstate Commerce Commission thought it did, and therefore made it impossible to enforce reductions in rates on deciduous fruits which the commission had based on the resolution. Now the fruit interests have sought to reopen the question of lower rates on their product by asking for reductions in rates on the ground that they are justified regardless of the resolution. The commission yesterday permitted this contention to be considered, so that the fruit problem once more looms largely.

MONEY.

Wednesday, July 23, 1930.

The development of outstanding importance in the money market was the lending of fair size amounts of street money on Stock Exchange day loans at 1 per cent. These transactions occurred around midday, and this minimum figure, for a comparison with the official Stock Exchange rate, is lowest since June 3, 1915. Other counter trades were made at 1¼ per cent, while 2 per cent was the rate which prevailed at the Stock Exchange lending table all day. Time money was also fractionally lower for the near dates as a result of freer offerings. Four months was the most active maturity, at 3 per cent. Acceptances and commercial paper were unchanged.

PUBLIC UTILITY PREFERRED SHARES

A Logical Investment Under Present Market Conditions

Present market uncertainty, resembling the shifting of a compass needle before it finally points the future course, imposes definite restrictions on the investor who is seeking to keep his surplus funds constantly employed to best advantage.

Sound security... reasonable liquidity... minimum prospect of loss through market declines ... maximum yield... these are some of the factors that may well engage the investor's attention under such conditions.

He will find these factors particularly well met in selected utility preferred shares, in which it is possible to secure higher yields than from bonds together with greater safety than from common stocks.

Among our offerings are preferred shares of large, fast-growing public utility systems which are earning their dividend charges by conservative margins. The yield on these shares is over 6½%.

$1.15 A SHARE MADE BY GENERAL MOTORS

Sloan Reports Earnings for Last Quarter—Total for Half Year $2.15.

GAIN IN FINANCIAL POSITION

Quick Assets Up $48,342,252 in Six Months to $175,693,782 Despite Drop in Sales.

Although operations of the General Motors Corporation in the second quarter of this year yielded a profit of only $1.17 a share on the common stock, compared with $2.01 a share in the same period of last year, the company reports its financial position as substantially stronger on June 30 than at the end of last year.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the corporation, issued a statement yesterday showing that net earnings in the second quarter amounted to $53,386,768, including equities in the undivided profits of subsidiary and affiliated companies not consolidated. This brought the total earnings for the first six months up to $98,355,355. The quarterly figure compares with $89,949,323 in the second quarter of 1929, while earnings for the first six months compare with $151,860,310 in the corresponding period of last year.

The half-year net in 1930 was equivalent to $2.15 a share on the common stock, against $3.38 in the first half of 1929. The corporation earned $44,968,000, or 98 cents a share, in the first three months of this year, so that on the basis of this comparison considerable improvement is shown.

Large Profit on Stock Sale.

Mr. Sloan's statement showed that the corporation realized a profit of $9,517,943 on the sale of 1,375,000 shares of General Motors common stock to the General Motors Management Corporation in the second quarter. This is equal, after Federal income taxes and other charges, to 17 cents a share on the outstanding common stock and is listed as a nonrecurring profit. With this amount added, the total net earnings in the second quarter were $60,963,841, or $1.34 a share on the common.

Mr. Sloan said "the unfavorable comparison of both units and profits in relation to the previous year is a direct reflection of the current economic conditions prevailing not only in the United States but in practically all other markets of the world that normally are important factors in the absorption of General Motors products."

In the six months ended June 30 the corporation's dealers in the United States delivered to consumers 657,829 cars, which compares with 847,751 cars in the corresponding period of 1929. Sales by General Motors operating divisions to dealers in the United States totaled 679,572 cars, against 929,384 in the same period of 1929. Total sales to dealers, including Canadian and overseas shipments, aggregated 764,219 cars, against 1,171,868 in the like period of last year.

Cash, United States Government and other marketable securities held at the end of June amounted to $175,693,782, compared with $127,351,530 at the end of December, 1929, the increase being $48,342,252. Net working capital aggregated $290,577,234, against $251,287,782.

"From the above statement," said Mr. Sloan, "it will be recognized that notwithstanding the prevailing unsatisfactory conditions and the subnormal rate of operations, the strength of the corporation's financial position has been well maintained."

Holds High Percentage in Sales.

"Dealing with the relationship of volume of this year as compared with last," Mr. Sloan continued, "it is gratifying to note that notwithstanding the reduction the corporation's percentage of the total automotive business, as measured both by units and dollar volume, has been well maintained. While the decrease in earnings from the standpoint of our stockholders is naturally to be regretted, it is felt that the relation of earnings to volume in comparison with the previous year is a favorable one, as it is a recognized fact that a falling off in volume is normally accompanied by a much greater reduction in profits because of the influence of fixed or uncontrollable expense which must go on to an important degree irrespective of conditions. Expressed otherwise, with a reduction in dollar volume of 30.1 per cent, the reduction in net operating income has been 35.2 per cent.

"The relationship, or the result just described, was made possible because of an early anticipation that the change in economic conditions which developed during the late Summer of 1929 might prove to be more formidable and far-reaching than was generally appreciated. On the basis of this, General Motors determined to readjust its operations in expectation of a decline in volume in 1930.

Changes Caused by Conditions.

"With the full and whole-hearted support of every member of the organization, a program of adjustment was instituted. Every expense was exhaustively scrutinized with a view to reappraising its value in relation to its cost when measured by the changed circumstances. It is believed that a creditable result has been accomplished in thus adjusting the corporation's operating structure in harmony with the changed economic conditions.

"While it is to be regretted, from the standpoint of all concerned, that knowledge of the fundamentals of economics and philosophy has apparently not yet developed to the point where the business cycle can be said to be under control, on the other hand it appears to me that if we view the situation with the right attitude of mind an opportunity is presented not only to General Motors but to all other business and industrial organizations of establishing higher standards of effectiveness.

"If we are frank with ourselves, we must admit that during any long period of prosperity such as we have recently passed through inefficiencies will creep in; we become less sensitive as regards the relationship of expense and result; we become too self-satisfied; our attitude toward intensive work becomes less constructive. If we will recognize and capitalize these and other influences, and thus establish new and still higher standards, then when the business adjustment has been completed—which is only a matter of time—we can go forward with renewed strength and still greater confidence in our ability to cope with the problems of the future. We are striving earnestly to do that very thing in General Motors."

Mrs. Hepburn First Woman In Industrial Banking Field

Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn, widow of A. Barton Hepburn, who was Controller of the Currency and later president of the Third National Bank and subsequently president of the Chase National Bank, has been elected a director of the Industrial Banking Corporation.

This, it is believed, is the first time that a woman has taken active participation in the industrial banking field.

DUTCH-SHELL PLANS TO MAKE FERTILIZERS

Other Chemicals Also to Be Produced From Natural Gas at Factory in California.

The Royal Dutch-Shell group has decided to build a plant in California to manufacture fertilizers and other chemical products from natural gas, according to the annual report of the Shell Trading and Transport Company. In view of the fact that the Shell Union Oil Corporation is the principal subsidiary of this group in the United States, it is likely that the plant will be owned and operated by this company.

The report of the Shell Transport and Trading Company states that an initial plant for the manufacture of fertilizers was completed recently at Velsen, Holland, in conjunction with important blast furnace and steel works there.

"This plant," it says, "has now been brought into full operation, and the manufactured products are being marketed with gratifying results through our existing selling organizations. As a result of the experience gained through the erection and working of this plant, we have decided to build a similar plant in California, where the natural gas from the oil fields will provide an important basic material. Other chemical products will be manufactured from this gas, and we are confident of being able to build up a successful development of our business in this direction."

TO LEASE BIG OIL AREA.

Louisiana Land Interests Plan Southwest Development.

The Louisiana Land and Exploration Company has formed the Louisiana Geophysical Exploration Company to acquire leases on slightly more than 1,000,0000 acres of land in Louisiana and Texas, which were not included in the contract with the Texas Company a few years ago.

To provide funds for development, Louisiana Geophysical is offering stockholders of the Louisiana Land rights to subscribe to $1,000,000 of five-year 7 per cent notes and 150,000 shares of common stock. Each holder of 3,000 shares of common stock of Louisiana Land may buy a unit of one $1,000 bond and 150 shares of common stock for $1,000 plus accrued interest on the bond from July 1. The rights will go to stockholders of record of July 24 and will expire on Aug. 8.

The Louisiana Land and Exploration Company reports that six of the ten domes covered by the contract with the Texas Company have been proved productive, five producing oil and one developing two large gas wells. On one dome a good showing of sulphur was said to have been encountered.

South Penn Oil Cuts Prices.

The South Penn Oil Company yesterday reduced the posted price of Somerset crude oil 17 cents a barrel, making the prices $1.30 in the Kentucky lines of the Cumberland Pipe Line Company and $1.14 in the lines of the Eureka Pipe Line Company. Wayne district crude oil in the West Virginia lines of the Cumberland Pipe Line Company also was reduced 17 cents a barrel to $1.17.

207,869 Stockholders in P. R. R.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced yesterday that its stockholders totaled 207,869, a record, up 49,413 from a year previously. The recent stock allotment explained the rise. The average holding is 62.33 shares, a decrease of 8.72 shares from a year previously.

RESOURCES DEBATED IN OIL MERGER PLAN

Standard and Vacuum Would Be Only 6th in Crude, 4th in Refining, H. F. Sheets Says.

HIS FIGURES ARE ASSAILED

Prosecutor Wants Financial Strength of Rival Concerns Considered—Hearings Here End.

The last of the hearings here in the government suit to restrain the Standard Oil Company from merging with the Vacuum company led to a spirited discussion of the value of a list submitted by the defendants to prove that if the consolidation is sanctioned, the combined companies would be sixth in crude oil resources and fourth in refining capacity.

The list was submitted by Harold F. Sheets, a director of the Vacuum company, who was recalled as the last witness. The hearing was before Special Master Fred L. Williams in the judicial chambers in the Woolworth Building, and the proceedings were adjourned subject to being reopened tomorrow in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Sheets submitted a comparative list of the oil companies doing a world business to prove that the Standard and the Vacuum companies, if combined, would not rank in the lead. The list was attacked as doubtful by Special Assistant Attorney General John H. Amen, who declared it failed to take into consideration the financial resources of the companies listed.

In the course of his testimony Mr. Sheets said the Royal Dutch Shell, with its subsidiary but not associated companies, had produced in 1929 about 175,992,000 barrels of oil. For the same year the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey produced 101,100,000 barrels; the Gulf Oil Corporation, 100,000,000 barrels; Standard of Indiana, 89,425,000 barrels gross; Standard of California, 51,534,000 barrels net; Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum company combined, 57,986,392 barrels gross, or 44,958,200 net; the Texas Oil Company, 50,675,300 barrels gross. The witness explained that gross figures included royalty oil bought under contract where the fields were not owned or leased by the company named.

Mr. Sheets listed the daily refinery capacity of the various companies as follows: Standard of New Jersey, 718,000 barrels; Shell, 704,200 barrels; Standard of Indiana, 404,500 barrels; Socony-Vacuum, 263,000 barrels; Standard of California, 244,700 barrels; Texas, 232,800 barrels, and the Gulf Company, 177,000 barrels.

The witness said the crude oil resources and refinery capacity were the fundamental considerations. If finances were to be considered, he declared, it would be essential to consider book values, and that he did not know how accurate measurement could be made of good-will.

E. R. Brown of Dallas, Texas, president of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New York, testified as to the importance of crude oil supply ownership to an integrated company. He also described the difficulties caused by overproduction of crude oil during the last few years and said an effort was being made to overcome the disturbance caused through voluntary curtailment of production by the big companies.

The government contends that a merger of the two companies is in violation of the decree of the Supreme Court in 1911 dissolving the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Socony and Vacuum were units of the New Jersey company. The defendants assert that conditions have changed since 1911 and that conditions existing then will not be reproduced if the merger is sanctioned.

Mr. Williams has until Sept. 10 to submit a printed digest of the record of the proceedings before him to the United States Circuit Court of the Eighth District. Final argument will take place at Omaha on Oct. 6 and 7, before the judges of that circuit sitting as a statutory court provided for in the Sherman anti-trust act. Jurisdiction in the suit is with that court because the original litigation which resulted in the 1911 decree was instituted in the Federal court in St. Louis in 1906.

Mississippi Power & Light Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds

5% Series due 1957

Dated December 1, 1927 Due December 1, 1957

Interest payable June 1 and December 1 at the office or agency of the Company in the City of New York. Redeemable at any time, at the option of the Company, in whole or in part, on at least 30 days' published notice, at 105 before December 1, 1934; at ¼ less, each succeeding year, up to and including November 30, 1952; thereafter at 100¼ up to and including November 30, 1955; and thereafter at 100; plus accrued interest in each case. The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax, not in excess of 2%, and to refund the Pennsylvania Four Mills Tax on bonds of this series on proper application.

Trustee: Irving Trust Company, New York

Business: Mississippi Power & Light Company supplies electric power and light service to 181 communities (including one at wholesale), serving a wide territory located in growing agricultural, industrial and lumbering regions in western Mississippi, including the cities of Jackson, Vicksburg, Greenville and Natchez. The Company also does some manufactured and natural gas, transportation, water and ice business.

The Company's electric properties, with a few exceptions, are completely interconnected. These properties are also tied in with the transmission lines of two associated companies, Arkansas Power & Light Company and Louisiana Power & Light Company, and with those of Memphis Power & Light Company, thus forming part of a large interconnected system serving wide areas in the four states of Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds from the sale of these $7,000,000 First Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5% Series due 1957, will provide funds to reimburse the Company for expenditures made in connection with property additions and acquisitions and for other corporate purposes.

Security: These Bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a first mortgage on all the fixed properties now owned by the Company, including electric generating stations having an aggregate installed capacity of 19,884 kilowatts, 2,539 miles of electric transmission and distribution lines, gas generating capacity of 1,050,000 cubic feet per day, 163 miles of gas mains and 21 miles of electric railway track, except for $408,500 of divisional liens outstanding with the public on four small properties.

Earnings: The earnings of the Company for the twelve months ended June 30, 1930, and 1929, were as follows:

Twelve months ended June 30,	1930	1929
Gross earnings (including other income).........	$5,067,094	$3,720,649
Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes......	3,073,704	2,357,969
Annual interest requirements on all First Mortgage Gold Bonds (including this issue) and divisonal bonds	824,189

Net earnings for the twelve months ended June 30, 1930, as shown above, were equal to more than 2.4 times the annual interest requirements on all First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the Company (including this issue) and divisional bonds outstanding. Of the gross earnings from operation, approximately 79% was derived from electric power and light service, 12% from gas service, 4% from transportation service and 5% from miscellaneous business.

Supervision: Mississippi Power & Light Company is controlled through ownership of all its second preferred and common stocks by Electric Power & Light Corporation. Electric Bond and Share Company supervises (under the direction and control of the Boards of Directors of the respective companies) the operations of Electric Power & Light Corporation and Mississippi Power & Light Company.

Legal matters in connection with the issuance of these Bonds will be passed upon by Messrs. Seibert & Riggs of New York. These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval by counsel.

Price 95 and accrued interest to yield about 5.35%

HIGH-GRADE RAILS LEAD RISE IN BONDS

Buying by Corporations and Institutions Helps Advance in Government Issues.

FRENCH LOANS AT PEAKS

Industrial Group Is Irregular With Large Movements Both Up and Down.

The listed bond market showed moderate improvement yesterday, with trading a little more active than on the previous day. Railroad bonds in the gilt-edge list led the advance in the domestics, with high-grade public utility issues a close second. Industrial bonds were steadier in tone on the average, though many issues in this group lost ground.

A brisk upward movement in United States Government obligations was due to active buying by corporations and institutions. Banks that had been unwilling to take much of a position in general bonds have been acquiring rather substantial blocks of governments. Net gains for the day in the liberties and treasuries ranged from 4-32 to 11-32, with a single issue, the first Liberty 4¼s, showing a small decline.

Although the high-grade rails and utilities are selling close to the best prices of the year, second-grade issues have not received much encouragement. Indeed, a few of the latter have been gradually sinking lower despite the gains shown by the bond averages this week.

In the industrial group, Dold Packing 6s dropped 2 points to a new low at 62, Vertientes Sugar 7s fell a point to a fresh bottom of 38, and Parmelee Transfer convertible 6s lost 3 points, duplicating their previous low at 70. Hoe & Co. 6½s recovered 2¾ points, Fisk Rubber 8s, 3 points; Certain-teed 5½s, 2¼ points, and Sinclair Pipe Line 5s of 1942 1½ points to 102, a new high for the year.

French Government bonds have assumed leadership of the foreign list. French 7s made another new high for the year at the close at 119⅜, up ⅜ point, in heavy trading. French 7½s were up the same amount. French municipals were also strong, with Bordeaux 6s, Lyons 6s and Marseilles 6s establishing new peaks at 105¾ and Soissons 6s going to a new top at 106. These prices represent the highest levels at which the French Government 7s and municipal issues have ever sold.

South American issues and Continental industrial and utility issues closed irregular.

EXCHANGE ADMITS GIANNINI SHARES

24,800,000 of Transamerica Corporation to Be Transferred From the Curb.

THREE COMPANIES EXPAND

Listing of the shares of the Transamerica Corporation on the New York Stock Exchange was approved by the board of governors of the Exchange yesterday. As a result, approximately 24,800,000 shares of Transamerica stock will be transferred from the Curb Exchange, where they have long constituted an important trading vehicle, to the "big board." Trading in Transamerica on the Stock Exchange will begin tomorrow morning.

Transamerica is the holding company for the interests of A. P. Giannini. Its principal holdings include 99.66 per cent of the stock of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association, 98.03 per cent of the stock of the Bank of America of California, 59.35 per cent of the Bank of America in New York and 57.02 per cent of the Banca d'America e d'Italia. Among its recent acquisitions have been the Occidental Life Insurance Company and an interest in the General Foods Corporation.

The listing of Transamerica will bring the number of corporations which have a volume of shares in excess of 20,000,000 on the Stock Exchange to six. The five others are General Electric, General Motors, the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, United Gas Improvement and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Bancamerica Blair Earnings.

Net profit of the Bancamerica Blair Corporation and Blair & Co., Inc., its predecessor, for the year ended on Dec. 31, 1929, are shown to have been $13,044,629 in the statement contained in the listing application of Transamerica. The securities company, profits of which have never before been revealed, is the product of a merger last year of the private banking house of Blair & Co., Inc., and the Bank of America, in which Transamerica owns a majority interest. According to the listings statement, the securities company had income of $32,750,362 in 1929 and expenses of $19,705,733. The net profit for the first six months of 1930 of the Bank of America and the Bancamerica Blair Corporation together came to $3,769,948, according to the listings statement.

Expansion Programs Revealed.

Expansion programs of three companies are revealed with the publication of additional listings which have been granted by the governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange. They are those of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the National Dairy Products Corporation and the National Supply Company.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. have been authorized to list 118,857 additional shares. The greater part of this amount will be used for stock dividends, but 24,250 shares will be used to acquire L. Feibleman & Co., operating three stores in New Orleans, and Feibleman's, Inc., operating a store in Shreveport, La.

The National Dairy Products Company was authorized to list 16,322 additional common shares to be used in connection with acquisition of the entire property and assets of the Chapman Dairy Company in Kansas City. This report also reveals that since May 1 the company has acquired the Jersey Ice Cream Company of Toledo, and exchanged additional stock with the National Creamery Company.

The National Supply Company was authorized to list 92,493 additional shares of common stock and 138,278 additional shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock to be issued in exchange for common stock of Spang, Chalfant & Co., with plants at Etna and Ambridge, Pa.

Among the other changes revealed were the change in name of the Albany Perforated Wrapping Paper Company to the A. P. W. Company, Inc., and the change in capitalization of the American Machine and Foundry Company from 300,000 shares to 1,500,000 shares, of which 200,000 will be outstanding and listed.

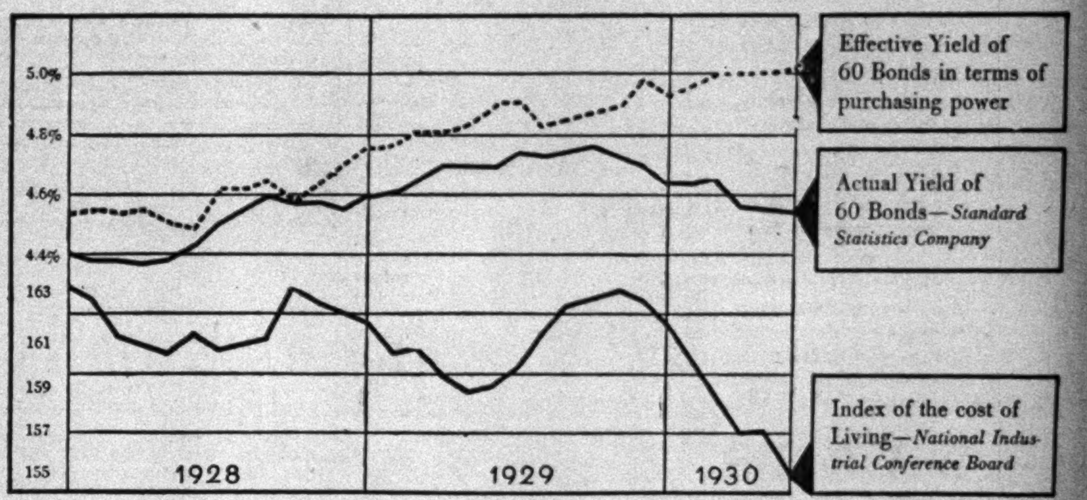
are moving UP
...bonds now yield MORE



● The apparent paradox in the title is explained in the foregoing chart. Bond prices have been rising slowly since last October, as the downward trend of the bond yield curve shows, but because the cost of living has been going down more rapidly than the dollar return from bonds, the purchasing power of bond income has been going up.

Bond prices can move up substantially from present levels and still the buyer at such higher levels will get a larger real return on his investment than was obtainable some time ago at lower prices.

There is a place in practically every investment account for carefully selected bonds. This is a very good time to add to holdings. The prospect is that bond prices will continue their rise. We shall be glad to submit recommendations in line with individual requirements.

Oils and Rhodesian Coppers Up on English Exchange—Credit Conditions Easy.

FRENCH STOCKS STRONGER

Prices Stimulated by New York Improvement—German Boerse's Depression Continues.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—The stock market was brighter today on better news from Wall Street, with oils and Rhodesian coppers developing strength in the afternoon and a brisk rally occurring in the recent foreign government securities. Another big sale of gold to France, this time £521,000, checked any recovery in British Government issues. The 5 per cent war loan fell ⅛ to £103⅝ and the funding loan ⅛ to £90. The German reparations loan advanced 1⅛ to 2⅝ discount.

Gramophones made the best showing among the internationals, Columbia rising 5-16 to £4, and His Master's Voice 5-32 to £3 11-32. International Nickel rose ⅝ to $25⅛ in anticipation of tomorrow's meeting, while Hydroelectric and Brazilian tractions rallied to $40 and $40¾, respectively.

Motors and aviations were still depressed and textiles were dull. United Molasses continued to decline, and closed 3.32 lower at £1 29-32. Oils advanced all along the line on the decrease in American production. Among the gainers were Royal Dutch at £32⅝, Shell Transport at £4 11-16 and Anglo-Persian at £3 31-32. The Rhodesian revival pushed Bwana M'Kubwa to 12s 10½d, N changa to £2 7-16 and Roan Antelope to £1 1-32. De Beers rallied to £7⅛, while Rio Tinto recovered ⅝ to £34⅞.

Money was plentiful in Lombard Street and loan rates were unaltered. Discount rates were maintained at 2 7-16 per cent. Sterling exchange advanced ⅛ to $4.86¾.

Prices Advance in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 23.—Without greatly enlarging the volume of transactions, the Bourse today showed a stronger tendency. A large proportion of the shares offered closed with gains over Tuesday's prices. Advices indicating improvement in New York were credited with having a stimulating effect here.

Rentes in particular showed activity, especially the 3 per cents, which advanced sharply. Closing quotations were as follows: The 3 per cents, 89.15; 1918 4s, 100.85; 1920 amortizable 5s, 135.80; 1928 5s, 103.50; 1920 6s, 102; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.85.

Sharp Break in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 23.—Stocks experienced another heavy drop at today's session of the Boerse, which was marked by the fact that Siemens-Halske shares, for the first time, fell below 200. In view of the approaching month-end, speculators are beginning to rid themselves of securities. Unfavorable reports from the industrial districts and uncertainty over the government's financial bills which will be decreed at the end of the week added to the general depression.

Polyphon, dropping thirteen points, was the heaviest loser of the day, Salzdetfurth of the potash group following with a decline of ten points. Reichsbank, Darmstaedter and National Bank electricals, the mining group, primarily United Steel Works and Mannesmann Tubes, the chemicals, textiles, shipping stocks, beer and spirits, celanese and rubber were attacked and closed considerably weaker.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Statements for Various Periods Issued by Public Service Corporations.

United Light and Power.

The consolidated net income of the United Light and Power Company and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended on June 30 amounted to $11,381,767 after depreciation, interest, taxes and preferred dividends of subsidiaries, equal after company preferred dividends to $2.40 a share earned on 3,311,583 average number of combined Class A and Class B common shares outstanding. This compares with $7,131,175, or $1.78 a share, earned on 3,176,217 average number of combined A and B shares outstanding in the preceding twelve months.

The income accounts for two years compare as follows:

	1930.	1929.

Southern California Edison.

Gross earnings of the Southern California Edison Company, Ltd., for the six months ended on June 30 amounted to $19,394,436, compared with $18,925,184 for the corresponding period of 1929. Net earnings after taxes were $12,201,716, against $12,238,278 in the first half of 1929, while net income before depreciation was $8,714,870, against $8,985,180.

The comparison of 1930 earnings with those of 1929 is affected by rate reductions made in the past year, John B. Miller, president, announced, also by late rains, which reduced current sales for agricultural purposes last month 10 per cent under those of June, 1929. Earnings for 1930 were further affected by the maximum use of steam generation during the first six months of the year, conserving water in storage.

For June alone, gross earnings were $3,497,755, against $3,502,200 in the 1929 month, while net earnings were $2,347,027, against $2,447,351, and net income was $1,751,173, against $1,912,999.

Los Angeles Gas and Electric.

The Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation reports for the year ended on June 30 gross earnings of $23,535,025, compared with $23,939,788 for the preceding year. Net earnings after taxes were $10,589,094, against $11,452,597, while net income after depreciation and charges was $4,837,593, against $5,995,443, due to substantial increase in reserves.

United Railways and Electric.

Net profit of the United Railways and Electric Company of Baltimore for the first half of 1930 was $299,083 after depreciation, taxes and charges, equal to 73 cents a share earned on 409,224 shares of stock, compared with $195,687, or 48 cents a share, earned in the first half of 1929. The earnings follow:

FRENCH PRICES RISE AS GOLD PILES UP

Report of $1,760,000,000 Reserve Comes as Cost of Bread Goes Up Again.

SITUATION CAUSES CONCERN

Steady Increase in Retail Index Is Accompanied by 10 Per Cent Drop in Business Volume in Year.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 23.—Seventy-two bars of gold, valued at $4,000,000, arrived yesterday at Cherbourg from New York on the liner Bremen, and today were added to the vast store of more than $1,760,000,000 worth of gold which is now accumulated in the vaults of the Bank of France. Yesterday, too, France bought about $3,500,000 worth of gold in the London market. Scarcely a day has passed for months when France has not added to her store of gold. Between July 10 and 17 she bought nearly $7,000,000 worth.

In London City this drain to France has been causing great uneasiness. The City is asking when this French greed for gold is going to stop and what effect its storing in the vaults of the Bank of France will have on commodity prices in all international markets. London refiners are booked up for weeks ahead in an effort to meet the French demand, and it is stated measures are being taken to increase their refining capacity.

No Likelihood of Change.

For the moment there appears to be no likelihood that the steady gold stream will cease. French bankers themselves declare they would prefer not to have to report so much gold, for the situation isn't so altogether admirable as this wealth in gold might seem to represent.

With this increase in reserve there has come naturally and inevitably an increase in paper circulation. Since France stabilized her currency two years ago, the emission of banknotes has increased by more than $500,000,000 and now stands at the amazing figure of 72,800,000,000 francs, or nearly $3,000,000,000.

With the increase in paper money has come naturally an increase in prices and a decline in values. Yesterday, when the price of wheat fell in the United States, the price of bread rose again for the third time in twelve days in France. To the French worker the price of a loaf of bread is of far greater importance than the amount of gold in the bank's vaults, and for the first time in some years there has begun to be apparent a certain uneasiness about the situation. The increase in the price of bread is attributed here to the prospects of a bad harvest, due to the disastrously wet Summer which France has had.

At the same time there has been published the unwelcome news that the retail index of prices in general continues to increase. Living is becoming dearer instead of cheaper, while the gold stores accumulate. In March the retail index was 586, in June it was 593, an increase of seven points. During June, too, it was shown by the Finance Ministry's report of some days ago, the volume of business in the country, as indicated by the revenue from the turnover tax, had diminished by about 10 per cent compared with June of last year. There was a loss to the treasury of nearly $2,500,000 for the month.

Trade Balance Declines.

The foreign trade balance of France, according to figures recently published, shows a steady loss. In June imports exceeded exports by $31,000,000. The first six months of the year showed a falling off in the total foreign trade of $230,000,000.

Against that situation must be set the fact that France has, up to now, had little or no unemployment. Her recovery of gold sent abroad during the panic years between 1924 and 1926 and the favorable situation which she enjoyed for some years while her money had higher internal than external value have enabled her in past years to meet the employment situation better than her neighbors. Despite the enormous drain of taxation, she has had more money to work with because of her gold recoveries and the increase in her circulation.

Her internal purchasing capacity has been increased, as has been already indicated, by 13,000,000,000 francs in two years. Looked at this way, it is really on the reserves which she has accumulated by the stabilization of the franc at the low figure at which that was done that the country has been living during this time.

Economists and financiers, however, are beginning to wonder how long this situation can continue. Recent Bank of France statements show decreases in one week of $24,000,000 in discounted bills and of $23,000,000 last week.

$14,000,000 IN GOLD LEAVES FOR FRANCE

Two Consignments Aboard the Europa Bring Movement to $22,000,000.

$2,000,000 GOES TO CANADA

Part Believed Taken for Dominion Government—$337,000 of Metal Arrives From Brazil.

The outflow of gold from this market reached substantial proportions yesterday when $16,000,000 of the metal was taken from the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank and shipped abroad. Of the amount $14,000,000 went to France on the Europa, which sailed at midnight, and $2,000,000 was consigned to Canada.

The French shipments consisted of $8,000,000 dispatched by Lazard Frères, international bankers, who sent $4,000,000 gold to France a week ago, and $6,000,000 sent by the Guaranty Trust Company, which also shipped $4,000,000 last week. The movement of gold to France has now reached $22,000,000 and is expected to continue. Quotations for the franc were unchanged yesterday at 3.93⅛ for cable transfers.

As in the case of the $2,000,000 gold sent to Canada on Monday, half of yesterday's exports were made by an unnamed shipper. The International Acceptance Bank announced the consignment of $1,000,000 of the metal but the identity of the other shipper could not be learned. As a rule banks that ship gold make no secret of the fact, welcoming the publicity, but when no shipper will admit exporting the metal, it is concluded generally in the financial community that the transaction has been undertaken for a foreign government or government agent. In this case it has been assumed in Wall Street that the two unidentified shipments were arranged on behalf of the Canadian Government.

A similar situation arose at the time of the gold movement to France last Fall, one shipper endeavoring to remain anonymous and instructing steamship companies to guard its secret. The effort resulted only in a little extra publicity. The recent shipments to France have been announced at once by the banks involved. It was concluded last Fall that the shipments in question, as well as several which were announced, were made by arrangement with the Bank of France. In some quarters there is a belief that this also is true of the latest shipments to France, for the franc at yesterday's quotation is somewhat below the gold transfer point, as most foreign exchange experts calculate it. It is understood, however, that the French central bank is opposed to a continuance of the heavy influx of gold to Paris, a circumstance which would make it appear that the present movement is strictly an exchange transaction.

Against the total of $16,000,000 gold sent out of this country yesterday, there was imported $337,000 which came from Brazil. The latter country has been a liberal contributor to American gold stocks since the first of the year, having sent here more than $50,000,000 of the metal.

MONTREAL, July 23.—Further shipment of $3,000,000 in gold from New York will reach Canada tomorrow, it was announced here today. With the arrival of this shipment the gold imported this week will amount to more than $5,000,000.

Two million dollars of the gold will come to Montreal, consigned in equal amounts to the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Imperial Bank of Toronto and $1,000,000 to Toronto to the Canadian Bank of Commerce there. The bullion for the Imperial Bank is being shipped by the International Acceptance Bank. The name of the consigner of the supply for the Bank of Commerce was not made public.

ARGENTINE DEBT ESTIMATED

Combined Liabilities Are Put at $1,454,600,000.

BUENOS AIRES, July 23 (AP).—According to a report by the Bond and Shareholders Association, which will be made public on Friday, the consolidated and floating debts of Argentina on June 30, 1930, totaled 4,160,000,000 Argentine pesos. [The Argentine peso is worth 42.02 cents at par; recent quotations have been around 36 cents].

These figures included national, provincial and municipal debts. Of this sum 2,841,000,000 pesos are national debt.

Transactions on the Stock Exchange amounted to 721,000,000 pesos for the year ending June 30.

The report predicts an adverse balance of nearly 400,000,000 pesos in this year's commercial interchange.

China Negotiates for Radio-Phone.

NANKING, July 23 (AP).—The Ministry of Communications today announced negotiations were proceeding with the Radio Corporation of America for the establishment of radio-telephone service between the United States and China.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN COUNTER TRADING

Bank Group Closes Lower After Early Activity—Industrial Stocks Quiet.

Trading over the counter yesterday was comparatively quiet, after some early enthusiasm during which bank stocks advanced. The group generally closed lower, with small losses appearing in Bankers Trust, Central Hanover, County Trust, Guaranty, Irving, New York Trust, Bank of United States, Chase and Manhattan. Gains occurred in Chelsea, Chemical, Empire, Bank of America, Chatham-Phenix and Public Bank.

In the insurance department trading was dull, but advances were shown by Aetna Casualty and Surety, Aetna Fire, American Surety, Globe and Rutgers, Hartford Fire, Home Insurance and some others. The industrial group was quiet but moderately stronger. Chain stores, utilities and communications were neglected.

Buys Typewriter Patents.

Savings equivalent to 20 cents a share on the outstanding stock will be effected through the acquisition by the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Company of a block of typewriter patents, it was announced yesterday by Philip D. Wagoner, president.

COTTON PRICES DROP IN SPITE OF DROUGHT

FAR MONTHS UNDER 13C

July Contracts Make New Low Marks for Year—Prospect of Record Yield Is Poor.

Failure of the cotton market to respond to news of drought from the South in the last few days attracted speculative selling yesterday, and prices on the Cotton Exchange declined a quarter cent in the most active trading that had been done in some time. Only five stations reported a half inch or more of rainfall, and the weekly weather summary reflected deterioration in central sections from what the Weather Bureau called the most extensive and most serious drought in fifty years. Several commission houses, though, distributed lines of contracts with depressing effect on quotations. Orders ranging from 1,000 to 5,000 bales carried both December and January below 13 cents, and the list closed 22 to 27 points lower on the day. July, the spot month, went into new low ground for the year.

For several hours prices acted as on the previous two days, fluctuating within a 10-point range in extremely light trading. An advance in corn caused a cotton rally above 13 cents for October, but the recovery failed to hold either here or in New Orleans. With cotton maturing in Atlantic sections unusually early and the movement of the new crop rapidly approaching, the market lacked buying power. A selling movement in the afternoon disclosed a technical position weakened by covering operations during last week's advance of $4 a bale.

The American Cotton Service reported the crop as declining slowly after having reached its peak last week. Conditions in the dry areas of Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, where a sharp decline has occurred, have been offset by the high figures of Texas and Oklahoma and prospects in Eastern States.

Should the dry areas receive general rains by or before Aug. 1, indications point to a yield in excess of last year. With weevil in the Southeast and stunted plants on hill lands, the possibility of a record yield is regarded as remote.

RISE, DIP AND RALLY END IN GAIN ON CURB

Utilities and Industrials Are Prominent in Advances—Investment Trusts Rise.

Although the best prices were shaded by midafternoon profit-taking, followed by a late recovery, stocks closed generally firmer yesterday on the New York Curb Exchange. Fractional gains were scored by Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower and Middle West Utilities, while Transamerica Corporation, United Founders and National Investors rose in the trust section, where Goldman Sachs eased slightly.

Others to advance included Bahia Corporation, Aluminum, St. Regis Paper and Cosden Oil, while Starrett Corporation eased. New York Transit was stronger. Segal Lock was firm.

CORN IN NEW UPTURN NEAR WHEAT'S PRICE

WHEAT IS LOWER AT FINISH

July Oats Are Strongest in Unsettled Trading—Rye Declines in Light Dealings.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 23.—The corn market continues to gain friends and, while the price has been regarded as high, there was a further narrowing today in the difference between wheat and corn, No. 3 yellow corn in Toledo going to ½ cent over No. 2 red Winter wheat, while at Kansas City July corn was within ¾ cent of the same delivery month for wheat. There was no material pressure on old crop months here and, while the best figures were not maintained, the finish in corn was ½ to ⅞ cent higher, July leading.

New crop months were off ¼ to ⅝ cent at the last, the late break in wheat combined with an overbought condition and pressure from wheat traders causing a decline in corn of around 2 cents after an early bulge to a new high on the present movement. December at the top was 9¾ cents higher than the inside figure of July 14 and 12¾ cents above the low for the season.

Government reports have confirmed trade views of heavy damage to the new corn crop by the recent torrid weather, the Iowa crop being officially estimated as reduced 45,000,000 bushels, and the weekly crop summary indicated heavy damage in parts of Kansas, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Southern Illinois.

Rains Temper Bullish Enthusiasm.

The damage reports caused considerable local and outside buying early. Good rains fell in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, tending to temper bullish enthusiasm.

The country sold on the bulge 200,000 bushels of old corn to arrive, but the East was after supplies and bought 160,000 bushels. A cargo is expected to clear here for the East in the next few days.

Sentiment is mixed, with several local operators active on the bull side, based on damage to the new crop. The relatively high price of old grain is not bringing out the amount from the country expected by many, although there are increasing reports of feeding of wheat.

Primary receipts of corn were 809,000 bushels; a week ago, 690,000, and a year ago, 873,000. Shipments, respectively, were 384,000, 426,000 and 699,000 bushels.

Irregularity in Wheat Market.

The wheat market made a tame finish after a strong start, the close being at net losses of ¼ to ¾ cent. Hedging sales occurred on all bulges, while exporters were persistent buyers, and a good part of the day's business was between 91½ to 92 cents for September. General selling was responsible for the late decline.

Liverpool was ½ to 1⅝d higher at one time, with the finish ¼d lower to ⅞d higher, the Liverpool October-Chicago September spread being changed little. Winnipeg showed more strength than the local market and was off only ¼ cent for the day. A late message from there said black rust was being found quite generally in Manitoba and Eastern Saskatchewan.

Far more export business than reported has passed in wheat of late, with sales of hard Winters, durums and Manitobas placed at 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels since July 1, not including the amounts sold by the Canadian pool. Export sales for the day were placed at 1,500,000 bushels, with France and Italy buying freely for forward shipment.

Wet weather prevailed again on the Continent, which bought futures at Liverpool. Some attention was given to a report that Russia had sold five cargoes of wheat for export and was offering more.

Crop Fears in Europe Indicated.

The heavy export demand for North American wheat in the face of this business was taken as reflecting increased apprehension regarding the outcome of the European crop. A private cable indicated that Europe's yield, exclusive of Russia, might be 350,000,000 bushels less than last year.

At times today the trading in corn was much heavier than in wheat.

Primary receipts of wheat were 5,682,000 bushels, a week ago 3,496,000 and a year ago 4,857,000. Shipments respectively were 2,097,000, 1,896,000 and 2,351,000 bushels.

Oats were unsettled and closed ¼ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower, July showing the most strength. Corn's action had considerable influence. Cereal interests and commission houses were the best buyers.

Rye was ¼ to ⅝ cent lower, with trade light. Private cables suggested that the European crop, exclusive of Russia, would be 150,000,000 bushels under that of last year.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

DROUGHT OVER CORN BELT.

Hot-Weather Damage Is Reported to Spring Wheat Crop.

The weekly weather report issued yesterday by the United States Weather Bureau was as follows:

The temperature averaged moderately above normal in most of the cotton belt, and rainfall was generous to heavy in the eastern portion. Except for very light local rains there was practically no precipitation in the Central and Western cotton States.

In Texas, progress of the crop varied; the early is holding its own well on heavy soil, but showed some deterioration on light soil in the northern two-thirds of the State, with considerable shedding in dry sections, some tops blooming, and small bolls. In Oklahoma growth is still fair to good on bottom lands, but poor to only fair on uplands, because of dryness; the early is fruiting fairly well, and the late setting squares and beginning to bloom.

In the central States of the belt droughty conditions continue and progress was mostly poor to only fair, with deterioration and top blooming reported from a good many places.

In the Eastern States generous rains supplied sufficient soil moisture and progress of cotton was mostly very good, with indications that plants came through the recent drought very well.

In South Carolina the first open cotton was picked on the 14th, considerably earlier than normal, while the first bales from Texas as far north as North Bend County were reported during the week. Rain is needed generally over the central and western portion of the belt.

Drought conditions persist generally over the corn belt. In the northwestern portions, especially from Northern Kansas northward, rather general showers occurred near the close of the week, which were beneficial in affording some temporary relief, but generous rains are badly needed in nearly all sections, as the soil moisture supply is very small.

Much corn is now tasseling and silking, which is a critical state as regards moisture supply, while reports indicate much firing, especially on light soil and uplands, rather generally over the belt.

Considerable permanent harm is already indicated in many places. In Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma corn has already deteriorated generally and markedly on light soil uplands, with much firing and burning; in parts of this area, even with immediate good rains, upland corn will make only silo forage. In Kansas damage to the crop has been heavy.

Deterioration is marked in most of Kentucky, with considerable areas beyond recovery. Deterioration in Ohio has been general. On lighter soils and higher ground of Indiana plants are badly fired, with tassels burned.

Much firing is reported from Southern Illinois, with some corn beyond redemption, while in Iowa more or less harm is general except in the northeast, with material to heavy damage in the southwest. Further widespread, heavy damage is certain unless good rains come soon.

Winter wheat is now being threshed almost to the northern limits of the belt, with weather conditions generally ideal for this work. Hot, dry weather has caused serious damage to the Spring wheat crop in many parts of the belt, with much premature ripening and shrinkage reported. In the Pacific Northwest damage from the drought is apparently somewhat less than feared, with harvest of Winter wheat in full swing in many places. Rain is seriously needed throughout the Spring wheat belt, including many Rocky Mountain sections. Oats harvest has advanced to the northern limits of the principal producing sections; variable amounts of harm were reported. Other small grains were damaged by the hot, dry weather, while flax needs rain for filling.

DIVIDEND ACTIONS.

Extra Dividends.

The Altorfer Brothers Company has declared an extra dividend of 65 cents a share on the common stock.

Passed Dividends.

Burdines, Inc., has passed the preferred dividend due at this time.

The Charlton Mills have passed the dividend on the common stock due at this time.

The Credit Alliance Corporation has passed the dividends due at this time on the common and class A stock.

The Merchants Petrol Company has passed the dividends due at this time on the common stock.

Warner Board Lacks Quorum.

Owing to lack of a quorum no dividend action was taken by Warner Brothers Pictures Corporation at the directors' meeting last week, when such action ordinarily would have been taken. A meeting of the directors for dividend action would be held, it was said yesterday at the offices of the company, when Harry Warner, president of the company, returned to New York early in August.

AMERICAN MACHINE & FOUNDRY COMPANY

511 Fifth Avenue, New York City

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION OF PREFERRED STOCK

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of American Machine & Foundry Company, duly held on the 21st day of May, 1930, the option to redeem all of the outstanding preferred stock of American Machine & Foundry Company was by resolution duly exercised, said redemption to take place on August 1, 1930, at the office of the Bankers Trust Company, Transfer Agent, 10 Wall Street, New York City, and that the redemption price of said preferred stock is $115.00 per share, with accrued dividend to the date set for redemption.

The Board of Directors has declared the final quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the outstanding preferred stock, payable on August 1, 1930. The said dividend will be paid only on presentation of said stock certificates for redemption.

From and after August 1, 1930, dividends will cease to accrue upon such preferred stock, and all rights of the holders of record thereof as stockholders of the company, except the right to receive the redemption price thereof, shall cease and determine.

Preferred stock certificates, properly endorsed and witnessed as if for transfer, should be delivered to Bankers Trust Company, Transfer Agent, 10 Wall Street, New York City, for redemption as aforesaid on August 1, 1930. No transfer stamps need be affixed or supplied.

The transfer books of the preferred stock will be permanently closed as of the close of business July 18, 1930.

By order of the Board,
C. B. GOLDSBOROUGH, Secretary.

OUTLOOK FOR STEEL APPEARS BRIGHTER

Trade Reviews, However, Report Improved Sentiment Rather Than Actual Gains.

PRICES STILL IRREGULAR

Rally in Orders From Auto Plants Expected When Suspensions End Next Month.

Improvement in sentiment rather than increase in operations or demand was the chief development in the steel industry in the past week, according to the trade publications. It is stated that the better market tone is based upon the continuation of the brisk demand for structural material, a slowly rising curve in automobile production and a gradual betterment in general business.

The Iron Age says in part:

"The opinion is gaining ground that industrial reaction is at its worst and that the only possible change is for the better, but actual gains in mill bookings are too small and too scattered to be significant and steel ingot output is unchanged at 56 per cent for the third week.

"When the period of industrial suspensions has been finally passed, iron and steel demand will doubtless fulfill expectations of betterment.

"Steel prices are still highly irregular, but do not show such widespread weakness as a few weeks ago. The price of 3.10 cents, Pittsburgh, on galvanized sheets, which had been confined to large jobbers, has been extended to other buyers. Tin mill black plate is off $1 a ton and long terms have declined $2."

Steel says in part:

"Steel producers increasingly are looking beyond their present light order books and mediocre price situation to a moderate upturn this Fall. Heavier steel releases are due this week from the automotive industry, for fabrication early in August when the shutdown period is ended.

"So restricted have been the commitments of many small consumers and so deficient are the stocks of secondary interests that an encouraging degree of replenishment is imperative if improvement in the Fall is to be discounted. Even the railroads appear brighter this week, with the Pennsylvania and Reading soon to buy rails, the Chesapeake & Ohio inquiring for 58,600 tons, and some scattered equipment buying indicated.

"Structural shapes vie with tank plates for the leadership in activity in heavy steel, bars being handicapped by restricted automotive and farm implement buying. Over 15,000 tons of tank work is pending at Chicago, and shipments to line pipemakers enable plate mills there to operate at 80 per cent. Structural awards, totaling 37,000 tons this week, are the sum of many medium-size jobs and compare with 32,233 tons a year ago. Awards thus far in 1930 total 1,045,000 tons; a year ago 1,251,646 tons."

The Iron Age composite prices remain unchanged at the low levels of the year reached last week, pig iron being $17.09 a gross ton and finished steel 2.171 cents a pound.

A further decline of 4 cents in the market composite of Steel lowers this index to $33.14, compared with an average of $33.53 for June.

STRUCTURAL STEEL GAINS.

Structural steel awards for the past week were 37,000 tons, or a little above the weekly average for the year at 33,000 tons, according to The Iron Age.

The bulk of the lettings were in the New York district and included 7,700 tons for a technical high school in Brooklyn; 6,500 tons for the Majestic Apartments at Central Park West and Seventy-second Street, New York; 4,350 tons for New York subway work; 2,680 tons for additional work on the Empire State Building, New York, and 1,050 tons for an addition to the Equitable Building, 393 Seventh Avenue, New York.

New projects totaled 22,000 tons, mostly in small tonnages. A vehicular tunnel and viaduct at the Manhattan approach of the Hudson River Bridge calls for 4,350 tons, and a loft building at 361 Seventh Avenue, New York, will take 1,050 tons. The Virginian Railway will build a bridge at Deepwater, W. Va., requiring 2,000 tons.

STEEL OUTPUT UP IN WEEK.

Production for Entire Industry 57½ Per Cent of Capacity.

Operations of the steel industry of the country improved slightly last week when compared with the preceding week, according to statistics announced yesterday. Operations for the week in the entire industry were about 57½ per cent of theoretical capacity, compared with 57 per cent in the preceding week and 48 per cent two weeks ago, which period included the July 4 shutdown. In the corresponding week of last year the industry was operating at 95 per cent and in the corresponding week of 1928 at 73 per cent.

The United States Steel Corporation was at nearly 64 per cent in the past week, compared with 63 per cent the preceding week and 55 per cent during the week of July 4. Operations of the corporation were slightly under 99 per cent in the corresponding week of last year and at 76 per cent in the corresponding week of 1928.

Independent companies were operating last week at 52 per cent, the same rate as the week before.

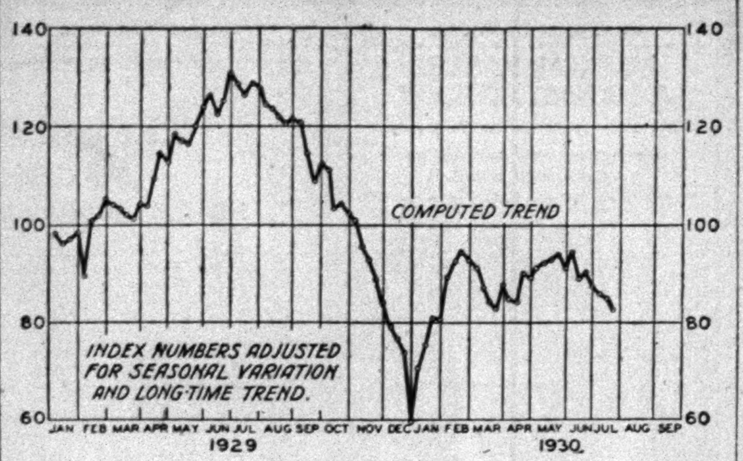
Bank Merger in Michigan.

Two units of the Detroit Bankers Company in Highland Park, Mich., are to be consolidated on Aug. 1, it was announced yesterday by Julius H. Haass, president of the company. The institutions to be merged are the Peoples Wayne County Bank and the Peninsula State Bank. The new institution will be known as the Peoples Wayne County Bank. It will have total resources in excess of $5,000,000.

Goodrich to Switch Operations.

All boot and shoe manufacturing facilities of the B. F. Goodrich Company in Akron, Ohio, will be transferred to the plant of the Hood Rubber Company, a wholly owned subsidiary, at Watertown, Mass., it was announced yesterday, and all mechanical goods operations now conducted at Watertown will be transferred to Akron. The move is made to reduce the unit cost of production of boots and shoes.

Adjusted Index of Steel Output Declines 3.4 Per Cent to 82.3; Forecast by Auto Drop



Paralleling the sharp drop in the index of automobile production and in considerable part associated with that lowered production, the adjusted index of steel mill operations for the week ended June 19 shows a decline to 82.3, or 3.4 per cent. This contrasts with an adjusted index of 85.2 in the preceding week and of 86.0 in the week ended July 5. This latest recession in steel activity was not only not unexpected but had been definitely forecast several weeks in advance by announcements of suspension by the Ford Company and other automobile makers and by the declining flow of orders from some other directions.

The week's reports gave little indication of definite changes for the better, though the steel industry appears to feel that the drop in production has touched bottom and that more or less improvement will appear from now on. Steel prices are very irregular, but the weakness is somewhat less widespread than it was a few weeks ago.

LONDON WOOL SALES END.

Closing Prices 5 to 15 Per Cent Lower Than in May.

LONDON, July 23 (AP).—The wool auction sales were ended today with offerings of 7,622 bales, of which 5,500 wer sold. Home and Continental dealers were fair buyers of fine sorts at full current rates, but medium and lower grades were irregular and in buyers' favor. Medium scoured lots were withdrawn frequently.

Closing prices showed these declines from averages for May: Fine scoured merinos, 5 per cent; inferior merinos, 15 per cent; fine greasy merinos, 5 per cent; greasy merinos, 5 to 7½ per cent; crossbreds, 7½ to 10 per cent; slipes, 10 to 15 per cent; greasy lambs, 10 per cent; scoured lambs, 15 per cent; snow white Punta Arenas and South American, 10 per cent.

In the course of the series of sales the Continent bought 50,500 bales; the home trade, 31,000, and America, 1,000. About 71,500 bales were held over.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

There were no sales reported yesterday in the raw sugar market in New York. Cuba, ex-stores, was offered all day at 3.28, and late in the day some Cuba in prompt shipment position was offered at 1.28, cost and freight, without attracting buyers.

Second-hand refined sugar of one brand was offered at 4.60, while other brands were offered at the price of 4.65 established on Tuesday. Refiners continued their quotation of 4.70. Sales in the future market amounted to 47,650 tons.

MAIL ORDER STORES HERE.

Sears, Roebuck to Open Four Soon; Others Will Follow.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago mail order house, has completed plans for launching its first group of retail stores in the metropolitan district and will open four retail units specializing in automotive and accessory supplies within the next few weeks, according to an announcement made yesterday from the local headquarters of the company. The company plans to increase the number of stores as fast as conditions warrant, it was said.

J. M. Barker, vice president in charge of the Eastern district, revealed the company's plans in a statement yesterday. One of the stores, he said, will be located at 1,615 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. Others will be opened at 376-378 Main Street, New Rochelle; 165 Hillside Avenue, Jamaica, L. I., and 150 Gramatan Avenue, Mount Vernon. In addition to automotive supplies, the stores will carry radios, batteries, electrical appliances, paints, washing machines, hardware and sporting goods, Mr. Barker said.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Arrivals of hogs were somewhat below expectations today and prices under fair demand were steady at 10 cents higher, heavy kinds showing the most strength. The top price was 10 cents higher at $9.50, while the day's average was 5 cents higher, at $8.80. Most sales were at $8 to $9.35, with heavy weights quoted at $8.35 to $9.10, medium weights $8.90 to $9.40, light weights $9.20 to $9.40 and packing sows $7 to $7.90. Packers bought 12,800, while shippers took 3,500, and 7,000 were left over. Receipts were 20,000, with 22,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Better grade steers were in demand and prices strong to 25 cents higher. Other kinds generally were steady to weak. Best heavy steers sold at $10.85 and yearlings at $10.50, while the bulk of the beef cattle brought $8 to $10. Receipts were 9,500.

Offerings of lambs were again liberal, natives selling 25 to 50 cents down, with prices the lowest since October, 1921. Most sales were at $9 to $9.25, while Westerns brought $9 to $9.85. Sheep were steady at $2.25 to $3.50. Receipts were 14,000.

WILL CHANGE NAME OF TEXAS RAILROAD

Trinity & Brazos Valley, Out of Receivership, to Be Burlington-Rock Island.

TRACKAGE RIGHTS PROVIDED

Burlington Loadings Since July 1 Have Improved—Movement of Grain Is Aid.

The Trinity & Brazos Valley Railway in Texas has been removed from receivership and its name will soon be changed to the Burlington-Rock Island Railway, it was said yesterday by Frederick E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. The smaller line is owned jointly by the Burlington and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. Trackage rights have been provided over parts of the smaller road for the Southern Pacific and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

"Burlington loadings since July 1 showed some improvement, as the grain movement for the first two weeks was about 25 per cent ahead of last year," said Mr. Williamson. "This increase probably will not be so heavy from now on, although the Winter wheat crop in our territory is larger than last year. In general, corn and other crops are in good condition."

Mr. Williamson said that Burlington earnings in the first six months, with June figures partly estimated, would show net operating income exceeding the average of the first half of each of the last five years, although in common with other railroads there was a decrease compared with 1929.

"One-half of the year's dividend requirements were earned in the first six months," said Mr. Williamson, "and, as usual, some surplus available for improvement of the property should be earned in the last half. Our authorizations for improvement should be earned in the last half. These authorizations are in excess of the average, but curtailment of operating and maintenance expenditures naturally has followed the decline in our traffic."

Cotton Mill Operations Drop.

The aggregate running time of American cotton mills during June totaled 5,778,524,384 spindle hours, a decline of 2,376,864,220 hours, or 29 per cent, from June of last year, according to an analysis of figures published by the Bureau of the Census, by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York yesterday. The aggregate running time since the beginning of the cotton year, Aug. 1, 1929, has been 82,222,272,627 spindle hours, compared to 91,859,765,822 for the previous corresponding period, a reduction of 10½ per cent. These figures indicate that the industry during June produced 208,000,000 yards less than in June, 1929, and that since Aug. 1, 1929, the output has been approximately 844,000,000 yards less than in the previous similar period.

Paper Group Discusses Standards.

Discussion of minimum standards for fiber board shipping boxes occupied members of the Paper Board Industries Association at the second day of their sessions in the Hotel Commodore yesterday. Reports from a committee appointed several months ago to study the problem were received by the 100 members attending the meeting and will be acted upon later, it was said. Before adjournment of the three-day session tomorrow, the association will hear reports of the sales promotion committee on the work accomplished so far this year in extending the use of paper and fiber board boxes. J. H. MacLeod of the Hinde & Dauch Paper Company of Sandusky, Ohio, presided at yesterday's meeting.

BUSINESS NOTES.

A trade practice conference of the wool stock industry will be held at the Hotel Martinique tomorrow under auspices of the Federal Trade Commission. Members of the Wool Stock Council, Inc., who have gathered here for the conference, will hold a dinner meeting at the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight.

The sixth annual joint meeting of all sections of the Commission Throwsters Division of the Silk Association of America, Inc., will be held on Aug. 9 at Linden Court, Sciota, Pa., it was announced yesterday.

The name of The Talking Machine World and Radio-Music Merchant, published by the Federated Business Publications, Inc., has been changed to The Radio-Music Merchant, it was announced yesterday. The change in name will take effect with the August issue.

Samuel Klein, executive director of the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., will discuss the part played by fashion in meeting adverse economic trends at the conference on retail distribution to be held in Boston Sept. 21, under the auspices of the Retail Trade Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Buyers See Boys' Style Show.

A style show in which models varying in age from 4 to 17 years displayed the merchandise of various exhibitors was the chief feature of the National Boys' Buyers' Convention at the Hotel New Yorker yesterday. All types of clothing were displayed, with particular emphasis on novelties. In clothing, tan appeared to be the outstanding shade. The number of buyers has increased so that now there are more than 400 registered for the convention. An excellent amount of business is being done, it was reported, with several exhibitors asking for more space.

Palm Beach Prices Unchanged.

The Palm Beach and Nurotex lines will be opened today with prices unchanged on the former fabric and 2½ to 5 cents lower on the latter, according to A. H. Friese, selling agent. Palm Beaches are quoted at 82½ cents for narrow width and $1.55 for double width. Nurotex is listed at 82½ cents, compared with 85 cents for last season, and $1.55, against $1.60 last year. Nearly 600 styles will be shown, including seventy-two solid effects and more than 500 fancies. For the first time, Palm Beach is being woven in pure white, in raised and plain weaves and solid and fancy effects.

Nainsook Demand Overlaps Season.

Despite the fact that the call for nainsook union suits and gym pants usually ceases by July 4, a fair demand for these types of underwear is still appearing, according to trade reports yesterday. The men's hosiery trade is quiet, but there are numerous requests for seconds and thirds by jobbers. Jobbers are perfectly willing to pay prices for any merchandise in immediate need, it was said, but they do not wish to gamble on buying goods for which they see no spot call.

Du Pont Reduces Rayon Prices.

Price reductions on viscose process yarns, duplicating the cuts made by the Viscose Company on Tuesday, were announced by the du Pont Rayon Company yesterday. The new lists became effective Tuesday morning and show reductions of 20 to 25 cents a pound and ranging between 13 and 22 per cent. The American Glanzstoff Corporation stated yesterday that it was cutting prices to meet competition and would have its new list ready shortly. Other companies are expected to revise their prices downward. The Celanese Corporation said it contemplated no immediate reductions.

Orders Appearing for Overcoats.

A slight heightening of interest in overcoats has begun to appear with an increase in the arrivals of buyers here, it was stated yesterday by a large manufacturer. Purchasing of coats is still lagging far behind last year, but as the season advances, a greater demand must necessarily appear, it is thought, if retailers wish to obtain merchandise. The current demand seems to be centred on fleeces, bouclés and camel's hair fabrics, with greater favor shown to lighter colors than last year. The California weight coat continues to make strong progress, and it is felt that this model will be one of the outstanding styles for the Fall.

Fall Chinaware Buying Starts.

Fall buying of chinaware got under way in local wholesale markets this week with the arrival of a large number of buyers from all parts of the country. Purchases for future delivery have been made in fair volume so far, but have centred principally on the lowest priced items. Pastel shades of green, pink, blue and yellow are wanted by those specializing in the lowest price ranges, while white and cream-colored sets decorated with floral patterns are sought in the medium-priced ware. Orders are expected to increase in size and number from now until the end of August.

Upholstery Orders Restricted.

Restricted buying experienced by furniture manufacturers in recent furniture openings in Chicago, Grand Rapids and New York has affected the demand for upholstery fabrics, according to comment in that market yesterday. The sales of finished furniture, according to some authorities, fell as much as one-third below those enjoyed during the openings last year. In some quarters it was held that the demand for furniture and upholstery as well would improve later in the month, when stores now staying out of the market place their Fall orders.

Glassware Price Pressure.

Price concessions being forced from manufacturers by retail buyers of glassware have offset the fact that quantities up to last year's volume are being ordered. The present week has seen a substantial increase in the amount of business being written, but selling agents contend that the prices made in order to get the business have resulted in an actual loss to producers in many cases and have eliminated the profits in the majority of instances.

Burlaps Ease in Quiet Market.

Prices in the burlap market managed to hold fairly firm during the past week, declining only 5 to 10 points from the previous week. Very little trading was done, although inquiry was fair. Final figures on the jute crop will be published shortly but will have no effect on the market, as they have already been discounted. These prices were quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlap by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

	8 oz.	10½ oz.

Gray Goods Trading Quiet.

Buyers continued to refrain from commitments in the gray goods market yesterday, still feeling uncertain about the future trend. Inquiry was negligible and the actual amount of business transacted was small. Producers, however, are holding firm on all prices. In standard printcloths, 38½-inch 60-48s were reported selling at 4⅞ cents. Some activity developed in 38½-inch 64-60s at 5½ cents. In 39-inch 68-72s, 6¼ cents continued to be quoted. Trading was quiet in 39-inch 80 squares at 7¾ cents. Sheetings showed little movement.

BUSINESS RECORDS

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Petition Filed—By

SAMUEL EDWARD MITILITZKY, salesman, 601 West 174th Street—Liabilities $49,872, no assets. Principal creditors listed are John J. Hart Corporation, $30,041, secured by assignment of accounts and corporate stock of Mitilitzky Bros.; Shapiro Factors Corporation, $5,586; Mitilitzky Bros., $10,149.

Receiver Appointed.

WEINMAN & KEATS, furs, 312 Seventh Avenue—The Irving Trust Company was appointed by Judge Bondy. Liabilities about $40,000, assets about $10,000.

Contested Petition.

ROBT. T. COCHRAN & CO., 288-90 Washington Street—The firm filed an answer denying insolvency, disputing the validity of the claims of the petitioning creditors as against the firm or its members and demanding a jury trial on the issues. The claims of the petitioning creditors were actually incurred by Robt. T. Cochran & Co., a Nevada corporation, which is engaged in business in California, but the creditors assert that under the laws of California individual stockholders in a corporation are liable for the debts of a corporation and alleged in the petition that the firm owns the majority of the stock of the corporation.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—Pressure remains low over the Hudson Strait region. Another disturbance is central over Southern British Columbia and pressure is relatively low along the Middle Atlantic Coast (Washington, D. C., 29.98 inches). Pressure is high from the Mississippi River, eastward beyond Bermuda.

Except for scattered showers in Ohio, Western Pennsylvania and Western and Northern New York Friday the indications are for generally fair weather in the Washington forecast district during the next two days.

It will be slightly warmer Thursday in the lower lake region, Northern New York and New England.

HEARS PLAN TO CURB CITY DEBT IN JERSEY

Abell Committee Considers State Agency to Review All Municipal Expenditures.

AID FOR LODI PROPOSED

Commissioner Would Create New Group to Re-Establish Its Credit —Richards Opposes Move.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 23.—The need to establish rigid State control of municipal expenditures financed by bond issues was considered at length today by the Abell Audit and Survey Committee of the Legislature.

Walter R. Darby, State Commissioner of Municipal Accounts, who conferred with the committee, illustrated the need for such control by citing the situation in Lodi Township, Bergen County. The township's credit has been exhausted, he said, and there are other communities that will face a similar condition in a short time unless some restraint is applied.

Mr. Darby urged the appointment of a committee, consisting of the State Banking Commissioner, the Attorney General and himself, to manage the township affairs temporarily and re-establish credit as a solution of the difficulty in Lodi.

The suggestion was supported by Senator Abell, but Senator Richards objected that the home rule principle would be invaded and said that such a State agency would lead to an encroachment upon the powers of the courts where a dissenting taxpayer or group of municipal residents now have a remedy.

Senator Abell explained that the law now prescribes a municipal debt limit, but provides no penalty when it is exceeded, and the result is, he said, that several municipalities are in difficulties. The plan he proposed would establish a State body to review expenditures financed by a bonded debt, before the bonds were issued, he declared.

Such a measure, when offered in the Legislature by Senator Abell a few years ago, brought vigorous protest from municipal authorities and nothing came of it.

Professor Harley Lutz of Princeton University, consultant of the State Tax Survey Commission, whose opinion was asked on the question, said that he was not an ardent defender of home rule as practiced in New Jersey and sided with Senator Abell for State control.

He went even further than the Senator and proposed that all municipal contracts involving public debt be reviewed by some central agency. Many municipal officials, he observed, were good blacksmiths, but poor executives.

As to the recommendation of the national institute of public administration that his department be transferred to the supervision of the State Controller, Mr. Darby said such a change might be in order if the duties of the Controller were so arranged as to include all auditing. At present the department is a branch of the State Treasurer's office, although only nominally so and operates almost as a separate division.

Senator Abell announced that he was considering the arrangement of a conference with officials of Virginia, where a reorganization similar to that proposed in New Jersey was adopted in 1927.

DEATH RATE AT YEAR'S LOW.

9.09 Per 1,000 Population Last Week Also Below 6-Year Average.

The death rate in New York for the week ended July 19 dropped to the lowest point for any week this year, according to statistics furnished yesterday by Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne. The rate last week was 9.09 per 1,000 population, compared with an average for the corresponding week for the last six years of 9.47.

Births last week totaled 2,645 and deaths 1,219, giving the city a natural increase of 1,426. Brooklyn showed the greatest gain, births in that borough exceeding deaths by 812. Manhattan gained 229, the Bronx 195, Queens 161 and Richmond 29.

The peak of diphtheria, measles and scarlet fever has apparently been passed, the Health Commissioner reported, as a marked decrease in all three was noted during the week. New pneumonia cases fell to 123, with only seventy deaths. Fatal automobile accidents exceeded twenty-five for the first time in four weeks. Eleven of the accidents were in Manhattan.

THREE DROWN HERE IN DAY

Brooklyn Boy, Unable to Swim, Dives From Rowboat.

Three persons were drowned in and near New York City yesterday, while several others were rescued by life guards.

Raymond Doherty, 15 years old, of 2,688 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, was drowned in the Old Mill Basin in the Newlots section of Brooklyn, where he had been rowing with three companions. He dived overboard, although he could not swim, and was dead when his friends recovered his body.

Vincent Fenell, 33, a Negro of West Philadelphia, had an attack of cramps while swimming in the North River off Forty-ninth Street. Although he was pulled ashore by Joseph Arzberger, a volunteer life saver, efforts to revive him failed.

James King 17, of Pleasantville, N. J., was drowned in the swimming pool at Abescon, N. J., when he ventured beyond his depth. Life guards recovered the body.

FACES JAIL IN AUTO CASE.

Woman Calling Herself Secretary to Lehman Disregards Summons.

A woman who said she was secretary to Lieutenant Governor Herbert H. Lehman and who received a suspended sentence in a traffic case from Magistrate Ewald last June faced arrest yesterday. When she failed to appear in traffic court in answer to a summons, Magistrate Rosenbluth ordered a warrant issued.

She gave the name of Kate L. Zimmerman of 3,747 Seventy-fourth Street, Jackson Heights, Queens, and added the information that she was the Lieutenant Governor's secretary when Motorcycle Patrolman John D. Geiderman stopped her on July 18 for driving thirty-three miles an hour on South Street between Pike Slip and Oliver Street.

Both at Mr. Lehman's office and at his home it was said that he had no secretary named Zimmerman nor had any former secretary had that name.

Niagara Hudson Power Sets Out 21,500,000 Trees in the State

Companies in the Niagara Hudson Power System have planted more than 21,500,000 trees in New York State and an additional 5,000,000 trees will be planted this year, according to an announcement made yesterday. Over a period of years, this work will convert waste land into valuable timber land, the announcement said, and will protect the watersheds of a number of the system's hydroelectric plants.

Northern New York Utilities, Inc., leader in the campaign, which has been carried on chiefly in the Adirondacks, has planted 5,877,100 trees. Malone Light and Power Company has planted 2,500,000 trees and will plant 1,000,000 more this year. Niagara, Lockport and Ontario has planted 500,000 trees on the Salmon River watershed, and will plant 200,000 this year. The St. Lawrence Valley Power Company and the New York Power and Light Corporation also have conducted important reforestation programs.

ACCUSED OF MAKING FAKE MEDICINE LABELS

Three Charged With Counterfeiting Containers for Aspirin and Other Remedies.

Three men believed by the police to be members of a group engaged in manufacturing counterfeit trademarks and labels of registered medicines were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Maurice H. Gotlieb in Jefferson Market court. The group is said to have flooded the city with imitation containers for various medicines.

The three men were held for further examination on July 30. Bail of $500 was continued in the cases of Robert Mottur, 29 years old, of 64 Lincoln Road, and Samuel Isaacson, 38 years old, of 40 Lincoln Road, Brooklyn. The third, Frederick Boehle, 41 years old, of 113 Schley Street, Brooklyn, also is to have a hearing in Brooklyn today.

They were arrested and arraigned on July 10, and at that time Boehle was discharged, then rearrested and taken to Brooklyn for arraignment in Fifth Avenue court on a charge of counterfeiting and having in his possession plates used for printing spurious labels.

Boehle was said to be foreman of a machine shop at 113 Imlay Street, Brooklyn, where some of the alleged counterfeit labels were said to have been printed.

Earl McClintock, vice president of the Bayer Company, Inc., manufacturer of aspirin, entered an additional complaint against Mottur and Isaacson. Mr. McClintock said he had been informed by Detective Joseph Kelly that the latter went to the Dysam Printing Company plant at 127 West Twenty-sixth Street and found more than 100 counterfeit plates for printing aspirin labels. Isaacson told the detective that two strangers, who said they were from the International Distributing Company of 1,133 Broadway, had ordered 1,000 labels.

Leon Berkowitz, 130 West Forty-second Street, vice president of the Rose Display Box Company, printer of labels for the Bayer Company, made an additional charge of counterfeiting aspirin labels.

900 STUDENTS FROLIC AT N. Y. U. BARBECUE

About 900 students of the New York University Summer School attended yesterday the eighth annual barbecue and frolic, on the University Heights campus in the Bronx. Dean Milton E. Loomis, director of the Summer school, arranged the outing.

Thirty Fifth Avenue buses, chartered for the occasion, called at the university's Washington Square branch at 1:30 P. M., and conveyed the students to the Bronx. More than half of them were young women. During the afternoon various contests were held on Ohio Field. Shortly after 5 P. M., the students left the field and gathered under the trees where four open-air brick ovens had been constructed for the barbecue.

Faculty members of the Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity prepared the meal, which was served by women students of the Pi Lambda Theta Sorority.

Among the contests on Ohio Field were the faculty watermelon eating contest, and the balloon race. The contest winners were:

WOMEN'S POTATO RACE—Mary Carter, New York City.
FACULTY WATERMELON EATING CONTEST—Professor J. M. Andrews, department of education.
MARSHMALLOW EATING CONTEST—Edna Lurcott, Richmond Hill, N. Y.
NOVELTY RACE—New Jersey team.
BALLOON RACE FOR WOMEN—Annette Scarcella and Kit McParlan.
BALLOON RACE FOR MEN—Manny Scarf and J. A. Kramer.
STANDING BROAD GRIN—Northern team.
AIRPLANE RACE—Northern team.

CASS SAILS TO ATTEND WORLD PRISON PARLEY

Expert Leaving for Prague Urges Segregation of Least Hopeless Criminals.

Edward R. Cass, secretary of the American Prison Association and of the Prison Association of New York, who is one of the seven American delegates named by President Hoover to the tenth international prison congress to be held in Prague, sailed yesterday afternoon on the Mauretania. The other delegates will not leave until next week.

"There always have been and there always will be criminals," said Mr. Cass. "It is utopian to think otherwise. The chief thing a government can do is to segregate the least hopeless after they are in prison and do something for their reclamation."

Asked if prohibition is not helping greatly to fill the prison, Mr. Cass said that perhaps so in the case of Federal prisons, but not in the case of State institutions. There are no more violent crimes today than before prohibition, he asserted.

Others among the 300 first-class passengers on the Mauretania were Lord Cavendish, John Wallace Riddle, formerly Ambassador to Italy and Minister to Argentina, and Sir Harold and Lady Moore.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE VOTES FOR MERGER

Union With Electrical Society Passed at Stormy Session—Court Approval Needed.

The American Institute of the City of New York voted last night to merge with the New York Electrical Society at the end of a stormy four-hour session in the Fisk Building. The combined society will retain the name of the American Institute and carry on the program of the Institute, which was founded 102 years ago and is the oldest scientific society in the State.

The merger was approved on Tuesday night by the New York Electrical Society, which voted also to permit its own name to be dropped. The American Institute goes into the merger with about 400 members, a capital of $136,000 and an annual income of about $10,000. The Electrical Society has 1,100 members. It has no capital but has an income of about $10,000 a year from members and contributors. The officers of the American Institute will continue as officers of the combined organization and the directorate will be increased from nine to twenty-five to make room for representatives of the Electrical group.

The meeting last night brought to an end an opposition by a faction in the Institute which last week went to court in a vain attempt to obtain a restraining order against last night's special meeting.

The leader of the opposition, Edwin F. Murdock, had asserted that Dr. H. H. Sheldon, head of the physics department at New York University, president of the Electrical Society and a trustee of the American Institute was a Canadian citizen, whereas the charter of the American Institute called for the fostering of industry in the United States. At last night's meeting Dr. Sheldon read a statement declaring that he was an American citizen and accusing Mr. Murdock of making erroneous statements to damage his reputation. Mr. Murdock said that if he had made a mistaken statement he was glad to withdraw it.

Some opponents of the merger threatened by parliamentary obstructions to keep the meeting running until morning, but a compromise was reached. The approval of the Supreme Court will be necessary before the merger is legal.

CROWD VIEWS START OF FIFTH AV. REPAVING

With a gallery of about 2,000 spectators ranged along the sidewalk and on the steps of the public library, a crew of some fifty workmen started yesterday morning to repave Fifth Avenue. The first step in the process, the stripping of the old asphalt, was begun with mechanical devices, steam shovels and other apparatus. Officials at the office of Borough President Miller of Manhattan, who had witnessed part of the opening operations, expressed confidence last evening that the first eight blocks of the repaving from Thirty-fourth to Forty-second Street would be completed in two weeks.

Temporary traffic regulations promulgated Tuesday by Police Commissioner Mulrooney went into effect. Principal among these was the parking ban during daylight hours affecting both Sixth Avenue and Madison Avenue, which will carry the brunt of the traffic detoured from New York's busiest artery. The parking ban on these avenues extends from Thirty-fourth to Forty-second Street.

The only traffic that can enter the part of Fifth Avenue being repaved are those cars whose passengers must be driven to shops along the route. The block from Fortieth to Forty-first Street, in front of the public library, is entirely closed to traffic. The Fifth Avenue buses are being detoured into Madison Avenue at Forty-fourth Street and turned back into Fifth Avenue at Thirty-first Street.

A squad of mounted policemen and a number of extra traffic men have been assigned to take care of the traffic and enforce the temporary rules. The repaving contract will provide a new three-inch surface of asphalt for Fifth Avenue from Forty-second Street to Fourteenth Street to cost the city about $125,000. The contractor is the Cleveland Trinidad Paving Company.

TO FENCE SCENE OF WRECK.

Elizabeth Prosecutor Says Railroad Has Promised Barrier.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 23.—Prosecutor Abe J. David said today he had been assured by Peter Bentley, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad, that the company would extend immediately the iron fence which closes DeHart Place, to provide a barrier for New York Avenue, where an automobile on the rails wrecked a train Saturday night. Mr. David said his office was continuing its investigation of the wreck and would present its evidence to the October grand jury.

The Board of Works has received no recommendation from the Public Utilities Commission concerning the relocation of lights near the scene of the wreck, Commissioner Dennis A. Hennessy said.

FORD VACATION EXTENDED.

Dearborn Plants to Be Closed for Third Week, to Aug. 4.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 23.—The Ford Motor Company announced today that its vacation period would be extended a week. Instructions were issued to employes at Dearborn to return to work Aug. 4 instead of July 28 as previously announced. The plant and offices were closed July 11.

The reason for the extension, which will effect about 80,000 employes, was not given.

When the plant reopens a schedule calling for an output of 7,000 units daily will be started, according to a recent announcement.

Lynch Threatens Suit in Richmond.

Borough President John A. Lynch, who was elected county chairman of the Richmond County Democratic organization by a majority of the county committeemen at a special meeting of the organization on Monday night, served notice yesterday on David Rendt, Commissioner of Public Works, who was ousted as county chairman at the same meeting, that unless he turned over all the records and books of the organization within the next twenty-four hours he would apply to the Supreme Court to compel him to do so.

$3,000,000 for Approach to Bridge.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 23.—The State Highway Commission authorized today work involving an estimated outlay of $3,000,000 for approach roads to the new Fort Lee-New York bridge across the Hudson River.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN THE REALTY FIELD

Investment Purchase of Lease and Building on Madison Av. Corner Leads Trading.

INTERIOR GORE LOT SOLD

Robert and Louise Hoguet Transfer, Subject to Restriction, Piece at Madison Av. and 93d St.

Real estate activity in Manhattan yesterday was featured by the sale of the building and an eighty-four-year-leasehold on the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and East Seventy-first Street to an investor. The property consists of a seven-story store and apartment building known as 872 Madison Avenue, erected two years ago by Michael H. Lazarus and associates. The lease and building were sold by the Wm. B. May Company, Real Estate, Inc., for the 872 Madison Avenue corporation.

The property has a frontage of thirty-five feet on the street and 102 feet on Madison Avenue, opposite Ct. James's Episcopal Church, and the purchase represents an investment of about $500,000, according to the May Company, which will act as managing agent of the property.

Robert Louis Hoguet and Louise L., his wife, have sold to the East Ninety-Third Street Corporation—of 72 Wall Street—an interior piece with an area of 20 feet 4½ inches by 28 feet, at the junction of the properties at 1,305 Madison Avenue and 54 East Ninety-third Street, but no ingress or egress rights are conveyed over the Hoguet property. It is covenanted that no structure shall be erected on this piece of land more than ten feet in height above the Madison Avenue grade, this being for the benefit of the premises to the west and south, at 1,305 Madison Avenue and 45-47 East Ninety-second Street. The Bank for Savings and two others have released the piece from the lien of three mortgages.

In Harlem, Louis Smith sold the five-story brick building at 37 West 118th Street to Max Jackel. The building is on a lot 25 by 100 feet and was sold by Wolf Baumgarten, broker.

Jones Sullivan, broker, leased the three-story dwelling at 31 West Nniety-second Street for Anna Field.

In the Yorkville section, the Edgar A. Levy Leasing Company re-leased to the Eastboro Garage Corporation the one-story garage building on the east side of York Avenue, between Ninety-first and Ninety-second Streets. The property contains 15,000 square feet and was leased for five years through Alfred Jenkins broker.

The New York Central Railroad, by purchasing the six-story loft structure at 792-94 Washington Street, has completed the assemblage of the block front on the west side of Washington Street between Jane and Horatio Streets. The purchase was made through Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. from Mrs. H. Galloway, I. H. Bradley and A. H. Stevenson. It is understood that the railroad will start soon the laying of trackage at this point in connection with its west side improvement project.

The Bank of New York and Trust Company, as trustee, has leased for a long term the five-story building at 162 West Street to Birdsall's Express Company, Inc., through Philip J. Miller.

Miss Margaret R. Pritchard bought a seven-room and three-bath cooperative apartment in the new building at 32 Washington Square West, northwest corner of Washington Place. H. S. Hillyer & Co. were the brokers.

Old Phyfe House to Be Auctioned.

The five-story brick building with store at 12 East Forty-third Street, acquired in 1871 by James D. Phyfe, is to be auctioned in a partition action today at noon in the Exchange Salesroom, 56 Vesey Street, by James R. Murphy. The structure is said to be the oldest realty holding in the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues and Forty-second and Forty-third Streets. The plot is 17 by 100.5 feet.

Warehouse in Brooklyn Planned.

A ten-story warehouse is to be erected in Rockwell Place, 150 feet from Fulton Street, Brooklyn, by Franklin Fireproof Warehouses, Inc., of 84 Rockwell Place, B. F. Lenihan, president of the company, reported yesterday. The site, 100 feet square, was bought from the M. Marks Holding Company. The structure is to be completed by March, 1931.

Transactions in the Bronx.

The Harrod Holding Corporation sold a two-family house at 1,426 Harrod Avenue to Joseph Churgin through Benjamin Malina, broker.

Coyne Bros. sold a vacant plot on the south side of Bronxdale Avenue, adjoining Matthews Avenue, having a frontage of thirty-two feet, for E. Kelly.

Loan of $800,000 on New House.

The M. W. & H. L. Hall Realty Company, Inc., has obtained an $800,000 first mortgage loan on the sixteen-story apartment house just completed at 12-20 West Ninety-sixth Street. The loan is for five years at 5½ per cent. Lawrence, Blake & Jewell, Inc., were the brokers.

LATEST LEASES FILED.

The twenty-second floor of the Hotel Victoria Annex, at Fifty-first Street near Seventh Avenue, has been leased by the Max Kurzrok Realty Company, Inc., to the Far Western Travelers' Association, Inc., Norman Lowe, president, for use as its headquarters, social gatherings, &c., from Dec. 1, 1930, to April 30, 1937, the yearly rent increasing from $7,750 for the first two and three-quarter years to $8,250 for the last year and ten months. The association may renew this lease for five years more at a rent of $8,750 a year.

A ten-year lease of the store at 4 Warren Street, renting at $6,000 to $6,500 annually, has been sold by Dirk Simmering to Effio and Natale Moirano and John Bussi, with the consent of the owners, the executors of Millard F. Smith.

Morris and Sadye Luckower have surrendered to Joseph B. Davis their lease of 859 Sixth Avenue.

A five-year lease held by William Teske on 633-635 Third Avenue has been sold by him to Alexander H. John.

Sam Sattler sold to Abe Moskowitz a lease of the store at 1,990 Seventh Avenue, adjoining the southwest corner of 120th Street, expiring May 15, 1935.

The store and basement in 1,160 Third Avenue were leased by the Nonrobel Realty Corporation to the Sunglow Delicatessen and Restaurant, Inc., for five years from May 1 next, at a yearly rental of $4,200.

City Drops Claim on Washington for Taxes On New Site Acquired for Assay Office

The final step in the acquisition of a new site for the United States Assay Office, which is now situated on Wall Street, has been taken, and the question of taxes and taxation settled.

The new site, on the north side of Old Slip, from Front to South Streets, with a frontage of 189 feet on Old Slip, and 143 feet on Front Street and 142 on South Street, and containing approximately 27,600 square feet, was acquired from seven separate ownerships for a total of about $1,500,000.

It was reported that negotiations were on the point of being broken off at one time owing to the prices asked by the owners, but the Government finally took title to five parcels on April 28 and to the remainder on the following day.

Thereafter the question arose as to whether the property would be taxed by the city for that part of 1930 during which it remained in private ownership. It was reported that the Federal Government withheld from the sales price amounts sufficient to cover the full amount of taxes for 1930 in case the city demanded it for either the full year or a fraction thereof.

All parties in interest have been pressing for settlement of the question owing to the amounts of money due the various sellers of the property.

The entire matter was referred to the Corporation Counsel of the city, who has advised the Tax Department to establish the exempt status of all the property involved and to cancel the taxes for 1930 on the ground that the Federal Government took title at a date prior to that on which the taxes became a lien.

BANKER RENTS 18 ROOMS.

F. L. Carlisle Takes Suite in Park Avenue Building—Other Leases.

An apartment of eighteen rooms and eight baths, comprising an entire floor in the new building at 625 Park Avenue, northwest corner of Sixty-fifth Street, has been leased by Louis G. Kaufman, owner of the building, to Floyd L. Carlisle of F. L. Carlisle & Co., investment bankers. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. negotiated the lease.

The building was erected by Starrett Brothers for Mr. Kaufman, who occupies a large duplex penthouse there. Former Governor Nathan L. Miller recently rented an apartment in the building through Douglas L. Elliman & Co. Pease & Elliman represented Mr. Kaufman as agents in both transaction.

Other apartment leases were announced yesterday as follows:

CITY SPEEDS PLANS TO WIDEN BROOME ST.

Property Owners Must Remove Encroachments by Sept. 1 to Facilitate Work.

Property owners in the ten blocks on Broome Street between Allen and Willett Streets have been notified by Borough President Miller that they will be required to remove all encroachments and incumbrances along that street by Sept. 1 in order to facilitate the work of paving and widening the thoroughfare, a part of the city's program for improving a large number of streets on the lower east side.

A thirty-foot street will be constructed, along with sidewalks ten feet in width on either side. Encumbrances remaining on Sept. 1 will be demolished by the city at the expense of the property owner.

"This order affects encroachments of every kind, including stoops, steps and ornamental entrances, trap and storm doors, chutes, shop windows and courtyards," Mr. Miller said. "The spaces from which incumbrances are removed must be restored to their proper use by covering them with a sidewalk."

Bronx Tenement Plans Filed.

Plans were filed with the Bronx Bureau of Buildings yesterday by the Kimblian Holding Corporation for a four-story tenement house, 175 by 87 feet, on the west side of Matthews Avenue, 175 feet north of Lydig Avenue. G. W. Swiller, the architect, estimated the cost at $170,000.

ROYAL MAIL SELLS LINER ARAGUAYA

ENGLISH BUYERS UNNAMED

Craft's Proposed Cruise to Newport Yacht Races Basis of Controversy Last Week.

The Royal Mail liner Araguaya has been sold to an unnamed buyer and will be withdrawn immediately from the New York-Bermuda service, according to a cable message received yesterday at the New York offices of the company, 24 Broadway. She is scheduled to arrive in New York tomorrow and is to sail on Saturday, if possible, for England, to be transferred to her new owners.

The Araguaya was the cause of a controversy last week which developed from the announcement of a tourist agency that it would charter her for a trip to the America's Cup yacht race at Newport in September. The American Steamship Owners' Association immediately announced that it would ask the State Department or the Attorney General to determine if the navigation laws would be violated. The association declared, on the strength of rumors that the ship would carry liquor, that the cruise violated the spirit of the prohibition law. Whether another ship will be substituted for the Araguaya to make the trip to the yacht race could not be learned yesterday.

The sale of the ship came as a surprise to the New York offices of the line. A bulletin had been prepared announcing that the steamship Arcadian had been transferred from the Bermuda service to the Canadian cruise service until Sept. 13 and that the Araguaya would sail from New York to Bermuda July 19 and 26, Aug. 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30 and Sept. 6. Passage on the Araguaya had been booked for Saturday by about 125 persons and it was expected that she would sail as scheduled.

At the New York offices of the line it was explained yesterday that she had never actually been chartered by the Atlantic Cruises, the agency which planned the trip to the yacht race. The cruise had been advertised in the newspapers, however, and no formal statement was issued by the Royal Mail Line in reply to the announcement of the American Steamship Owners' Association that it was opposed to the cruise.

John Alsop, director of the Royal Mail in the United States and Canada, said the sale and withdrawal of the Araguaya meant that the Royal Mail would abandon the Bermuda service until Sept. 13, when the Arcadian completes its Canadian cruise schedule and returns to the Bermuda run.

The Araguaya is 515 feet 2 inches long, 61 feet 3 inches wide and 30 feet 5 inches deep. Her gross tonnage is 10,196. She was built in 1906 in Belfast by Workman, Clark & Co., Ltd. The American Steamship Owners' Association made no comment on the sale because of the absence of its president, H. B. Walker, from the city.

HOLDS SPEED IN LINER PREFERABLE TO BULK

Franklin Reveals 1926 Plan for 26.5-Knot Vessel, Held Up by Kylsant Purchase.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine Company, who has been in the North Atlantic passenger business in this port for thirty-five years, said yesterday that he did not believe in the 65,000 or 75,000 ton superliner because he thought the heavy cost of the insurance would make the operation of steamships of such size impracticable.

He added that he believed the British steamship lines in the New York trade must meet competition and that they should build at once a fast vessel which would average at least more than twenty-six knots. The British Government would help, he said.

Incidentally, Mr. Franklin revealed that in November, 1926, two days before the White Star Line was purchased by Lord Kylsant, he had signed a contract with Harland & Wolff for $25,000,000 to build a turbine-driven ship, between the tonnage of the Olympic and the Majestic — about 51,000 — that would maintain a speed of twenty-six and a half knots.

The interior plans, which were worked out by the passenger staff on election day in 1926 under the direction of Mr. Franklin, provided for public rooms on the upper promenade deck, like the Majestic's, and cabins arranged like those of the Olympic, interlocking so that they could be reached easily by passengers and crew.

When asked if Lord Kylsant had approved of the plans for the new, fast liner, Mr. Franklin replied that he wanted to have a ship of 65,000 tons or larger.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Franklin, "a steamship which can leave New York on Friday evening and arrive at Cherbourg at 8 A. M. the following Thursday, and, westbound, leave Cherbourg at about 7 P. M. Wednesday and dock in New York at 8 A. M. on the following Tuesday, would be very popular in the North Atlantic passenger trade, and would be quite fast enough."

CUT DUTY ON GOODS IN FIRE

Customs Court Decisions Dispose of 7 Claims From the Muenchen.

Seven claims for allowance for duty paid by importers on merchandise damaged when the North German liner Muenchen burned at her pier here on Feb. 11 were disposed of in decisions handed down yesterday by the United States Customs Court. The decisions allow for the return of from 35 to 95 per cent of the duty exacted on consignments which were damaged by fire or water when flames swept the liner shortly after she docked after a voyage from Germany.

The value of the goods involved in the claims was not given in the court's decisions. The petitions allowed yesterday were on laces consigned to Gritzner & Singer, leather gloves imported by Lord & Taylor, wool cloth imported by the Lynx Corporation, wool knit wearing apparel imported by the Mohawk Knitting Mills, Inc.; cotton net covers imported by S. Ontra & Bros., Inc.; dressed furs consigned to Henry W. Peabody & Co., and glass beads and ornaments imported by the Premier Jewelry Company. A score of similar petitions are now pending before the court.

CHAPMAN IS BIDDER FOR HOBOKEN PIERS

Sole Offer, of $4,282,000, Is Taken Under Consideration by Fleet Corporation.

FACTOR IN HIS SHIP PLANS

Board Transfers Hog Island Property to Philadelphia for Its Terminal Project.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Paul W. Chapman of New York, who bought the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines from the Shipping Board, proved to be the only bidder when offers were opened today for sale of the government-owned piers at Hoboken, N. J. His bid of $4,282,000 for the entire property was taken under consideration by the Merchant Fleet Corporation for recommendation to the board.

Mr. Chapman is seeking to purchase additional cargo services from the Shipping Board and those who know his plans say that he will have ample need for the piers in his services.

The piers were seized by the United States at the outset of the war and have since been used in connection with the operation of Shipping Board lines. They were long a point of contention because of the loss of taxes to Hoboken resulting from the seizure, with the Shipping Board contending that it had no choice but to continue operating them and refusing to pay taxes. The sale was authorized by act of Congress at the last session.

Another deal affecting the Atlantic seaboard was completed by the Shipping Board when it passed the final documents transferring the Federal property at Hog Island to the city of Philadelphia. The papers included the deeds of conveyance and receipt for a city warrant of $450,000. The property has been sold for $3,000,000 and will be used for the development of a modern air-rail-marine terminal.

The sale, Mr. O'Connor said, marked a big gain by the board in liquidating its ships and attendant properties. He predicted that within the ensuing year the board will have disposed of many of its lines and shore developments to the advantage of the government and the American merchant marine.

The bid of Paul W. Chapman for the Hoboken piers is part of his plan to develop a great American ship line and is linked with his recent bid for the American Diamond and American France lines, now being investigated by a Presidential committee. These two lines occupy two of the Hoboken piers, the Munson Line occupies another and the United States Lines, owned by Mr. Chapman, occupies a fourth. A fifth pier was burned several years ago and has not been rebuilt.

FURNESS WILL EXPAND SERVICE TO BERMUDA

New Ship Will Replace the Fort Victoria—Sir F. W. Lewis Optimistic on Our Foreign Trade.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 23.—The "Mid-ocean," a new 830-passenger ship building for the Furness-Withy company, will be put on the New York-Bermuda run alongside the motor-vessel Bermuda next Fall, Sir Frederick W. Lewis announced at a company meeting today. She will be the first vessel in the Withy's and associated fleets to be driven by turbo-electric machinery and will replace the For Victoria, lost in a collision last December in New York harbor.

Sir Frederick held an optimistic view of the future of British trade. Dismissing the awarding of "so-called mail contracts by United States authorities to their steamship services" as domestic questions with which British ship owners are not greatly concerned, he referred to the new United States tariff bill.

"We are particularly concerned," he said, "with the direct effect of this bill on imports into the United States from the various countries from which we operate services and the indirect effect on the United States export trade. On the whole I am inclined to the belief that United States manufacturers will themselves find their own solution of these problems and the United States overseas trade will not suffer any radical diminution."

Sir Frederick also is optimistic regarding the future of British shipping because, he said, overseas trade had constantly expanded ever since the nations of the world first began to trade together and "there is not yet any known method whereby the overseas trade of the world can be transported as efficiently and cheaply as by shipping."

LINES GET REVISION OF CHINA AGREEMENT

Ten in Conference Will Admit Others Under Approval of Shipping Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—An agreement among carriers in the trade between the United States and Hongkong was approved by the Shipping Board today modifying an earlier one for the maintenance of uniform rates to Atlantic and Gulf ports.

The modification provides that any person, firm or corporation operating vessels regularly in the trade is to be admitted to membership upon compliance with the terms of the conference agreement.

FREIGHTER RUNS AGROUND.

The Boston City Strikes Connecticut Reef on Way Here.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 23.—The steel freighter Boston City, 9,000 tons, went aground on Cow Reef, off Shippan Point, at 11 o'clock this morning. One of the propeller blades was shattered.

Registered in Bristol, England, the boat was bound from Boston to New York with a cargo of clay. The captain would give no information as to the cause of the accident.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the boat had a fifteen degree list to port.

Including ship and hotel accommodations. Series of sightseeing trips for $11

By sailing on Wednesday, the trip is made in true "Dutch" Style—on the "Veendam"—just chartered from the Transatlantic service of the Holland-America Line.

If return is arranged on the "Bermuda," there's another Transatlantic thrill coming with a jolly British crew and all the niceties of "Furness" service.

In Bermuda, bathing, sailing, bike riding, teas, dances, tennis, sightseeing and many other pastimes in the cool mid-ocean atmosphere. Bermuda's average summer temperature is only 77°.

Sailings every Wednesday on the S.S. "Veendam" and every Saturday on M.S. "Bermuda".

IMPORTANT TO NOTE: "Veendam" and "Bermuda" sail from Manhattan Pier 95 (west 55th St.) and go direct to dock at Hamilton (Bermuda) thus avoiding inconvenience of five mile transfer from anchorage.

ATTACK STOCK VOTE IN STEEL MERGER

Attorneys for Eaton Interests Challenge 128,000 Shares Held in Estates.

HERRICK WILL SUBMITTED

Former Ambassador Left Youngstown Stock to Son—Merger Opponents Say It Was Illegally Voted.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, July 23.—Opponents of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube merger wound up today's court session by challenging 128,400 shares of Sheet and Tube common stock which were voted for the consolidation with Bethlehem. The margin of votes over the required two-thirds was 58,071. The shares challenged today were those held by estates, trustees and guardians, and it is promised that thousands of other votes will be attacked on the ground that they were cast on proxies held illegally.

Among the shares held by estates which were challenged were Youngstown stocks left in the will of Ambassador Herrick to his son. B. A. Bingham, deputy clerk of the Cleveland Probate Court, identified the Herrick will and described the distribution of the estate.

Mrs. Catherine R. Leech, deputy clerk in the Probate Court at Warren, Ohio, testified that the wills of John Stambaugh 2d, Alonzo B. Shook, Archibald Swaney and Psyche Shook and records of the guardianship of Alice and Bonita Bryce were on file in Trumbull County.

Mrs. Leech said there was no application made or any order given by the court to vote Youngstown Sheet and Tube stock and that there was no authorization for the sale of stock in any of the estates.

Brief appearances on the witness stand of George O. May of Price, Waterhouse & Co., merger auditors, and R. E. McMath, Bethlehem's vice president in charge of finance, were other events in court this afternoon.

No itemization of Bethlehem Steel's bonus system appeared in Bethlehem's annual financial statement or in the audit report submitted to Sheet and Tube directors, Mr. May testified. He also told the court that the original working sheets from which the auditor's report was made had not arrived from New York, but that he would have them sooon.

Judge Jenkins asked May whether or not Bethlehem's audit for 1929, as prepared by Price, Waterhouse & Co., was available before the directors' meeting, March 12.

Mr. May said he did not know, but would find out when it was certified and delivered.

Mr. McMath was questioned about the acquisition by Bethlehem of two Pacific Coast steel companies about the first of the year. Mr. McMath said they had been acquired by a subsidiary of Bethlehem, the Reddington Fittings and Steel Company.

Attorney Crawford asked that Mr. McMath obtain the annual statements of the two companies for six years.

The trend of questioning changed at this point to the plan by which Bethlehem's employes can purchase stock in the company. Mr. McMath testified that the plan was installed in 1924 and that employes could buy only preferred stock, but that they could now buy common stock.

Mr. Crawford requested Mr. McMath to obtain a statement as to the salaries of Bethlehem's vice presidents in addition to the bonuses described yesterday.

Should the court rule adversely to the merger opponents on the shares which are challenged, they have indicated they will attack the constitutionality of the Ohio corporation code under which Bethlehem attorneys say the merger was legally ratified.

E. T. Marshall of Toledo, "father of the corporation code," chairman of the inspectors of the merger election, is expected to be called as a witness by the merger proponents, with Osborne Mitchell, another of the inspectors.

ASK PAY RISES FOR 700 IN BOARD OF EDUCATION

Office Workers Seek $200 to $1,000 More Yearly to Benefit From Civil Service Law.

Increases in the salaries of more than 700 Board of Education office workers so as to make their pay equal the new civil service schedules for municipal employes was requested in a resolution sent yesterday to the ten members of the Board of Education by the Association of Administrative Employes of the Board of Education.

The appealing employes are mostly stenographers, clerks and other office workers whose salaries range from $700 to $3,500 annually. Increases of from $200 to $1,000 are asked.

Frank Canning, president of the association and a clerk in the auditor's office of the board, said the organization had about 720 members, all governed by the rules and regulations of the Municipal Civil Service Commission. They do not receive the full benefit of this status, he said, because of a ruling in the Lockwood-Donohue act of 1921.

The resolution, signed by Mr. Canning, contains comparative tables showing all points regarding salaries in the case. The resolution said in part:

"Employes in the fifth year of our 2C schedule receiving $2,262 per annum, although being on the fourth grade civil service promotion list, are not recognized by the Civil Service Commission as fourth grade because the new minimum rate is now $2,400, while previous to Sept. 1, 1929, the salary of $2,262 did establish their status as fourth grade, because the minimum of civil service fourth grade at that time was $2,160 per annum."

As a result of this alleged condition, according to the resolution, employes awaiting reappraisal from the 2C to the 2D schedule are faced with the probability of the expiration of the fourth grade civil service list on which their names appear. This makes it necessary for them, it is said, to pass another examination in competition with additional younger clerks who have become eligible in the interim.

COMPLAINS TO WARD ON THEATRE LEAGUE

Bernard Sandler Charges Restraint of Trade in Plan for Ticket Control.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 23.—Bernard Sandler, New York attorney, conferred here this afternoon with Attorney General Ward regarding a complaint of Mr. Sandler against the League of New York Theatres, alleging restraint of trade.

Mr. Sandler, who represents a group of twenty-three ticket brokers not accredited by the League of New York Theatres, returned to New York last night.

He said that he had filed a formal complaint with Attorney General Ward, alleging that the league was a monopoly in restraint of trade, and that Mr. Ward would come to New York tomorrow to consult with his aides here.

Harlow D. Savage, executive secretary of the league, had received no official word of Mr. Sandler's action late in the day. The league, in which fifty theatres and sixteen ticket brokers are enrolled, began its plan for ticket control on Monday. Mr. Savage said that the third day's operations had been satisfactory except for a few minor disagreements, which he declined to make public.

Herman Shumlin, producer of "The Last Mile," who announced on Tuesday that he would sell tickets to all agencies, regardless of league affiliations, continued that policy. The league reported that the matter was up to the Shuberts, who control the theatre where the play is showing.

GIRL FOUND HANGED IN LAKE GEORGE WOODS

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 23 (AP).—Warren County authorities today continued their inquest of the death of Eleanor Goodspeed of New Haven, Conn., whose body was found suspended by the cord from her bathrobe in the woods here last night. An unofficial opinion was expressed that she had hanged herself.

Miss Ruth Goodspeed told the authorities that her sister, who was 24 years old, had been despondent. Eleanor, she said, had been married several years ago to Hyman Kurtch, but had separated from him.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 23.—Eleanor Goodspeed, who was a graduate of the Emerson School of Oratory and at one time handicraft teacher in Dr. Anderson's School at Staatsburg, N. Y., was "not of a mental makeup that would lead her to suicide," members of her family declared here today.

Miss Goodspeed came to New Haven with her mother, Mrs. Lillian Goodspeed, who is a nurse, and three sisters, Ruth, Carol and Diane, about four years ago from Boston after the death of her father, L. F. Goodspeed, former vice president and general manager of the Checker Cab Company.

7 ARRESTED IN DRIVE ON CHAIRS AT BEACH

13 OTHERS ARE SUMMONED

The Coney Island police dusted off an obscure city ordinance forbidding the use of private chairs on the beach as their contribution yesterday to the general drive to clear up the shorefront. On the strength of it they raided a group of picnickers who were enjoying a sun bath on chairs brought from home, issued thirteen summonses and arrested six women and a man who questioned the procedure.

Indignation was loudly and freely expressed on the beach at this surprise enforcement of a law of which even the police were said to be unaware up to yesterday. The ordinance, which became effective when the Boardwalk was built in 1923, was revived by order of Borough President Hesterberg, it developed

The point at issue remained obscure even after the arrests. If bathers wished to sit down, they might hire chairs from the public concessionaire at the rate of 5 cents an hour without fear of molestation by police, it was learned. They will be prosecuted only if they insist on saving the price of a rental by bringing their own.

Captain John J. Gillen of the Coney Island station said the violations came under Article 21, Section 282, of the ordinance code, which reads:

"No structure, platform, stand, booth, box, chair, placard, show bill, notice, &c., or any other obstruction or encroachment shall be erected or placed thereon (the beach or Boardwalk) without reason or permit from the Borough President."

Meanwhile in Manhattan Commissioner Charles S. Hand of the Sanitary Commission absolved himself from all part in the prosecution and denied a report in an afternoon paper that his department was concerned in the matter, which, he said, falls entirely under the jurisdiction of the Borough President.

The three women arrested on Tuesday for obstructing the clean-up drive were arraigned in the morning before Magistrate Maguire in Coney Island Court. The cases of two of the women were adjourned until today, while Mrs. Jennie Friedman, who was charged by lifeguards with kicking over a box of refuse and sitting on the box in defiance of all efforts to remove her, was paroled in her own custody for a further hearing on July 31.

Those arrested for violating the chair ordinance were:

MARY AUSTIN, 3,515 East Fourth Street.
ANNA GRELITZER, 28 Edith Place.
CHARLES R. CANTER, 3,145 East Fourth Street.
Mrs. LOUIS UNTERBERG, East Fourth Street and the Boardwalk.

A Large Building and yet . . .

Although the General Motors Building is a large building it has not lost what we like to call its personality.

Full of sincerity, pleasantness, good neighbors, it is a building that aims to offer a little more than office space, a little more than a place to work.

Almost touching Central Park, out of the din of traffic snarls, free from the mad scramble of the crowds, the General Motors Building offers an ideal location to firms who believe in buying the most for their money.

High grade tenantry. 98% rented. Moderate rentals.
